42 Further Description of Important Features The large structure has a corbelled cornice with tile coping. Brick pilasters run from the 2d through the 4th. story and set off the bays composed of 3 grouped 6-over-6 windows with soldier course lintels and concrete sills. The 1st story is capped by a soldier, rowlock, soldier belt course. The central bay, E facade contains the double leaf entrance with segmental transom and corresponding header. Fenestration of the windows in this bay indicate interior stairs. The S bay of this facade has been altered (see attached)

43 History and Significance When used by Hamilton-Brown, shoes were made on the 2, 3 & 4th. floors. The large 4 story 50 x 250 foot building was constructed by the W.J. Cochran & Sons Construction Company in 1919 at a cost of $216,000. This building was that company's largest endeavor. The Hamilton-Brown Shoe Company became a large employer and produced in 1924, 34 different kinds of women's and children's shoes with an output of 1800 pairs per day. The company was later bought by the Selwyn Shoe Manufacturing Inc. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 1st Street and the railroad tracks. An alley and associated 1 story brick outbuildings are to the W. The factory basically fills the block between Spring and Morgan Streets.

42. (cont.) to form a secondary entrance. The N facade has large doors and loading dock. The structure has wood interior post and a skylight.

43. (cont.) By the 1960's production slowed down and it produced only heels for shoes. In 1971, operations ceased and the building was purchased by the City of Boonville. At present it is leased to the McGraw-Edison Company and serves as a storage building.

The factory is significant on the local level for its historical (commercial) importance to the community.

43 History and Significance
Present owners bought the house in 1964 and lived there about 5 years. From that time to present it has been rental property. Present resident is Maxine Nelson. From 1944 to 1964 the house was owned and resided in by James Lee Kelly (now deceased). During his ownership there was a fire and the house renovated. From 1989 to 1944 the property was owned by Martha E. Sanders (wife of Henry F. Sanders) who purchased it from Henry McGowan, who had owned the property since 1878 when he bought it from Clemence Ells for $ 200.00. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The residence sits close to the street, facing W onto 1st Street. There are no outbuildings. Rupes Branch froms a ditch to the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features

The structure probably had 4 bays originally on the W. It now has a 1 story porch supported on wood columns. There is a central chimney. Gable ends N & S have returns. Windows are 2-over-2 and are shuttered. Surrounds are obscured by the new vinyl siding. There is a gable ell extending to the E on the N bay. By 1929, there was an addition along its S facade. It has a pent roof and an entrance to the S. There is a pent addition across the rear.

42 Further Description of Important Features The depot sits at a NE - SW angle to the lot. The N & S gable ends have a flemish motif and extend out to form a porte-cochere supported on a brick & concrete arcade. The gable copings are concrete and have ornate skews and an egg and dart motif. The circular window on the gable has a rowlock surround. The main block of the building has the typical wide eaves, but no brackets. Also typical is the rectangular projecting ticket bay on the track side. This bay repeats the flemish (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Significant on a local level, this depot is important for its historical (commercial) associations. The station was built from plans which were drawn by MKT engineers and was constructed by railroad depot construction personnel. The Boonville station was one of two MKT depots in the country utilizing this design. The second one, in Osage, Oklahoma, was razed in the 1950's. In the era of the 1920's a total of 8 passenger trains and freight trains used the depot daily. Between 1930 and 1942 depot traffic decreased and (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto the tracks and 1st Street. Herringbone brick platforms and walks are still extant in some areas. A gravel parking area and Rupes Branch is to the E.

42. (cont.) gable. The S section of the structure was used as the freight area with large doors to the W and to the S where a more recent loading dock is located under the porte-cochere area. A basement entrance is to the E. Windows and doors are boarded and or locked up. They are generally 6-over-6 with trabeated lintels.

43. (cont.) the station received only four passenger and four freight trains per day. However, with World War II and the years 1942-45, the depot dealt with an average of 60 trains per day. Following the war, traffic decreased to the 1930-42 level and finally ceased passenger operations altogether in 1969. At present the station sits boarded up and is in a deteriorating condition.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure features gable end parapets (N & S) which have 3 stretcher courses in the cornice and corbelled ends. The primary entrance is to the E, has a transom and is capped by a 1 bay flat roofed porch which has doric wood columns on brick piers. Windows on this facade may have been altered, presently there are no headers. This facade has a boxed cornice. Side windows have segmentally arched headers. To the W is a brick pent addition. The S bay of this facade has a pent frame addition which (see attached)

43 History and Significance This architecturally significant Missouri German brick structure is believed to have been built for John Otten, a clerk in William Johnson's store, for speculation in 1868 on the site of an earlier brick school, possibly built by John Kennedy in 1857. Later that year it was purchased by Frederick Wassman for his residence. The Wassman Brothers operated a brick yard that was located on the adjoining land to the east. In 1881 Charles Passler (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure is one of the earliest in this part of the city. It sits on a bluff looking NE toward town. Presently it appears to sit at an angle to the lot, is reached by 1st street and sits at the end of a cul-de-sac. There is a small brick outbuilding with a pent roof to the W of the residence.

42. (cont.) has composition siding. There is also a pent frame porch over the W addition.

43. (cont.) purchased the structure but it is unknown whether he had any relationship to the brick yard. The structure in 1905 sold to Louis and John Gantner, and J. Henry Stretz who were by that time operating the brickyard. The structure does not appear, however, to have served as residence to any of the partners. The structure was then traded between the partners until 1938 when it sold to John E. Stapleton. In 1966 it was purchased by Julius Johnmeyer who developed the area into the Grace Addition to the City of Boonville and erected the first government funded housing projects in the city. Johnmeyer retained the structure for rental property until its sale in 1980 to the present owner whose son resides there.

The end parapets are similar to those at 809 Locust and 825 E. High St.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built with many of the typical depot motifs, the plan is for a passenger depot. Wide extended eaves run about the building, including an intervening roof on the gable ends. These gable ends are covered by asbestos siding and have 3 small windows. Windows are 2-over-2. On the E facade are 2 large paired windows with soldier course, segmentally arched headers over the arched transoms. Sills are concrete. Below the windows are corbelled (cont.)

43 History and Significance In Nov. 1868, the Osage Valley and Southern Kansas Railroad Company completed the railroad line, known as the "Boonville Branch" from Tipton, Mo. to Boonville. That year the Pacific Railroad leased all of the O.V. and S.K. Railroad for 30 years. Default being made by the parent company it was sold to various men, one of which was James M. Nelson of Boonville, and the branch became part of the Boonville, St. Louis and Southern Railway Company (1878). The Pacific Railroad, adding new lines to its company, (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Tracks run to the N & SW; 2nd street is to the E. Remnants of the herringbone brick platform and walks are still evident under the now graveled area surrounding the SE area. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) rectangular brick panels. The S facade has a frame loading dock at the slightly projecting E end. A double rowlock brick header forms a segmental arch over the double leaf doors. Brickwork indicates a bricked-in door also in this area. Originally a 1 story, hip roofed ell extended to the S at this point. The central section has 2 windows and an entrance all under a concrete header course. The entrance is reached by concrete steps. On the W end of this facade is a frame addition which extends to the tracks S and follows the angle of the tracks to the NW. Large freight doors are along the tracks and on the E side. The primary (N) facade faces the tracks. The eastern bay repeats the paired window of the E facade and also has a double-leaf entrance door and arched transom. Wide concrete steps lead up to the doors. This section was used as the waiting room. In the central section, which was used as the office, is a single leaf door, a single window, and the typical rectangular projecting bay window all under a concrete header course. There is also a concrete string course below the windows. A concrete string course directly above the foundation runs about the building. Two segmentally arched, wide freight doors at track level are in the W section. This area was used as the Express and Baggage area. Originally the E section of the building was a 2 story structure with a belcast hip roof. Windows were rectangular, 1-over-1, and had a concrete header and sill courses. Truncation of this section and removal of the SE ell severely altered the original integrity of the structure.

43. (cont.) and becoming known as the Missouri-Pacific Railroad, continued its leases till it purchased the stock of the Boonville St. Louis & Southern Railroad Company. The branch discontinued service of its one daily passenger train on April 30, 1936 by authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The original Boonville Branch Station was located at 2nd and Morgan Streets and served first as a passenger and freight depot and then after 1901 solely as a freight depot. The original structure has since been razed. The Missouri-Pacific station was built in 1901 using an "L" shape plan with the general waiting area being 2 stories and the agents, baggage, express and rest rooms being 1 story. The building was built of brick with walls 17 inches thick, with six foot projecting hip and gable roofs composed of slate. The interior floors were maple except in the baggage room which was concrete. The exterior north brick platform was 12,140 square feet. To the south of the depot was a 10 foot by 12 foot coal house.

Renovations and additions to the depot are as follows:

1927 - Rewiring of building
1937 - Construction of 6 foot by 18 foot timber freight platform
1948 - Removal of both the 2nd floor of passenger station and the South wing, elevate entire floor 3 feet, relocation of toilets, rearrangement of partitions and interior redecoration
1956 - Construction of unloading dock and redecoration

Passenger services limited to one arrival per day were discontinued in 1936. The building currently is used for radio relay and storage of standby charging equipment and batteries. On the NE corner of the building a high water marker is located marking the floods of 1903 to present.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure was associated with another which was along the alley in 1892. Today it stands alone however it has several additions to it. The primary facade (W) has an entrance, without transom, which is afforded protection by a later flat roofed porch on brick columns. Windows are 1-over-1. Openings are capped by double rowlock, segmentally arched lintels end chimneys with corbelled caps (N&S), a frame cornice, and S tie rods accent the structure. To the rear (E) a frame (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was converted into 3 apartments by Ben Smith, Sr., around 1950. The present owner purchased the structure in 1951 and incorporated 2 of the apartments into one for his residence. At present the other apartment is vacant.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 2nd. Street. An alley is to the S. It sits on a slight embankment with a retaining wall to the W. This embankment drops off to an open lot on the N and allows for a cellar entrance in this bank.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The entrance on the E has a pedimented porch supported on fluted doric columns. The windows are 6-over-6. An entrance to the rear (W) has a concrete stoop.

Photo

43 History and Significance
Structure was built as the residence of N.W. Bowmer, who operated Bowmer's Radiator Repair Shop. The present resident is the 2nd owner.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces E onto 2nd. Street, however the railroad tracks run between the street and house. There is an alley to the N. To the rear (NW) is a garage-shed building which has a gable roof and vertical board and batten siding. It has a chimney. Fenestration includes sliding doors to the N, (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The full lot (101), with an earlier, simple structure, was purchased by John Salzman from Charles Wilson in 1919. The house could have been built as late as 1929 when Salzman obtained a $2500 loan. In 1944 Saltzman heirs sold the property to Wilhemina Manion, who quit her claim to Ben Smith, Sr., a realton, later that year. In 1945 it sold to Fred Armstrong, who in turn sold it to Rupert Renison in 1946. In that same year Renison sold it to F.M. Robinson. In 1965 Jack Mercer, a McGraw-Edison employee purchased the (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features Originally built on an "el" plan the structure received additions and a new hip roof with hip dormers E & S in c. 1915. The raised basement windows have double rowlock segmentally arched headers. These are repeated on the 1st story except on the primary facade which has straight-side arched lintels done in an ashlar brick. A 1 bay porch on the E affords protection to the entrance which has a transom. This porch is on a molded concrete block foundation and has wood doric columns, (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This house was probably built in the 1880's by Otto Schaumberg, a brick mason who worked at the Missouri Training School. It was purchased by John Stegner, a Boonville lawyer, from the Schaumberg estate in the 1950's. Following the elder Stegner's death in the 1960's it became the property of his son, John Stegner, Jr., who sold it in 1974 to the present owner. The address is sometimes listed as 123 E. High Street. Present owner is an employee of McGraw-Edison.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The residence sits at the NW corner of High and 2nd. Streets, facing E onto 2nd. Railroad tracks run N-S between the house and 2nd. street.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is 2 brick buildings joined. The eaves are boxed with a plain frieze and a raking cornice at the gable ends. Windows and the single leaf entrance have soldier course, segmentally arched headers. The entrance has a transom. The southernmost bay is a wide arched entrance with double frame doors. 3 rowlock brick courses spring from the impost level and cap the arch; over this arch is a gabled wall dormer filled with fishscale shingles. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Built for Charles Meierhoffer on the site of the 2 story brick Cooper Shop begun by his father, Jacob. Charles and his brother ran the business until 1887, when he brought out the brother's share. He continued this business until 1894 when he began a successful sand business, building the present structures to suit his needs. Sanborn labels building as office. Later the structure was used as a grocery.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings, however 120 High Street is associated with this property. The structure faces 2nd. street and sits close to the street. Rupes Branch runs to the W of the structure.

43 History and Significance Sits on the site of the Boonville Gas Co., which was organized in 1892, and the Boonville Electric Light and Power Co., organized in 1889. W.A. Sombart purchased and merged both companies in 1915, and it became known as the Boonville Light, Heat and Power Co. until 1925. In that year it was renamed the Missouri Power and Light Co. Prior to 1953 both a frame "gas shed" and a brick building were removed for the building of the present structure.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces E onto 2nd St. Rupes Branch is to the W. Spring St. is to the S. Morgan St. and the 1 outbuilding is to the N. This outbuilding sits at the NW corner of the lot. Its E & W facade have corrugated metal over brick. The building has a pent ell to the N., parapets, and bricked up segmentally arched openings. This structure is probably part of the old Sombart Gas Co.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary entrance to the N has a concrete lintel which is stepped. The front includes the N and NW corner which have a corbelled brickwork parapet, small paired rectangular attic windows, and paired 1st story windows which have corbelled sills, but no headers. The W facade has a partially enclosed, pent roofed porch which sits on concrete piers. The central section of this facade is 3 stories with a gable roof. The brick and concrete S section contains 2 loading docks and has (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Originally built by Armour and Co. as a produce distribution warehouse. The NW corner had the offices. The NE was cold storage. The 2nd. story was general storage. The central section was used for egg candling, picking, shipping on the 1st and feeding on the 2nd. At present it serves as a storage building for the Missouri Power and Light Co.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N at the SE corner of 2nd. and Morgan Streets and extends along 2nd to the alley. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance: The Phoenix American Cob Pipe Factory in the first half of the 20th century was Boonville's largest industry and was the basis for Boonville's claim to being "THE CORN COB PIPE CAPITAL OF THE WORLD". The company was founded in 1893 by C.O. Strutz in Washington, Missouri, and was a family owned and run business. Desiring to be where the corn was, the company moved to Boonville in 1911 and into their building in 1912. The construction (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The factory faces W onto 2nd St. and the railroad. There are no outbuildings. There is a parking area to the W and a parking lot to the E. This lot to the E. and the adjoining E property was originally used as a cob storage area.

42. section is offices and has a S entrance, The N section has loading docks to the W.

43. of the building was the largest and most important contract of James William Jones who had built such buildings as the Farmers State Bank, Colored Public School, I.O.O.F. and the Gmelich Residence (323 E. High). The building, which cost $40,000 to erect, has 38,000 square feet of floor space with a warehouse capacity for storage of 151 carloads of materials including space for over 10 million corn cobs. The office was in the 1st story S end. The remainder of the 1st floor was used for cob sawing, machine shop, and pipe tumblers for shellacing. The 2nd floor had the sanding, turning and varnishing areas. The 3rd floor was for packing, assembly, and drying. There were 2 elevators. The company is credited with revolutionizing the industry through developing mechanized mass production and modern marketing techniques. In 1917 it employed 150 workers and produced 100,000 pipes per day, but by 1932 it produced only half that amount. The company became world famous for the production of quality, low cost pipes among which were the Dewey (1890's), Mel-O-Cob (1935)and the Ima-Cob (late 1930's). By 1940 the company employed over 70 workers and was still Boonville's largest private employer. The company ceased production in 1953. The building was bought and modernized in that year by McGraw Edison, Inc. In July 1954 the building again became operational with housing of the P.A.T.G Division offices and the service department (small appliance's repair). In 1979 the P.A.T.G. Division was sold to Toastmaster Inc.

42 Further Description of Important Features Windows are 1-over-1, some are paired. They have straight-side arch headers lain in ashlar brick and connected by a 3 course belt course and concrete sills. There are 2 gable wall dormers on the S facade, 2 to the E, and 1 to the N. On the E facade is also a pent dormer and a 1 story porch constructed of molded concrete blocks. Projecting to the W is an original ell and a porch which repeats the motifs of the front porch.

43 History and Significance The structure was built by local contractor, A.L. Randolf for Rudolf Toennes. Toennes was a farmer and one time owner of a beer garden.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on embankment with a concrete wall to the N. It sits on the SW corner of 3rd. and High Streets facing E. At the SW corner of the lot is a garage with a hip roof and segmentally arched headers. There is a sliding door to the E. A gravel drive to the S and gives access from 3rd. St. to the garage.

42 Further Description of Important Features In plan and elevation the structure is the same as 202, 206, and 208. The main facade has brick veneer on the lower ½ of the NW corner, and has shutters at the windows. Windows are 1-over-1 and attenuated. The primary entrance with a transom is under the porch to the SW. The house retains a wide plain cornice which rakes under the gable ends. There is a hip roof original ell to the rear (E) as well as a pent roof addition.

42 Further Description of Important Features The symmetric plan is accented by a central chamfered bay which has a scallop frieze. Windows are 1-over-1 with concrete sills and straight-side arched rowlock headers. Some are paired. The NE & SE corners have 1 story flat roofed porches formed by molded concrete blocks and a wide frame entablature. Entrances have transoms. To the rear is a 1 story hip roofed ell with molded concrete block porches on the SW & NW. On the N & S facades are projecting rectangular bays.

43 History and Significance The structure was built by Rudolph Toennes (who also built 201 3rd St.) in c. 1915. His son, Richard Toennes, took over ownership in the late teens and resided in the house from c. 1920 to 1928 when he moved to 716 3rd St. From that time until the house was sold to the present owner, Robert Catlett, in 1979, it has been in the Toennes family as a rental property. The two long-time residents here (until their deaths in 1979) were Mrs. A.F. Bartman (c. 50 years) and Mrs. Harvey Lebbing (c. 15 years).

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces E onto 3rd. Street. An alley is to the S and gives access to a pent roofed shed which has a concrete foundation and asbestos siding.

42 Further Description of Important Features In plan and elevation the structure is the same as 202, 204, and 208. The turned post supporting the porch on the SW has been replaced with a square wood post, and has a wrought iron balustrade. The windows are attenuated and are 1-over-1, shuttered on the primary facade only. There is a hip roof ell, original to the structure, to the rear as well as an enclosed porch on the SE and an addition to the NE.

Photo

43 History and Significance Judge John E. Thro built this house and 202, 204, and 208 all alike for his daughters on the site of the J.E. Thro Lumber Company yard.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is 1 outbuilding: a pent roof shed with composition siding to the E of the structure which faces W onto Third Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The projecting ell on the NE has a raking cornice and scews, as do the S & W gable ends. The porch on the SE has a pent roof with roll roofing, Eastlake posts and brackets, and a plain balustrade. It affords protection to the entrance which has a transom, and retains its original Eastlake interior door. Additions include a pent roofed room on a concrete block foundation to the W and an enclosed porch on a brick foundation to the SW. This last addition has an entrance to the S with a (Attached sheet)

43 History and Significance
In the 1912 and 1916 Cooper County Directories, Thomas W. Goodman, a cabinet-maker with the firm of George & Goodman Furniture Store, is listed as residing at this address. Thomas Goodman was born in Cooper County in 1857 and was married in 1878 to Amelia Thoma. He operated a pottery for awhile and was sexton of Walnut Grove Cemetery for 21 years. In his later life he worked as a cabinet maker in his son's (J. Henry Goodman) furniture store. It is not known, however, if Thomas Goodman owned the property. By the 1920's the (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
This residence faces E onto 3rd. Street. An alley is to the N which gives access to a 1 car frame garage with a gable roof which is to the immediate W of the residence. It has an overhead door to the N.

42. (Cont.) concrete stoop and a gable cap. Windows are lightly trabeated and 1-over-1; some are attenuated. The residence has been recently cleaned up.

43. (cont.) property was owned by the Fred Boller family (which was closely associated with the Goodmans). Fred Boller came from Germany about 1848 and moved to Boonville from a nearby farm in 1898 when he became a grocer for several years before he retired. The Bollers lived in a house at the NE corner of Spring and 3rd Streets up into the 1920's when they moved into the nearby house at 309 3rd. Following the death of the elder Bollers, their daughter, Matilda ("Tilly"), who never married, resided in the house until her death in 1970. At this time the house was sold to Lewis Chappell, the present owner, who resided here for a few years and then turned the house into rental property. A number of people have resided in the house from that time to the present, including Andy Rhorer (1975-77) and Rick Hutchison (1978-79).

42 Further Description of Important Features Windows are 3-over-1, have concrete sills but no headers. A dormer with paired windows is on the E. The 2 central entrances have rowlock lintels, are seperated by a brick balustrade, and are afforded protection by a 1 story hip roof porch supported by square brick columns. To the rear (W) is a 1 story hip roofed, frame porch over the 2 back entrances. It has open rafters and a ½ flight of steps leading down to ground level. The structure is built of a varigated brick of red tones.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure retains its ornate Queen Anne fishscale shingling at the gable ends which also have returns and at a flairing, wide belt course between the 1st & 2nd. story windows around the structure. There are also shingles below the 1st. story central window of the chamfered bay on the SE. On the NE is a 1 story hip roof porch on delicate Eastlake posts. The concrete floor of this porch wraps around the NE corner. On the N is a 1 story rectangular bay which has a flat roof. (see attached sheet.)

43 History and Significance Similar in plan and elevation to 413 Third Street. But with the opposite orientation. A Mr. Collins, barber, resided in the house after 1900.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. A gravel drive leads from 3rd. street to the garage. The residence faces E onto Third street. The rear yard drops off sharply to the W which gives access to a basement level.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is similar in plan and has the same flair between the 1st and 2nd story windows as does 411 3rd. Street, however it sets somewhat closer to the street, has reverse orientation and new siding obscures the fishscale shingling. The structure has a chamfered 2 story bay on the NE, a 1 story hip roof porch which is original to the S, but now extends and wraps around the SE corner to a 1 story rectangular bay on the S which has a hip roof and a brick foundation. There is a S entrance (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance J.R. Tackett owned and operated the Tackett Bottling works that was in operation in 1900. Following the original owner the house was the residence of Al Nicholls. The present owner, Dr. J.F. Jonas, is a dentist with offices at 906 Main Street.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the NW corner of 3rd. and Chestnut Streets. A gravel drive from Chestnut gives access to the garage. The yard drops off sharply to the W. There is 1 outbuilding, a small metal storage shed with a lean-to metal addition to the NW of the residence. Originally the property had a picket fence.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure is embellished by a 1 story porch on the W which affords protection to the primary entrance. This entrance with sidelights has a concrete lintel as do all of the window openings. The 4-over-1 windows also have concrete sills. On the N facade is a 1 story brick shallow bay window. It has a hip roof. Also on this facade is a basement garage entrance which has access from Chestnut St. The fenestration on the S facade indicates interior stairs. A new frame gable roofed addition (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Structure was the residence of C.M. Journey as of 1912. Journey, a lawyer, was elected mayor and was in office in 1919. His daughter, Bessie Journey-Buckley, next resided in the structure. A later owner was Robert E. Maddex (c. 1968), president of the Boonville Equipment Company. The present owner is employed at the area Vocational School. The rear deck dates from this ownership.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 3rd. St. It sits at the SW corner of Chestnut and 3rd. Streets, with 2 drives off Chestnut. An irregular stone retaining wall is on the N side and across the rear. A partial fence is on N side.

42 Further Description of Important Features Echoing the small "tudor" cottage, the structure's primary facade (W) has an arched entrance (N) which has an eyebrow canopy supported by brackets with ball pendents, a central chimney and a gabled bay (S) with a 3 part window. Windows are 3-over-1 with soldier surrounds and corbelled rowlock sills. Gable ends N & S have asbestos sheathing. A soldier course lintel course at the basement level forms a watertable around the structure. On the W is a garage at the basement level. On the E is a gable brick (see attached)

43 History and Significance Oral history relates that the structure was built for the residence of Mr. & Mrs. Walter Bantrup by Randolph and Quint, contractors, in 1936.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is a frame pent roofed garage and shed along the E alley. The residence faces W onto 3rd. Street. There is a concrete drive from 3rd. which gives access to the basement garage.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has hip dormers. Windows on the W & S have straight-side arch brick hoods; on the N & E the windows have soldier course segmentally arched headers. All are 1-over-1 and have concrete sills. On the W is a 1 story porch on a stone foundation with molded concrete block piers, paired columns and balustrade. The entrance has side lights and a large transom which has 516 etched into it. Fenestration on the S facade indicates interior stairs. An original 1 story ell extends to the E. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Built for the Walterscheidt family, downtown druggists. One of the early owners was a family named Chapin. The name can still be seen imprinted in concrete at the base of the front steps. Another former owner was Mrs. Louise Carl . The present owners Mr. & Mrs. George H. Lamm are owners of Gmelich & Schmidt.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NE corner of Vine and 3rd. Streets. The 1 outbuilding - a 2 car, hip roofed, brick garage - is to the E. A concrete drive from Vine Street (S) gives access to this building.

42 Further Description of Important Features This building as it stands is a complex series of additions and alterations. The original 1845 structure is located at the SE corner of the present complex of buildings. It had a gable roof running N to S, a 5 bay primary facade with 6-over-6 shuttered windows. The 1st floor was for the family, the 2nd. story included Mr. Kemper's bedroom SW corner, a small recitation room at the SE corner and the remaining space was used as a large classroom. This 2nd. story was reached by an outside stair on the (see attached)

43 History and Significance Frederick T. Kemper a native of Virginia began his Kemper Family School in Boonville in 1844 with 5 students. From 1856-61 Kemper left the school to be a professor at Westminister College in Fulton, Mo. Returning to Boonville in 1861 he reopened the school, and continued as its president until 1881. During that time the school continued its growth and was known at various times as the "Boonville Male Boarding School, Male Collegiate Institute, and the Kemper & Taylor's School in 1862 when it also admitted (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings This complex of buildings is in a U-shape which has its primary facade on the E facing Third Street. At this point the Kemper Campus is located to the N, W, & S of this structure. A rectangular asphalt covered parade area is to this buildings immediate W.

42. (cont.) W. In 1851 and at an approximate cost of $3000, "B" Barracks was built as an ell extending to the W at the NW corner of the main block. It was a 2 story structure, enclosing the exterior stair and containing a hall and a large classroom at each level. In 1866 a 1 story detached school room was constructed to the N of this ell. An ornate 2 story brick section was added to the N of the main block in 1872. Built on a 2/3rds plan, it had a bracketed cornice, segmentally arched stone lintels over the attenuated, shuttered windows, and a balcony extending across the front of the 2nd story. The entrance, S bay of the 3 bay primary facade E, was inset into an ornate trabeated surround with pilasters and dentils in the entablature. It was 2 bays deep with a 1 story polygonal bay to the S. By 1885 "B" Barracks had been enlarged by 2 story and 1 story sections to the N and another 2 story ell, extending to the W from the original block and S of the 1851 addition, had been built. Growth continued, and in 1888 a new gymnasium was built to the W of the detached school room. Considerable additions and alterations were taking place, and by 1892 the front facade changed by the addition of a 3 story brick section to the N called "C" Barracks and the addition of a 3rd story over the 1872 section. The original block was also severely altered at this time by the addition of a 2 story polygonal bay at its NW corner and a 2 story circular tower, with ogie roof and finial at the SE corner. The roofline changed to a mansard roof with pressed metal block panels, iron ridge cresting, pedimented dormers, and brackets at the roofline. Windows now have segmentally arched headers. The 2 ells to the W were reworked to form a complete, integral 2 story block unit. The 1 story addition to "B" Barracks was razed. An L-shaped porch now joined the gym to "B" Barracks on the interior space formed by the now U-shaped complex. In 1897 "C" Barracks was enlarged by a new 2 story brick section extending to the W and incorporating the 1 story detached school room. This joined the 1888 gym to the W and completed the U-shaped complex to the N. In 1904 the S section of the complex was extended by the addition of a 3 story dining room and hall to the W, a 3rd story over the "B" Barracks, and a 1 story addition across the S facade of this side of the U.

A general view of the exterior of the building indicates a variety of style and periods of growth, yet the structure retains an integral coordinated appearance. This exterior features,on its primary facade, the original block as altered and discussed above and the central section as discussed with its new 3rd story which continues the motifs of the later N section which has a projecting rectangular bay which at one time had an entrance. Alterations between 1896 and 1905 changed it to a coupled window. The 1st stories of the 1872 and 1892 sections have stone segmentally arched hoodmolds. The 2nd stories have corbelled brick straight-side arched hoodmolds, and the 3rd stories have rowlock segmentally arched headers. The primary entrance is now at the 1872 original entrance, but the ornate surround is missing and a concrete name plate caps this bay. It has a concrete stoop. These 2 sections are capped by a hipped, red tile roof. The N facade (1897) section continues this hip roof and red tile motif. It has a raised 1 story, 1 bay porch with molded concrete block columns. There is a circular 2½ story tower with a concrete roof and a 2 story rectangular bay with a gable roof which has a sunburst pattern. Attenuated 1st story and small 2nd and 3rd story windows in this section have soldier course headers and stone lug sills. The 1888 Gym, now a library, is a 1 story hip roofed structure with segmentally arched windows and an entrance with transom and sidelights on its W facade.

The S facade of the S section of the complex has 3 entrances. The eastern one is a later porch with an arched vestibule, a central one now not used with a basement entrance below it, and one at the SW corner which sits at an angle and has a classical entablature and frame piers with doric columns. The 1 story section has a corbelled brick cornice and coupled windows with segmentally arched headers. The 2nd and 3rd story windows are exposed above and repeat the headers.

The interior courtyard is raised and reached by a ramp with flanking steps from the W, and from doors to all buildings on its other facades. Along the S,E, & E ½ of the N facades is a 1 story frame porch with brackets at the eaves.

The floor plans included are from the 1905 Catalogue illustrating the interior spaces at a period when the additions and alterations were complete. Second and third floor spaces remain much the same today. The 1st floor is now devoted to administrative office space with the dining room now serving as a staff lounge and alumni area, and the assembly hall and laboratory now housing the library facilities. The additional plan is taken from the outline of the 1905 plan and shows the series of additions and alterations.

43. (cont.) female students. Col. T.A. Johnston, who succeeded Kemper (1881-1928), changed the name to Kemper Military School. In 1928 Col. A.M. Hitch, son-in-law of Johnston, took over as superintendant until 1949. In 1957 the privately owned institution was re-organized on a not-for-profit basis. Continuing its long history as a family oriented military school, Kemper is the oldest boy's school west of the Mississippi. The school once again, as in 1862, is now admitting female students.

The Administration Complex is significant historically and architecturally on a local and state level as the key structure of the school and an integral part of the quadrangle of the old campus area.

42 Further Description of Important Features Each facade is embellished with a central flemish gable with ball finials and a circular attic level window. The primary facade (S) has a brick corbelled cornice along its gable end, inset panels with an arched window 2nd and a rectangular 1st story window flanking the central bay and a double leaf entrance, but echoes the common motifs of arched 2nd story windows and rectangular 3 part 1st story windows. There are 3 skylights on the steel truss roof's ridge. Building measures 45' x 85'.

43 History and Significance The structure originally held the armory and drill hall basement level, a gym in the large open 1st. story, and a bowling alley at the upper story. By 1929 frame partitions had been installed and the structure was used as classrooms for the science and math departments. Later these classrooms were used for the music and theatre departments. It stood empty in 1979-80, but renovation plans are underway for the near future. See Kemper Administration form for complete history of school. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto the asphalt covered parade/drill quadrangle. It is to the NW of the Main complex building.

42 Further Description of Important Features: This large 2 story rectangular building has 1 story ell to the SW which is the pool annex, built in 1925. The primary facade faces E and is embellished by a central projecting raised portico with 6 stone, 2 story ionic columns which have an egg and dart molding in their capitals and support a heavy entablature with a dentil course. At the wall surface are 6 stone pilasters. Above the entablature is a stone balustrade with squat corner columns. The 3 central bays protected by this portico include (see attachment)

43 History and Significance: See school history from Kemper Adminstration Complex data sheet. It was built during Col. T.A. Johnston's administration, he was known as "the builder of school".

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: This structure faces E onto 3rd. street and sits at the corner of 3rd. and Spruce streets. Porter street runs NS along the pool annex then turns E at a right angle and runs along the field house to join 3rd. street. The field house forms the southeastern boundary of the Kemper campus and its district. (see attachment)

2. (cont.) attentuated windows with a stone sill course at the 2nd. story, and double doors & double transoms on the 1st. story. Secondary framing members divide most doors, transoms, and windows into smaller panes surrounding a larger central pane. Flanking this portico on the 2nd. story is a grouped window bay which includes 3 windows with a header course and lug sills. Above the header course are 3 semi-circular arches bricked in, but having ornate keystones. Complementing windows on the 1st. story are rectangular with no headers, but stone lug sills.

The N facade includes 2 rectangular projecting bays 1 at each end and extending through the basement and the 2 stories above. Each has a crenilated parapet wall with concrete copings. Decorative brickwork on this parapet wall forms a diamond patterm with small stone diamonds at each point. The wall surface is embellished with stone header and sill courses, brick pilasters with a decorative stone molding and brick buttresses which extend 3/4 up the the pilasters and have stone caps, and a corbelled brick cornice. Fenestration includes rectangular windows divided into small panes and large windows topped by semi-circular arched windows at the 2nd. story level. Located centrally is a 3 bay polygonal bay which begins at the exposed basement level and extends through the 1st. story. It repeats the decorative motives of the end bays, and contains the entrance into the basement level, which is a set of double doors with a large semi-circular transom which repeats the window motifs. A flat roof canopy supported by brackets and chains protects this entrance. At the basement level on the W bay, windows are bricked in and there is a double door with transom.

The S facade repeats the N facade with 2 exceptions: there is no central entrance or polygonal bay and the pool annex extends from the SW corner of the main structure. This annex is 1 story and repeats the architectural motifs of the field house on a smaller scale: crenilated parapets, arched windows, pilasters and buttresses, and stone belt courses. This annex extends to the S and has its entrance at the NE corner where it joins the main building It, too, repeats the portico motif with the use of engaged ionic columns with an entablature surrounding double doors which have a transom and sidelights.

On the W facade of this structure, the basement is fully exposed. The pool annex extends slightly beyond the wall surface. Architectural motifs are repeated, but simplified: the stone belt course continues but becomes a brick soilder course with a brick stretcher course projecting above. The central section has a crenilated gabled parapet wall with copings and an ornatly corbelled cornice below. Windows have lug sills but no headers except those at the arched windows. There is a 1 story rectangular projecting bay located centrally at the basement level which has an entrance to the S.

Interior spaces include a large indoor track area and shooting range in the basement level. The main floor is divided into 2 areas: a large open gym floor 2 stories in height and a smaller section at the E end which has 1 story offices, stairways, and bleachers located at the 2nd. story.

44. (cont.) An asphalt drive and parking area are immediately to the W of the structure.

42 Further Description of Important Features A two story structure on a raised basement. The major entrance, double doors with transom and sidelights is on the N facade at the basement level and located centrally in a corbelled projecting bay which extends slightly above the height of the structure. Above the door which has a soldier course brick header, is a large 1½ story window comprised of paired triple hung windows with a soldier course header and concrete sill. Topping the bay is the Kemper crest with the 1844 date above it. (see attached)

43 History and Significance See Kemper history from Kemper Administration Complex data sheet.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Building sits between Field House and "D" Barracks facing N. An asphalt drive to the N and a drive and parking immediately to the N define the boundries of the intrusion.

Flanking this projecting bay is a parapet wall with a corbelled cornice which extends around the E and S facades as well.

On the E facade there are 5 bays with 3-over-3 double hung windows grouped in 3's at each story. These are flanked by brick pilasters which end at the ornate corbelled cornice. This cornice is capped by a concrete coping and includes both a dentil and sawtooth course. A concrete water table sets off the basement level which is only partially exposed on this facade. Its fenestration is also 5 bay, but with windows paired except in the most southern bay which has 5 windows. The basement has indented string courses.

The S facade repeats the same architectural motifs at the basement and cornice level. On the 1st. floor is a door with a transom and sidelights, which opens onto a small concrete and brick porch with a wrought iron balustrade. Above the door is paired 2nd. story windows. Flanking walls are inset and blank. At the basement level a door is protected by the brick base of the 1st story porch.

On the W facade there is no parapet wall. Brick pilasters flank the 5 bays of windows, grouped in 3's, which appear on the basement and above 2 stories.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 130' x 130' structure is a U-shaped 3 story building with a 1 story section completing the rectangle. The basement is exposed on the E, W, and S. The N, W, and E facades have a wide projecting eave with moldings and dentils. The windows are coupled with stone flat arched lintels with radiating skews and key-stones. 1st story windows have transoms. The primary (N) facade has a 1 story porch with panelled frieze and dentils and supported by paired ionic columns. There is a spindle balustrade (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built to house manual training area-basement, offices and dining room-1st., and barracks above. Today it also has a lounge, laundry, and office of the commandant and the duty officer. For further history see Kemper Administration Complex form. Significant historically and architecturally on a local and state level as an integral part of the quadrangle of the old campus area.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto the asphalt drill area. There are drives S & W.

42 Further Description of Important Features Fenestration on the N & W has had some alteration. Original openings had flat arch soldier lintels; 1st story windows (N) extend to the floor. The primary entrance has a transom, corner lights and side lights. It is capped by a porch supported on paired chamfered columns with scroll brackets. The main block has returns and a chimney on the S facade. By 1900 there was a 1 story ell on the NE. A frame 2nd. story with vinyl siding has been added to this recently, as well as a frame 2 story (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Structure was the home of W.F. Johnson, 1896-1925 author of the History of Cooper County published in 1919. Abstract indicates that he obtained a mortgage on his residence in order to have the history published. The present owners relate that they have made additions to the original structure by building the den, dining room, kitchen, bedrooms, and 2nd. floor porch.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment with a brick retaining wall at the SE corner of 3rd. and Vine Streets. It faces W. An asphalt drive from Vine gives access to the attached garage. An alley is to the E.

43 History and Significance Listed on the 1929 Sanborn as "Flats". This 3 story brick and stucco structure is a duplicate of the "metropolitan style" apartment building. Modeled after a style that appears in Kansas City, it cost $25,000 to erect and contains 6 apartments with 4 rooms and a bath. Original plans included the building of garages but apparently these never materialized. Mrs. C.H. Collins, who built the building managed the apartments personally.(cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment facing W. There are no outbuildings. A gravel parking area with access from the E alley is to the rear.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure appears to be a composite of early additions and alterations, all done before 1900. The roofline is very irregular and features a bracketed frame cornice. The primary facade has a raised 1st story with a rectangular projecting bay with a truncated hip roof with cresting to the N. The openings have segmentally arched lintels. This bay is repeated to the S except here a hip roof intersects the original gable. Between these bays is an frame porch with chamfered columns. The entrance retains (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features
Typical of the style, the structure has 3-over-1 windows with corbelled sills, but no headers. It also features a soldier course water table. On the primary facade (W) there is a gable dormer accented by stucco and half-timbering. The sloop of the roof continues to form a pent porch which is supported by brick columns. On the N facade is a projecting rectangular bay and a chimney with small flanking windows. The gable ends N & S have bracketed eaves.

43 History and Significance
Oral history relates that the structure was built to be John Toennes residence. Toennes remained at this location for a number of years. From the late 1950's to the early 1970's Gene Toennes, son of John lived in house. Gene was owner of Toennes Photography at 601 Main at the time.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces W onto 3rd St. A drive to the N leads to a 2 car, brick, hip roofed garage at the NE corner of the lot.

42 Further Description of Important Features The gable end is to the street where a hip roof intersects and forms a front porch supported on square wood columns. There are 2 pent dormers and a bay window to the N. The bay window is repeated on the S. A pent addition is on the NE corner. The structure is accented by a decorative vergeboard and by open rafters. Windows are 1-over-1.

Photo

43 History and Significance The bay windows and NE addition were constructed between 1917 and 1929. Oral history indicates that the structure was once owned by Kemper Military School and served as housing for the coaches. In 1968 it was the residence of H.B. Davis, followed by Wayne Hines in 1977 and Marvin Baker in 1978. The present resident arrived in 1979. Home was orginally built for William Sombart and bride,who lived in the house until 1922.(see attached)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 3rd St. A gabled, clapboarded garage is to the SE. It has a garage entrance and single leaf entrance to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The structure has an integral porch on the NW corner with doric columns. Windows are 1-over-1. The structure is accented by open rafters. The gable end is to the street and there is a pent dormer to the N. A pent addition is on the SE corner.

43 History and Significance
The structure is built at the same time and on a similar plan as 732 3rd St. The structure has been the residence of Gene Hall, a barber, c. 1920's; Henry Stretz, 1930-50's; Wayne Estes. During the 1950's and 60's it remained vacant. The present owner purchased the structure for his residence approximately 1 year ago.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces W onto 3rd St. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features
Originally built on a T-plan, the structure has a central projecting gabled bay flanked by 2 porches and entrances on its primary (W) facade. There are 2 secondary entrances with gable caps on the E facade. There are pent additions on the SE & NE corners. Windows generally are 1-over-1 and shuttered.

Photo

43 History and Significance
Prior owners were K.W. Tempel (1968) and Bae Young Lee (1972). The present owner purchased the duplex in 1973.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces W onto 3rd St. Along the E alley is a 2 car frame garage. It is sheathed with composition siding, has a gable roof and has 2 garage entrances to the E and a single leaf entrance to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front "T" shaped structure has an ornate Eastlake porch on its W facade. The gable end of the S bay of this facade is filled with fishscale shingles and the attic window has a pent roofed cap. The S facade has a 2 part enclosed pent roofed porch. Extending to the E is a room and a breezeway which joins the 2 sections of this structure. The rear 1½ story part has a gable roof running N to S which has skews and a raking cornice. It has a W entrance. Windows (cont.)

43 History and Significance It appears that the back structure originally faced Spruce St. Between 1910 and 1917 it was turned and joined to 800 3rd St. By 1913 Walter Reed, a Bookkeeper at the Citizens Trust Co. was in residence here. The next owner was John Wilson. By 1968 it was the residence of Wanda Wells and Donna Overshiner. The structure then stood vacant until it was purchased in 1979 by the present owner who has plans to restore it with period fixtures.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the SE corner of Spruce and 3rd Sts., facing W. There are no outbuildings. A concrete wall is to the N & W, and a brick patio is located between the 2 sections.

43 History and Significance The original owner of this late Queen Anne style residence was Major Harris C. Johnson, manager of athletics and quartermaster at Kemper Military School. The Johnston Field House located at Kemper ½ block away was named after his father, Col. T.A. Johnston, a longtime superintendent of the school. Subsequent owners of the residence have been Herman Niemeyer, Don Wilson, O.L. Henderson, Sr. and Jr.[1] The present owners are in the process of restoring the house to its original condition. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 3rd St.. A concrete drive to the S leads to a vertical board gabled garage at the rear of the lot. In the 1930's a pent addition was added to the N to form a 2 car garage. There is a gabled frame shed at the NW part of the lot. Porter St. is to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features The gable end is to the street (E). This facade is accented by a 1 story hip roofed rectangular N bay and a S bay entrance which is afforded protection by the roof as it extends to form a porch supported on wood posts. Windows are attenuated, trabeated and 1-over-1 or 2-over-2. There are small attic windows under the eaves of the S facade. A pent addition is to the W. It sits on a concrete foundation and extends to the S 1 bay where there is an enclosed porch over the E entrance.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The structure has many motifs of the style prevalent in the 20's: 4-over-1 windows, a chimney with flanking windows (S), large pent dormers (E & W), bracketed gable end (N & S) & a slightly off center entrance which is accented by sidelights. On the primary facade the 1st story porch has been screened in; the 2nd story entrance has been inset to form a balcony. The SE corner features an integral porch with 2 entrances.

43 History and Significance
The structure was probably built by George Boyce for rental property. An early renter was the Gowan family. It was purchased by A.F. Blanck for his residence in 1941. Blanck, who operated Blanck's Grocery from 1920-48 and served as County Assessor between 1948 and 1960. In 1971 the Blanck family heirs sold the property to the present owner, who plans to speculate on it.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The residence sits on an embankment at the NE corner of 3rd and Walnut, facing W. There are concrete retaining walls to the S & W. At the SE corner of the lot is a gable roofed garage which is sheathed in composition siding. It has access from Walnut St.

43 History and Significance The home was built as the residence of William and Mary Beckett in 1903. The Becketts, who operated a grocery business, resided in the structure until 1915 when it sold to Timothy Easter, a government engineer. Between 1919 and 1941 I.R. Warts, a retired farmer, and his wife owned the house and upon his death his son Williard Warts, proprietor of "Grand View" Stock Farm in Lamine township obtained possession for 1 year. In 1943 it was sold to Wm. Viertel followed by James T. and Agnes Mills, retired farmers, in 1945. The present (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the NW corner of 3rd & Walnut Sts., facing E onto Walnut. There are no outbuildings associated with the property.

42 Further Description of Important Features Windows are 2-over-2, however the S bay of the primary facade has been altered to a small modern window. Across 3 bays of this facade is a later porch with a hip roof on battered columns. Evidence remains from the original porch indicating a pediment over the entrance. A gable ell extending to the E has an addition to the E, a pent porch over the N entrance, and a pent addition along its S facade. The N entrance is listed as 300 Walnut.

43 History and Significance The structure was originally built as a small hospital for Dr. C.H. van Ravenswaay and his nurse Alice Jones c. 1900. The hospital ceased operation in 1905 when it moved to the Megquire Seminary building on the corner of 7th and Locust Streets. The structure was then converted to a residence and Alice Jones and her sister Margaret resided within. The structure was later converted to a duplex. The porch on the S. was closed in after 1970.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The resdience faces W onto 3rd. Street. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure associated with the cellar has been razed leaving only a hollow basement area. The exterior sides of the entrance still retain brick for the basement walls and this outside facade measures approx. 20'. The entrance is 3'2" wide and gives way to a 5' wide stair which extends 13'9" to a 4' landing & the cellar. This stair area has a brick barrel vaulted ceiling, stone walls with side niches, and stone steps. The cellar door, which has a segmentally arched lintel, is approx. 6'9" in height and retains (cont.

43 History and Significance The wine cellar is associated with the residence of Edward P. Swan, a horticulturist (vintner), who was in operation prior to 1869. In the 20th century it was the residence of a Melkersman family. The last owner of the property was Jerry Pulliam. The structure was razed in c. 1970. The present owner has future plans to develop the 18 acres on which the wine cellar is located.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Originally associated with a residence, the cellar now is located independently. It is reached by an alley to the N. Newer residences and trailers are to the E & N, a large garage is to the W, rolling terrain and the old city cemetery is to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features The gable end which is to the street has an attic window with a triangular header. It also features a raking cornice and returns. The double leaf entrance has concrete steps and an awning. Windows in the raised basement have segmentally arched, double rowlock headers. The S facade has 2-over-2 segmentally arched windows. A 2 car open carport built of wood post with a corrugated roof projects to the S. The N facade is obscured by the addition of a pent roofed concrete block (see attached sheet)

43. History and Significance The structure remained as a carpenter shop at least til 1929, and was situated at the rear of J.J. Walther's residence. J.J. Walther designed and built many storefronts in and around Boonville including the Gmelich and Schmidt Jewelry Co. stained glass canopy, 309 Main and stained glass front of the Miller's Drug Store. 309 Main, no longer in existence. The present business has been at this location for a number of years.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 4th. Street. An alley is to the S., a concrete drive is to the N, and a gravel drive is on N, E, & S.

42 Further Description of Important Features The rear (N) section is the original gas station part. It retains wide eaves and large eave brackets. The openings are trabeated. There are entrances E & W, both have transoms. Brick covers the lower half; the top half is stuccoed. To the S of this section is a new brick addition. It has a S entrance and an entrance with a pent cap, a loading dock and garage door to the W. To the rear (N) of this building is a independent structure with a gable roof. It is part of the original (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance In 1885 the area dropped off sharply from the street level and a livery was at this corner. It was listed as "Rogers Livery in 1900 and 1910. A new structure was built by 1917. It was a 1½ story garage with a hip roof and having a capacity of 18 cars. In 1929 the filling station with a large canopy extending S to Morgan Street was at this site. Behind it was a brick structure with Auto Sales on the 1st and auto repairs in the basement. This building is probably a reworking of the 1917 garage. From the 1950's to 1970 (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NE corner of 4th & Morgan. Streets. Parking lots are to the E. A gravel alley is to the N. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade has classical affinities. It has a pediment supported on 2 story concrete columns with ornate capitals. The wide entablature has a panel which reads "Christian Church", and features a dentil course which forms a belt course around the cornice of the structure. There are 3 entrances with double transoms, filled with stained glass. Flanking these bays are stained glass windows on both stories. These motifs continue around the NE corner. The N facade has an exposed basement and (see attached)

43 History and Significance The church was originally organized 12-25-1887. In 1889, the congregation built a gothic revival structure on the current site for a cost of $9,000. This structure had several additions and was destroyed by fire on March 5, 1933. The new building used the rear wall of the old building. It cost $25,000 and was dedicated on 2/18/1934. In 1953, an extensive remodeling program included the installation of 25 stained glass windows, and the rebuilding of the chancel. In 1960 the Church bought the lot to the N for the (see attached)

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure's primary facade (E) has a projecting bay with a gable roof and a double leaf entrance. It has a small steeple. The N bay of this facade has a pent roof and an entrance. Windows are 1-over-1 and the corbel brick sill is evident under the stucco. The S facade has a gable roof intersecting the main hip roof. On the NW corner part of the original structure is still evident. It has a hip roof, 3 large multipane windows to the W, a large window and chimney to the N and an entrance now (see attached)

43 History and Significance By 1929 the structure was used as a gas station. It was converted to a church in 1943. Marvin Kalb (Ex Postmaster) operated this as a gas station when Highway 40 was routed out West Spring Street.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits at the NW corner of 4th & Spring Streets, facing E. Concrete drives and parking spaces surround the structure.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front (E) facade exhibits a variety of typical Queen Anne features. A single hip roof dormer is centered in the roof. On the south half of the facade, a two-story porch built on low brick piers with lattice between them rises to a flat roof which begins under the eaves of the main roof. The lower level is supported by plain Doric wooden columns with a plain square balustrade. The upper porch has Queen Anne supports and balusters. Two front doors with transoms (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Miss Hurt bought the house in 1948. Her mother was the daughter of Col. Johnston of Kemper Military School. The land upon which the house sits is a part of Hanna's addition, which ran from there to the river. This building was a duplex when owned by Margaret Hurt. Dukes operated his photography business out of the home when he first came to Boonville.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The house sits on a slightly sloping lot, with a driveway along the back of the house, giving access to Spring Street. The driveway leads to a two-car rectangular stuccoed garage with a gable roof with asphalt shingles. Asphalt shingles also decorate the north gable.

2. (cont.) open off the lower level porch, and the southernmost door was used as the entrance to the second floor apartment when the house was used as a duplex. On the upper porch, a door and a window open from a triangular bay. The northern half of the east facade is made up of a two story chamfered bay with fishscale trim dividing the stories. A one story porch with pent roof wraps around the northeast corner of the house, but the north side has been filled in to make a storage room off the front room of the house. An exterior door which opened to a little sidewalk still in existence has been closed off. A scroll bracket decorates the northeast corner under the eave, and the north facade has two more scroll brackets. A 2 story chamfered bay projects from the north facade, with fishscale trim dividing the stories. Two diamond shaped decorations with sawtooth shingles are applied to the 2nd. story wall at the northeast corner. The south facade uses the same motifs, except the diamond shape is executed in a stained glass window with a floral design. A window on the landing also has stained glass, in a seashell design, on its upper third. The fishscale trim delineates the two stories. A one story circular bay on the south facade has applied turned posts and decorative panels. At the southwest corner of the house is a square addition (now used as a bedroom) with paired windows and a belcast roof, which indicates construction soon after completion of the main house. The rear of the house has an outside stair to the basement, which has a concrete floor in the rear and dirt floor in the front portion. At the rear there are also two small one-story enclosed porches supported on brick piers with lattice. They have vertical grooved siding and plain hip roofs. The owner says that the southernmost porch opens to the landing of the backstairs to the 2nd story; he intends to remove these two porches and build one porch across the back of the house to give easier access to these stairs now that the house is a single family house again. The owner said that the house has three fireplaces:living room, dining room, and upstairs over the living room (this one closed off). The kitchen cabinets appear to be original with an old flour-bin included. The upstairs bathroom has a claw-foot tub and pedestal sink and appears to be original. Downstairs, a new tub has been installed. The house was rewired when Margaret Hurt owned it, but the plumbing is still galvanized pipe which must be replaced. The original gravity flow furnaces and some wooden duct work remain -- one heats the upstairs and one the downstairs. One gaslight remains in the basement. The owner is currently tuckpointing the foundation. When Miss Hurt died, her heirs were not interested in her furniture or memorabilia, which passed to the Dukes with the house. The porch swing came from the Hurt residence which stood on land at the intersection of Highways 87 and 98 and which burned. Miss Hurt had a picture of that house, with the swing hanging in front of it.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built as a duplex the entrance doors are paired to the N of the E facade; interior doors are oak with dentils. Interior millwork is trabeated. There is a 1 story porch supported by 3 frame square, tapered columns with a frame balustrade on the 2nd. story. 2nd. story E facade is 3 bay with a door to the porch located centrally. On the S facade is a 1 story shallow polygonal bay. The rear W facade has 2 story wooden steps and porches. Most windows are 1-over-1. Rafters are open.

43 History and Significance This structure was built sometime between 1910 and 1917 replacing an older 1 story brick dwelling. From 1905 to 1914 this property was owned by Virginia William. From 1914 to 1941 it was owned by the Vollrath family and their heirs. A Mrs. Mary Vollrath is listed at this address in 1916. From 1941 to the present it has been a rental property owned by Benjamin F. and Lottie (Walther) Stammerjohn, who had their residence at 603 E. High St. The house sits on Lot #264 of Hannah's Addition to the City of Boonville (1840).

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is a 2 car, brick tile, hip roofed garage to the SW of the residence. It has access to the alley to the S. There is a field stone reinforcing wall to the W along the property line. The residence faces E onto Fourth Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front rectangular structure has end chimneys (N&S) and small attic story windows which indicates it was probably used as a loft. The W entrance is the 3rd bay to the S and has a gable cap and shutters. Windows are generally 6-over-6 with trabeated headers and shutters. Several additions extend to the E at its N bay. There are 2 frame additions with gable roofs, a brick gabled ell which has rowlock segmentally arched headers, and a small pent frame addition. Along the S facade of these ells (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure is significant as an early residence in its original condition and in one family for its entire existence. Oral history indicates that the structure is built of logs covered by the original clapboard. The property was purchased in 1836 by George Hain and it is believed the house was built shortly thereafter. The dates for construction of several ell additions are not known. George Hain, by 1869, was a (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits immediately on the sidewalk facing W onto 4th. Street. It also runs directly along the alley to the N. It has a large wooded, fenced lot to the S, at the NE corner of 4th. and Chestnut Streets.

42. (cont.) is a pent roofed open porch. Each frame addition has an entrance, the brick addition has 2 entrances and the last pent addition appears as enclosed porch. Some structural problems are evident in the angles of the clapboarded additions and the roof ridges. The last addition is in especially bad condition.

43. (cont.) horticulturist and since the inventory of his personal estate at the time of his death relates he owned approximately 125 gallons of wine, we may assume that he was a vintner to some degree. Deed records indicate that he owned a large tract of land east of the present day Sombart Road, transversed by the present day MKT railroad tracks. Upon his death in September 1877, his wife Sophia inherited the residence and lands; however, upon her subsequent marriage to Judge Sombart the house was given to George Hain, Jr. The structure has remained in the Hain family for its entire existence.

The structure is significant architecturally on a local level as an early log structure.

43 History and Significance Residence is one of the 1st built along that block, and was built for John A Fischer. Judge Fischer organized and was president of the Boonville Mercantile Company (1906), 501 Main Street, and was elected Cooper County Court Judge 1898-1902, presiding Judge 1914 and State Representative in 1908. His daughter Mrs. John Esser resided in the home 1915-1921. The residence was later owned by Dr. Winn, a local physician.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Faces E onto 4th. Street. Concrete drive to N with access from 4th leads to new attached hip roofed garage. To W of garage is steeply pitched hip roofed outbuilding which retains narrow clapboarding. A concrete reenforcing wall extends along the alley to the N.

43 History and Significance Present owners have resided here since 1962. Previous owners were Mr. and Mrs. William R. Miller who resided here from the late 'teens or early 20's until 1962. Mr. Miller was the proprietor of the old Roeschel Drug Store (later Miller Drug Store) from 1915 until his death in 1930. Richard Hittner is proprietor of Hittner Furniture Store.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the NW corner of Chestnut and 4th Sts. facing E onto 4th. The single car garage has access on Chestnut; its entrance door is to the S. It repeats the hip roof, but has open rafters. Windows E & W have segmentally arched headers. To the E is a covered contrete patio.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (W) and the SW corner of the structure have a series of gable peaks, a stuccoed 2nd. story with a frame half timber effect and several pointed arched openings, all lending to the tudor quality. The entrance is the northernmost bay of this facade and is placed in a stepped inset on a projecting 1 story gabled bay. The gable is exaggerated and is accented by a wide plain vergeboard. The entrance has a pointed arch header with a heavy door also with the complimenting (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This structure sits on the site of a previous structure which was a 1½ story frame house in an L plan. Known as the "Wilken's House", it was used as the parsonage and education center for the Immanuel Lutheran Church. This frame structure is listed on the 1885 Sanborn. It has several additions to the E, but by 1929 it had been razed. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on the SE corner of 4th and Chestnut Streets. It has a wooded lot, a fenced backyard, and 1 outbuilding a small metal storage shed.

42. (cont.) pointed arch.
A small aluminum canopy caps the entrance. To the S of this bay is an exterior chimney. The gothic arch is again repeated, this time in a sawtooth patterned brickwork on the chimney face. Stones are placed randomly on the chimney as well as the 1st story area, as accents. Continuing S along this facade are 2 windows with a soldier course header course, then a projecting rectangular bay with a large gothic window opening flanked by 2 pointed arched niches. On the S of this bay the large pointed arched opening is repeated but is used as a door with transom and sidelights. This area was originally an open porch but was enclosed c 1941. Over this bay is a gabled wall dormer with a balcony to the S and a large gable dormer to the W. Both have the extended eaves and vergeboard. On the 2nd. story between this bay and the chimney is a small window with a semi-circular header and leaded glass. The 2 windows N of the chimney also have leaded glass. The other facades do not have any stuccoed surfaces. Windows are generally 6-over-1 with a corbelled brick sill, but no headers. An entrance on the N and a dormer on the E repeat the gable cap with long eaves and vergeboard. There is a hip roofed, 1 story brick ell to the E. It may be a later addition due to a change in brick texture. On the S there is a 1 story screened in porch. Rafters are open. On the interior there is 1 working fireplace which was originally wood, but has been converted to gas. There are hardwood floors throughout. The millwork is magnolia. A plaster cast ceiling detail surrounds the dining room light. Originally the stuccoed interior walls were painted with a tinted paint in various hues.

43. (cont.) The present residence was built for George W. Sombart by Fred Haas in 1930. Otto Pleuss was the interior designer. It is believed that this house contains the first use of twin 7 inch I-beam construction in a residential dwelling in Boonville. G.W. Sombart was a prominant merchant who owned and operated the Boonville Laundry and Ice Plant, later renamed the Boonville Ice and Storage Company between 1912-1955.

42 Further Description of Important Features Typical of the style, this structure features a hip dormer to each facade, a raised basement, and a 1 story porch on the primary (E) facade. It is embellished with classical motifs. There is a modillion motif under the wide extended eaves. This is repeated or complimented by a dentil motif at the chinmey cap, the dormer eaves, the frieze of the porches (E&W), the porte-cochere, and at the eaves of the garage. Openings continue this theme with lightly molded surrounds, done in a pink concrete. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance It is significant as a fine example of this later Box style and is 1 element of a block which comprises a cohesive neighborhood. Structure was built for Eugene A. Windsor, "The Land Man", a realtor, owned and operated Chouteau Springs Resort, 6 miles Southwest of Boonville, which he purchased in 1900. The home continues to remain within the family. The present owner is the operator of Windsor Farm Implements and is currently a candidate for State Senator.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on the SW corner of 4th & Chestnut, facing E onto Chestnut. A semi-circular drive from Chestnut gives access to the porte- cochere and the contemporary garage, which sits at the NW corner of the lot. Built at the same time as the residence, it has similar motifs. It has a molded concrete (see attached sheet)

The E entrance is large and has sidelights. It repeats the surrounds. The 1 story porch on the E has a brick balustrade and square brick columns with ornate classical capitals of pink concrete. A stone balustrade with urns caps the porch roof. These motifs are repeated in the porte-cochere to the N. The porch on the W serves both the 1st story and basement entrances. A 2nd. story porch has been altered and is now a screened in porch with a hip roof.

44. (cont.) block foundation, is sheathed of buff colored brick, and has a belcast hip roof with asphalt shingles,&a wide cornice with dentils. Three windows are on the N & S facades, the large frame garage doors are to the E. An alley is to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure has attic dormers on the S,E, & N., extend eaves and a raised basement. The primary (E) facade has a 1 story, hip roof with a wide entablature and brick balustrade and columns. The roof is tiled. The entrance is large and has side lights. Windows are generally 6-over-1 with concrete sills and soldier course headers. On the N there is a chimney with 2 chimney pots and with small flanking windows on the 1st story. On the S facade at the 2nd story E bay are french doors (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Significant as part of a cohesive neighborhood block and example of the later Box style. Structure was built for Dr. Howard Smith who founded the Smith Hatchery in 1925. From c. 1953 to 1978 the dwelling remained unoccupied. The present owner purchased the structure for his residence and completed extensive interior renovations.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 4th. St. To the SW is a 2 car attached garage. It has a tiled hip roof. The frame folding doors to the E have a soldier course lintel. A concrete drive leads from 4th. Street to the garage on the S side of the residence. There is an alley to the W.

It has a soldier course header which connects with the soldier course string course which runs about the structure between floors. There is a basement entrance below this large window. There is a string course at this basement level which serves both as a water table and a header course for the basement windows. The W facade repeats all the motifs and has a projecting 1 story, 1 bay brick porch with a tiled, hip roof. It is now enclosed.

42 Further Description of Important Features Originally the house was built in a Second Empire style with a slate covered mansard roof. However after a fire in 1921 the current Prairie type extended eave, tile covered, hip roof was added. This roof has a large hip dormer to the W. A contemporary porch was also added. It is 2 stories with brick columns and balustrade on the 1st story, frame columns and balustrade on the 2nd. story. The roof and porch give a blocky quality to the residence but does not really destroy the earlier (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Built for Henry E. & Julia Sombart in 1892. Henry Sombart (1863-1916), owned and operated the Sombart Milling Company, Directed the Farmers Bank of Boonville, founded the Citizens Trust Company and was chairman of the Boonville Water Works. The house was later inherited by his son George W. Sombart who lived within till he built his new home on the lot to the east of this house in 1930. Upon the death of G.W. Sombart the house was left in trust to Mrs. G. W. and Kathryn Sombart. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a large open lot facing W onto 4th. Street. Originally Marl Street ran to the S, however when the garage was added this street was removed. Now a concrete drive which runs along the S of the residence connects the garage to 4th. Street; a gravel drive connects it to the E alley. The garage built c. 1915 was used only as (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) historical merit of the residence.

The original structure had a 2 story chamfered bay on the S of the W facade. Around the turn of the century the roof of this bay was altered and was capped by a polygonal roof with 3 pedimented dormers and an ornate finial. The 1st story window was also altered to form a wide opening with a semi-circular header and molded, corbelled brick hood-mold. This bay has a sill course on both levels. The 2nd. story windows are like those on other facades. This general window type is 1-over-1, and has a segmentally arched soldier course header with stone keystone and extended skews. These forms together echo the straight-sided arch typical of the style. Often these windows are paired and have a center bull's eye motif and pilaster. The central double door entrance repeats this motif and has a transom. A 2nd. story single-leaf entrance is directly above. The NW corner has a projecting rectangular 2 story bay set at an angle, which originally had a gable cap. This is indicated by the fact that the brick work extends above the roof level and now has its own hip cap.

On the N facade (NE corner) is a 2 story circular bay which originally had a frame balustrade with access form an attic dormer. On the S is a projecting 2 story rectangular bay. Before the 1921 fire, semi-circular dormers were added to the S & W.

The E facade has an original 2 story brick ell on the S. The N facade of this ell has a 1st and 2nd. story entrance with frame steps and porch to the 2nd. story. Windows generally have soldier and double rowlock course, segmentally arched headers. There is a palladian type window on the 1st story of the S facade. Several windows on the S & E facades have been altered to a 3 part window type with bungaloid lights and no headers. A kitchen has been added in this area. A 1 story frame addition with a concrete foundation, pent roof, and asbestos siding is to the E of the original rectangular bay to the S.

Interior features include cherry woodwork, cherry stairway, where an entrance was originally, wide halls, 11 foot ceilings, and parquet floors on the 1st story in the 2 parlors and library. Marble slabs are under the 2nd. story radiators. The 1st story has been altered to form an apartment. The 2nd. story was altered in 1947 to an apartment. The maid's room was changed to a kitchen. It has access from the original back stairs. There were originally 3 bedrooms upstairs. The 3rd. story was used as a ballroom. It's large ornate cherry stairway has an ornate newel post light in the form of a female statue.

43. (cont.) Following a fire in 1921 the second story was converted into a separate apartment by converting the maids bedroom into a kitchen. Renters from this period to present are: J.E. & Anne Gleason. John & Mary Sanders, Minnie Talbert, Bruce Callis, and Jimmy O'Hara. Monte Coulter a son-in-law of Mrs. G.W. Sombart has resided in the first floor apartment since 1976. Significant historically on a local level as residence of a prominent merchant and important family of Boonville.

44. (cont.) a garage however it resembles a larger carriage house. Facing W it has a projecting bay 2 stories with a flemish gable to the N and a 1½ story pedimented parapet with a round window at this level on the S. Between these bays is a large garage entrance with small flanking windows. This entrance is currently closed up and the garage is entered through a new opening in a frame pent addition in the N facade. Pent dormers are centrally located E & W. The S facade has a pedimented parapet with an attenuated attic story window with a soldier course semi-circular header. 1st story windows have double rowlock segmentally arched headers. These windows are repeated on the E facade. A chimney is also on this facade. The foundation of this structure is battered concrete. A small brick outbuilding sits directly to the E of the residence. It has a belcast hip roof. Its entrance on the W has a rowlock segmentally arched header. A 1½ story Butler building (metal) sits at an angle to the NE of the residence. It has a gable roof.

42 Further Description of Important Features Probably built on a dog trot plan, the structure has end chimneys N & S. Windows are generally 1-over-1, slightly attenuated, and are trabeated. The primary entrance has a transom and a new concrete stoop. A 1920's 3 bay porch covered this entrance, however its recent removal has left the vertical studding of the structure exposed over the 3 central bays. The clapboarding remains under the current siding. The basement is slightly raised. The front facade has a boxed cornice. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Joseph Pinnell and family resided in the house c. 1900. Mrs. Pinnell organized and taught the first kindergarten class in Boonville. J.T. Hickam, a Boonville Municipal Court Judge, owned and lived in the house for many years up till his death in 1965. Between 1965-76 the house was used for rental purposes. From 1976 on it has been uninhabited and considered derelict. George Munro , a carpenter, residing there in 1912, probably changed the form of the front porch and windows. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the front of the lot (W) facing W onto 4th. Street. A partial gravel drive leads to a 1 car brick garage SE of the residence. The garage entrance faces W., the NW corner is enclosed with lattice work and the E facade has 2 windows with segmentally arched rowlock headers. There is a pent (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) A pent ell to the E, S bay, may be original but was there as early as 1885. Its windows are 6-over-6. Other additions include pent rooms to the W & N of this ell. The addition to the N has an entrance with a pent cap. An early photo indicates the structure originally had 9-over-6 windows, and a 1 story pedimented porch.

44. (cont.) dormer on the W of the belcast hip roof. A building 514½ is at the rear of the lot, but has a seperate listing.

43. (cont.) Abstract information supplied at a later date indicates that the structure was built in 1848 by Dr. James Quarles, who was later killed in the first Battle of Boonville. In 1855 it was purchased by James Hood of whom nothing is known, since he had left Boonville by the late 1860's. The same holds true about the next two owners, Ben Tutt (1861) and Cathryn Leftwich (1864). The next owner was Cornelius Young, a Missouri River pilot who apparently purchased and resided in the structure in 1869, but at a later date rented it to the Pinnells.

42 Further Description of Important Features The E facade has a window with a row-lock segmentally arched header, a chimney, a single leaf entrance with a double rowlock segmentally arched header, and a large garage door entrance, S to N respectably. The W facade echos this but leaves out the chimney. The S facade has 3 windows, plus an attic window. The gable end is shingled. The N facade repeats this, but has only 2 bays and no attic window. Windows are 1-over-1 and the watertable forms a sill course.

43 History and Significance Significant as a part of a cohesive neighborhood block and example of the later Box style. Structure sits on a lot described in depth on form relating to American Legion Post Home, 314 Chestnut. This structure was built in 1908 for Earl N. Wood and was the first home in the Wooldridge addition to the city, 1907. A restriction was placed in the Deed stating, "no barns or stables (are) to be erected on the lot". The reason for this being that the rear portion of the lot was situated in close proximity to the (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 4th. St. An alley is to the W. The rear yard has a high fence. There is a shared asphalt drive to the S.

42. (cont.) supported by brackets and forms a cap for the basement entrance below the bay. A small rectangular window on the E of the 1st floor N facade is filled with block glass. There is a 1 story projecting rectangular bay with a hip roof and a rectangular projecting frame bay on the N. The central entrance is under a flat roofed porch supported by ionic columns.
Other features include 24-over-1 windows with lightly molded frame surrounds; frame painted white, water table and string course between floor levels; modillions at cornice of the wide extended eaves and at the porch; belcast dormers on each facade; and tile copings along the belcast roof line.

43. (cont.) developer, Mrs. E.O. Wooldridge. Subsequent ownership is as follows: John M. Adams-1911; Emma Holmes - 1936; Ted Timberlake - 1961; Robert Fales - 1968; Thomas O. Combs - 1974; K.W. Dudenhoeffer - 1975; Thomas Short - 1977.

As evidenced from a documentary photograph the structure originally had a simple cement porch with a pent roof, and an absence of a projecting bay on N side. Additional renovations include the closing in of the W. 2nd. story sun porch into a dressing room, and the finishing of the basement into a recreation room.

42 Further Description of Important Features The Queen Anne arch is a common motif, especially on the E facade. The attic dormer with 3 windows is capped by this arch. The primary entrance has this motif though topped by a rectangular transom, sidelights, and corner lights. The floor plan of the front porch also echos this motif. This 1 story porch has a brick foundation, large frame ionic columns. This extends to the S as a porte-cochere with a flat roof, brick piers, and fluted ionic columns. This E facade has a slightly projecting frame (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built in 1909-10 as a residence for Maximilian E. Schmidt. It was designed by the Mildner and Eisen Architectural firm of Detroit, Michigan, and the plans remain in the possession of William Wood. M. Schmidt married the daughter of Lt. Govenor J.F. Gmelich and owner of the Gmelich Jewelry Store and entered the business in 1895. The firm has been known as Gmelich and Schmidt from that date to the present. The structure remained in the Schmidt family till 1952 when it was purchased by the (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 4th. St. There is a concrete drive to the S, an asphalt shared drive to the N, and an asphalt parking area to the rear (W). The concrete block, pent roofed outbuilding extends across the full W property line. The S addition has overhead doors to the E & W. The N section has a (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) rectangular 1 story bay to the N. The central entrance has a polygonal bay window over it on the 2nd floor. To the S is a 2 story polygonal bay. The S facade has a chimney with flanking lead glass windows, and a polygonal 1 story bay which has asbestos shingles. A small hip dormer is on this facade. On the N facade, there are 2 basement entrances under a slightly projecting rectangular bay supported by brackets and sheathed with asbestos shingles. This bay is used as a staircase and has a 3 part window at the 1½ story level and a hip roof dormer with a palladian window at the 2½ story level. To the W of this bay is a 1 story bow window which has a flat roof. Its ashlar brickwork may indicate that it is a later addition. The windows are 1-over-1, attenuated, and have a sill course and a wide entabular buff brick 3½ story bay which houses an elevator, is centrally located with an entrance on the W that obscures the hip dormer, and a pent frame addition along the S bay. Windows are generally 1-over-1 with soldier lintels and concrete sills. There is a soldier course belt course between the floors.

43. (cont.) Goodman-Boller Funeral Service and converted into a funeral home. Alterations at that time included first floor wall alterations, a basement to top ½ story elevator, conversion of 2nd floor into an apartment, and conversion of top floor into casket display area. Also at that time a 6 stall garage with storage area was built. In 1964, W. Wood bought out Boller-Goodman and it became known as William Wood Funeral Home. In 1965, the firm was incorporated as Thacher-Wood Inc.

44. (cont.) garage and single leaf entrance and contains a storage area.

43 History and Significance This house was the residence, from c. 1915 to the 1940's, of Robert Burge, a vice-president of the Boonville Mercantile Co. in charge of plumbing and electrical work. Upon his death it passed to his daughter, Alma, and her husband R. Taylor Smith. After Mr. Smith's death it was the residence of Mrs. Smith until her death in 1978. The house is presently for sale.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a small lot with a low concrete wall to the S. It sits on the NW corner of Vine and 4th Sts., facing E onto 4th St. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has been changed and added to through the years. Currently it has a 3 story projecting rectangular tower centrally located on the W. The corners have buttresses set at an angle. The double leaf entrance has a molded brick gothic hood with stone labels. There is a molded brick sill course at the base of the 2nd. story, pointed arched openings which have rowlock headers and are now louvered. The 3rd. story repeats the sill course and pointed arch opening which now appear (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The congregation was founded in 1835 and the building lot purchased in 1841. Construction began in 1844 and the building was dedicated in 1846. The church is credited with being both the "second oldest Episcopal church west of the Mississippi River", and "The Oldest Episcopal church building in continuous use west of the Mississippi". A reference notes that the church design may be a copy of a church in rural England. An 1854 newspaper account which appears in the Historical Sketch of the church relates: (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The church sits on a slight embankment at the NE corner of 4th & Vine Streets, facing W onto 4th. The additions to the rear (E) extend the church so that it has virtually no rear yard and sits in close proximity to a residence facing Vine Street.

42. (cont.) on each side. This is capped by a crenelated parapet and a cross. Flanking this tower are large gothic windows with stained glass and tracery. Buttresses are at the corners and end with a molded brick string course. The 3 bays of the N & S facades echo the window, buttress and string course motifs of the W. On the N is a 1 story brick addition, built c 1925, which has a parapet, an entrance on the W., and large windows with corbelled sills, but no headers. Its N facade has 7 bays and extends to the E beyond the original structure and the 1 story gambriel brick ell to the E. This N addition was added c 1925. The brick ell to the E has small buttresses, rowlock segmentally arched window headers, an entrance to the E, and hipped roof skylight at the roof ridge. A small pent roofed frame addition is to the NE of this ell.

It is approximately 30' to the eaves of the Church. The tower is approximately 45' high.

43. (cont.) "It is constructed of brick...eight large windows... the glass is tastily painted. The interior finish is exceedingly neat and appropriate, and near the front entrance on the left, is an organ. It is encased in richly wrought walnut, corresponding well with the architecture of the building. There are fifty-four pews, plainly but neatly made".

In 1847, a bell was installed in the bellfry with the inscription "Hooper Bell Co. - I Sing for the Living, I cry for the dead". In 1854 the first of four pipe organs was installed and was credited as being the largest west of St. Louis. The present organ utilizes the 1901 Pfeffer organ pipes.

In 1867 the church grounds were graded and enclosed with a new fence. Renovations at that date include window remodeling and installation of stained glass, a center aisle and gothic tracery in the chancel - A small cellar was excavated.

An 1876 fire damaged the vestry room. In 1885 sanctuary changes included the removal of the choir gallery, erection of an organ chamber on the north side, vestry room transformed into a recessed chancel, a new vestry room added to the south of the altar and a choir room built on the north wall.

In 1929 a large parish room was added as a north extension. Since 1970 minor redecorations were undertaken and the exterior brick walls were sandblasted and tuckpointed.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 2 story main block appears to be brick under the stucco. By 1900 the 2 story gable ell on the NW which extends to the W and a 2 story addition on the S bay of the W facade were already present. The NW ell is 3 bays and extends 1 bay to the N. This N bay is an entrance on both levels facing E. There is a pent frame porch at the 1st. story which also affords protection to a entrance to the main block on the N. On the primary (E) facade there are entrances on both levels, which forms the (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Structure was site of Adelphai College for women between 1840 till after 1869, under the direction of J.L. Tracy, students from Missouri and other states received schooling in arts, sciences, mathematics, music, medical and moral philosophy. In 1855 Rev. R.E. Terry became Director, followed by Mrs. Jessie Main in 1869. By 1900 the building housed the Dunkin Sanitarium. By 1910 it was converted into a dwelling, probably apartments. Past owners of the building are Epstein and Jack Hasselbalch.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment, facing E onto 4th. St. The yard slopes to the rear to allow for a walk out basement. On the alley to the W at the NW corner of the lot, is a 1½ story, vertical board and batten barn. It's gable roof has roll roofing. It has a pent addition to the S.

Windows are 1-over-1 or 6-over-6 and have frame or stone sills. Most headers are obscured by the stucco. On the frame sections the headers are trabeated.
The S bay of the E facade has a 1 story addition, like an extended bay window. This was added c. 1910-20.
The W facade indicates several additions, a buff-colored 1 bay pent addition off of the NW corner and a screened, frame, pent porch on the SW of the ell. On the W of the 2 story frame addition is a 1 story pent roofed frame addition and a screened in porch.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure combines the newer bungaloid affinities with the strong Missouri German tradition. This is especially evident in the window motifs - 4-over-1 panes with double rowlock segmentally arched headers. Some windows are paired, all have concrete sills. There is a pent roof porch on the W which has, a molded concrete block foundation, piers, and columns. A brick balustrade is between the piers. There are entrances on the N & S facades.

43 History and Significance Noble Geiger, who operated Geiger Plumbing Company, resided in the house during the 1920's.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a slight embankment, facing W onto 4th. Street. An asphalt drive to the S of the structure leads from 4th to the 1 outbuilding located at the SE corner of the residence. It is a frame, gable roofed garage with its door to the W. Covered with clapboarding, the gable end to the street is done in a pedimented raking pattern.

42 Further Description of Important Features The gable end is to the street. A large chimney is in the center of the structure and is slightly N of the ridge. The E facade has an integral porch on the SE which is screened-in. The S facade is 3 bays deep, the N is 2 bays. Windows are 6-over-6 and have lightly molded frame surrounds. To the NW there is a pent ell with a pent screened-in porch along its S facade. This porch sits on brick piers with lattice work between.

43 History and Significance Originally large outbuildings in the SW corner of the property were used as "Wagon Sheds." By 1929 this had been converted to a residence and listed as 617½. This structure has been razed. The structure was probably built for Sam Holland as his residence. Holland owned and operated a "luggage delivery" business and the sheds were used to house his horses and wagons. The present lot is comprised of lots 17 and rear "L" shaped portion (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The residence sits below the street level facing E onto 4th. An ornate iron fence is along this facade and a picket fence is to the N & S. The yard continues to stoop to the W alley and allows for a walk out type basement.

42 Further Description of Important Features The symmetric structure had a chimney at the gable end (N&S), however the N one has been removed. Gable ends also have returns. The primary (E) facade has a central entrance which is inset, and has a stained glass transom and sidelights, and a slightly pedimented stone lintel. This lintel has block labels and is similar to those on the Walter Williams House. The 2nd. story entrance has a flat arch header and a frame and wrought iron balcony. The cornice is boxed. Windows are generally (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The original portion of the structure is retained as the rear NW 2 rooms. The basement of this section served as the kitchen. The property abstract indicates that this original section was built for approximately $300. The structure was purchased in 1843 by Bennett C. Clark. Clark, the son of R.P.Clark, was possibly the first white child born in Cooper County after its organization, served the county in many capacities: Circuit (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the front of the lot facing E onto 4th. Street. A concrete drive leads from 4th to the attached garage on the N. There are no outbuildings. The yard slopes down to the alley on the W.

6-over-6, shuttered, and have soldier course, flat arch headers and frame sills. The S facade has small stained glass windows flanking the chimney. There is a 1 story gable ell on the S bay of the W facade. It has 3 bays plus an attic dormer to the S and a pent roofed enclosed porch on the N. On the N facade is a new, concrete block, gabled addition which has a garage and a single leaf entrance to the E., and wraps around the NW corner to form a pent addition on the W.

43. (cont.) Clerk, 1841-53; Secretary of the Cooper County Delegation at the 1855 Lexington, Mo. pro-slavery convention; County Court Judge, 1858-62; and Probate Judge, 1878-86. In 1848 the structure was purchased by Christian Keill as his residence. Keill, served as County Treasurer, 1865-70, Justice of the Peace, and Agent of the Boonville Wine Co. Keill is credited with erecting the front addition of the structure which was built 6" beyond the S property boundary sometime before 1871 when it was sold to John L. O'Bryan, a local realtor. In 1881, Fannie Stephens, a recent widow of Boonville financier J.L. Stephens, purchased the house as her residence. In 1906 it sold at a Sheriff's sale to John Cosgrove, a U.S. Senator. Under Cosgrove's ownership the structure became rental property and was the residence of a Varney and an Oerly. In 1946 the present owner, Lawrence (Mike) Angelo purchased the structure and during his ownership many alterations were completed including the frame addition (1950), lowering of ceilings (1965), and the installation of the stained glass windows flanking the living room fireplace, which were retrieved from the "old Whitlow home on Main St." Mr. Angelo is the owner of Mike Angelo Printing and Litho. Inc., Boonville.

42 Further Description of Important Features Suspect this may be a Queen Anne Cottage which has been modernized. There is a projecting rectangular bay on the N and the E has a chamfered 1 story bay which has attenuated 1-over-1 windows, but now has a pent cap. The roof line has been altered so that the gable end faces the street, creating an integral porch on the SE corner which has arched openings. Two entrances are in this area, as well as an entrance on the S facade which has a concrete stoop and a pent cap. On the W is a gable ell on N (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The Structure sits on portion of 10 acre pasture land once owned by David Barton between 1830-33. Nathaniel W. Mack purchased the pasture and developed it into Mack's addition to the city of Boonville in 1842. Mack retained ownershop of this structures property lot 20 till his death in 1876. Executors of his estate sold the lot in 1878 to William C. Scott, "an early freighter of merchandise from Boonville to Southwestern Missouri in the days of the steamboat" in 1878. Additional owners have been: James Q. Rangland - (see attached)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 4th. St. The rear yard drops off to the W alley creating a walk out basement level. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance Structure is believed to have been built by C.W. Nixon, a local realtor, for his granddaughter, Mary Turner. In 1926 the structure sold to Oscar J. Schlotzhauer. A subsequent owner was John Youst, 1929. The present owners obtained their residence in 1936 and during their ownership have added a new kitchen, renovated bathroom, added siding and constructed a new front porch (c. 1965), and a garage (1978). 710 and 712 4th St. are nearly identical in plan and date.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 4th. Street. There is a frame 1 car garage with a gable roof to the NE of the property.

43 History and Significance The structure was the residence of Dr. White, who ran a clinic here in the early 1920's. Between the middle 1920's through the 1940's it was the residence of the Winn family. Afterwards it was the residence of the J. Hirsch and Ben Trout families. The present owner purchased the residence one year ago after his long term superintendentship of the Walnut Grove Cemetery.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 4th. The rear yard slopes downward.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure appears today as it did by 1910, but seems to have been reworked before that date, leaving the appearance of the original in question. Currently there is a pent porch across the W facade, which has wrought iron columns. The N bay of it has been altered into a room. Extending to the E, S bay, is a gable ell with an entrance to the S,& a 1920's pent addition to the NE.

Photo

43 History and Significance Originally the dwelling was a 3 room structure. Oral history indicates that an early owner Sallie Robertson was in residence at this location from 1913 to 1942. The present owner obtained the dwelling in 1942 and has added a new roof, window frames and siding.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment facing W onto 4th. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The small rectangular rear section is the original. Exposed windows to the N have rowlock lintels, but have the later 3-over-1 lights. The later front section is L shaped and has 3-over 1 windows which have no headers. A pent porch is at the SE corner and caps the entrance and 1 bay. On the N facade the boxed cornice of the original structure is continued along the eave of the new section; other facades have a plain wood frieze which rakes at the gable ends. To the S of the rear section is a later frame pent roofed addition.

Photo

43 History and Significance The Structure in 1869 was the residence of Wilson W. Trent, who surveyed Cooper County. By 1873, it was owned by Emil Jesrich followed by E.D. Hix ca. 1878. W.W. Trent retained ownership in the early 1950's. Mrs. Virginia Burckhart was an owner during the 1950's and 60's.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 4th. Street. There are no outbuildings. An alley is to the W.

43 History and Significance This house has been owned by Henry Wassman, a house painter, from c. 1950 to the present. He lived in the house from c. 1950 to c. 1960. For a short time afterward his son lived in the house and since that time it has been rental property. A fire several years ago damaged the interior, but it has been repaired.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NE corner of 4th & Walnut Streets, facing W. There is an embankment to the W where a concrete block garage is built at street level.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The primary facade (E) is embellished by a projecting rectangular bay (N) which has a gable cap with skews and fishscale and jigsaw shingles, and a circular corner tower (S). The central entrance has an ornate surround with fluted pilasters and wide entablature. Windows are generally 1/1, attenuated and shuttered. Some are paired. The S facade has a 1 story pent roofed, rectangular bay window and a basement level garage entrance. Extending (cont.)

43 History and Significance
Abstract indicates that the structure was built by Alfred D. Howard as his residence in 1891 but was lost by mortgage default in 1905. In 1907 it was purchased by Martha E. Varnum and remained in the Varnum family till 1937 when it was purchased by Ben Smith Sr., an abstractor and realtor, as his residence. During this ownership "modernization" took place and the structure lost much of its architectural integrity. In 1978, Mark Van Patten bought the residence and because of a vocational transfer sold it to Gary Schroeder (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The residence sits on the NW corner of 4th and Walnut Sts., facing E onto 4th. There is an alley to the W and a ground level garage to the S. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

42. (cont.) to the W is a 1 story pent roofed addition (N bay) and a pent roofed enclosed porch (S bay). The front facade has recently been painted and restored. Interior features include hardwood floors, 9½ foot ceilings, and a mahogany newel-balustrade at the staircase. Mahogany is also used to accent the fireplace mantle. The rear addition is a master bedroom added c. 1937.

43. (cont.) in 1979. The Schroeders are currently restoring the structure's exterior. The Schroeder residence sits on the site of a previous dwelling that was in existence from 1847 to 1891.

42 Further Description of Important Features The gable end is to the street, rafters are open. Gable caps are over the 2 entrances on the primary (S) facade. There is an entrance to the W with a frame stoop and steps and a garage entrance at the basement level. Windows are 1-over-1, some are paired. These motifs are repeated on the E except the basement entrance is a single leaf entrance. The structure was remodeled in 1945 into 2 apartments, both sides have identical floor plans. There are no fireplaces.

43 History and Significance The structure was constructed by Richard R. Thompson, a carpenter, as his residence in 1855 or shortly thereafter. Thompson remained in the carpenter trade until 1864 when he opened an undertaking business in a building on the East side of Main St. west of the Court House. In 1889 the house and 3 lots sold to Charles Hofmeister, a saloon keeper who operated the Phoenix Saloon and later built the Queen Anne structure on lot 84 (611 E. High St.) in 1896. In that year it sold to John Brokmeyer, son of merchant-builder, C.H. Brokmeyer. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits to the E of 6th St. where it dead ends N of High St.. The yard drops off to the N and the structure has a grand view of the river. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) In 1900 the structure was sold to Frank Swap, a painter and photographer who was associated for many years with the Tanner photography studio. Swap had an interest in recording the architecture of Boonville and many of his original photographs survive and are part of the Boonville collection at the Missouri Historical Society with copies in the Friends of Historic Boonville's Archives. In 1920 Angus Swap, Frank's son, purchased the residence and built his carpenter shop on the west end of the property. This has since become a duplex (also listed as 104 6th St.). Swap lost his home in 1934 by default and it was then purchased by Arthur and Hazel Swap. Subsequent owners have been Frank Fable (1943), William Paine (1949), Warren L. Moore (1953), Lewis Ross (1964) and James Dey (1969). The present owner, who purchased the residence in 1977, arrived in Boonville in 1976 and purchased the Toennes Photography studio. He is a professional photographer located at 601 Main St.

42. (cont.) The structure is almost a piano nobile style. The brick foundation on the NW corner indicates that this part of the pent ell, which now extends across the full length of the N facade, was the original section. A walk-out basement entrance on this facade gives access to the basement apartment. The structure is accented by a boxed cornice on the S and an ornately corbelled chimney cap. There are no current fireplaces. Clapboarding remains under the siding. Interior ceilings are 10 feet. The structure in 1885 did not have the W bay yet, however it was added by 1892.

43 History and Significance Abstract indicates structure was built in 1896 by W.F. & Ida Howard who subdivided their original town lot number 85 and built this structure in the northern 60 ft. and 85 ft. section. The Howards resided in the lot's southern portion 603 E. High at the time. Subsequent ownership is as follows William J. Hirlinger (owner-operator of "Boss" Hirlingers confectionary on Main Street) - 1905; Frances L. Hirlinger - 1947; Carl Grigsby - 1974; Truman Schler - 1978.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment facing W onto 6th. St. A herringbone brick walk is along the front (W) property line. A gravel drive (alley) on the N leads to the 1 outbuilding, a pent roof, vertical board and batten garage to the NE of the residence.

42 Further Description of Important Features Windows are 1-over-1. The primary entrance has a gable cap with knee braces and a raised frame stoop. On the E is a pent addition with a pent enclosed porch extending further to the E. The building is attached to 212 on the N facade., however the buildings have 2 distinct rooflines. The interior floor plan was changed in 1969 to 4 rooms and a bath, and a back porch was added. Renovation was done by Elmer Gerhart. The living room ceiling was lowered to 10'. Doorways have wide doors (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Ownership of property was the same as 212 6th. Street till 1921 when it was sold to Sarah Kesterson (1853-1935) a dressmaker who had rented the house for many years. In 1925 her daughter, Martha (1873-1950), Boonville's first telephone operator purchased the property and gave it to the First Christian Church in 1944. In 1950 it sold to John Schieberl who willed it to Mayme & Ida Stretz. In 1966, it was again sold to John Stegner who sold it to Charles and Avis Eagon.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. A fence divides the properties to the E. An alley is to the S. The residence sits immediately on the sidewalk and faces W onto 6th. Street. A 4 room house behind this structure was razed 1967.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a dog trot plan with a central hall, the structure has been added onto several times, with each new section having a different floor level. The primary facade (W) has a 2 bay pent roofed porch which has Eastlake post. Its roofline indicates that the original porch had a pediment over the entrance bay. Its tin roof and this gable were removed in 1972. The entrance has a transom which has been closed in. Windows are 1-over-1 and are attenuated. On the E facade there is a gable ell to the N bay (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Original structure contains two later additions. A past owner was Laura Stegner. Present owners added a new roof in 1977.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the front property line of the 37' X 85' lot. An alley is to the N. At the NE corner of the fenced rear lot is a new metal storage shed. It has a gambriel roof. The residence sits close to 222 6th. Street on the S.

42. (cont.) which has a 1 bay pent addition on its E, and a open pent roofed porch on its S facade. The S bay of the main block has a pent addition. Structurally the house has square nails. Rafters of unfinished white pine use a mortise and tendon construction. Some of the framing and clapboarding on the rear ell may be walnut. The house was rewired in 1970-71. In 1977 a new roof which covered the original wood shingles and insulation were added.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a 2/3rds plan, the entrance and the hall are the S bay of the W facade. The entrance has a transom Windows are 1-over-1 and are attenuated. Openings are trabeated. The gutters are boxed and the cornice rakes on the gable ends. An East-lake porch extends across the W facade. It is raised on brick piers, has a pent roof, wrought iron now forms the balustrade. There is an ell on the N bay of the E. facade which was added by 1900. A pent porch with a concrete foundation is to the S of this ell. (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The house sits on the site of the Mansion House Tavern in operation in 1845 and built between 1838-42 existing perhaps as late as 1868. The house was built by Charles W. Sombart to fit on a 1/3 lot, as speculation and not as his own residence. The 1885 Sanborn Map notes its existance and present floor plan. In 1898 Charles W. Sombart purchased the house from the estate of his father. In 1906 Raphall Overshiner gained possession for one year, and sold it back to Charles Sombart. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the front of the lot, facing W onto 6th. Street and sitting close to 218 on the N and a brick garage on the S. The 1 outbuilding is a small metal shed.

42. (cont.) In 1964 part of this was enclosed to form a bedroom. There is a basement under the ell; the original block has only a crawl space. On the interior there are no fireplaces and millwork is of pine with Eastlake motifs including a bull's eye detail. The baseboards are wide. Interior doors have transoms. The entrance hall does not lead to the rear ell, but dead ends.

43. (cont.) In 1923 Sombart gave the home to his daughter and son-in-law, Monte Coulter who sold the house later that year to Charles and Clara Rider. Clara Rider continued to reside in the house till she sold it to the present owners in 1956.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building has an entrance into the showroom on its SE corner. Large plate glass windows wrap around this area. Black glass tile accents the area below these windows. The entrance has a metal canopy. To the W of this entrance on the S facade are other single leaf entrances and a centrally located garage door. Blcok glass and aluminum siding embellish this area. The E facade has large multipane windows and a centrally located overhead door. The S & E facades are capped by a stepped parapet with a tile (Attachment)

43 History and Significance In 1900 this lot was open and was used as a mule yard By 1910 The Star Dome Summer Theatre was on the lot. A large stage ran N&S on the W side of the lot, a ticket office was at the SE corner, the picture machine was along the E facade, and a high fence was along the N side. The present building appeared by 1917 and had a capacity for 25 cars. It was listed as a garage having cement floors, iron columns with 22'foot centers. Alterations occured by 1929 which allowed for 50 cars (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits at the NW corner of 6th and Morgan. It is along the sidewalk and consumes the whole corner. Other buildings associated with the company at NW of it along Court Street, and on 6th Street. These are both under individual listings. There are no outbuildings as such. A gravel parking lot is to the N.

42. (cont) coping. Below this is a 2 level belt course. The top level is a soldier course sawtooth-patterned brickwork; the lower level is a rowlock sawtooth course. This follows the line of the parapet. Blue and wide plastic signs including "Burkle," "Service" and several rectangular panels are located in this parapet area. There are no openings on the N facade. There are large skylights on the roof.

43 (cont.) and tile walls divided the SE corner into an auto sales area. The present gravel lot on the NE had buildings as early as 1892 which were used as a wagon and carriage builders shop and dwelling. In 1910 they were altered to a machine shop and in 1929 as an auto repair center.

The building was constructed by the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. in 1916 for Mr. Brownfield to use as Brownfield's Garage (car sales and repairs and also partial assembly of Model T's shipped in crates by rail to Boonville). Brownfield sold the building to Jacob Meyer, who also used it for auto sales and repairs. A.E. Burkle bought the building in 1942 and used it for Ford Sales and Service. He made various structural changes in the 1940's which included raising the ceiling and enlarging the windows in the showroom.

43 History and Significance Built as an armory in 1928, the building served this purpose until 1949 when the new armory was built. Clem Lauer operated a Pontiac dealership and garage here from 1949 to 1954. From 1954 to 1955, Clark's Recapping and Tire Co. used the building as part of their business (office was across the street at 6th & Morgan). From 1955 to 1963, Scott Buick/ Cadillac/ Pontiac was there. The City of Boonville began using the building in 1964 as the Central Garage. The present owner purchased the building from Earl Brownfield in 1979.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the street at the SW corner of Morgan and Sixth Street. It has a common wall with G & W Supply to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure appears currently as a series (3) of buildings, however there is evidence that they were originally interconnected. The corner (N) structure has a stepped parapet on the N & NW and a high parapet on the W. This has a 2 course cornice: A top dentil course with a sawtooth pattern below. Windows are attenuated, 2-over-2 with most having a 3 rowlock course ashlar brick, segmentally arched header and frame lug sills. On the (W) primary facade 1st floor from N to S, is a single leaf (attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The large building presently containing the businesses of 308,310, and 312 Sixth Street was originally built as a three sectioned livery stable for a United States Calvary Unit. Oral history indicated that 308 Sixth Street contained Pat Fitzpatric's Livery Stable, c 1929; F. Fredrick Implement, c 1930's; Marshall-Boonville-Moberly (MBM) Bus Line, F. Fredrick proprietor, 1942-43; Dub Clark's General Tire and Service 1950's-1960's; Rex Rains' Worm Farm. At present it contains storage area for Cecil (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The 3 structures sit close to the street and face W onto 6th. The N building is at the corner of 6th and Morgan. An alley is to the S. There are no outbuildings. A large metal and plastic "General Tire" sign remains at the NW corner of the building.

42. (cont.) entrance with a transom, a newer rectangular window, an semi-circular arched double wide entrance, a window, and a semi-circular fan light window, which was originally a entrance as indicated by altered brick work beneath it and a drive leading up to it from 6th. Street. On the N facade 1st. floor from W to E is a large new rectangular window, a window, a semi-circular double entrance, a window and a arched entrance which has diagonal panels, and is capped by a segmentally arched header which springs from the impost level. The E facade indicates a link between this stone and the one immediately to the S. The E facade extends across both structures without a break. Windows on both levels are small square ones with segmentally arched headers. The rowlock brick is not ashlar type. Each section has 4 bays.

The W facade of this center section is on newer brick and has 3 bays composed of large windows and a large overhead door on the 1st. story. Windows have corbelled brick sill, but no headers. The parapet is continued, but at a lower level and with a rowlock coping. The Southernmost structure repeats the older brick construction and a stepped parapet with a stretcher coping. The 1st floor has a large 6 part window with a concrete sill, but no header, a single leaf entrance with flanking window panels and a transom, and a single leaf entrance with a segmentally arched header and which leads to the 2nd. floor.

The second story has 1-over-1 windows with rowlock sills and a rowlock course, segmentally arched header. The S facade has 6-over-6 windows immediately under the eaves which have a rowlock segmentally arched headers and rowlock sills. An addition to the E is of tile and has a garage door entrance to the S. On the E it has 5 1st. story windows which are 6-over-6 and have frame lintels and sills.

This S section is currently used as a furniture display room and has an interior entrance into the center section, used as a warehouse. The common walls indicate large arched 1st floor openings and several bricked-in windows. This may indicate that the original structure was linked to this area in some ways.

The N structure is now vacant, but has been sand blasted during 1979.

43. (cont.) Johnston's Tree Service, and Lammers Vending Company, Charles Lammers proprietor. 310 Sixth Street was renovated in 1948 by the addition of a new front and steel trusses. Presently it is rented by George Derindinger as a warehouse for Outlet Furniture.

312 Sixth Street remained a U.S. Calvary Stable till 1929 at which time it was used as an armory garage. 1900-1930's Otto Aehle operated a small business manufacturing buggy tops and later roadster tops on the second floor. During the early 1940's to 1948 it was rented by Leo Brummel for his Willies Agency. Between 1948-1954 Kenneth Esser owned and operated the Esser Motor Company, a dealership of Willies and Hudson Automobiles. In 1954 the Outlet Furniture Co. developed under the ownership of Judd Wasco. George Derindinger purchased the business in 1970 and continues to operate it.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building is capped by a spindle balustrade with an eagle and crest on the center front facade (S). Also accenting the structure are modillions at the eaves, quoins, and semi-circular arched lintels. The transom areas are filled with stone and embellished with a crest and floral motif. The raised basement has slightly segmented windows and it is accented by a stone water table. The S facade has the primary entrance double leaf doors with concrete steps leading up to them. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The building was originally built as a U.S. Post Office until the new modern style Post Office was built across the street, ca 1960's. At that time the United Missouri Bank Inc. bought the building and donated it to the City of Boonville with the understanding that the adjacent parking lot was to be used for bank customers. The property on which City Hall sits was once known as "Dr. Berger's property." The house was purchased by George Viertel, a liveryman, in 1899, and was in their possession when purchased by the (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits on the NW corner of 6th & Spring Streets facing S onto Spring. There is an alley and parking to the N, an alley to the W., and an asphalt parking lot to the E which is for the United Mo. Bank.

42 Further Description of Important Features: The structure consists of a series of buildings. On the N is a hip roofed square frame structure which has an entrance set at an angle at its NW corner. A gabled central section is sheathed in metal but appears to be an older section, as indicated by window treatment. The S end appears to be new. It too is sheathed in metal. It has large glass display windows on the W & S and an entrance to the W.

43 History and Significance: Extending along this block from about 1900-1929 was Bill Burgers Concrete Block Factory and Cement Warehouse. The N section of this building was listed as an office. By 1929 the angled entrance appeared and the structure became the office of the Davis Construction Company founded in 1922. From 1974-1978 the building was vacant. In 1979 alterations took place, and the building now contains a drug store.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The structure sits close to the street on the SE corner of 6th & Spring. The section used as the drugstore faces W onto 6th. A clinic is to the S. and an asphalt parking area is to the E. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance In 1917 the buildings in this area were used as a Concrete Block Factory and cement warehouse. By 1929, the building and open lot to the NE were used by a Contractor's Equipment Company. Recent alterations destroyed the integrity of the buildings previous style and function. From 1900 till 1929 the buildings in this area were part of a Concrete Block Factory and Cement Warehouse operated by Bill Burger. In 1922 the Davis Construction Company purchased the building and renamed it after (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The structure sits close to the street (facing W onto 6th. St.) and to the alley on the S. On the N is an asphalt covered parking lot.

43. (cont.) G.J. Stoelting, general superintendent. The company, founded by Wade Davis, was involved in grading, graveling and construction of concrete highways and bridges in Missouri, Arkansas and Illinois. In 1936 it employed 700 men and for many years ranked "third or fourth among Missouri road construction firms in the amount of contracts fulfilled." In 1936, the Company was sold to Colonel R.A. Johnson, with the company name being retained. Recent alterations (1978) completed by the Boonville Medical Group for offices and examining rooms has destroyed the integrity of the buildings previous style and function.

42 Further Description of Important Features The central section running E & W has a gable roof and a raised frame parapet to the W. This was originally a drive through area. There are small attic windows along the N & S facades. Also along these areas are 1 story pent roofed additions. These are divided into several sections, originally used for different types of lumber and materials. Rafters are open. Windows are 1-over-1 or 6-over-6. On the E facade is an office area with a single leaf door and flanking windows toward the N, a large (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This area was a deep ravine without any buildings until c 1910 when a small frame Carpenter's Shop and a "Crusher's HD" were built along 6th. Street in this area. Between 1917 and 1929 the present structure was built along 6th. Street to house Heying and Sons Lumber Co. Oral history indicates that the building was next owned by Lon Wendleton and was utilized as a lumber yard and heavy equipment dealership. Next it was owned by Olie Johnson and became the Brady Feed Store. Johnston's widow inherited (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings, however small metal elevators are to the NE of the structure, but listed seperately. Powell Court is to the E, Chestnut is to the N and there is a gravel drive to the S. The structure faces W onto 6th. Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is the Butler building type. The front facade (W) has vertical board and batten metal; the sides and roof are corrugated metal. The W facade has a single leaf entrance and 2 windows with a metal awning. There are no openings to the N. The S has louvered windows and 2 sliding doors. The section to the E has a pent roof and is at a lower level.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure sits on the site of a black church, 6th St. Baptist Church. This church appears on the 1885 Sanborn. In 1892, the church appears again with a school house immediately to the N. The school had been altered to a dwelling and both it and the church appear on the 1900 Map. The structures were razed to make way for a mule barn listed on the site in 1910. Another change took place prior to 1929, for at that time the structure was listed as a Flour Warehouse. This building was later razed. Zeitlow Mfg. Co. is involved (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the street facing W onto 6th Street. A gravel drive is to the N & S with a gravel area to the rear (E) which is used as an equipment storage and display area.

43 History and Significance This house and the house at 512 6th were built by J.M. Jegglin, an early Boonville potter, in the 1860's as residences for the potters he employed. Jegglin's daughter, Bertha, married Edward Stegner in 1899 and they resided in the house at 512 6th until 1924. The Stegners have owned both properties from that time to the present, but now they are both rental properties.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 6th. Street. A gravel drive is to the N. The rear yard drops off to the E where Powell Court runs N & S. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance Previous owners include Mr. & Mrs. Edward Stegner. Mr. Stegner owned and operated J.A Stegner and Sons Store, selling groceries, hardware, and wooden ware beginning on 1881. This house and the house at 510 6th St. were built by J.M. Jegglin, an early Boonville potter, in the 1860's as a residence for the potters he employed. Jegglin's daughter, Bertha, married Edward Stegner in 1899 and they resided here until 1924 at which time they moved to 1307 6th St. Both 510 & 512 have been rental properties since that time.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 6th. The yard slopes down to Powell Court on the E. and allows for the basement level to be above ground on the E. There is 1 outbuilding, a frame 1 car garage off of Powell Court. It has vertical board siding.

42. (cont.) Windows in the 1st addition are paired and are 2-over-2; those in the 2nd section are 6-over-6; all have concrete sills. Extending across the W facade of the main block and along the S facade of the additions is a frame pent porch. It has lattice ends and a concrete floor. Each of the additions has an entrance. Chimneys are at the center interior of the main block and at the W end of the additions. Both additions and the rear porches were built before 1885.

43. (cont.) City of Boonville (1936-1952) who presently resides at 601 Spruce St.

Oral history relates that 4 or 5 Bushwackers were killed in an old barn that used to occupy the site of the present brick garage on this property.

42 Further Description of Important Features From the construction it is not clear how much of the original structure is incorporated into this structure. The primary (E) facade has an entrance inset into the NE corner, 1st story. To the S of this is a large 3-part window. This whole section sits on a molded concrete block foundation which has 2 raised basement windows with extended soldier course lintels. One window on the porch, all those on the S facade, and several on the N & W facades have been boarded or bricked up. A 2nd story (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance In 1917 a structure on this site, was listed as a Tin Shop, however by 1929 alterations had made it into the current structure, a dwelling. The present owner purchased the structure from Charles Hirlinger, Jr. In 1977 alterations again took place that converted the four bedrooms into three on the 2nd. floor, removal of rear balcony, installation of dropped ceilings, paneling, and window removal were done on first story. During this alteration, Leonard Imhoff resided within. The present renter is Mrs. Beatrice Friedrich.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the sidewalk, facing E onto 6th. Street. It sits close to 525-27 on the S. The rear yard is small and has a patio and palisade fence. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance This property was owned from at least the 1860's until 1970 by the Hirlinger family. Previous to their ownership it had been owned by a Durringer or Derringer. The first Hirlinger to own the property was Erhardt Hirlinger who established a wagon factory there which operated from the 1860's until the 1890's. The property then passed to Erhardt's son, Charles E. Hirlinger, and then to his son, Frank Hirlinger, who added a painting shop and later a tin shop to the business. About 1910 the building was remodeled into apartments. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits immediately at the sidewalks at the NW corner of 6th & Vine, facing E onto 6th. It sits close to 623 6th. on the N. There is a small rear yard and no outbuilding.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The original structure was built with Gothic motifs, however the new W facade gives a vernacular feeling to it. The original structure had a wooden tower 15' above the 18' eaves. By 1892 it had an addition to the rear which has been removed. The alteration lines are still evident on this facade, however the original rear wall still retains a large circular window at the attic level. It is set off by a rowlock course. Several basement windows have been bricked in. There are 2 rear chimneys. On the N (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance
The structure was built by the German Methodist Church in 1852 as their church building at a cost of $1,200. The church remained in existence until c. 1915 when it was purchased by Prof. C.H. Dunkle and renovated to become Dunkle Business School. It received local notoriety as the place where many of Cooper County's businessmen received their education. In 1945 it was purchased by the Foursquare Gospel Church. Organized in 1934, the congregation of 56 charter members met for 3 months in a tent on the NE corner of Main and Locust Sts. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure sits at the SE corner of 6th & Vine, facing W onto 6th. Street. An alley and gravel parking area is to the rear (E). There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) facade there is a walk out basement entrance and several windows; all have segmentally arched double rowlock headers. Windows are 6-over-6. On the 1st story there are 4 gothic windows with raised brick hoodmolds. Tracery accents the stained glass windows. The 2nd. story also has 4 windows, but with segmentally arched, double rowlock headers. The parapet is stepped and has tile copings; buttresses are at the corners. The S. facade echoes the N. Several basement windows are bricked in. The W primary facade is on a concrete foundation which has a buff brick veneer. The frame 1 & 2nd stories are covered with asbestos shingles, and angles out at the top.

43. (cont.) Between 1934 and 1939 they leased 518 Vine St. and between 1939 and 1945 they worshiped in a house located in the 900 block of 7th St. In 1956 the Church removed the frame addition to the rear of the church which had been used as an apartment house and built the front addition which is composed of the pastor's office, nursery, Sunday School and restrooms.

42 Further Description of Important Features A dentil brick work cornice on the W facade is obscured by a later 1 story porch which has wide eaves and molded concrete clock foundation, piers, columns and balustrade. The central entrance has a 5 light transom, pilasters and sidelights. Windows are generally 6-over-6 with wood sills and soldier course lintels. There is a gable ell on the N bay of the E facade and a pent addition, which may be original on the S bay. This pent area has another pent addition and a flat roofed (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The property was owned from 1861-66 by Joseph Stephens who resided at the ajoining property at 612 6th. Street. An owner prior to the present was the Sherby family. The present owner hopes to sell the house that is currently vacant.

This residence is part of 3 homes which all reflect the strong brick construction tradition and the 1860's streetscape. This one is a fine example of the Missouri German style and is significant architecturally on the local level.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The yard slopes down to the E alley allowing for a walk-out basement area to the rear. The structure sits at the front of the lot facing W onto 6th. Street. To the NE is an outbuilding, a pent roofed, vertical board shed. There is an ornate iron fence across the front (W) property line.

42 Further Description of Important Features The irregular plan typical of the Queen Anne style. On the primary (E) facade is a projecting ell on the N which is chamfered and has sawtooth shingles and stickwork detail in the gable end, brackets at the eaves and cornice brackets with pendents. The entrance is in the center section in a rectangular projecting bay. It has double doors and a segmental transom. On the S bay is a circular bay with a bell shaped roof and which repeats the brackets of the NE. An L shaped porch extends from (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Oral history relates that house may have been built for or by a Mr. Ames, a merchant who operated a store on NE corner of Main and Spring during the 1890's. The original frame porch was remodeled to the present cement porch between 1905-10 under the ownership of "Miss Lizzie and Anna Viertel". In 1936, the house was sold to George Viertel and his daughter Vance, who converted the house into 3 apartments. Upon the death of Mr. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment with a concrete wall and faces E onto 6th. St. A gabled, board and batten outbuilding is immediately to the W of the structure. On the alley to the W is a brick 1½ story hip roofed structure, "cowstable" built c. 1892. Its W facade has 2 stall type openings with segmentally (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) the chamfered bay to the circular bay. There is a pediment over the entrance. Molded concrete block forms the foundation, piers, balustrade, and newels with ball finials at the base of the steps. Porch columns are chamfered wood posts. On this primary facade openings have straight side arched hoodmolds of smooth brick texture. Openings on the other facades have soldier or double rowlock segmentally arched headers. Windows are 1-over -1, some are shuttered and some appear to have the original sliding louvered interior shutters. There are pent and hip dormers on the S & N facades. A projecting rectangular bay is on N. There are several brick additions to the rear, the 1st one added c. 1910. These give an elongated form to the structure.

43. (cont.) Viertel, Vance bought her father's ½ interest from the estate. Mrs. Vance Viertel-Davis remains the owner. Present renters are Mary Young and Juanita Tuttle.

44. (cont.) arched headers and an attic opening. To the S. are wood folding garage doors and a gable roofed open carport.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original house was Greek Revival style with 3 rooms and a large hall way on each floor-ground level and main level and an open porch on the south and east on the main level. An open outside stairway sheltered by the porch roof provided the only access from the lower to the upper level, except for the steps leading to the front entrance. The lower level opened on the brick paved patio at the rear. The original kitchen was the front northwest room on ground level. A cistern was near the outside door (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance Previous owners of the property include: Absalom Ream, Marcus Williams, Messers. Holman and Ormrod, W.E, Thompson Andrew Adams, Joseph L. Stephens, Julius Sombart, (founder of Sombart Mills Co. - c. 1869.) Sombart heirs, Earl and Amber Powell, Inez & Wilbur Stewart and John & Margaret England. Lon V. Stephens, 30th. govenor of Missouri (1896-1900) was born in this house in 1856 while it was owned by his father Joseph. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence, facing East, sits close to the North border of lot 11. Behind and to the S is a 2 bay, 1 story brick structure built at the same time as the house as a slave quarters or summer kitchen (probably the former).

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is built on a 2/3rds. plan with the entrance as its N bay, E facade. This entrance which is inset appears to have paneled exterior doors which fold back into the inset. Pilasters with a wide ornate entablature with brackets surround the door. Ornate cast iron hoodmolds with a scroll pattern and shell keystones, and brackets at the eaves accent the front facade. The raised basement windows have soldier course flat arch headers. A brick section added to the W extends to the N 1 bay. (see attachment)

43 History and Significance House was built in 1853 by Jacob S McFaddin, allegedly by slave labor with bricks made on the lot. Original owner formed partnership in clothing and tailoring business known as McFadden and Griffin which was in operation during 1850's-1870's period. It is believed that after the original structure was built those additional rooms were built singly as need and accounts for the elongated design. The current owners have raised a roof in rear portion developing an upstairs bedroom. Conversions have been made to (attachment)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 6th. Street. At the alley to the W is a pole barn used as a double car port. A gravel parking area is also along the alley.

43 History and Significance This house was built by Louis Roeder in 1905 as his residence. Louis Roeder, son of George Roeder who established a wagon making business in Boonville in 1860 at the SW corner of 6th and Spring Sts., worked in the family business, Roeder & Son, up to 1906 when his father died at which time he entered into partnership with George Weyland under the name Roeder and Weyland. Roeder's daughter, Lola, married Gillis Windsor who entered into partnership with Weyland following Roeder's death in 1940. The firm then became Weyland and (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment with molded concrete block wall and faces E onto 6th. Street. Along the W alley is a board and batten pent roofed shed to the N and a 2 car brick pent roofed garage to the S. This last structure has a stepped parapet, a rowlock segmentally arched opening to the N and garage doors to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has returns at the gable end (N & S). The entrance on the E facade is centrally located and is afforded protection by a 3 bay porch which is raised on brick piers and has a lattice skirting. It has chamfered wood columns with ornate fan and scroll brackets. A chimney with an ornately corbelled cap is to the N. To the S the basement brick foundation is exposed at street level. Windows are generally 6-over-6. The primary entrance contains 2 pane, etched, stained glass doors and red (see attached)

43 History and Significance Residence was owned by Ewing Trigg, in late 1900's and primary entrance door probably was added to house at that time. House was severely damaged by fire on 2-2-80. The house is presently standing in ruins and is in the process of being demolished.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the NW corner of 6th & Locust. facing E onto 6th. It has a stone wall to the E & S, and an alley to the N. It sits close to the sidewalk to the S and the S facade basement is exposed. The 1 outbuilding, a gabled garage sheathed in corrugated metal, is along the alley.

42 Further Description of Important Features: The main block of the structure has a raised basement with windows that have flat arch headers. The 1st story has end chimneys, a raking frame cornice on the gable ends, and has 6-over-6 windows with stone sills and segmentally arched soldier course headers. The central (W) entrance has a 6 light transom and sidelights. The front porch, which has a brick foundation square chamfered post a turned balustrade, and a wide entablature, as well as (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance: In 1861, J.L. Stephens sold part of lot 12 to Obadiah Edwards for $602. At that time he had already built a brick house on the lot. The structure originally contained cresting around a 8'X11' flat rectangular platform on roof. In the 1940's, upon the ownership of Dr. R.W. and Marion Miller the basement was finished into rooms and garage, the living room was enlarged by removing the central Hallway, and the fireplaces in the dining room, south side, and basement were closed in. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: There are no outbuildings. The residence sits on the NE corner of 6th & Locust St. facing W onto 6th. St. The yard slopes downward to the E and allows for a walkout basement to the E and a basement garage to the S. It is reached from Locust St.

42. (cont.) the stick work detail in the gable ends were added c 1890's. The porch is capped by a pediment with skews and has lattice arches which act as a frieze.
By 1885 a brick ell had been added to the N bay of the W facade, which has segmentally arched openings with a rowlock header, and a 1 bay brick pent addition to the S bay of this facade. Extending to the E from this bay is another addition which has a brick foundation with garage entrance to the S and a frame, pent roof enclosed porch on the 1st story. There is an entrance to the E which is reached by double steps with lattice skirting. The present owner states that present roof is not original but that the original roof and rafters are seperate from the present with a crawl space in between.

NOTE to Item #43: Architecturally significant on a local level, the structure reflects the Missouri German style, a 1860's streetscape, and the strong brick construction tradition.

42 Further Description of Important Features The mansard roof is accented by a polygonal tower at the NW corner and pedimented dormers. A later 1920's 1 story hip roof porch extends the full length of the W facade and shields the primary entrance which has a 6 light arched transom and sidelights. The back section of the structure projects beyond the main block by 1 bay both N & S. A 1 story addition is on the NW and sits on an original brick porch foundation. On the SW is a new addition on a new foundation. This brick addition extends to the W 1 bay and has a N entrance, (cont.)

43 History and Significance The structure was built in an area of Boonville for which there is a history of educational institutions--Missouri Female Seminary, Cooper Institute, Dunkles Business College. Prior to the present structure's erection the site contained a rectangular brick house with a frame rear porch which was in existence in 1885 and remained till 1892. It is possible that this dwelling was incorporated into the Megquire Seminary building. The Megquire Seminary building was built or reworked in 1892 and the first classes were offered in 1893, Julia Megquire (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SE corner of 6th and Locust, facing W onto 6th. The yard slopes down to the rear where there is a gravel parking area. There are no outbuildings.

Windows in the main block are 2/2 with segmentally arched brick headers. The rear (E) basement level is exposed and there are 2 entrances. Several windows on this E facade are coupled; all have segmentally arched headers.

43. (cont.) principal. The Seminary was "recognized as unsurpassable in its class for its salutary influence and accomplished results" in the education of women. Self proclaimed as a "Home and Day School for Girls," it was the first private school in Missouri to create a department of social economics. Instruction encompassed the following subjects: deportment, morality, English, mathematics, languages, government, art, history, ancient history, geography, physical and natural sciences, psychology, and music. The Seminary was non-sectarian but a "healthful religious sentiment is fostered." During the 1898-99 school year there were 8 teachers, 65 pupils and the school property was valued at $1500 with $500 worth of scientific equipment and a "well selected and maintained library." In 1896 the building was enlarged to meet a growing student body. In 1902 the founder and principal, Julia Megquire died and from then on till its closing in 1905 the Seminary was headed by Mrs. Roller. On June 12, 1905, the building was reopened as the St. Joseph's Sanitarium under the direction of Dr. C.H. van Ravenswaay and the Benedictine Sisters. Dr. van Ravenswaay donated $100.00 in cash, assumed payments of rent, provided operating room supplies, and donated most of the furnishings from his original clinic on 3rd St. The Sisters furnished the other necessities, mostly on credit from Boonville merchants. The Sanitarium remained operating till it moved in 1918 to the St. Joseph's Hospital. In 1917 it was also listed as "Sisters Dwelling" although they may have resided within since its inception. In 1918 the building was converted into apartments and was known as the Maplewood Apartments. Previous owners were Dale and Phyliss Reeseman.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (E) features a gable brick pediment over the central bay, a frame porch which has a central polygonal bay, and an centered entrance which is now enclosed in a frame polygonal bay. The porch has chamfered wood posts with capitals, brackets, a sawtooth frieze and an enclosed 2nd story. On the S facade is a 1 story flat roofed polygonal bay, on the N is a basement entrance at the street level. Extending to the W is an original gambriel roofed 1½ story ell. There is a pent roof, vertical board (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was the residence of journalist/author Elston J. Melton. Melton worked as "printer, reporter, editor, partner, or owner and publisher at Pilot Grove, Sedalia, and Caruthersville and Boonville" throughout a long and illustrious career. In 1929 he developed the Boonville Republican, which operated 4 years as a weekly, and nearly 1 year as a daily before merging with the Boonville Daily News and serving as its editor. Melton's last newspaper enterprise was spent serving as president and editor of the Cooper County (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The stucture sits back from the street, has a brick retaining wall on the E & N, and is at the SW corner of 6th and Locust, facing E onto 6th. St. There are no outbuildings. A drive from the alley on the W give access to the attached garage.

43. (cont.) Record, a weekly newspaper. Among the books he has written and published are the History of Cooper County (1937) and The First Hundred Years (1957), a history of Thespian Hall. In 1930 Melton ran an unsuccessful bid as the Republican nominee for Congressional Representative in the Eighth District of Missouri.

An unsubstantiated oral history relates that prior to Melton's ownership the structure served as the residence of Rylie Redd, president of the defunct Farmers State Bank.

This residence is both historically and architecturally significant and is a pivotal point in the streetscape of this district.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has a cut stone water-table and foundation to the W; other sides are field stone. The primary facade (W) has a projecting stepped 2 story rectangular bay on the S and a later 1 story porch with square brick columns which affords protection to the entrance with a transom on the N bay. The eaves have large paired brackets at the corners with small scroll brackets between. On this main block windows are 1-over-1, some attenuated, some paired. They have segmentally(see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Unsubstantiated interview information indicates that the structure was built by William H. Trigg for his daughter Annie M. Lionberger as her dowry, the present owner relates that it was built for a Dr. Harlon. A member of the family committed suicide in the 2nd. story bath. The residence remained in the Harlon family till 1963 when it was purchased by R.E. Casanoca. Colonel Max Rigney, was the owner as of 1973. The present owners, of Ross Interiors, Spring St., obtained the house in 1976. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The yard tapers downward to the alley on the E. There are no outbuildings. A drive is to the S of the residence which faces W onto 6th. Street.

The 1st story windows repeat those of the main block, but without the bracketed sill. The basement openings have segmentally arched rowlock headers. A frame porch on brick piers with an extended frame deck is the S bay of this facade.
Brick ell added c 1920, present front porch added c. 1950, storage room basement level added c 1964, and wood deck built c 1978.

On the interior is a central entry hall with staircase. The rooms to the S 1st story are divided by sliding doors. The original basement area has a dirt floor. Under the dirt floor is "some sort of a tunnel with a brick ceiling" which is probably the remains of a wine cellar.

43. (cont.) Structure sits on the site of the Missouri Female Academy which was destroyed by fire, ca. 1870's.

Buildings along both sides of this block form a cohesive quality due to site and the many large residences built in the Italianate and Queen Anne styles. They form one facet of the wealthy residential areas which were located in Boonville. This structure has local significance due to the fact that it is an integral part of this block and a pivotal point in the district.

43 History and Significance The site is now an open gravel parking lot used by the Laura Speed Elliot School. By 1892 a 1 story brick Missouri German dwelling was in existence on this site and was associated with the Cooper Institute, Anthony Haynes, principal. By 1900, with the demise of the Institute, the building became a private residence and remained until approx. 1976 when it was razed.

42 Further Description of Important Features The elongated structure is built on a 2/3rd plan with the entrance on the N bay of the E facade. Because of the slope of the lot the 1st story is raised and there is a walkout basement on this facade. The 2nd. story has projecting straight-side arched hoodmolds and corbel labels over the 2/2 windows. The N & S facades echo each other: 1st and 2nd. stories have the ornate hood molds, basement level has segmentally arched soldier course headers. Change in brickwork indicates several alterations in (see attached)

43 History and Significance The Cooper Institute, a seminary, was founded in 1863 by Rev. X.X. Buckner, a minister of the Baptist Church. In 1865, it was sold to Q.W. Marston who had charge of it till 1868. It ceased operation till 1870 when Professor Anthony Haynes became owner and headmaster and moved its operation to a suite of rooms above the Stephens Opera House (Thespian Hall). In 1871 Haynes had the Cooper Institute building constructed, to which he moved the school in 1873. It remained in operation till at least 1896 (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the front of the property, which rises to an alley on the W. On the SW corner of the lot is a large gabled barn shared with 715 6th. St. At the rear, along the alley is an independent structure. It faces E, has a gable roof and is a 1 story brick structure. There is a chimney (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) openings along the S facade especially. On the W facade openings have only a segmentally arched, soldier course header. The E facade has brackets which resemble consoles at the eaves.

43. (cont.) maintaining an average attendence of 75 students in its high school curriculum. By 1883 over 1,000 students had graduated many of which "entered the best eastern colleges, also our State University". Coursework included Arithmetic, (mental & Pratical), Grammar, History, World Analysis, American & English Literature, Latin, Geology, Moral Science, Astronomy, Physics, Rhetoric, Botony, Physchology, Zoology, Civil Government, Algebra, Logic and music. In 1900 the structure housed Dr. Smiley's Sanitarium and in 1910 it became known as the Boonville Sanitarium. By 1917 the structure was converted into a rooming house and in 1919 was known as the Quinley apartments. Its current usage is as an apartment house.

44. (cont.) to the N. where a small window has been bricked-in. The entrance with its small pent porch and the small window to the S have segmentally arched rowlock headers. The W facade has 2 rectangular windows with corbelled brick sills.

43 History and Significance Abstract information indicates that in 1882 Frank and Emma Lionberger expanded their existing lot by the addition of a 20 by 187½ foot lot. The present residence is situated on this expanded lot. Subsequent owners have been: John F. Robers, 1893; Andrew Fluke, 1911; George J. Weitz, 1912; Albert H. Meyer, 1916; Kelly A. Simmons, 1919; Arthur J. Arnold and Thomas Turner, who probably converted the residence into apartments, 1922; (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 6th. Street. The rear yard tapers downward to the alley on the E and allows for a walk out basement. A drive to the S of the structure leads to a gravel parking area and a 4 car hollow tile and brick, pent roofed garage along the alley. The garage doors are on the W facade.

42. (cont.) have block type brackets which echos the motif at the eaves. On the S is a 1 story polygonal bay which also repeats the modillions at the eaves of its flat roof. It sits on a brick foundation where windows with segmentally arched, rowlock headers appear. To the rear (E) and extending the full length of that facade is a 2 story plus basement brick, pent roofed addition, which has small windows with segmentally arched double rowlock headers and a corbelled brick sills.
There is a 1 story pent frame porch at the basement level, S bay.
The 4 utility meters and the garage indicate the structure was at one time used as apartments however, recent repair work indicates it is being returned to a single family dwelling.
The present owner has lowered a number of the first story ceilings to 10' and is in the process of replacing the original windows with "thermogard" windows.

43. (cont.) Sam A. Phillips, 1924; R.A. Johnston, 1932; Clay Glover, 1943; Earl Powell, State Representative (1955-56) and City Mayor (1962-67), who did not live in the premises, 1946; Robert Gensler, 1960; T. Richard Mitchell, 1965; Ruben Linneman, 1972; John Buffalow, 1973; Loretta Meyers, 1976. The residence sits on the site of a large Greek Revival brick building known at various times as Missouri Female Seminary, Pleasant Retreat Female Seminary, and Union Female College. Developed by Reverend Peter G. Rea, Cumberland Presbyterian minister and other Boonville notables of the era. It was one of the larger private schools that flourished in Boonville before and after the Civil War. Between 1871-73, the building was used by Anthony Haynes, president of the Cooper Institute, prior to the construction of that institute's building across the street. The exact date of razing is not known.

Buildings along both sides of this block form a cohesive quality due to site and the many large residences built in the Italianate and Queen Anne styles. They form one facet of the wealthy residential areas which were located in Boonville. This structure has local significance due to the fact that it is an integral part of this block and a pivotal point in the district.

43 History and Significance The house may have been built by or for its first owner Wm. R. Baker, an elected Boonville Public Administrator (1876-80). In 1889 it served as a town house to Capt. Charles E. Leonard, the wealthy and successful pedigree stock raiser and owner of Ravenswood Farm located 10 miles south east of Boonville. Leonard's young son, Nelson, "attended school next door at Tony Haynes School" (Haynes Institute). Additional owners include: W.E. Evans, 1892; W.C. Knight, 1897; Wm. Knight, 1907; Isham Alexander, 1908; Trustees of the Baptist

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment with a concrete retaining wall and faces E onto 6th. St. At the NW corner of the property is a large barn with a pent addition to the S which is shared with 711 6th. St. It has a gable roof and vertical board and batten siding.

42. (cont.) On the W is a hip roofed, 1 story brick ell which appears to be original. Along its N facade is a frame vertical board and batten addition. A 1 story pent roofed brick addition extends along its S facade. The main block has ornately corbelled chimney caps.

43. (cont.) Church, 1918; Joseph A. Smith, 1920; Boonville Building and Loan Assoc., 1936; Charles Gray, 1939; Richard Windsor, 1941; John England, 1972; Charles Glass, 1976. After 1929 a commercial structure was built on the side walk and utilized as a "Mom and Pop" type of general store serving the needs of the neighborhood. Between 1960 and 1975 it was rented as the office for the Missouri Angus Association. At present it is vacant.

Significant on a local level as part of a cohesive neighborhood and streetscape and for its association with the Leonard family.

43 History and Significance The 720 6th. Street lot contained a structure that predates this Italianate structure and it is possible that a portion is incorporated into it. Earlier structure was existant before 1852 because in that year Gilson Harrison purchased "the same ground upon which the undersigned and family are now living," at a price of $1, 500. This evaluation for a single lot would also indicate the existance of a structure. In 1855 it was bought by a William Johnson for $1,750. Ownership was retained for 13 years and then sold to (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) with a dentil frieze. There is a 2 story rectangular bay on the S. Windows on this main block (N,S, & W) are shuttered and are attenuated 1-over-1, and have segmentally arched soldier course headers. On the W only are scroll type bracketed sills. The E facade of this block has rowlock headers segmentally arched on the 2nd. story, as lintels on the 1st story and a soldier course flat arch header on the walkout basement level. There has been some alteration of the brickwork on this level. Also on this E facade at the N bay are 2 brick additions with flat roofs and a rowlock course at the parapet. These project slightly to the N. Along their S facade and across the E facade is a frame porch supported on square wood columns.

43. (cont.) Charles Farringer, a music teacher in 1868, for $4,000. Farringer is noted as living at that location in 1869 It then was sold to William H. Trigg in 1873, who sold it and other lands to his daughter Juliet and her husband William M. Johnson, in 1883. The Johnsons, a prominant merchant family, resided there till Juliet, a widow sold it in 1919 to Ray Bassett, owner of Bassett-Grocery Store, 328 Main Street. In 1922 it was sold to Catherine Smith, a school teacher In 1959 Ernest Lammers of the City Tire and Electric Store bought the structure which had at some previous date been converted into 5 apartments.

Renovations by the present owners include: complete renovation of the interior; installation of rear staircase; removal of two of 6 fireplaces; installation of central furnace, air conditioning, wiring and plumbing; removal of original wrap-around front porch with replacement porch designed by architect Winn Brady; addition of front facade panelling; construction of rear deck; removal of rear carriage house.

43 History and Significance The building helps to form a cohesive district and streetscape and is therefore significant on a local level. The structure was built for Frank George, the senior partner in the George and Goodman Furniture and Undertaking business. George sold his farm in Cooper County and moved to Boonville in 1899 and opened an implement and grocery business. In 1911 he sold out and founded the firm of George and Goodman, which was located at 321 Main St. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 6th. St. sits on an enbankment, and has a concrete retaining wall. To the S is an open lot where a c 1910 structure was razed. Front steps remain. In its place is a gable roofed brick garage which has a drive from the alley to the W. At the SW corner of this lot is a vertical board, pent roofed shed.

42. (cont.) soldier course, segmentally arched headers. The S facade has an extra window at the stair landing level. All gable ends are embellished with fishscale shingles, stickwork, and skews. On the W is a gabled ell with a 1 story pent addition on its N facade and a pent porch on the S with an entrance to the S.

43. (cont.) George also served as Cooper county Sheriff between 1902-1906 and mayor in 1914. In 1945 the structure became the residence of S.F. Biesmeyer and in 1962, William Arnold.

Located to the E of the structure was a structure probably built in the 1850's. By 1869 it was the residence of Johann Herick Rickmeyer, a tobacconist. Following this it was the residence of John Otten, and in 1892 of Claus Otten, a carpenter. The structure was removed, possibly by fire, sometime between 1917 and 1929.

43 History and Significance Significant on a local level as part of a cohesive neighborhood. Mrs. Niemeyer has owned and resided in this house from 1942 to the present. The previous owner was Vernon H. Streight (1934-42). Prior to Streight it was the residence of Ida C. Pendleton (1926-33). From 1903 to 1924 it was the residence of John W. Cunningham (whose heirs sold it to Mrs. Pendleton), and from 1881 to 1903 it was owned by Sallie L. Rogers. The house was built in the 1860's for the Wettendorf family, who owned it from 1859 to 1881.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 6th. St. It sits on an embankment and has a concrete retaining wall which ends at a concrete, partially underground garage at street level on the NE corner of the property. On the NW corner is a pent roofed vertical board shed.

42 Further Description of Important Features Typical of the style the structure has the stuccoed gable end to the street and a chimney of the N which has small flanking windows. On the W facade is a 1 story hip roofed porch which is supported by square frame columns. The entrance is slightly off center. This facade and the corner quoins are laid in a rusticated brick. On the N is an entrance and a flat roofed porch on brick piers. It has turned porch posts. On the E is a 1st story entrance with frame steps and stoop and with a basement (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Three tenements were previously on this site. The structure was built approximately the same date as 724 6th. Street - to its N.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 6th. Street and sits close to 732 6th. Street to its S. The yard drops off to the E alley and allows for a walk out basement. There is a pent roofed, vertical board shed at the NE corner of the property.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front (E) has a stepped facade. Its N bay has a gable roof filled with 4 bands of fishscale shingles, stickwork detailing and a circular window. The central bay has a shallow polygonal bay with a polygonal roof on the 2nd story and the primary entrance which has a transom is covered by a 1 story pent roofed porch. It has doric columns on new brick piers. Bull's eye motifs, scrollwork and an inset fan pattern at the roof end embellish the porch. On the S facade is a projecting (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Lot is portion of 10 acres of land owned by Payton R. Hayden, noted early Boonville and Missouri Lawyer. The Hayden house was situated on S.E. corner of 5th and Locust streets. Between 1884 and 1887 a frame dwelling was built on the 731 6th. street lot by Frank Meierhoffer. This structure was probably destroyed by fire because in 1897 Robert Sombart built the present brick structure. The history of ownership is as follows: A.J. Flicke - 1900; Bettie Lionberger - 1903; Nannie Lionberger and Carrie (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment with a concrete retaining wall and faces E onto 6th. Street. There is a garage on the alley to the W. It has a concrete block foundation and is sheathed in corrugated metal.

43. (cont.) Brick (daughters of Bettie) - 1918; Emile B. Turner - 1918; Ida Gentry - 1925; John Molan - 1933; Leo Kempf - 1943; J.W. Farris - 1955; Othal O. McCoy - 1955; Margaret C. Hurt - 1960; Edwin R. Weed - 1962.
Present owner relates that he had the ceilings in both the kitchen and living room lowered around 1969. Original frame porch was replaced during the Margaret Hurt ownership. Original wood work two "pocket" door and walnut staircase remain in natural finish. There is one gas fireplace in existance. The structure helps to form an architectural unity along this block. It has local significance.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original structure had 3 bays to the W, a frame cornice which rakes at the gable ends (N & S) and had a gable ell to the E, S bay, which formed an "L-shaped" structure. Windows on this original part have segmentally arched headers, soldier course on the 1st floor, rowlock at the basement level. Additions include a gable, brick ell on the N which has an entrance to the W and a later porch on the W which has a brick balustrade and square brick columns. It is now enclosed with vinyl (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Present owner has owned structure since 1973 and has made renovations that include the installation of new plumbing, furnace, storm windows, panelling and dropped ceilings.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 6th. St. It sits close to 728 6th. on the N and 734 6th. on the S. A concrete walk and wall to the S give access to the rear yard which slopes off to the E alley and allows for a walk out basement. The 1 outbuilding, a metal storage shed, is to the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features This buff brick structure is accented by a central entrance (W) with sandstone quoin surrounds and a flat arch header with a projecting keystone. It has a semi-circular arched canopy with scalloped braces. Windows are generally 6-over-6 with a soldier course lintel and a corbelled brick sill, except on the 1st story W facade, and a window E. 1st story facade which are large multipane windows. The S facade has a chimney with flanking circular windows set off by rowlock surrounds. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built for Roland Stegner's residence by contractors Wilbur Stretz and Frank Zeller.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 6th. Street and has a large open side lot to the S. Along the S facade are steps which lead down to the walk out basement on the E. The yard slopes to the alley on the E where there is a public utility metal outbuilding. There are no outbuildings associated directly with this property.

42 Further Description of Important Features Scroll brackets at the eaves on the N,S, & E facades have small pendents. These are echoed in the brackets on the polygonal 1 story bay with a flat roof on the S facade. The primary (E) facade has a projecting ell on its S bay which has an entrance with transom. Its N bay has a 2 story polygonal bay. Judging from the brickwork this may have been a later addition but was there by 1900. Windows generally are attenuated 2-over-2 and have soldier course, segmentally arched headers. Additions include a 1 story (see attachment)

43 History and Significance Typical of style and site this residence is significant on a local level as a part of the whole essence of this block. Present owners bought this house in 1976 from Dub Leach, New Franklin. The apartments have been in the house from the late 30's or early 40's. From at least 1912 until his death in the early 1930's, R.M. "Dick" Harrison, a painter of some note, owned and lived in this house with his two aunts, Linna and Eliza Howard. Dick Harrison, born in Boonville in 1859, spent his early years as a clerk and later as an (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 6th. Street and sits on an enbankment. There is a concrete block, pent roofed garage on the alley to the W.

A pent 2 story brick addition with segmentally arched rowlock window headers is on the S bay of the W facade. Onto this section is another pent roofed addition which is frame 1st story with asbestos siding, and an open porch 2nd. story. On the NW is a 2 story frame section sheathed in asbestos siding.

43. (cont.) engineer under Capt. Henry McPherson, an old river boat captain who developed an extensive construction business. On one of his jobs building a railroad in Monterey, Mexico, Harrison got a case of swamp fever which partia-ly incapacitated him for the rest of his life and eventually led to his blindness in 1908. Before he went blind he took up painting and studied under F.H. Morse, a well-known portrait artist of his day, in St. Louis. Here his success was so great that he soon became a partner in the firm. He then went to New York in 1898 to continue his studies and returned to St. Louis to practice his art. Before he went blind he painted numerous portraits of state notables such as Gov. Lon V. Stephens, Senator Harry B. Hawes, and several Missouri State Supreme Court Justices. He also did a number of portraits of prominent Boonville citizens such as Dr. John Hall, R.W. Whitlow, J.F. Gmelich, Judge W.M. Williams, C.H. Briggs, Mrs. H.L. Harlan and others.

Following Harrison's death in the 1930's the building was purchased by Dr. K.L. Frasier and remodeled into apartments. It has been rental property since that time with numerous owners.

42 Further Description of Important Features The W facade has a central entrance with transom, sidelights, and flanking pilasters. Openings have double soldier course, segmentally arched headers. Windows are 2-over-1 and have narrow frame sills. A later porch covers the center 3 bays. It is raised and has brick columns and balustrade, and a pent roof. There is an original ell on the N bay of the W facade. It is gabled and has rowlock headers over the segmentally arched windows. Additions include a pent roofed brick addition on the NW corner (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Present owners had added greenhouse passage connecting 743 to 747. Buildings along both sides of this block from a cohesive quality due to site and the many large residences built in the Italianate and Queen Anne styles. They form one facet of the wealthy residential areas which were located in Boonville. This structure has local significance due to the fact that it is an integral part of this block and a pivotal point in the district.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a high embankment facing E onto 6th. Street. The front steps have been removed. The yard rises to an alley on the W. The 1 outbuilding is a partially underground concrete garage at the street level on the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built originally as a 1 story structure with 2 rooms and a cellar, the structure has had 2 major remodellings. The primary facade (E) has a gabled wall dormer with returns. Its small pedimented, stained glass window has a soldier course header. The entrance directly below on the 1st story is double leaf with a transom and ornate interior Eastlake doors. It is capped by a U-shaped canopy which extends to the E. It has a brick foundation, ionic columns and a wide entablature, (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This home, known locally as the "Mittelbach house," was built in three different phases. The rear first floor and cellar consisted as a farm home around 1850. About 1870 the middle section, bay windows, and second floor were added. At that time the front door faced north. In 1906 the front of the house, turret, and third floor were added and the entrance moved to Sixth Street. Additions and final improvements were made by Dr. William Mittelbach in 1906. (The original Mittelbach home was located (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NE corner of 6th & Spruce, facing E onto 6th. The rear yard rises to an alley on the W. At the SW corner of the structure is a hip roofed, lattice covered gazebo. It has a scalloped cornice and side braces. A concrete patio and steps up to the yard are off the rear porch. which may form a balcony above. Windows have soldier course, straight side hoods and concrete lug sills. On the SE is a circular projecting 3 story tower. It appears to be of a different brick, but continues the window motifs, except that the concrete forms a sill course and there is a soldier course connecting the hoods.
At the 3rd. story there are no openings. This top area is embellished with 2 projecting stretcher courses; 2 frame entablatures, painted white; and a projecting cornice with scroll brackets. These brackets differ from those which are at the eaves of the main structure. The N facade has 4 bays with a gable wall dormer which repeats that on the front and a hipped dormer. The S facade has 3 hipped dormers. A polygonal bay with ridge cresting, and some windows have only a soldier course, segmentally arched header. The W facade has a gable wall dormer, is 2 bays wide and has 2 story frame porch which has chamfered post, brackets, and lattice work. The majority of the 1905 interior millwork is intact.

42 Further Description of Important Features
Built on a 2/3rds plan, the building features ornate iron cresting on the truncated ridge of the roof and a bracketed eave. The primary entrance has a decoratively etched glass in its transom and was originally capped by a 2 bay frame Victorian porch. A new porch (c. 1930's) now extends across all 3 bays. It has a hip roof supported by panelled, battered columns and a molded concrete block foundation. All of the 1-over-1 windows have segmentally arched headers. On the S of the central 2 story section is an inset (cont.)

43 History and Significance
The structure was built by Charles Wassman of Wassman and Brothers Brickyard, possibly as his residence. In 1881 it was purchased by August and William Dengolesky, employees of Gantner and Co. brickyard which was located in close proximity to the structure on Spruce Street. An assumption is made that the structure was by this time a duplex and both brothers and their families probably resided there. The brothers during this era also entered into the saloon business on Main St.. In 1884, however, August Dengolesky sold his half (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
This building sits at the SE corner of Spruce and 6th Sts. facing W. There is an open car port to the S. No outbuildings.

Brokmeyer, a merchant who resided at 810 6th St. and the structure was used as rental property. In 1902 it sold to Sophia Page who resided their with her retired husband C.H. Page. In 1912, however, it was sold to Frank Brokmeyer, the son of C.H. Brokmeyer, who resided in their family dwelling. Following Brokmeyer's death in 1919, the structure sold to W.G. Gilbreath. Between 1923 and 1955 it was owned by Roger D. Grigsby, in which time the back eastern portion of the lot was sold off. The structure was owned briefly in 1955 by Earl and Amber Powell, and sold later that year to Morton Craig. In 1962 it sold to Barbara Eidman, a teacher at Central Elementary School, who resided their with her husband and rented the other apartment to Clay Morris. In 1976 the duplex was purchased by Paul and Harry Mark Wooldridge, of the Wooldridge Brothers law firm, for rental property.

42 Further Description of Important Features The outstanding feature of this structure is the double parapet chimney on the N facade. Several windows on this facade are 6-over-6 and all have segmentally arched windows. The roofline ends in returns. On the primary (W) facade the cornice is boxed and there is a later 3 bay porch with molded concrete block foundation piers, doric wood columns, wide entablature, and a pent roof. The 1-over-1 windows repeat the segmentally arched headers except on the 2 gable dormers. The entrance has transom and sidelights. (cont.)

43 History and Significance Structure is believed to have been built by George Roeder, a carriage maker. Roeder built a number of houses in town but apparently had this house built along the lines of an earlier German style. Subsequent owners are: F.M. Rooks, 1885; Frederick P. Willman, 1893 (resided elsewhere); Joseph S. Henry, 1919 (known as the founder of the Gilbreath-Henry Foundation and a temperance leader), who rented the structure prior to purchase; Chambers sisters, 1940; Georgia Taylor, 1948; Vinita Taylor, 1949; Gerald C. Wilkerson, 1978.

42 Further Description of Important Features

Originally built in a Queen Anne style with an undulating primary facade including a rectangular bay an inset entrance and a champered bay, the structure now has a gable roof with a goble doomer which appears to be a change made in the 1920's-30's. Windows are 1-over-1 attenuated and have segmentully arched headers. Straight side arched lintels cap each opening. A gabled projecting rectangular ell is to the South and a rectangular bay is to the North. There is a pent addition to the rear.

42. Further Description of Important Features The primary facade is irregular with a projecting gable ell (N bay) which has a raking cornice and 2 windows, a central entrance with segmental transom and a pent porch on square wood columns, and a polygonal bay (S bay). The transom has an ornately etched glass. Windows are all segmentally arched and 1-over-1 or 2-over-2. A wide frame frieze accents the roofline. Extending to the E is a brick ell with brick pent additions to its E and S. An open pent porch is along the S addition.

43 History and Significance C.H. Brokmeyer resided here from at least the 1890's until his death in 1902. Brokmeyer (1845-1902) came to America from Germany c. 1865. He lived in St. Louis, Jefferson City and Bunceton for a short time and moved to Boonville c. 1870 where he engaged in the general merchandise business with C.H. Heim, then A. Schnedler, and then became sole owner of the business at 318-320 Main St. During his residence in Boonville he built more than 60 dwellings, though apparently not this residence.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Facing W onto 6th St., the building has an ornate concrete stair and walk leading up the embankment to the entrance. Along the rear (E) alley is a gable roofed, board and batten garage.

42 Further Description of Important Features The projecting ell of the front (W) facade has returns. Also on this facade are 2 entrances capped by a new pent porch with square wood columns in the central bay, and a projecting rectangular bay; both sections are under a new gable roof with the gable end to the street and extending E over a 4 bay ell. The ell has a pent dormer N and a polygonal bay S. Windows are 1-over-1 on the front and 6-over-6 on the sides. All have segmentally arched headers. There are 2 entrances and porches on the E facade. It should be noted that (cont.)

43 History and Significance The structure may have been originally designed as a one family residence. Evidence of possible alteration from single entrance to double is visible to the left of the front entrance. Current owner relates that the structure was a duplex before 1915, and was maintained as such during her continued ownership of 46 years. The 1929 Sanborn map indicates that the lot's extreme rear N & S corners had frame outbuildings. The rear portion of the (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 6th St. and sits on a slight embankment. Concrete steps and walk lead up to the entrance. Along the E alley is a large frame 2 car garage and attached residence (814 rear apartment). It has a hip roof with open rafters and sits on a concrete foundation. It is sheathed with car siding..

42. (cont.) there is some alteration to the brickwork on the primary facade.

43. (cont.) structure was severely damaged by fire in c. 1935. In 1936 J. Miller rebuilt the rear portion and changed the floor plan in that area somewhat.

The property evaluations as gained from the Abstract indicate that the structure could have been built between 1872-75. The lot at that time (No. 17 of Rice's Addition) along with the adjoining 3 N lots were owned by Christian Ludwig. In 1872 he received a $1600 loan. However, a default took place in 1875 and lot No. 17 sold to G.W. Sombart for $1500. This evaluation indicates a structure was present and future evaluation increases seem too reasonable to assume the structure was built thereafter. History of transfer is as follows: W.A. Sombart- 1881, Mildred J. Monroe- 1884, Francis Taliaferro- 1909, Harry Taliaferro- 1932, Jonathan and Lavina Miller- 1934.

The SE part of addition may be the 1 story outbuilding that appears in 1929 on the Sanborn Map. "Before 1950 Dr. Miller added on a 2 car garage and used the structure for his veterinary office." In 1960 the structure was converted into residence rental property.

43 History and Significance The structure has been the property of J. E. Taliaferro, and the residence of William Johnson, Wilbur McFarland, and Harold Whitehurse.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the front of the lot on an embankment. A retaining wall of huge sandstone blocks which are cut and vermiculated is along the front property line. Center steps which split and form 2 half flights of steps lead up to the front entrance. There is 1 outbuilding, a pent roofed frame garage, to the E along the alley.

42 Further Description of Important Features

The wall surface treatment has been altered by the adition of vinyl siding and no Queen Anne detailing remains. Windows are trabeated and 2-over-2. There is a projecting rectangular bay. to the North. A pent porch and concrete stoop give access to the primary entrance which is deeply inset from the front (West) facade and opens to the South. There is a rear 1 story frame ell.

43 History and Significance

The structure was built for speculation by lawyer/realtor, W.G. Pendleton and sold to his brother, G.T. Pendleton, also a lawyer. In 1904, Hunter Mills, a Saline township farmer, purchased the structure for his retirement residence. Subsequent owners have included Ensley Humphreville (1919), William and Gladys Griesbach (1941), and Franklin Bergquist (1969). The present owner purchased the building in 1979, and has rehabilitated it for speculation.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings

Sitting on a low embankment with a molded concrete block wall, the residence faces West. A drive to the South gives access to a 1 car gabled garage to the SouthEast. It has diagonal wood siding. An alley is to the East.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary (E) facade is accented by 1-over-1 windows which have flat arch headers and shutters. A concrete slab runs across the length of the facade and a 3 bay, screened in, flat roofed porch affords protection to the central entrance. The transom has been enclosed. An original pent roofed section extends across the W facade. Side windows are segmentally arched. The yard slopes away to allow for a walk-out basement on the W. Additions include a concrete block basement level section with a small frame room (cont.)

43 History and Significance This residence is a typical example of the common man's residence in the local Missouri German style. Its location and relationship to the surrounding structures still exemplifies the early streetscape. The structure was built in the early 1860's by Charles Weyrich for his residence. Weyrich developed a pottery on the land to the rear of his residence and the earlier structure at 516 Sycamore was associated with this business. Both properties (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 6th St. It sits on a well landscaped lot at the SW corner of Sycamore and 6th Sts. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) situated on a 75' x 180' lot were sold in 1899 to Patric Darby for his retirement home. Darby immigrated from Ireland in 1856, enlisted in the First New York Veteran Cavalry of Volunteers, and was imprisoned in Andersonville Prison and arrived in Cooper County in 1868. In 1912 the residence was sold to Otto J. Timm, an assistant farmer at the Missouri Training School, but sold again later that year to Margaret Maxwell as the residence for both herself and her son, John, a painter. During Mrs. Maxwell's ownership the structure at 516 Sycamore was sold and its association with 1103 6th St. was broken. In 1924 the residence sold to F.J. Warnoff, a partner in the Theissen-Warnoff Clothing Store and later the Dur-Warnoff Hardware Co., which was located at 415 Main St. in 1937. In 1928 F.J. sold the residence to his son, Paul Warnoff, a liquor store merchant. Between 1939 and 1942 it was the residence of Florence Ramstetter, followed by a one year ownership by Vernon Quint. The present owners, Frank and Eva Shore, purchased the residence in 1942 and have conducted many renovations which include the addition of the rear "sun porch-sleeping room" around 1960. Mr. Shore, a retired employee of the Missouri Power and Light Company, served on the Boonville City Council 1973-1976.

42 Further Description of Important Features Typical of the style, the gable roof is accented by a boxed cornice which rakes on the gable ends where there are returns and chimneys. The primary entrance has a transom and sidelights and an ornate 4 panel door. Currently, on the E, there is a 3 bay, pent roofed porch with a concrete slab and square wood columns. Windows are generally 6-over-6 except at the attic ends and where 2 new windows have been added on the W facade. The yard slopes off to the rear to expose the basement level. There is a room on the N end, (cont.)

43 History and Significance The structure's significance lies in its early date and in the fact that it remains a pure example of the Greek Revival small scale residence including its site and relationship to the surrounding structures. This small district illustrates what early Boonville would have looked like. The residence remained in the Mayer family from the early 1900's until 1968 and may have been the last structure in Boonville to use an outdoor privy. The present owner, who obtained the structure in 1975, has rehabilitated the exterior but removed all (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 6th St. Located at the front of a deep lot, the residence has no outbuildings associated with it, however, there is a round brick cistern directly W of the house. There are several large sandstone steps left on the S side of the house.

42 Further Description of Important Features

The gabled structure has end chimneys N & S. Its double hung windows are trabeated and have both 1-over-1 and 2-over-2 ights. The primary facade has a central entrance which has a transom with small lights and sidelights, and is capped by a 1 bay flat roofed porch which has wooden doric columns and a wide entablature. The N bay of this facade has been altered by the addition of a 1 story polygonal bay. The structure has an original pent (cont.)

43 History and Significance

The building is part of a small cohesive neighborhood which demonstrates the common early residential structure and the typical streetscape.

Ed Clowers resided in the structure for over 40 years. Prior to his ownership it was owned by a Tom Harlan, who did not reside there. Roy Williams, a furniture dealer, owned and resided in the house prior to the Harlan ownership, and before that a John Crawford owned it. (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features
The typical features of the bungalow style are evidenced in the large projecting gable dormer with pendent and knee braces; the shallow rectangular, pent roofed bay windows both N & S; the N chimney with small flanking windows. The windows of this varigated buff colored brick residence are 6-over-1 and have soldier course lintels and concrete sills. The slope of the roof continues to the E to form a pent porch supported on square, brick columns. (cont.)

43 History and Significance
The structure is one of several bungalows and mission style houses built by Lon Wendleton, a local contractor and entrepeneur, who developed the Wendleton Addition to the city. Present owner bought the residence from Floyd Stone. Stone bought it from William Greis. The structure was originally built for Lon Wendleton's mother, Sarah, and his sister, Ollie. Before being sold out of the family Forrest Wendleton resided there for several years.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The residence faces E onto 6th St. and sits at the NW corner of 6th St. and Bingham Rd. There are no outbuildings associated with this property.

43 History and Significance The house was built ca. 1857-60 by Dr. William H. Trigg, Boonville financier and merchant, as a residence for his daughter Josephine Trigg Pigott upon her marriage. In style and detail it is the same as 1304 Main Street, which was built for Josephine's twin sister, Juliet, except that the 1st story floor plans are reversed. The structure is significant in that it was built by Boonville's wealthiest citizen of the era ~~and is one of a pair of houses that represent the earliest example of residential~~ (see attached)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 6th. Street. It sits on an embankment and has an excellent view of the downtown area. A drive from 6th., S of the residence, leads to the attached garage on the W. There are no outbuildings. The original size of the lot has been retained and the grounds are well landscaped.

42. (cont.) a pent porch extending the length of the facade. It has brackets, the gothic frieze and is supported on wood octagonal posts. The S facade of the main block repeats the frame polygonal bay. A brick, pent roofed garage is attached to the W of the ell. On the interior, 2 of the fireplaces have panelled piers and an entablature with consoles. The fireplace in the dining room has ornate panels. There is a built in cupboard in this room. Baseboards are wide and the millwork is heavily molded. The bay windows are set into panelled openings. The interior of the house is completely original except for the addition of a small bathroom on the 2nd story staircase landing, and the removal of plaster ceiling moldings and center medallions. The louver door at the south veranda entrance is original.

43. (cont.) gothic architecture in near original condition in Boonville. The use of segmentally arched window and door openings are among the earliest examples in Boonville. Josephine and her husband, John Pigott, a Boonville merchant, resided in the house till after 1869. The following owner was James Q. Ragland, a partner in the Smith and Ragland Livery. In 1883 the residence was purchased by William C. Scott, an early freighter of goods to SW Missouri. A longtime owner of the structure was Helen Stegner-Whitlow. In 1977 the house was inherited by her sister Margaret Stegner.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original U-shaped structure now forms a rectangle by the closing in of the central bay, N facade. On the W facade is an entrance with a pent cap, Windows are 6-over-6, and there are end chimneys N & S. The S facade has a large fireplace and an entrance with a pent cap and a concrete patio. A pent frame addition on a concrete block foundation and a frame porch are along the E facade. The stone structure is built of various sizes and shapes, however the openings are accented by large rectangular stone (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This structure, the only early stone residence of its type in Boonville was built by Andrew Gantner on the eastern slope of "Trigg's Hill." Leonard Stretz, the son of a man who formed a masonary partnership with Andrew Gantner states the structure was built in 1856, That conforms with the date cited by Melton and the Weekly Advertiser. The 3.62 acres was not purchased from Dr. W.H. Trigg however until 1862. A possibility remains that the land may have been leased at the earlier date. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 6th. Street. A drive from 6th, S of the residence, leads to a frame gable roofed garage E of the house. It has a S entrance.

42. (cont.) lintels. On the interior a Missouri German mantel shelf with a scalloped edge.

43. (cont.) The City directory of 1869 indicates Gantner resided at this location in that year. Gantner, a highly skilled stone mason, and early German immigrant used sandstone quarried and cut to size in blocks from the hillside behind the house. Due to the quality of his craft it may be assumed that Gantner was involved in the erection of the other stone structures completed in his era - most notably the Cooper County Jail, Haas Brewery and Vineyard cellars, the Shoemacher house (SE of Boonville), and various wine cellars in and around Boonville. He is credited with building many buildings on Main Street, Kemper Military School, and numerous residences. Oral history indicates that a brick manufactory was operated in the rear yard. Remains of many broken and misfired brick still remain in a hollow approximately 75 yards east of the house.

In 1899, Ewing Roberts purchased the residence from Gantner's widow Rosa. During this ownership a family suicide was committed and the house was vacated leaving it to ruin and disrepair. By 1926 it was bought by Professor Curtis and Irmah Chrane despite rumors of its haunting. The Chranes added a kitchen addition and made numerous minor alterations to the interior.

Subsequent owners include William Pieper, who resided elsewhere, 1940 Stanley Kramer, 1943; Jean Rigsby, 1958 Paul Schmitthausen, 1962; Walter Hoecker, 1962; Perry & Paul Taylor, 1976.

In 1976 the present owner added an extension to the kitchen, closed in the north porch to form a closet and conducted interior remodeling.

42 Further Description of Important Features 'Varigated' colored brick in a cross hatch pattern forms a string course at the header level of the 1st. story and basement windows and also as a decorative course in the closed brick balustrade of the 1 story raised porch (W). Windows are 1-over-1; the 2 entrances are centrally located. Concrete forms the wide lintels and lug sills. The easternmost bay of the S facade has a project rectangular bay window with a corbelled brick base. There is a small pent roof ell to the E which is original to the structure.

43 History and Significance The house was built in the late 20's or early 30's by a Mr. Quint. The present owner bought it in 1971 from Gerald Oswald, who had only owned it a short time.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 7th. street and sits on an slight embankment with a concrete reinforcing wall to the W & S. The alley to the S gives access to a 1 car brick garage. It has a gable roof covered with diamond shaped asphalt shingles, open rafters and segmentally arched window openings with brick rowlock headers.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built of Ozark rock the structure has varigated brick at the window and door surrounds including a soldier course lintel, square porch columns, and balustrade cap. These brick also appear around the small circular, louvered window at the attic. Windows are 1-over-1, and have concrete sills. The plan of the structure is actually 2 individual houses with a 1 story raised porch which connects the 2. It has twin gables which face the street. The gable end over 216 is filled with a pebbled (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Stonework veneer was added around 1935. Around this time the two individual houses may have been connected to form a duplex. Each section is privately owned. The Hains purchased their residence in 1948.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Ozark Rock forms a retaining wall to the primary facade (W) and ends in tall planters at the corners. An alley to the N gives access to a frame 3 car garage. Doors face N. An asphalt shingled, gable roof tops the structure.

43 History and Significance Ground breaking ceremonies for the construction of this church were held in June, 1972. The structure was completed in August, 1973, under the pastorship of Father William Savage. The church is on the site of the old C.H. van Ravenswaay home (also known as the Brant House), 714 E. Morgan Street, which was razed for the construction of the church.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The large building sits at an angle on the double lot and has a circular drive in front. On the SW is a concrete walk and tunnel to the basement entrance. A large asphalt parking area and the recent rectory and office building is to the S.

43 History and Significance In 1954, under the pastorship of Rev. Harold J. Beeler, the old rectory, which had been on this site since 1869, was razed and the present rectory was built in 1955. The original rectory was a 2 story brick building which originally had 4 large rooms and was later expanded (1885-1919) by the addition of 4 more rooms, a bath, and veranda.

Immediately to the N of this site is a parking lot which is the site of the original S.S. Peter & Paul Church built between 1856 and 1869, expanded between 1875 and 1885, renovated (cont.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a high embankment with a retaining wall along the W & S sides and faces W onto 7th. It is at the NE corner of 7th & Spring Sts. A patio with brick piers topped by large ball finials and with a wrought iron balustrade is to the N&E. To the N is the large, asphalt, parking lot and church. To the E is a 1 car brick garage (cont.)

43 History and Significance On the site of the present church the Boonville Evangelical Church built its first church building in 1853 which served as the worship center till June 1887. At that time the present church's foundation was laid. The completion and dedication of the new church took place in January 1885. On the adjoining lot to the E the original parsonage was built serving until 1903 when the present parsonage was built. In 1892 the church was incorporated under the name "The German Evangelical Congregation with later (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The church sits on the SE corner of 7th and Spring facing N onto Spring. The rear yard is in combination with the parsonage to the E and has a decorative iron fence. An alley and the office and Educational building is to the South.

42. (cont.) eaves, raking at the gable ends, under the tower's cornice and across the gable ends as a horizontal belt course, there are 2 alternating dentil courses of brick.
The primary facade's gable has tile coping. The gothic arch is accented by a soldier course and a keystone, painted white. Lug sills are stone with scroll brackets. The windows of the raised basement are paired and have a soldier course segmentally arched header. Basement entrances are segmentally arched with a double rowlock header.
In 1908 the church was renovated. In 1915, the brick school to the S of the church was razed to make way for a new addition to the church. It is 2 bays deep, projecting 1 bay to the W, and echos the motifs of the original structure. In 1941 a complete redecoration of the entire church was accomplished, including a formal chancel arrangement with the rebuilding and relocation of the organ (entire cost $17,000). In 1953, the church was again redecorated and the basement was completely renovated.
There is a concrete addition to the S at the basement level.

43. (cont.) changes to the "Evangelical Church of Boonville" and finally "The United Church of Christ". Redecorations of the church took place in 1908, 1941, and 1953. In 1915 the church was enlarged by the addition of several Sunday School rooms. The same year a pipe organ was presented by Doris Gmelich, The congregations Educational Building was built in 1953-54, at a cost of $95,673.

Historically important on a local level, the church is significant for the service it rendered to the large German segment of this community.

43 History and Significance This house was purchased by the Catholic Church in 1965 as an annex to the Convent and for religious education offices. The previous owner was Ben Smith, Sr., from c. 1936 until the church purchased it. Mr. Smith used it as a rental property. Before that it was owned by a man named Mabis.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are several outbuildings to the E including board and batten pent roofed sheds and a gable roofed structure with asbestos siding, which has a garage to the S. There is a playground behind these structures. A concrete walk, sidewalk and an alley are to the S. A stone wall is to the W.

43 History and Significance From c. 1860 to 1924 the Catholic School was conducted in a building that once stood behind the present parsonage. The present school building was dedicated in 1925 during the pastorship of Rev. Miles F.X. Jennings (Pastor from 1919 to 1933). Curriculum included both grade and high school. The first high school graduating class was 1929 (6 students). Repairs were made in the 1930's under the pastorship of Rev. Henry Schillings (Paster from 1933 to 1941). In 1965, under the Pastorship of Rev. John H. Dreisoerner, an addition was (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The large gable roofed dormer to the N is covered with asphalt shingles, has 2 windows and open rafters. Most windows are paired and 4-over-1 except on the primary (W) facade which are wider and 5-over-1. The red brick structure is accented by buff brick as soldier course lintels and corbelled sills at the openings and a lozenge pattern in the open work brick balustrade. Extending across the main facade is a pent roof, which continues the slope of the roof and forms a porch which has square brick columns. Also entrance on S facade.

43 History and Significance This house was built in the 30's by Robert Herfurth's maternal grandparents, the Otts, who moved to Boonville from Hermann. This house replaced a frame house which had been owned by the Dunfield family. Robert Herfurth is the president of Boonville's United Bank of Missouri.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is a ditch (Ream's Branch) to the N of the residence, which causes the yard to slope off on that side. The residence, which faces W onto 7th St., has 1 outbuilding, a pent roofed frame shed to the E of the structure.

42 Further Description of Important Features The house features a varied and many gabled roofline. Fishscale shingles ornament the gable ends on the NE, S chamfered bay, and the N rectangular bay. Windows have soldier course, segmentally arched headers; most are 1-over-1, attenuated and have shutters. The entrance repeats the header motif over its transom and retains its Eastlake interior door. The 1 story porch which wraps around the SE corner retains its Eastlake post, frieze and brackets, but has new molded (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The house is similar to 605 Seventh street. Two brothers were in competition as builders. One built 605, the other built 609, both were in 1899.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The house is on a high embankment and faces E onto 7th. st. There is a poured concrete and concrete block 1 car garage at street level at the NE corner of the property. A concrete patio and a board and batten gable roofed shed are to the W. The lot is narrow, but very deep.

42. (cont.) concrete block piers and balustrade. There are french doors to the S of the entrance on this E facade. The entrance which gives way to a small square foyer is the base of a small rectangular tower with a pyramid roof. On the W is an enclosed porch along the S bays, and an enclosed pent roofed basement entrance on the NW. Both are frame construction. The central section is an original brick bay, built and used as a panty.

The interior is ornate with Eastlake bull'seyes molding, several original lighting fixtures and 2 wood mantels. Three flues have been closed up including the 1 in the NE room (this mantel is now in the upstairs hall). Several interior doors have transoms. There is also an arched doorway, and a wide doorway the the NE room which now has french doors. An original brick pantry is to the W off of the kitchen. The upstairs is now divided into a long hall, 1 big room, and a small room now made into a bath.

42 Further Description of Important Features Diamond-shaped shingles and raised copings accent the roof line, including a large gable dormer on the N facade, which has open rafters and paired windows. Windows are 1-over-1 and 2-over-2 and are attenuated. The N bay of the W facade has a 3-part window. The S 2 bays are inset into porch which integral to the roof line. It has a square brick column and pier concrete floor and 2 entrances to the structure, one to the S and 1, with a transom on the W.

43 History and Significance Originally, the house was square with four large rooms and a small back porch in the rear center with a trap door giving access to the basement. The first change was the addition of a pent-roof kitchen on the SE. The cistern in the basement was removed and the pump removed. The patch where it came through can still be seen in the former kitchen, now the dining room. When the kitchen was added, steps giving outdoor access to the basement were added. The back porch with trap door was enclosed and a bathroom added over the coal (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a slight embankment facing W onto Seventh street. A concrete drive is at the N. Reams Branch runs to the E of the residence.

43. (cont.) cellar. The exterior window which opened onto the original porch was never covered, but remains in the NE room of the house.

Moldings around interior doors match those in the Hitch House. The doors separating the two parlors are French style and the twin front doors have etched glass panels and original doorbells.

This home was the boyhood home of banker Robert O. Herfurth. His mother was very meticulous housekeeper and Bob's friends were not allowed in the "best parlor," which was the front room with the triple window. Bob and his sister slept in the upstairs rooms, and the room, which runs the length of the upstairs, was a playroom. Bob kept the house as long as his mother was alive and made a njmber of improvements through the years for the benefit of his renters. The house was redecorated in the late 1960's and the ceilings sprayed to cover cracks.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built as a duplex the N & S sides repeat the same motifs. The primary (E) facade has a 1 story hip roofed porch with square brick columns and an open brickwork balustrade. This porch wraps around the N & S corners reaching to the entrances set in projecting rectangular bays. Small open porches are on the SW & NW corners. Windows are 4-over-1, and paired on the E facade. Also on this facade at the basement level are 2 entrances, centrally located, at street level, and with a pent roof cap.

43 History and Significance Built by M.J. Felton (1922-1925), this house was sold to Leo Felton c. 1942, then to Richard Hayes, c. 1975, and then to J.D. Twenter in 1976, the present owner. It has always been a rental property.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Facing E onto 7th street the residence sits on a high bank with concrete steps leading up to each side (N&S) of the porch. A concrete retaining wall is across the front, along each side of the basement entrances, and across the W property line. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features Typical of the Missouri German style are the segmentally arched headers which appear over the 1-over-1 windows and the entrance transom. The main facade features a central entrance with flanking polygonal bays. These have flat roofs and may have been a later addition. The porch has a concrete stoop, wrought iron columns and a gable filled with fishscale shingles. The roof is accented by a boxed cornice and frame frieze which rakes on the gable ends and by an end chimney on the N facade. Extending to the E is an (cont.)

43 History and Significance Structure is believed to have been built in 1868 or shortly before for Nicholas Lauer, a potter at the Vollrath pottery, which was located on the south side of Locust Street, east of 7th Street. It was sold to F.X. Blanck in the early 1890's and was obtained by Eugene Blanck in 1899. F.X. Blanck also purchased the Vollrath Pottery in 1892. In 1901, Gerhard Beha purchased the structure for his residence, but sold it to Genevieve Beha in 1912 for her residence. Subsequent owners have been: Gerhard Beha, 1901; Genevieve Beha, for (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W and sits at the NE corner of 7th and Locust Sts. The yard slopes off to the E to expose the basement level. A large concrete drive leads from Locust to a concrete block, hip roofed garage at the NE corner of the lot.

43 History and Significance On this site was an ice house in 1885. The house was built between 1892-1900, and contained numerous outbuildings. None of which remain at present. Previous owners were Mary Ann Fenton and family. Estil Young, local carpenter, purchased the house in 1979 to redecorate and speculate.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The property includes a large open lot to the N at the SE corner of 7th and Locust Streets. The residence sits close to the street facing W onto 7th street.

42 Further Description of Important Features Originally was 3 bay facade on double pen plan with a central chimney. A pent roofed addition has been added to the S of the primary facade (W) and a pent roofed porch on square frame post to the N. Under the NE addition is a basement garage. There are 2 pent additions on the SE. The gable ends retain a raking cornice. Windows are 2-over-2. In 1978 under HUD project the following work was done: insulation, plumbing, electrical work and new hot tar on part of roof.

Photo

43 History and Significance This house was probably built c. 1900 for Jack and Fannie Wilson, who lived there into the early 1950's, when it was purchased as a rental property by Alma Flowers (who at that time resided at 732 7th St.). She retained ownership until 1977 when it was taken over by the Quinlan Real Estate Agency. They sold it to the present owner.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
A brick drive is to the W. and a shared drive is to the N, which leads to a pent roofed attached frame garage. There is 1 gable roofed frame outbuilding to the E where the yard drops off to Reams Branch. The residence faces W onto Seventh Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a dog trot plan, the residence may be of half timber construction. It has brick rubble nogging between the vertical studding. The asbestos siding covers clapboarding. There are end chimneys and small attic windows at the gable ends. These windows, plus the low ceilings of the 1st floor may indicate that this area was used as a loft. The structure is especially elongated and has some structural problems along the roof ridge. There is a raking cornice at the gable ends. Windows are (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This house is significant as an early structure with unique construction technique. The structure sits on Lot #8 of O.D. Edwards Addition (1868) to the original City of Boonville. O.D. Edwards was an early day Boonville photographer and city developer. The first specific mention of Lot #8 of this Addition in the Property Abstract is in 1875 when it was sold by O.D. Edwards to William and Amanda Carter for $175. William Carter died in 1885 (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is a gravel drive to the S. and a small pent roofed, vertical board outbuilding to the SE. The residence sits on a slight embankment, facing W onto 7th. Street. Reams Branch is to the E.

42. (cont.) 2-over-2. The central entrance has an awning canopy and a concrete stoop. There are pent additions to the SE, frame over a brick foundation. The structure is in the process of being remodeled.

43. (cont.) and the lot passed to his heirs who maintained ownership until 1936 when the property passed to Annie B. Smiley after default in payment by Henry B. Carter on a $500 note. Annie Smiley sold the property to Andrew and Rhoda Williams for $620 in 1940 and it remained in their hands until 1954 when it was sold to W.O. and Alma Flowers for $2200. The Flowers, who lived at 732 7th St., rented the property to Harold Boehm who resided there about 9 years. W.O. Flowers died in 1961 and in 1978 Alma Flowers sold the property to James and Mildred Gates. According to the Gates, the house is at least 100 years old and the present wiring and plumbing date from about 1940. Interior walls were panelled in the fall of 1979 by Estil Young.

43 History and Significance This lot is the site of the "Rice and Lapsley" tannery which was established as early as 1820. After the dissolution of their partnership on June 20th, 1822, Jeremiah Rice operated the tannery independently. A newspaper ad of 1825 stated that the Rice tannery "has developed a new method of curing skins" under the direction of John F. Thompson, foremen. Jeremiah Rice went on to become a Cooper County Judge between the years 1850-54. (see attached sheet).

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the rear of the lot which rises to the W. It is a double lot-vacant to the S., except for 3 sheds. A small cow shed built of wide vertical boards and having a pent roof is along the W. alley. A gable roofed building is to the SW. It has a brick foundation and is clapboard over frame. 42. (cont.) This porch is a later addition. On the W is a gable dormer and a pent porch.

43. (cont.) In 1868 John Stephen Dauwalter purchased four city lots containing the tanyard and original residence from the Jerimiah Rice estate. Reopening the tanyard in 1869, the business became known as "Dauwalter and Doerner-Tanners, Curriers and Dealers in Hides and Leather" with an office on the west side of 7th. street between Spruce and Elm. Dauwalter remained in business till 1913, also under the name "Dauwalter and Son." This firm expanded their business to include harness manufacturing and became "the leading concern of its kind in Boonville for many years."

The present house was built in 1869 and appears as the residence of J.S. Dauwalter in the first Boonville City Directory, 1869-70.

42 Further Description of Important Features A 1 story porch with paired doric columns and an entablature with dentils and metopis and triglyphs caps the primary (W) entrance with transom and sidelights. The 1st story balustrade extends across the full length of the facade. There is a small balustrade at the 2nd. story level where there are french doors with an ornate semi-circular lintel. This bay is capped by a gable. The roofline is accented by consoles. There is a hip dormer and paired hip dormers E, and a gable wall dormer N. On the S (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built between 1914-15 by the W.J. Cochran and Sons Construction Co., with masonary work subcontracted by J.H. Stretz Co. for Emile Mueller, owner of the Mueller Saloon. The structure remains in the Mueller family, presently owned by a granddaughter, and rented to Pete Christus III. The rear garage was incorporated into an early brick structure which was the residence Benjamin Beha, a stone cutter in 1869. This house and lot were purchased by Mueller from Beha in 1901 and served as Mueller's (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the NE corner of 7th. St. Terrace which forms its E boundary. There is 1 outbuilding. It pre-dates the residence and is directly behind (E) of the house. Its gable roof runs E & W and has corrugated metal sheathing. This 1½ story brick structure has 2 entrances and a pent porch along its S facade. Windows have (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) is a chimney with small flanking windows and a 1st. story casement window; both have leaded glass. The N facade's fenestration indicates interior stairs. A 1story hip roofed, tile porch caps a 1st. story entrance to the E. There is also a basement entrance on the E. Windows are generally 6-over-6 or 8-over-1 and have both flat arch and segmentally arched lintels.

42 Further Description of Important Features: The blocky quality of this structure is softened by the 1 story polygonal bays to the N and to the W, and by the 1 story porch on the W, N section, which retains its chamfered columns, fan brackets and scallop frieze. This porch caps an entrance with transom and segmentally arched header. The windows are attenuated and 1-over-1, have ornate pedimented lintels with skews and label stops, and have bracketed sills. Several of these lintels are missing. To the E is a 2 story hip roofed brick ell which (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance: Abstract information indicates that the structure was built between 1855 and 1860 by James Quarles. In 1860 "a parcel of land (13.27 acres) together with all and singular appurtenances" was purchased by Dr. William M. Quarles. Quarles was killed during the first Battle of Boonville on June 17, 1861. In 1876 Quarles heirs sold the structure to T.M. Rice, a Circuit Judge (1869-75). It would appear that during Rice's ownership the structure was altered and the rear ell addition was completed. In 1905 Rice's widow, Catharine, sold (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The structure sits back from the street on a large lot at the SE corner of 7th & Rice Streets. A drive and gravel parking area is to the N. No outbuildings are currently associated with the property, however 2 buildings in this block reportedly are part of the residence's outbuildings; both have been (see attached sheet)

The structure retains an impressive, finely carved walnut front entrance door, and walnut newell post and stairway.

43. (cont.) the residence to William D. Adams who was in residence at this location in 1912. In 1916 Adams' trustees sold the structure to Tillie Stegner, who in turn sold it to Edward Stegner, a longtime Boonville grocer in 1919. The next year it was purchased by Samuel L. Hickam, a retired farmer, and used as his residence. Hickam's biography in Johnson's History of Cooper County states that "surrounding this house Mr. Hickam has 63 acres of land, 28 acres of which are in the city limits. The house in which the Hickam's live has 20 rooms, and stands right on the city corporation line, the house being divided so that the family takes their meals in the city but sleep in the suburbs. The house was erected in the thirties or early forties by the original owner, Mr. Morton, and was constructed from bricks burned on the place. The next owner was Mr. Isaac Lionberger, who built an addition to the house extending it to its present capacious dimensions." Inaccuracies exist in the above in so far that the name Morton never appears on the Property Abstract. Although Isaac Lionberger owned the land between 1853 and 1855, property evaluations would indicate that the structure was built during the next owners tenure, James Quarles. Furthermore, during Hickam's ownership the structure's property was comprised of 13.27 acres, however this does not preclude the fact that additional land was indeed owned but recorded on a separate deed(s). A paradox also exists in that the abstract relates that Hickam did not own his residence until 1920, while Johnson's History was published in 1919.

In 1929 the property was purchased by T.S. Simrall who developed the land into the Eastview Addition to the City of Boonville, and probably converted the structure into apartments.

Subsequent owners have been Frank A. Mayer, 1929; Ben Smith, Sr., 1947; Fred Oerly, 1948; Jesephine Floyd, 1952; Elizabeth G. Moore, 1959, Elinor Usher Powers, 1963; Claude Hurst, 1976; and Don Duello, 1976.

In 1933 the structure was damaged by fire and may have remained in poor condition until remodeled in 1947. The present superintendent of the apartment/residence relates that the structure has undergone numerous alterations and now contains 6 apartments. In 1978 the exterior was tuckpointed, painted white and gutters were installed.

42 Further Description of Important Features This rectangular city lot has been leveled. Along the property lines are molded concrete block retaining walls. At the SW corner are steps leading up to the flat park area. Etched into the concrete is C.C. Bell's motto: "Get busy, stay busy. Avoid waste, vice, tobacco, and booze. And you will have Health, Honor, and Plenty." At the NW corner of the park is a concrete patio area and railing which forms a lookout point where one can view the Missouri River and the rich farmland beyond.

43 History and Significance C.C. Bell, Boonville mayor and prominent business man (Bell's Orchard), had this park built as a memorial to his sister, Mrs. Manger. It is located just NE of the Bell residence and is now also an everlasting monument to the public spirit and philanthropy which typified the life of C.C. Bell. (see 724 High St. form for complete history of Mr. Bell)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The park is at the NE corner of 8th and High St. It is in a residential area. The alley and lots to the N are considerably lower so as to give a grand view from the park.

Photo

43 History and Significance The house was built by Henry Bechtold as his place of residence on the site of a large Greek Revival brick home dating back to the 1850's. Another past owner was Mrs. Charles Bechtold.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Located at the SE corner of 8th and High Street, the structure faces W onto 8th. A double garage with access from High is at the NE corner of the lot. It is brick with parapets along the roof line. It has a single leaf door with a single rowlock header on the W facade.

43 History and Significance Oral tradition in the Bell family relates that the structure is at least 120 years old, and internal evidence from the Property Abstract points to a date of 1857 as the probable date of construction. In May 1857 the property was purchased by John Zimmerman for $550 and in November 1857 he sold it to Caspar Manger and Lorenz Vollrath, a butcher, for $1345. Caspar Manger (and his wife Wilhelmina, nee Bell) maintained possession of the property (cont.)

Stober defaulted to Julias Sombart in May 1872 and the property was sold to Catharina Winkelmeyer, the widow of Henry Winkelmeyer (1827-1871), a noted Boonville furniture maker mentioned in van Ravenswaay's The Arts and Architecture of German Settlements in Missouri as working in Boonville by 1858. The Winkelmeyer family owned the property from 1872 to 1943 when it was sold by Henry W. Winkelmeyer to the present owner Marvin R. Bishop. Bell family tradition relates that at the time the property passed out of the Winkelmeyer family, several original pieces of furniture made by Henry Winkelmeyer were still in the house.

42 Further Description of Important Features

Gable ends and the hip roof dormer to the S have fishscale shingles. The foundation is field stone except on the primary facade (W) which is dressed. The entrance has a transom. Windows are attenuated, 1-over-1, and have scroll bracket under the sills on the main facade only. Windows have soldier course headers 1st. story, double rowlock basement, all segmentally arched. On this W façade there is a raised porch on concrete blocks. It has a flat roof which is supported by wrought iron columns and a balustrade.

43 History and Significance

The structure was built about 1899, probably by W.J. Cochran for Patrick Darby (1838-1917), a native of Ireland who came to Missouri in 1868 and purchased a farm near Billingsville where he engaged in farming and stockraising. Darby was noted as an intensely patriotic man of high ideals and strong character. During the Civil War he served in the First New York Veteran Cavalry of Volunteers and was confined for 10 months in Andersonville Prison. (cont.

43 History and Significance The rear part of this house was built in the 1870's by Frank H. Smith and originally sat on the present site of the Evangelical and Reformed Church Educational Building, 416 7th St. Between 1900 and 1910 the front section in a Queen Anne style was built. When the Church constructed its new building in 1954, this house was moved to its present location. At its original location it was the residenee of Frank H. Smith and the Wade Davis family (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings

A gable roofed frame garage to the S of the residence is the only outbuilding. The residence and garage face W onto a gravel cul-de-sac where 8th. street dead ends.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built at a late date for the style, the structure shows local influences of both the Missouri German and Queen Anne styles. The projecting ell to the SE is balanced by a raised porch with Eastlake post and brackets on the NE. The frame steps and balustrades are plain. The entrance to the E has a transom and a flat rowlock header. All other openings have segmentally arched soldier course headers. The N entrance has a transom, windows are shuttered. There is a raking cornice (see attachment)

42 Further Description of Important Features Built with the gable end to the street, there is a 1 story porch supported by square brick columns and having a brick openwork balustrade. This porch is on molded concrete blocks and is now screened in. Windows and doors have segmentally arched headers of brick in a double rowlock pattern. A frame porch is to the NE and a frame enclosed porch on the SE. Interior alterations were made to convert the duplex to a single family dwelling.

43 History and Significance Present owner bought the house in 1974 from Pleasant Humphrey, who, along with Henry and George Jackson, built the house in the 1930's. At one time this house was made into two apartments, but is now a single family dwelling.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
There are no outbuildings. The structure faces W onto 9th. street.

42 Further Description of Important Features
There is a 1 story concrete slab porch with a pent roof which is supported by turned post and brackets on the primary (W) facade. Window and door surrounds are wide but plain. The raking cornice at the gable ends is still evident. The main structure is on the I- house form. Additions include a gable ell to the NE, which has a pent addition to the S., a pent roofed room to the E, and an enclosed porch and room to the E & NE.

42 Further Description of Important Features Alteration have been made to the primary (E) facade, including enclosing a porch on the SE. This facade has metal board and batten siding. A pent roof wall dormer is on the E. On the N facade is a 1 story bay window and a chimney. There is an entrance to the W.

43 History and Significance The structure was originally a 2 room dwelling, but in c. 1925 Emmett Page, a carpenter and organizer of the Emmett Page Silver Coronet Band," added the additions. The present owner purchased the dwelling from Page in 1966.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings

The structure sits on a high bank with concrete steps leading up to a small concrete stoop and the entrance, which faces E. An alley to the N gives access to gravel drives to the N & W. There is 1 outbuilding, a small metal storage shed.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original orientation of this structure was to the N with a 1½ story ell to the S, E bay. The primary facade has 5 bays, the center one an entrance. Presently this is not used and there is no porch to this opening. The basement is partially exposed on this facade. There are end chimneys E & W and a boxed gutter N. Windows are 6-over-6 with segmentally arched lintels. Currently the main entrance faces W and is into the ell. This entrance has a transom and is afforded protection (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure is significant as a pure form of Missouri German architecture. Abstract indicates that in 1869 a William and Margaret Clark purchased from William H. Trigg 3.40 acres of land on which the structure is located. In 1874 default was made and it was sold to Harvey Bunce who combined it with a previously purchased 1.5 acres of adjoining land. Bunce, who did not reside in the dwelling, held numerous elected state and county posts (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a bluff which drops off sharply to the N and Reams Branch. Its original orientation would have given it a grand view of the river. It now faces W onto 10th. Street. One outbuilding, a gable roofed frame structure, is associated with the property.

43. (cont.) laid out the town of Bunceton, Mo., and was Vice President of the Central National Bank. In 1899 it was sold to Henry Sombart and then to Robert Elliot in 1913. In 1931 Henry Fuser purchased the house and allowed the Boy Scouts to build a cabin and improve the lands as they saw fit. In 1945 it was sold to William Sartain who gave rights of easement to the City of Boonville for the extension of 10th St. The present owner purchased the structure for its acreage and plans no restoration or improvements.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original L plan was altered to a T shape by the addition of 1 story wings N & S (1946). The original block has end chimneys N & S. Openings on the primary (W) facade have pedimented stone lintels; windows are 6/6 & shuttered. The 1 story entrance has transom side lights. The two 2nd story entrances have only transoms. Accenting this facade is a 2 story pedimented porch, reportedly built approx. 10 years after the original structure. It covers 3 bays (cont.)

43 History and Significance "Forest Hill", the residence of merchant Thomas Nelson, was built in 1843. In ca. 1853 the 2 story front porch with 4 doric columns and iron railing were added. George Caleb Bingham, famous Missouri artist, was often a summer guest of Nelson's between 1862 and 1877, and it was there that many of his Boonville portraits were completed. A Bingham landscape entitled "Forest Hill--The Nelson Homestead", presently in the possession of Mrs. Fulton Stephens, (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 10th St. Locust St. dead-ends into this lot. A stone wall is along the W. A drive to the garage is to the N. There are no outbuildings on the large spacious lot.

42. (cont.) and is supported on 2 story brick doric columns. The E facade and the 1 story brick ell with its exposed basement have soldier course flat arched headers. A pent porch is over a N entrance to the ell. On its S facade is a frame 1st story screened-in porch (1946) over an arched basement level patio area. The 2 brick wings repeat the window treatment and blend with the original block. The N wing is a 2 car garage with large doors to the N. The interior of the structure contains ornate molded millwork and Greek Revival mantels, probably not original. The large central hall has a fine walnut newel and balustrade. An efficiency apartment is presently at the basement level.

43. (cont.) Esparto, California, shows the house ca. 1877. Subsequent owners are Kate Nelson Imboden, 1884; Walter Schackleford, 1889; Edwin Schackleford, 1893; O.D. Edwards, local photographer, 1893; George Roeder, 1898; Steinmetz family; 1910; Theodore Spieler, 1924; Gus Boller, 1942; Kenneth Winklemeyer, an owner of Thespian Hall, 1963; Dean Weiker, 1974; William Wilcox, 1979. At some point after 1900 the structure was converted to apartments. In 1946 the north and south additions appeared and the structure was restored and much of the original integrity was maintained. The Forest Hill grounds were the scene of the murder of Mrs. Weiker by her husband in 1977.

42 Further Description of Important Features Originally built as a 2/3rds house, the structure later recieved not only the completed 1st story section, but also an attic ½ story level. The original section (N) contained a hall and 2 rooms on the 1st story, and 2 rooms in the partial exposed basement level. Each room had a large fireplace. It retains the original entrance with transom and sidelights (now filled with stained glass), and 9-over-6 windows with soldier course flat arched headers. Currently

43 History and Significance The original 2/3rds structure is believed to have been built by George W. Morton in the 1850's. Morton purchased a number of tracts of land adjacent to the present house and lands and developed an extensive orchard. The 1869 Boonville Directory relates that he was residing at this location and employed as a "gardener". In 1893 the Myers heirs sold the house and present 23.34 acres to Frank Lionberger who resided there until 1917. In that year it sold

(cont. on attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a large lot facing W onto 11th. St. Its location on a small knoll allows a good view in most directions. A circle drive is to the W. To the E are 2 outbuildings; a small brick hip roofed structure and a 1920's brick gable roofed garage. There are other outbuildings but they lie outside the boundaries of the site.

42. (cont.) the headers are generally obscured by the later, 1 bay, pedimented porch and a wide plain wood frieze. The S 2 bays (without a basement) and the attic area have segmentally arched 6-over-6 windows. An ell which extends to the E has a gable rib tin roof with pent roofed porches on its N and E facades and a brick pent addition on its S. facade.

The interior millwork in the original part is heavily molded and the mantels are the heartier Greek Revival type, however the walnut newel and hand rail are delicately shaped and reflect an earlier date. Several plank and 4 panel doors remain as well as the wide plank floors. The kitchen has been modernized, several ceilings have been lowered, and several brick walls have been stripped of their plaster covering to expose the brick. The downstairs bath was added in the late 1940's. In the attic crawl space the original section's roof can be seen. It retains its shake shingles. The basement of this section has been opened up, the fireplaces covered over and a new concrete floor laid.

On the N side of the residence and reached from the basement room is a large, barrel vaulted, cut stone cellar. It has the typical square niches and ceiling vents and occuli, and measures approx. 15' x 20'.

43. (cont.) to George Efinger who sold it to the present owner in 1946. During the 1970's the house and lands were leased to the Missouri Division of Youth Services for use as a Group Home for boys. Davis's daughter and son-in-law, a pharmacist, currently reside in the structure and have rehabilitated it with sympathy.

42 Further Description of Important Features Classical affinities include a 3 bay, 2 story gabled porch (E) which has a palladian window motif and a raking dentil course in the pediment, a wide entablature with denticulation and a metope and triglyph pattern, and 2 story doric columns on brick piers. A frame balustrade is at the 2nd. story level and extends across the full facade over the raised basement at the 1st. story level. The 1st story windows are attenuated and have a flat arch lintel with a concrete keystone. The 2nd. story windows have no headers. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built by the W.J. Cochran and Sons Construction Co. and has served Cooper County as a nursing home from 1911 to the present. The present Director is Dr. Young.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits on a large open lot facing E onto 11th. Street. Several frame outbuildings are to the W & S. All have concrete or concrete block foundations. There is a small shed with a gable roof, a gabled barn with a pent addition N, and a gabled 1 car garage; all are sheathed in board and batten siding. 42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has had many alterations and additions. Original windows appear to be 6-over-6. Clapboarding is still evident under the later siding. The primary entrance (W) has a metal awning and a concrete stoop. To the S. is a 2 bay, hip roofed projecting bay on a concrete block foundation. Across the E is a pent addition on concrete. The slope of the roof continues to the N to form a pent addition.

43 History and Significance Mr. & Mrs. Lee Cooper (he a retired railroad employee) owned and lived in this house from the 1940's until 1978. William Briscoe, the present owner, is a Holsum Bakery employee. According to Ben Smith, Jr., local abstractor and real estate dealer, part of this house is possibly as old as the 1850's since there is brick noggin between the studs.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto Bell Street and is located at the NE of where High dead ends into Bell Street. The yard slopes down to the E. The 1 car garage to the N sits on a concrete foundation and is attached to the N additions.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure appears to be an older building but sits on a concrete foundation, which may indicate it has been moved or altered. The E. & W facades repeat each other and have 2 windows 6-over-6 with double rowlock segmentally arched headers. The 2 entrances on the S are afforded protection by a pent roofed porch on wood posts and with a concrete slab. The attic window has a row-lock segmentally arched lintel. The roof has a wood raking cornice and open rafters at the eaves.

42 Further Description of Important Features Soldier course brick forms straight-side arched hoodmolds over the windows and primary entrance. Windows have stone lug sills. The irregular plan is accented by 2½ story chamfered bays on the N, E, and W. The E bay retains brackets under the gable and terracotta panels under the windows. The attic level dormers are filled with fishscale shingles. Originally the structure had an Eastlake, 1 story porch extending across the N facade and wrapping around the NW corner. The brickwork still shows (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Originally built as a private residence for Mr. F. Dauwalter, an insurance man. It was altered in 1902 to a dormitory, "F" Barracks, for Kemper Military School. John Windsor was cadet in charge of this dorm during his years at Kemper. 1917 Sanborn lists as dormitory. It has now been returned to a single family dwelling.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the SE corner of Third and Center Streets, facing N onto Center. It sits on an embankment. There are no outbuildings. Kemper Military School Complex is immediately to the W across Third Street.

Eastlake millwork remains in tact on the interior. The entrance foyer is accented by an ornate panelled stairway with a richly textured square oak newel. The interior was altered for dormitory space, but has been changed back to its original condition. The present kitchen was formerly a large communal bath. The rear porch is now a utility room.

42 Further Description of Important Features Main block of truncated hip roofed structure has projecting rectangular bays with gable roofs. Attenuated windows, some paired, have segmentally arched headers of brick accented by stone, painted white, skew backs and keystones and stone lug sills with small corbelled brackets. There are large brackets under the eaves. Roof dormers have barrel vault roofs with windows which have semi-circular headers with returns. Chimney caps are ornately corbelled. The double leaf entrance door is inset into the (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built by J.N. Gott as his residence. From 1868 to 1887 Gott resided at 305 Center. Gott, who had been a First Lieut., Regimental Quartermaster, during the Civil War, arrived in Boonville in 1866 and engaged himself manufacturing brick with Constantine Heim. By 1869 he was appointed to the posts of Deputy County Clerk and Receiver in the United States Land Office. In 1881 he was the School Director of the Boonville Public (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on the NE corner of Center and 3rd. Streets, facing S onto Center. It is to the E of Kemper Military School. There is a low concrete reinforcing wall on the W & S property lines, and a frame fence on the N & W.

42. (cont.) primary facade (S). Rectangular panels embellish this inset. A 1 bay, 1 story gable roofed porch supported on square brick columns protects the entrance. This concrete stoop extends to the W across the main facade. On the N facade is an original 2 story ell which has brackets and segmentally arched window headers. Attached to this is a 1 story brick addition on the NW corner. These have bracketed eaves, corbelled brick window sills and rowlock headers. Windows are grouped. The entrance on the W has a small canopy supported by brackets above it.

43. (cont.) Schools. In 1883 he purchased the business of Brewster and Hilliard Tobacco Manufactures of which he served as bookkeeper, and renamed it John N. Gott, and later John N. Gott & Son. In 1911, one year short of his death, he sold the residence to Charles Oscar Strutz.

C.O. Strutz arrived in Boonville in that year to develop the Phoenix-American Pipe Factory, the building of which was constructed in 1912. The Factory soon became the larges employer of Boonville workers and gave the city the reputation of being "The Corn Cop Pipe Capital of the World." The residence remained in the Strutz family, both directly and indirectly, until 1970 when it was sold to Walter J. Potter. The next year it was foreclosed upon and purchased by William L. Holmes for speculation. In 1973, Gordon G. Burns, Director of the Boonslick Area Vocational Technical School, purchased the structure as his residence. During this ownership a partial restoration was done. In 1978 the residence became the property of the present owners. At the present writing there is a contract out for a future sale.

42 Further Description of Important Features: Construction materials are concealed by applied stucco coating. S facade has single leaf entrance with transom flanked by shuttered windows. A raised 1 story, 1 bay porch with a flat roof is located centrally on the primary facade. A chimney is on the E facade. The roof has extended returns and a raking cornice. There is a pent roof addition to the NW and a gable roofed ell on the NE.

43 History and Significance: The structure had for many years a close association with the newer neighboring structure located at 303 Center. In 1858 two sisters, Nancy W. and Martha T. Moss, purchased the 45 by 100 foot partial lot the structure is located upon. In 1868 Martha Moss Patton and her husband, James, along with Sally J. Bone, heir to the Nancy Moss estate, sold the land and a structure to John N. Gott. The house, therefore, was built before 1869 and is believed (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: Structure sits on a narrow lot between 2 large residences, facing S onto Center Street. There is a low reinforcing wall along the S facade which is horizontal and compensates for the angle of the street. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) to have been built between 1858 and 1860. John Gott, at the time of his residence in the structure, was appointed to the posts of Deputy County Clerk and Receiver in the United States Land Office. Also during this time he became the School Director of the Boonville Public Schools. In 1883 he became the owner of the John N. Gott Tobacco Co.

Gott then constructed and moved to the residence at 303 Center, but in 1911 sold both properties (303 and 305 Center) to C.O. Strutz, developer of the Phoenix-American Pipe Works. The close association of the two residences continued with C.O. Strutz residing in 303 and his brother Julius O. Strutz residing in 305. In 1926 it was sold to Frederick M. Strutz who granted a half interest to his son, Reginald, in 1944. In 1953 the structure was granted to Marion Strutz Spizzy. By 1968 the structure was the residence of C.E. Hawkes, a Kemper Military School professor, with an apartment rented to Mrs. Betty Ravensway The present owner is a teacher in the Boonville Public School System.

42 Further Description of Important Features: The structure was enlarged and received its Queen Anne affinities by John Cosgrove in 1879-1910. By 1910 it appeared as it does today with the exception of a family room addition in 1966. The structure features a projecting rectangular 2 story bay W with a gable roof, which is intersected by a hip roof and has fishscale shingles and stickwork. At the SW corner is another rectangular bay which is set at an angle. It repeats the embellishments in the gable. The primary (S) entrance is double leaf with a transom, wherein is etched the name (see attached)

43 History and Significance: Lot is a part of 10 acre tract bought by David Barton in 1830. Milo Blair owned and resided in the structure between 1868 and 1879. He established the newspaper, "Boonville Eagle" in 1865 and was mayor in 1869-70. Between 1879 and 1925, John Cosgrove, US Senator, 1883-1885, and prominent area attorney resided in the house. Cosgrove was also active in civic projects and was instrumental in the securing of the toll-free road (see attached)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The residence faces S onto Center Ave. and has a sandstone retaining wall along the S property line. An alley to the E gives access to a 2 car brick garage which has 6-over-6 windows, stepped parapets N & S, and a garage entrance E.

42. "John Cosgrove." A circular tower with conical roof sits at the SE corner. On the E facade is a gable peak and a 2 story chamfered bay with a gable cap, both have ornate shingles and stickwork. Windows in this main block are 1-over-1, shuttered, and have soldier course segmentally arched lintels and stone sills. Extending to the N is a later (1900-1910) 2½ story brick ell which has 2-over-2 windows with double rowlock segmentally arched headers. The W facade of this ell has a 2 story frame porch, the top level of which is screened in. Extending to the E is the 1 story gabled 1966 addition. It has vertical siding, sits on a concrete foundation, and has an E end chimney and a S entrance with a pent porch. The basement under the front section was transformed into living/bedroom area, 1972, with a totally new 14' sq. excavation for bathroom/dressing room area for the apartment space. Furnished almost entirely in antiques, the interior has been extensively renovated in 1957 & 1966. No walls were changed in this process.

43. bridge across the Missouri River in 1924. The present owners are Paul Darby, certified public accountant, civic affairs leader, and 1st president of the Friends of Historic Boonville, and Gladys Darby, president of the Friends,1976 to present.

The structure is significant historically on a state and local level as the home of U.S. Congressman, John Cosgrove.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The structure is accented by end chimneys and gable end parapet walls with corbelled end splays (E & W) and a wide plain wood cornice (N). The primary (N) facade was embellished c. 1890-1910 by an ornate Eastlake 1 story, 3 bay porch with a 2nd story balustrade and a pedimented gable cap filled with fishscale shingles and supported on ornate wood brackets over the 2nd story entrance. Presently all that remains is the 2nd story gable cap and the Eastlake door surrounds. The 1st story now has a 1 bay, 1 story frame porch on paired wood columns and has a 2nd (see attached)

43 History and Significance
The residence was apparently built by F.T. Kemper in 1854 although there is a possibility it could have been built in the early 1840's. For many years it was the residence of Captain John Porter (c.1869), who was a Missouri River ferryman and operated the "Birdie-Brent". In 1917 it served as the Kemper School Infirmary. At present it is the quarters for Kemper's female cadets. A notation on the obverse of a historical (see attached)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces N onto Center Ave. It sits back from the street. There are no outbuildings. A drive and a parking area are to the S.

42. story iron railing. Extending to the S are several additions including a 2 story plus basement gabled brick ell which has a pent addition and a 1 story brick addition on its E facade and a 1 story brick addition with stepped parapets E & W on its S facade. The stucco on the N facade obscures window treatment; windows on the sides have soldier course lintels. It was remodeled by Cochran Construction Co. in 1928-9 and in 1958.

43. photo indicates that the 2nd story was built first with the first story being added when the street was graded. This photo indicates the presence of quoins on the 1st story level.

The structure is significant historically on a local level as an early residence and a continuous part of Kemper Military School and College.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure uses several bungaloid features including 3-over-1 windows with soldier course lintels and concrete sills, a chimney (W) with flanking windows, and a 1 story front porch with a flat roof, wide frame entablature, and square brick columns. However the structure reaches back to a strong German tradition and places gable parapets with corbelled end splays at the N, E and W gable ends. The primary facade has an entrance with flanking windows, coupled with 2nd story windows and a hipped dormer. (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built by a local contractor for Col. Rea Johnston of Kemper Military School and former mayor. Later, it was the residence of his son, Rea Johnston. The next owner was Dr. G.L. Chamberlain. The present owner was a minister of the Foursquare Gospel Church and is currently the pastor at the Missouri Training School.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S onto Center. There is an alley to the W. No outbuildings are associated with this property.

42 Further Description of Important Features Gable dormers E & W and a large hip dormer N accent the roofline. Windows E & W are 1-over-1 and trabeated. On the N the entrance is slightly off center to the W and has side-lights, windows are 2-over-2 and wide, and there is a 1 story hip roofed porch with doric columns and a spindle balustrade. Fenestration of the W facade indicates interior stairs.

43 History and Significance Present owner purchased the house from Mrs. W.A. Kelsay in 1976 and lived there until sometime in 1979 when he moved to Warrensburg, Mo. Since that time the house has been rental property. Mrs. Kelsay lived in the house from 1937 until she sold the house. Her husband, W.A. Kelsay, was a Boonville Letter Carrier. He is deceased. The house was apparently built by the Gott family c. 1904-06. The 1912-13 Cooper County Directory lists Charles P. and Tillie Gott along with John N. Gott residing at this address. Charles Gott sold real (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Center, sits on a slight embankment and has a drive to the E which leads to the 1 outbuilding, a 1 car frame, gable roofed garage on the SE corner of the lot. It has asbestos siding.

42 Further Description of Important Features On the N facade is a projecting ell with skews as the W bay and an Eastlake porch over the entrance and 2 bays to the E. Brackets are at the eaves, on the gable end, across the porch and along the full W facade. Windows are attenuated, 2-over-2; headers are obscured by the new siding except under the porch where the wood pedimented lintels are still evident. Extending to the S, W bay is a gable ell which has 2 pent additions to the E. Along the E facade is an side entrance listed as 701 4th. St., (see attached)

43 History and Significance Present owners have resided in the house since 1965 when they bought it from Mayme Mills (widow of Harold Mills) who lived there from c. 1950 until her death. Previous to her the house was the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Rehmeier. Mr. Rehmeier was a Boonville photographer who came to Boonville in 1926. His studio was at 417½ E. Spring St. Prior to the Rehmeiers, the house was the residence of the Hoefer family in the 1920's. In 1912-13 the house was the residence of Henry (and Pauline) Steckman, proprietor (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the SW corner of 4th & Center Streets, facing N onto Center. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The Queen Anne details of this structure have been removed or obsured by installation of new siding. The plan with its chamfered bay N & W, and a rectangular bay at an angle at the SW corner remains intact. The N bay has stained glass; the angular bay has border glass. An entrance is to the N in a pent addition, at the NW corner, and to the SE, where there are 2 story porches with lattice 1st., and partially enclosed 2nd.

43 History and Significance The structure was the residence of H.T. Hudson, a merchant who owned H.T. Hudson & Co., a harness and hardware store located at 321 Main Street between at least 1892 and 1910. The structure was altered into apartments over 32 years ago. A past owner was Ben Horst. The present owner acquired the property in 1970.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the SE corner of Center and 4th. Streets, facing N onto Center. A drive from 4th, S of the residence leads to a 1 car, gable garage with asbestos siding and doors to the W. This garage is repeated to the E with a drive from Center Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure combines several styles into 1 structure. Segmentally arched, double rowlock headers on openings represent the Mo. German influence. Windows are 1-over-1, and have concrete sills. Queen Anne affinities are evident in the chamfered angles of the SW and SE corners, the wrap around porch, and the irregular plan. The roof line - a single gable roof facing the street - looks to the newer Bungalow style. The porch on the SE is raised on MCB on molded concrete piers, columns and balustrade, and (attachment)

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has a projecting central bay with a gable roof and a double door entrance. It retains a decorative vergeboard and ornate Eastlake doors. Small basement windows appear above ground level. The 1st. story windows are attenuated, 2-over-2, and corbelled rowlock sills, and unique stepped headers. On the W. is a double entrance reached by concrete steps. On the S is a projecting gable roofed, basement entrance. The rear 1st. floor entrance has concrete steps. A hip roof projecting rec. bay (see attached)

43 History and Significance The present structure was originally built as a 2½ story brick residence. Built on a 2/3rd. plan over a raised basement. It possessed double end chimneys with the entrance with sidelights in the westernmost bay. Slightly pedimented lintels accented the 2-over-2 attenuated windows. A Greek Revival 1 story, 1 bay frame porch containing doric columns, a wide entablature with dentilwork and a flat roof, and six steps graced the structure's entrance bay area. An attached one story frame structure (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a slight embankment as Chestnut drops off to the W. It faces N onto Chestnut. There is a asphalt drive to the E and a gravel parking lot to the S. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) addition on the E facade has a basement pent roofed entrance on the S. small rectangular windows - N & S and a circular window on the E. There is a chimney on the E facade. On the primary (N) facade corner stones read "Organized 1916; Dedicated 1921 - Remodeled 1938."

43. (cont.) predates the brick structure and was attached on the west side. Built around 1831 by Charles H. Smith the frame structure contained a pent roof veranda across the north facade.

Oral history indicates that the brick structure was built for Judge Washington Adams, noted Missouri Supreme Court Justice (1871-74), framer of the 1875 Missouri Constitution and Boonville attorney. Documentation shows that Adams was residing at that location in 1860. Adams widow continued her residence till 1891. It was then sold to James Henry Wooldridge, a one time professor at Kemper Military School, and bank director. In 1907 Wooldridge's widow, Eliza developed her large residence lot into the Wooldridge Addition to the City of Boonville. She continued to reside in the house till 1921.

In 1921 the "Wooldridge Estate" was purchased by Herman Schnack (a saloon operator) and later sold to the Immanuel Lutheran Church Congregation. The main floor was used for Church services with Sunday School and Social gatherings on the second floor. The older frame structure containing five rooms and a bath were arranged as living quarters for the pastor.

A 1938 remodeling razed the dwelling, removed the upper stories of the brick structure and added additional area on the first floor level. The full basement was divided into a recreation hall, Sunday School room, kitchen, restrooms and furnace room. A projecting central bay entrance and steeple was added. A residence on 4th and Chestnut was purchased as a parsonage. In the later years before its sale in 1966 the building was used as the Church's Education Center.

In 1966 the American Legion-Thoma-Tuttle Post No. 52, purchased the building for their meeting hall ahd slightly altered the first floor and removed the steeple to meet their needs.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 1st. story is brick and has segmental arched openings with rowlock headers. The entrance is the easternmost bay. There is an overhead door on this facade. Windows are 6-over-6. The 2nd. story has composition siding and is 5 bays, the central one being an entrance. Windows are boarded up. The roofline on the S has a boxed cornice; it is a stepped parapet along the W. This W facade is concrete block. The pent roofed, 1½ story addition to the rear (N) has vinyl siding and 1 large opening at the attic level.

43 History and Significance
In 1885, a 1 story brick structure was there but was standing vacant. Between c 1890 and 1900 it was used as a blacksmith shop.[1] Between 1900 and 1910 the frame 2nd story was added and it served both as a blacksmith shop[2] and tin shop. The tin shop (operated by Frank Bechtold and later by his son) remained in business until at least 1929. In the 1940's a pool room was in the building.[3] In the 1960's and 70's it was the site of John Popp's Upholstery Shop. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
There are no outbuildings. The structure sits at the sidewalk. An alley is to the W, as well as a parking lot.

43 History and Significance
Scales were located here as early as 1892 and may have been associated with other city buildings located on lot, such as tool shed, and Calaboose and Rock Pile." Later, the lot was developed into Esser Automobile Sales lot. Gil Lammers, owner of Lammers Elevator, currently owns the scales but not the lot. The lot was recently agreed upon as the site of a proposed new combined county/city jail building. A bond issue for construction was voted down on 4/1/80.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
Located at NW corner at 6th and Chestnut Streets. A parking lot is an L around the building.

The 2 W bays are also large glass windows The windows have corbelled brick sills (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance This area was used for Wagon Sheds and Dwellings as early as 1885 The current building appears on the 1929 Sanborn as a garage with the office in the NE corner and having a capacity of 40 cars. It has concrete floors and a steel truss roof. During the 1960's and 1970's the building was leased by J. Kenneth Esser and Leslie Chamberlin for their Court St. consignment auctions.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits close to the street and faces N onto Court Street. An alley is to the W. A partial alley is to the S , however the building appears to be attached to the Morgan Street building at a point along this S facade A gravel parking lot is to the E.

43 History and Significance This area of Main, Spring, and Grand has had several bakeries located in various storefronts at different times. This area facing Grand was originally a feed Warehouse area. A bakery and ovens were located here c 1915 and by 1929 a walk connected them to 322 Main. At this time they were used as bake shop and shipping room. Flour storage was behind 513 & 515 Spring Street. Trouts Bakery was here 1923 to 1944 and moved to the old Harriman's Garage which had been converted for them by the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Grand Street which is now used as an alley. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is reached by a set of steps leading downward at about a 40° angle and measuring approximately 20' in length. This area is barrel vaulted. The cellar's ceiling springs from an impost level of about 4' and reaches about 8½' high. There is a central occulus. The stone is randomly cut in varying sizes ranging from 12" x 7" to 24" x 9". The 4 central courses in the arch are all long narrow stones approximately 18" x 6". The 6' high x 4' wide entrance is vermiculated similarly to those used in the (cont.)

43 History and Significance The cellar was probably associated with a structure, such as a residence or beer garden and is on land owned by either William Harley or M.J. Wertheimer in the 1860's. Both men had residences in town so probably did not reside on the land. However, both were associated with the Boonville Wine Co. William Harley, an Irish immigrant, born 1796, was also Postmaster in Franklin in 1839 and was involved with the Santa Fe Trade and in banking. He donated his land in 1888 to Boonville as a city park. For history on Wertheimer see 713-15 E. High St. form.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The cellar is now located in Harley Park and is immediately to the W of the Water Treatment Pools. A deep ravine is to the N. There are no buildings directly associated with the structure. Trees and underbrush obscure the cellar opening.

43 History and Significance Area was originally used as T.R. Peyton & Sons Nursery and the Boonville Nursery. Small residences (12) were built here at the same time, all on the same style and plan, by T.R. Peyton in 1915. Oral history indicates that the dwellings were perhaps the first pre-fab structures in the city.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the street facing N. To the S. is a pent roof shed.

43 History and Significance Abstract to the property, p. 16, refers to "...the land... together with all ... the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging ... all buildings and improvements on said premises ..." in 1855. In 1843 the lot (west ½ of the lot 111) was sold with a consideration of $5800 (p. 14 Abstract), suggesting building was there by then. In 1938 page 97 of the Abstract records that the eastern 5 feet of uniform width of Lot No. 110 became attached to the west ½ of lot No. 111. The house is located near (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance

The present block from 201 High to 213 High is listed as the Boonville Coal and Wood Yard on the 1885 and 1892 Sanborn Maps. A small, 1 story frame dwelling is shown on the site of the present 209 High St. up to 1900. By 1910 the present house is on the site, built by Joe Haley. The present owner bought the house in 1963 from Frank Robinson (who never resided there) and he bought it from the Bowmer sisters in 1961. Other previous residents have been Frank Rentchler and Mrs. O.B. Kline.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings

43 History and Significance

The present dwelling was probably built sometime between 1885 and 1892, replacing an earlier frame dwelling, although the present owner feels that it may have incorporated the earlier structure. This house, from early in the 20th century was the residence of C.H. Dunkle who founded the Dunkle Business School in 1906 in one room in the 2nd story of 328 Main. Later Dunkle purchased and renovated a church on the corner of 6th and Vine. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings

There are no outbuildings. The residence faces S onto High Street with an alley to the N & W.

42 Further Description of Important Features Irregular plan and roof line is typical of style, as are the chamfered SW ell which has ornate corner brackets, the entrance with transom set into the angle at the SE, and gable end wall dormers embellished with fishscale shingles and stickwork verge boards. This last motif is repeated in the gabled dormer over the entrance bay. Windows are 1-over-1 attenuated with segmentally arched soldier course headers, stone lug sills and medallions in the frame surround. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Built by J.J. Walther, local contractor, who also built steamboats, sometime between 1892 and 1900. Present owner bought the house in 1978 from Mrs. Beulah Hornerbrink who had owned it since 1960.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is a 1920's brick, hip roofed, single car garage to the NW corner of the lot. A concrete and gravel drive leads from High Street along the W property line to the garage. The residence is on the NW corner of High and Third Streets. Reinforcing walls are to the S and E.

42. (cont.) There is 1 semi-circular window on the E which has a soldier course surround and stained glass. Also on the E is a shallow polygonal bay and a stained glass attenuated window at the stair landing level. On the S & E bays are 2 rows of nailhead terra cotta app;oed below the 2nd. story windows. The N ell is brick at the 1st. story; 2nd. story is frame with a gabled roof. There is also an inset balcony where this ell joins the main structure. A frame Eastlake porch is on the NE corner. On the W facade is an entrance to the 1st floor and in enclosed entrance to the basement. Alterations include a new geometric 1 story brick porch to the front, SE corner.

43 History and Significance The 1929 Sanborn map relates that the structural drawing was made from plans and we assume the house was built in that year. The property, with an existing house, was obtained in 1928 from Cal Hagar, a pre-Prohibition saloon keeper, by John & Edward Salzman. In 1942 John Salzman sold his half interest to his brother. In 1944 Winters Martin, a lawyer, purchased the duplex for rental property. The current owner, also a lawyer, obtained the structure in 1977 for the same purpose.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings A concrete drive from High to a garage to the NE runs along the E side of the residence which is on the NE corner of High and Third. The garage is 2 car of brick with a hip roof and folding wood doors. There is a low concrete reinforcing wall to the S.

43 History and Significance Main block built by H. Kingsbury in 1869. In 1883 Mrs. Meierhoffer of Meierhoffer's Cooperage Business added dining room, kitchen and bath. Bath is reportedly 1st interior bath in community. Dr. H.D. Quigg remodeled the house after he purchased it in 1915. Mrs. Quigg resided in the house till 1973. Between 1974 and 1976 the house remained vacant till Lance Carlson purchased it and began interior restoration and redecoration. The present owner Russell Patterson, Director of the Kansas City Opera, (See Attachment)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Structure sits close to High Street and to the alley which runs to the W of it. One outbuilding remains, a large 2 story board and batten building with a gable roof. There is a rectangular cupola at the ridge. It sits along the alley to the S and has access from there. 42. (cont.) Gable ends have a raking cornice with returns. Several small scroll brackets remain under the eaves. The 1 story ell to the SW is original.

The interior is generally of an Eastlake quality. The central hall has a square newel post with a console type top. The spindle balustrade follows the U-shape of the stairs which flairs at the base. Millwork is a combination of carved intaglio patterns and the bullseye motif. Another outstanding feature in regards to the millwork is the use of different woods. The 2 N rooms are pine, attenuated windows have wood panels below, and each has a pine Eastlake mantel. Originally stoves were used, as evident from the remaining flue openings. Mantelpieces now serve gas stoves. The firebox has glazed ceramic tile and a brass fire screen. Several pocketdoors are used; single leaf doors have rectangular transoms. Most of the hardware is still intact. The 2 S rooms have a trabeated molding with an egg and dart course. There are no panels below the attenuated windows. On the SW the millwork facing onto this room is oak; in the SE it, as well as the floor covering, is birdseye maple. A pantry with built-in cabinets connects the SE room to the kitchen. A small room used as a closet and hall connect the kitchen to the bath and enclosed frame porch. The bath has arched stained glass windows, ornate ceramic tiles, and a marble sink set onto brass legs. Marble also forms the back splash and the mirror frame. The original shower and tub fixtures remain. Decorating the walls of this room were murals painted by a local artist. Over the sink was painted a large deer head; the remaining walls illustrated the canals of Venice, all done in a bluish tint. Due to severe flaking, the murals have been covered with wall paper. On the 2nd. story, there are 2 rooms, a bath and the hall which gives access to the porch. The bath was made from space taken from the W room. New closets have been added. A corner post in the stair landing was added to conceal plumbing pipes. The majority of the lighting fixtures, a combination of gas and electric, remain except in dining room where a tiffany has been added.

When recent work was done in the SW room, a flue was found on the S wall and a window opening on the E wall, indicating that the room was original and that later rooms were added to the E & S.

Roofs over the rear additions use hip, gable and pent forms.

43. (cont.) purchased the home as his country home in 1979.

44. (cont.) This barn may have been used as a livery stable. Meierhoffer was noted for his fine matched horses.

NOTE to Item #43: Historically significant, the structure is associated with 2 prominent Boonville families: the Mierhoffers, a businessman, and the Quiggs, a local doctor. Architecturally, the significance lies in the retension of exterior motifs and the unique use of woods in the interior millwork. The structure is significant on the local level.

43 History and Significance

The house was originally built as a residence by C.L. Randolph, local builder and contractor. In 1929, the owners, H.W. Michels, remodeled their one story house into a two story duplex which contains 2 six room apartment, each with separate basement and upper story. William Walther was the contractor for the project. The present owner purchased the property from Boonslick Savings & Loan, who had repossesed it from Bessie Messinger. A previous owner to her was Gilbert Shannon.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings

There are no outbuildings, however a concrete foundation remains at the NW corner of the lot. The structure faces S onto High. An alley runs to the immediate W of it.

43 History and Significance The house was built by William Johnmeyer in the late teens or early 1920's. Paul Wooldridge, lawyer and former City Prosecutor, is the present owner and resident. He purchased the house in1968 from the 1st Christian Church, which used the house as a parsonage from 1959 to 1968. Prior to this it was the William Bushmeyer residence. The Bushmeyer's bought it from the Johnmeyers in 1924 and sold it following the death of Mrs. Bushmeyer in 1959. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Structure faces S onto High Street. There is a low concrete reinforcing wall on the N and a concrete drive along the E side which leads to the 1 car brick garage. It is original to the construction of the residence, has a hipped roof, open rafters, and a wooden door facing N.

42 Further Description of Important Features Eaves are open with large knee braces at the gable ends. There is a 1 story, gable roofed porch on the SE which is supported by square brick columns and a brick balustrade. Large frame stickwork is evident. On the SW is a projecting rectangular bay window with a 3 part window in the S. This 3 part window is repeated on the S facade and on the projecting rectangular window of the E facade. Also on the E is an end chimney with small flanking windows. Most windows are 4-over-1 (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built by C.L. Randolph, a local contractor and grandfather of Mrs. Charles Malone. The first owner was Albin J. Schmidt.

The only major alteration to the structure has been the addition of a dormer window when the attic was converted into a bedroom.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto High Street. There is a 1 car brick garage with asphalt covered hip roof to the NW of the residence. A concrete drive from High St. runs along the W property line to the garage.

42. (cont.) Windows have concrete lug sills and a concrete header course at the 2nd. story level. A 2 story frame porch is on the NE corner of the N facade. Owner has blueprints. Original cost at $11,000.

43. (cont.) He was elected to the post of Lieutenant Govenor under the Herbert Hadley administration in 1909. This structure was under construction when Gmelich died in 1914. His widow lived in the House for several years, it remains in the family today.

Judge Roy Williams, and wife rented this house 1920's-30's until they purchased their own home at 703 E. High Street. Judge Roy was a Missouri Appellate Court Judge, Local Historian and Co-founder of the Boonslick Historical Society.

Significant on a local level both historically as the home of a prominent merchant family and architecturally as an example of the influence of the Prairie Style in this rural Midwest community.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building is accented by a projecting chamfered bay as the W bay of the N facade. A gable roof caps the bay and has returns and fish-scale shingles. Its central window 1st and 2nd story has a stained glass top pane. A 1 story porch runs from the bay to the E over an entrance with transom and 1 window. Molded concrete block forms the balustrade and piers. Wood doric columns support a wide entablature and a pediment filled with fishscale shingles over the entrance. Concrete forms the lintels, (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built by local contractor and steamboat builder, J.J. Walther, as his residence. Walther was known as the builder of the last steam ferry to travel from Boonville to Howard County. The dwelling remained in the Walther family until c. 1947 or 1948 when it sold to Clifford E. "Slim" Buford, an employee at Holsum Bakery, for his residence. In 1976 it was purchased by the present owner who uses it as rental property. A structure at the rear of this property, now 210 4th St., was once Walther's workshop.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Sitting at the SE corner of E. High and 4th. Streets, the residence faces N onto E. High. There are no outbuildings. Originally 210 4th Street was associated with the property.

43 History and Significance Property was purchased in 1879 by David Koontz and remained in the family until 1977. The Koontz family ran a grocery mercantile business in the late 1800's. Property was original site of log structure which housed the Thespian Society prior to their building Thespian Hall. Harry Moore, the present owner of the structure, currently retired, worked as an engineer for the United States Geological Society and was involved in conducting stream flow studies of the Missouri River and its tributaries (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Facing S., the structure sits on the NE corner of High & 4th. Streets. There is a picket fence to the S; a brick partially herringbone, walk is to the W & N. To the rear (NE) is an L shaped group of frame outbuildings, some having brick floors. One of these originally housed a charcoal fired pottery kiln used by Frances Koontz.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built in several sections, the structure's primary facade indicates the evolution of styles. The original 3 bay, 2 story section has flat arched windows with brick headers and 9-over-6 lights, and a central entrance. To its E is a tall 3½ story section built on a 2/3rds plan with pedimented lintels over 6-over-6 windows and an inset entrance with Greek Revival surround. This section is capped by a boxed cornice and frame frieze (N&S) and gable parapets (E&W). Gable dormers N & S, centrally located, are a later (cont.)

43 History and Significance Known for many years as the "Commercial Hotel", the building, which has 55 rooms, was apparently constructed in 3 or 4 major stages. The earliest section of the building is the 2 story, 3 bay section immediately adjacent to the west of the large 3½ story central section. No exact date of construction can be determined for this original section, but it almost certainly dates to the period 1822-1826. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The large structure faces S onto High St.; Bridge St. is to the N. It sits close to the street. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

42. (cont.) addition. The end wings reflect the Missouri German influence in their segmentally arched 2-over-2 windows. This motif is repeated in the 2 brick ells extending to the N. Brickwork indicates they too were also built in stages.

There are 3 entrances on the S and several on the E & W facade. Many of the windows retain their louvered wood shutters.

On the interior, the original section has been gutted to the brick walls. On the basement level there is a large fireplace and beehive bake oven. No stairs remain in this section, however there is evidence in the 2nd story floor of their existence. In the 3 story section the large hall is punctuated by an ornate turning stairway. The 2 large 18' x18' rooms on the 1st and 2nd floors have massive fireplaces. Millwork is heavily molded; baseboards are approximately 16" deep. The basement level has 1 large fireplace and a herringbone brick floor, possibly indicating a kitchen area. The E & W end sections do not have fireplaces but have interior door transoms, as do the rooms of the ells which are reached off narrow halls.

43. (cont.) The 3 story central section appears to date to the mid 1830's or 1840's at which time it was known as "Bailey's Mansion House".

The extreme E and W wings date from the 1870's-80's. The Boonville City Directory, 1869-70, lists a John Fessler as operating a restaurant and residing at what appears to be this location. The Sanborn Map of 1885 lists the building as "Mansion House." In 1892 and 1900 it is listed as "Commercial Hotel." During this period it was operated by the Million family who later went on to operate the Frederick Hotel. In 1910 it is listed as "Courtney Hotel." In 1917 it is listed as "Santa Fe Hotel." In 1929 it again appears as "Commercial Hotel." The building was operated as a hotel up until about 1970. In 1972 it was purchased by Chris Shaler, the present owner, who began restoration work (abandoned by 1976) and leased a portion of the 1976 and since then the building has been vacant and in a steadily deteriorating condition. A minor fire damaged the rear portion of the building on 2/3/80. The building is significant historically and architecturally on a local and state level as one of the earliest operating hotels in the Boonville area.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade is to the N where the gable end is to the street, windows are 6-over-6 with panels below and shutters, and the entrance with transom and sidelights is enclosed in a gable roofed glass vestibule. There is an entrance to the W. To the S is a large concrete block addition which has loading docks E & W.

43 History and Significance The Boonville Daily News and Advertiser building was constructed in 1964 to accomodate their expanding business. The South addition was added in 1976. In 1885 this property had a 2 story structure on it which was listed as the Central Hotel. By 1892 it had altered to a dwelling. Again in 1910 it was listed as a hotel. Continuing to change, it was listed as a dwelling in 1917 and again as a hotel in 1929. An auto repair and painting shop was to the rear in 1929.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto High Street. An alley is to the S and E. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The S facade has a new (c. 1903) brick facade. The 2nd story windows were altered to 3-over-1 with corbelled sills and rowlock lintels. The large entrance with flanking windows of the original 1st story changed to 3 multipane windows with an entrance. Its E facade has a stepped parapet and a 1 story brick addition extending to the E. Its S facade has 4 bays with rowlock, segmental headers. The entrance has a transom. Windows and a double garage opening (cont.)

43 History and Significance
This building was probably built to house the Boonville Foundry. Cast iron lintels reading "Boonville Foundry - 1859" may still be found on Main Street. The 1885 Sanborn map shows this building as a 2 story Carriage Shop. By 1892 the Robert Kerner Foundry and Machine Shop was here using the 2 story front section as a machine shop and a rear 1 story section as a foundry. P.P. Viertel was listed as having a foundry and machine shop in (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings

42. (cont.) are boarded up. The top of the addition was used as a porch. It has a pent frame enclosed area with composition siding. Additions to the N include a 2 story brick addition built in several sections. Fenestration has changed along the W facade. At the NE corner is a large door cut into the structure. The NW corner has a loading dock and large door set at an angle into the building. The E facade is obscured by other buildings.

43. (cont.) the building and a 1 story addition to the E in 1910. A tin clad building at the NE corner of the lot was a "Buggy Repository". In 1917 the 2 story front section was a garage, the rear addition was a Blacksmith and Machine shop, and the E addition with an earth floor was a monument shop. By 1929 the garage was listed as a machine shop. The other business remained the same. A tornado during the late 1890's caused considerable damage to the front facade and probably accounts for the facade changes.

42 Further Description of Important Features A 1 story brick section with a large arched opening and a sawtooth brickwork cornice links 203 Main and the 2 story main section of Cochran's building. The basement level has segmentally arched windows which become larger as the street slopes downward to the W to expose the basement level. The fenestration of the N facade has had some alterations· the original openings were segmentally arched. Two entrances remain: a large semi-circular arched double entrance at street level and a raised single leaf (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance A large livery business, Smith & Ragland, facing Main, had a building which extended into this lot in 1885 and 1892. By 1910, the present building housed carpenter shop area 1st floor; lumber, paint and glass to the rear; and a private stables and blacksmith in the basement. (Cochran was noted for fine horses) By 1929 the Planing Mill was listed on the 1st story with the office in the NE corner. The W.J. Cochran Co. has been in continued (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features: The SE corner of the building has large glass windows and an entrance to the E. The N bays of the E facade have 2 large overhead garage doors. On the S facade is a rectangular projecting bay with entrance to the E which appears to be the restrooms. Typical of the style, the structure is embellished with a large "Standard" sign, 2 red strips, and blue tile. Associated with the structure is a gable roofed, Butler building on a concrete foundation. It sits to the N of the station and has garage (see attached)

43 History and Significance: This service station was formerly known as Cleary's Standard Service from the time it was built in 1927 to 1964. Cleary managed the station for the Standard Oil Co. until 1936 when he leased the station from Standard. A second building was added to the 1927 building in c. 1930. These service station buildings replaced older structures occupied by Weyland's carriage shop and a building used in the 1920's as a Buick dealership (Ralph Whitehurse and Harold Stretz, proprietors.) (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The buildings sit at the NW corner of High and Main Street at the entrance to the bridge. An alley is to the N. The SE corner of the lot is a concrete drive, gas pumps and a large sign.

42. (cont.) door entrances to the S & E.

43. (cont.) Louis Weyland was born in Germany and left his native land because of participation in the Revolution of 1846 and was exiled. He came to this country and located in Boonville in 1848. He had learned the trade of carriage builder. This he followed in Boonville. Mr. Weyland established a shop south of the old court house on Court Street where he plied his trade until 1871. He then located at the NW corner of High and Main Streets (site of present Clark's Service Center) and built up an extensive business. He made carriages and wagons and in later days operated a repair shop until 1908, remaining in business in Boonville for 60 years. After his death the business was run by his son, Charles Weyland until his death in 1923, at which time the building was leased to Stretz and Whitehurse until c. 1925 (Buick Agency). From 1925 to 1927 it was an Oldsmobile agency run by Bernard Weyland, and then it was sold to Standard Oil.

The present owner of the property, Dub Clark, purchased the property from his brother, Billy K. Clark, in 1973, and Billy K. Clark purchased it from the Standard Oil Co. in 1971, at which time Morris Johnmeyer was managing the station.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building is accented by a stone arcaded inset porch S facade, 1st story. The 1-over-1 windows are capped by a straight-sided arch and a connecting belt course at all 3 stories. This formed of 3 courses of ashlar brick laid in rowlock pattern. Ashlar brick also forms rectangular panels below the corbelled brick cornice. A basement entrance is to the S. The W facade has a flat roofed 1 story porch supported on doric columns and protecting a double leaf entrance. This raised (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The Frederick Hotel is significant as a local and state landmark and as the best example of Romanesque Revival Architecture in the area. The Hotel was built for Charles A Sombart by the W.J. Cochran and Sons Construction Company in 1905 at a cost of $40,000. Sombart a miller and banker, built the building to answer the need for a modern hotel. Upon the arrival of the Highway 40 Boonville Road Bridge in 1924 the Hotel became well known as a hotel with exceptional accomodations and quality dining. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NE corner of High & Main Streets, facing S. It is at the entrance to the Bridge. There are no outbuildings. A gravel drive from High Street runs N along the E side of the building to a gravel parking area to the N. The property drops off sharply to the N and affords a grand view of the river.

42. (cont.) porch is on concrete piers. The frame open porch and balustrade extend around the NW corner of the structure. The inset E section has an entrance to the E and now serves as the bus station. Projecting to the N, E section is a later addition. Windows are 3-over-3 with concrete sills, but no headers. W.W. Walther & Geiger Heating & Plumbing were the contractors for this additions. On the interior the lobby retains the black & white marble floors and an Eastlake stair and newel. The desk has been removed and a ladies restroom added. A partition to the E now blocks off the kitchen and brass lined elevator, which is still in operable condition. The ladies powder room was converted to a small bar and a stained glass window from an upper floor was moved to this area. The large dining room with pressed ceiling and ornate cast iron columns with corinthian capitals remains intact. The original 44 rooms are spacious and there is a suite on the SW corner of the 2nd. story. The later addition had 36 rooms total, 22 of which had private baths. A large banquet room was in the basement. All rooms have a louvered summer door.

43. (cont.) From its inception in 1905 till 1964, it was leased by the Million family. Ownership of the Hotel was retained by the sombart family till 1973 when it was sold and operated by Joe Rodgers. Default occurred and in 1974 it was purchased by the current owners. They have conducted some interior renovations and operate a week end restaurant.

The Hotel Frederick lot is the site of the Jacob Wyan store and the home once known as Arlington Heights, residence of J.C. Macurdy, photographer 1875-1886. Between 1886-1890 it was owned by Governor Lon V. Stephens. In approximately 1866 Jacob Zimmer also built a blacksmith shop on the lot which later became the George Hirsch "Horseshoeing and General Blacksmithing Shop". All existing structures including alledged brick kilns were razed for the construction of the hotel.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade has been altered so that the original central entrance is now a window and the flanking windows are now doors, all having segmental lintels. A gabled brick ell extends to the N and there is a brick section at the NW corner. The breezeway between the two areas is enclosed with clapboarding to the W. On the E facade there is a later brick pent addition. A brick and frame addition is across the N facade with an entrance to the N.

43 History and Significance E.J. Melton, in his History of Cooper County (1937), says that Jacob Wyan, prominent pioneer businessman in Boonville, built the dwelling at 513 E. High St., and that the brick used in its construction was imported from England (p.315). This would appear, however, to be erroneous information since the Property Abstract shows that Wyan never owned the property on which the house stands (east half of Lot #88). He did, however, own the property (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The house sits on the front third of the lot facing S onto High. It sits on an embankment with a concrete wall S & W. There is an alley to the E and another alley to the W. There is 1 outbuilding, a gable roofed board & batten storage shed to the NW of the residence. Immediately adjacent to the W is the Fredrick Hotel.

43. (cont.) immediately to the west (on which a house known as "Arlington Heights" once stood), but only for a short time prior to his death in 1849. The earliest mentioned owner for the east half of Lot #88 (present 513 High) was Henry (and Rosalie) von Phul, a distinguished pioneer businessman of St. Louis who apparently never lived in Boonville. He owned the property from 1823 to 1842 when he sold it to William H. (and Sarah) Trigg. Trigg, a medical doctor and early Boonville merchandiser and banker, was a partner with Jacob Wyan and in 1835 married Wyan's daughter, Sarah. Trigg's mercantile business was one of the largest retail establishments in central Missouri and he was also extensively engaged in the handling of real estate. He owned the property from 1842 to 1869 when it passed to Juliet A. (Trigg) Johnson, his daughter and the wife of William M. Johnson, one of Trigg's business associates. It does not appear, however, that either the Triggs or the Johnsons ever resided on the property. In an unpublished document entitled "Four Corners of Boonville" (1934) by Mary Littlepage Williams (F.O.H.B. Archives) it is mentioned that the whole area on the north side of High from present Main St. to the Stammerjohn property at 603 High, was a brickyard from 1856 to 1866. This brickyard, which had three kilns for burning lime, was run by Louis Houch. If this information is accurate it would seem to indicate that there was no house on the east half of lot #88 until after 1866. In 1870, Juliet A. Johnson sold the property to Marcus Williams Jr., an early Boonville contractor and builder, for $500. Some 8 months later Williams sold the property to Horace S. (and Anne M.) Windsor for $2800. This would seem to indicate that the present house was built during Williams' ownership (May to December 1870) and probably by Williams himself. Horace S. Windsor, who came to Cooper County in 1838 from Virginia where he had been a neighbor of George Washington (his wife's father had been associated with Washington in the management of Mt. Vernon), did extensive farming in Cooper County. He died in February 1880 and the property passed to his only child, John H. Windsor, who was involved in a large farming operation in Clarks Fork Township, Cooper County. The house apparently functioned as his town house during the 1880's and 90's. John Windsor died in 1906 and the property passed to his sons and daughters (Walter B., Horace G., Eugene A., Norman H., and Alma) who maintained ownership until 1926 when the property was sold to Frederick Sombart. The Sombart family was one of the most prominent and substantial families in Boonville. Frederick was a son of Charles A. Sombart, who had a large milling operation in Boonville and who built the Frederick Hotel which lies immediately adjacent to 513 High on the west. The house passed from Frederick Sombart to Paul (and Bernice) Sombart in 1958. Paul Sombart converted the house from a single family residence to a duplex by making an addition on the east facade and altering the front facade (S) so that the central entrance door became a window and the two flanking windows became doors. He also closed in the back porch and added a concrete patio immediately to the rear of the house. In 1974 the Sombarts sold the house to James (and Debby) Bornhauser. They sold it to Judy Eatherton in 1977 and she sold it to Robert L. (and Becky Moodie) Dyer in 1979.

42 Further Description of Important Features Accenting the primary facade (S) is a projecting ell with a polygonal bay, W bay, and a c. 1920 pent porch over the entrance with a transom and 1 window, E bay. All these openings have soldier course, segmentally arched headers. There is a brick ell extending to the N., which has a vinyl sided, pent addition to the W. A pent addition on the N extends to the E 1 bay.

43 History and Significance Built on same plan and like construction as 519 & 527. Similar to 523 which is frame. Previous owners have been Mrs. Hedy Smith and George Morris. The original house was a 3 room structure. The kitchen, bath, and back bedroom were added by present owners. This building has local significance architecturally as part of a cohesive neighborhood. It forms part of a streetscape which exemplifies those of Boonville at the turn of the century.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings It sits on an embankment, facing S onto High. An alley is to the W & N which gives access to a gabled garage. It has corrugated metal sheathing and an entrance to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built originally as a 1 story structure, the 2nd story was added c. 1900-1910. The house is accented by a polygonal 2 story bay with a gable wall dormer embellished with fishscale shingles, brackets and a spindle frieze; a 1 story Eastlake porch with scroll brackets and a plain balustrade above; and a gable attic dormer with fishscale shingles all in the S facade. Openings have segmentally arched lintels. The 1st story entrance originally had a Bohemian red glass transom. The E facade has a jerkin head gable filled (cont.)

43 History and Significance The house sits on the E half of lot 87 (original town of Boonville). The 1st story, consisting of 3 rooms, was built between 1880 and 1885 by Charles Vollrath. Subsequent additions were in 1885, 1900 and 1910. Charles Vollrath, secretary and treasurer of Sombart Milling Co., which had originally been owned by his father; president of the City Council for many years; and married to Pauline Kratz; died in 1935. At this time the property was (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. A stable was located at the rear of the property as late as 1929. A brick, walled courtyard with iron insets is attached to the NE corner of the house and was added in the 1960's. The structure faces S onto High St. with a concrete wall along the front property line. An alley to the N gives access to a gravel (cont.)

The interior of the house contains 6 rooms downstairs and 4 bedrooms upstairs. The fireplaces, one in the library and one in the parlor. were probably constructed to be used with iron stoves. Gas/electric combination light fixtures are present in 4 rooms. An L shaped hallway downstairs houses an oak 2 cornered stairway with a stained glass window on the landing.

43. (cont.) willed to Bertha Vollrath, daughter of Charles, and was maintained as her residence until her death in 1964. In July 1965, the property was sold by the county court to settle the Vollrath estate, and became the property of John and Josephine Stegner. They used the house as rental property until October 1965 when it was purchased by Volney and Martha Hildreth. The Hildreths used the house as the "Red Door Restaurant", so named for the beautiful red glass panes in the main entrance door and transom, and the arched windows of the balcony and its transom. In 1973 the house was sold to Robert and Evelyn Wingate and used as their residence. During their ownership the red glass was removed from the front entrances. In 1977 Brent and Sharon Bozarth bought the house and lived there one year. In 1978 it was purchased by the present owners.

43 History and Significance Residence until 1970-Law office there after. Alike in style and construction to 515 & 519 High Street. In its original condition the structure is similar to 523 High Street. Due to its architectural motifs, the structure fits into the streetscape and helps to build a cohesive neighborhood quality. For this reason and the fact that it has been rehabilitated, it has architectural significance on a local level.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The residence sits on the NW corner of 6th & High Streets, facing S onto High St. A herringbone brick sidewalk is to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (N) has a 1 story porch which also wraps around the N ½ of the W facade. Supported on square brick columns, the roof has ornate bracing and block modillions at the eaves. This raised porch has a concrete base and a brick, open-work balustrade. On the 1st. story the entrance is off center to the W. and has sidelights with rectangular panels below. The slightly projecting gable end is filled with a vertical half-timber design painted white on a red stucco background. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Structure was built by Herman Schnack, a saloon keeper who operated the Phoenix Saloon, 315 Main Street. The brick work was contracted by the J.H. Stretz Company. The second owner was the Koenig family. The present owner, Lloyd Geiger, Jr., is employed at the Gygr Gas Co. while his wife, Peggy, is the City Clerk. A building containing 4 tenements was existent on the site from before 1885 to 1912.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Facing N onto High Street the structure sits on the SE corner of 6th and High Streets. A low concrete reinforcing wall is on the N and W facades. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) Most windows are 1-over-1 with stone lug sills and flat arched soldier course brick headers on the 1st story, and a rowlock string course at the header level of the 2nd. story. On the W facade, there is a 2 story rectangular bay with a gabled wall dormer. It repeats the gable end decoration of the N facade. In this bay is a grouped 3 - part window which has an ornate header with stone scewbacks and a raised keystone. This window motif is repeated on the E facade.
A small porch on the SW corner is a 1 story and echos the (N) front porch. Across the rear facade (S) is a 1 story addition with an entrance. It is frame and forms a porch for the 2nd. story door and small flanking windows.
On the interior there is rich oak millwork, an L-shaped stairway, 3 large sliding doors ornate mantels with columns and beveled glass, and several stained glass windows. In the staircase is a pressed wainscoting which resembles Lincristo Walton. The present owners have the original blueprints to the structure.

43 History and Significance Referred to in Levens & Drake history of the County as one of the oldest houses in Boonville: The structure was built by R P. Clark, 1st. circuit clerk of Cooper County. Originally the front facade faced Sixth Street. In the 1840's the property included a two-story brick house and a smaller frame house, which sold for $600. Mr. & Mrs. B.J. Stammerjohn bought the house in 1920 and Mrs. Stammerjohn still resides (See Attachment)

42. (cont.) the 1st story is brick, 2nd. is frame. The structure was reportedly built in a classic Revival style but is now severely modified.

43. (cont.) in the west apartment. Her daughter, Mrs. E.W. Cline resides in the east wing, a later addition. During the Stammerjohn's ownership a two-story wooden porch with railing was removed and the brick porch constructed. Recent information from abstract indicates the following history of ownership: R.P. Clark purchased the west ½ of lot 85 from the county commissioners in 1825 for $50.00. The structure sits up on this ½ lot. In 1826 the east ½ lot sold to Nathaniel Mitchell for $50.00 who in turn sold it to R.P. Clark in 1832 for $100.00; James H. Melone - 1836; Ann S. Jefferson - 1845; William H. Trigg, for speculation - 1864; W.E. and Joseph M. Williams, a carpenter who built "a little cabin of a shop on the High Street side of their lot", - 1870; Margaret and John Boehm, Boots and Shoe Dealer - 1877; W.F. Howard, druggist of R.H. Howard and Son, 1877. The frame structure which made its appearance in the 1840's was razed by 1890.

42. (NOTE: It should be made clear that the original primary facade is the W facade. This change in orientation makes a big difference in the architectural quality of the house.)

43. (NOTE: Locally significant for its early date and for its historical association with R.P. Clark, the residence remains a pivotal point for the neighborhood and streetscape.

42 Further Description of Important Features Typical of the Queen Anne style, the S & E gable ends are filled with fishscale & jigsaw shingles and the front (S) corners of the structure are chamfered. There is a 1 story Eastlake porch on the SE; a flat roofed enclosed porch is to the rear (NE). There are 2 entrance doors on the front facade. Windows at the chamfered angles of the SW bay are attenuated. Most windows are trabeated. Asbestos siding now covers the original clapboarding. No major interior changes are evident.

43 History and Significance The house was built in the early 1900's by the W.L. Koenig family who resided there until the mid-1930's. It then passed through several owners who used it as rental property until 1947 when it was purchased by the present owners. W.L. Koenig (b. 1886) was proprietor of Koenig Auto Sales Co., Main and Chestnut, in Boonville, est. 1918. He was County Collector of Cooper County from 1909 to 1915. His wife, Emma (Schnack) was a daughter of Herman Schnack who operated a well-known saloon in Boonville.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings On the SW corner of the lot is a frame, board and batten garage which has a hip roof and open eaves. The residence faces N onto High Street.

43 History and Significance
Home was originally built for Charles Hoffmeister, a local saloon owner and operator. This area of High St. is locally significant as an early residential area. It retains a turn of the century streetscape of large trees, spacious lots, and a pleasant mix of large and small homes. This residence is an integral part of this cohesive neighborhood quality.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Faces S onto High. Structure has low concrete reinforcing wall to the S and a concrete drive to the E. A gable roof, single car frame garage is to the E of the residence.

43 History and Significance The house was built c. 1905 by the Hirsch family and then passed down to Mrs. Hirsch's daughter, Mrs. Glen Draper, and her husband. It remained in the Draper family until c. 1960 when it was purchased by Ernestine Barlow and her mother, Mrs. Ernest Barlow. They renovated the interior of the house, and, in 1965, it was sold to the present owners.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings An alley is to the S & E of the residence which faces N onto High Street. There is 1 outbuilding, a frame, gable roofed garage with access from the E alley. It too is covered with asbestos shingles.

42 Further Description of Important Features: Built as 2/3rds. house, the structure was enlarged to the E to create a central hall plan. The structure is 2 rooms deep with 2 chimneys at each end. Windows are 2-over-2 and have shutters. Sills have small brackets. On the primary facade (N) is a 1 bay, 1 story flat roof porch. The 2nd. story has an entrance, but the current porch has no balustrade.

43 History and Significance: Clark arrived in Boonville 1818, and was appointed Circuit Court Clerk of Cooper County by Judge David Todd, 3/1/1819. In 1820 he was elected county representative of Mo. State Convention. About this time he built the residence at 616 E. High , and held the 1st. County Court on January 8, 1821 at his residence. He continued active in politics and was known as "The Father of the County" because of his knowledge of statute laws and advising thereof. About 1825 he built a new house at 603 E. High (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: Residence sits close to the street and faces N onto High Street. Alleys run to the W & S of the structure. There are 2 outbuildings to the S of the residence. One vertical board and batten, gable roofed shed is along the W alley. It has a standing rib tin roof and a raking (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) The porch is supported by paired square frame columns at the house and 3 columns at the outer corners. Carpenter Gothic cut-out motifs appear between columns and at the balustrade. The entrance has a 4 light transom and is flanked by square pilasters and 3 side lights. Windows to the rear are 6-over-6. Lst story are 2-over-2. To the SW is a 1 story, gable, tin roofed ell. To the S of that was a breezeway, now enclosed with vertical board and batten siding and having a single leaf door with a 3 light transom. This breezeway connected the Main Structure to a 1 story clapboard addition which has 6-over-6 windows and was probably used as the summer kitchen. On the SE is a pent roofed 2 story porch with square columns. Central Hall is now used as office space.

43. (cont.) Subsequent owners are Conrad Lawton, 1835; Adam Eckhard, a butcher, 1868; Susie Christman, 1920. The present owner is a semi-retired Osteopath operating out of her home.

44. (cont.) cornice at the gable ends. At the corner of the alley to the S is a 1½ story brick, rectangular structure. It has a standing rib, tin gable roof. Doors and windows have rowlock, segmentally arched headers. S-shaped reinforcing rods run E & W through the building. Structure is now vine-clad and may have been used as slave quarters.

NOTE for Item #43: The structure is part of a cohesive neighborhood and is significant on a local level for its historical association with R.P. Clark.

42 Further Description of Important Features Facade features two-story bay window and a decorative wooden porch. The cornice has a generous overhang supported by scroll brackets. Inside, the original false-grained woodwork remains throughout the front of the house. Sliding doors of false-grained woodwork separate the west parlor and dining room. Both downstairs front rooms have cast iron mantels on working fireplaces.

43 History and Significance Information in the property abstracts strongly suggests the existence of buildings on lot 83 since 1822 (p.4). It is of interest to note the properties of lots 59 and 83 were grouped together with lots 10 and 11 in 1832 (p.8). Lots 10 and 11 contained a saw mill and grist mill and milling machinery. In 1834 (p.9) a transaction involving these 4 lots carried a consideration of $18,000. In 1850 Sarah Williams bought lots 58, 59, and 83 for (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Residential neighborhood. Street lined with hewn stone curbing. Brick paving covered over. Hard maple trees along curbs produce colorful fall display. Utility poles and wires fortuitously were installed along the alleys rather than along High St. thus permitting a canopy of attractive folliage. No original outbuildings survive. (cont.)

43. (cont.) $1000 (p.16). In 1852 she moved to California state and gave her brother, John Porter, the power of attorney to manage her real estate, collect rents and sell the properties. This fact suggests buildings and tenants were on the properties at that time. Jesse Homan purchased the three lots from Sarah Williams in July 1855 for $1200 (p.18). In 1863 Homan borrowed $1397.50 (p.20) placing his properties in trust to secure the promissory note. The Homans lived on lot 58 (p.21). They sold lot 83 to Julia P. Weber on Oct. 18, 1881 (p.21) "with appurtenances" for $450. It appears a house already existed on lot 83 at that time. The Webers transferred lot 83 to Julius A. Weber on Nov. 1883 for $3000. And Julius transferred it back to John S. Weber in the same month for $3500 (p. 24). In Oct. 1885, lot 83 was sold by John S. Weber and Julia P. Weber to David Andrews for $3725 (p.26). These facts would suggest the house on the lot in 1881 was improved between 1881-1883 by the Webers. There are three floor levels in the present house's first story and evidences in the brick walls of additions. The rear (N) section possibly retains some fabric of the ca. 1822-1881 building(s). The front (S) portion may then date from the 1881-1883 jump in value under the Weber ownership. There are keys in the house with 1870's patents. If constructed in the early 1880's, it is conservative for that time, containing interior millwork, stairway balusters and newel found in other Missouri examples dating from the 1860's and 1870's. The house is not featured in the 1900 publication, Boonville the Vine Clad City. This booklet shows the new homes of that time. The deletion indicates this house was considered old by 1900. The west side is partially visible in the photograph illustrating the neighboring house to the west, now known as the Charles Verts residence. The Webers sold lot 83 to David Andrews in 1885 for $3725 (p.26). The Andrews bought lots 58 in 1889 and lot 59 in 1891 and retained ownership of all three lots until 1930 when they were sold to Sadie Howard Chilton for $6,350. Mrs. Chilton lived to be 102. She died in 1968. William and M. Patricia Holmes purchased the property in 1970 from Mrs. Chilton's estate. Levens and Drake's A History of Cooper County, 1876, mentions a 4th of July celebration in 1820 in which a canon was fired from the Indian mound in the front yard of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Homan "north and northwest of the courthouse." This mound is extant today immediately north of the house on Lot 83 (617 E. High St.). A root cellar has been dug into the southeast corner of the mound. This cellar appears to date from the 1880's period. The only surviving building on the property now is the Holmes house, but many evidences of earlier buildings are to be found in the rear yard. While digging holes for fruit trees in 1976 we noted a straight foundation wall of brick east of the Indian mound and northeast of the house. The present garden area at the north edge of lot 83 and the south edge of lots 58 and 59 is full of cinders, brick bats, stones, glass fragments, old bottles, dish fragments, etc. As the bluff is wind deposited loess soil, any stones or other such matter have been introduced into the property. The topsoil is extremely deep. Rectangular foundation outlines are visible and there is a basin which was possibly a watering trough. The Andrews were tinners and supposedly were quite wealthy. (conversation with the late Judge Roy D. Williams) They had gold flatware at their table. (Williams) Three generations of Andrews owned the property 1885-1930. This family has a prominent obelisque monument at Walnut Grove Cemetery in Boonville. The Chiltons were local jewelers. They had lived in a fine large house on Main Street until moving here in 1930. The Main Street property was needed for a filling station to serve the then bustling U.S. Highway 40 traffic. Mrs. Chilton was 64 when she moved here. Her husband died 4 years later. She was known as an industrious, enterprising, business woman who was well respected. She remodeled the house putting in hardwood floors, moving the kitchen into the back stair hall and taking out the back stairs. She enclosed the rear first story porch to make a summer bedroom for herself and put in bathrooms. She also had a two-story stairhall added to the southwest corner of the house. This addition was done quite sympathetically to the original architecture. She was then able to rent out a three-room apartment on the west side of the upstairs and the eastern bedroom and bathroom upstairs. Mrs. Chilton had quarters for a live-in servant in a back room north of her kitchen. She apparently removed the speaking tubes from the house. During the depression she allowed a man of European birth named "John" to live in a make-shift shack in the north of the property. A skillful gardner, this man raised vegetables in the rich soil of the back yard and sold his produce up and down the streets of Boonville for his livelihood. Mrs. Chilton would not allow him inside her house, however, because he had "bedbugs." Mrs. Chilton loaned (cont.)

'43. (cont.) money to negro persons. They would come to the rear door of her summer bedroom--a room she also used as her office, to do business with her. She helped people in these ways. (interviews with Judge Roy D. Williams, Mrs. S.E. Bailey and Mrs. E.F. Utley, former occupants of the apartment who knew Mrs. Chilton)

44. (cont.) No original outbuildings survive. Their former locations in the rear yard noted in plowing for a garden and digging holes to plant fruit trees. A squatter's shanty exists 2/3 on lot 59 and partly on an alley right-of-way which is not used as an alley due to the steep slope of the ground.

43. (NOTE: The structure is both architecturally and historically significant on a local level. It is one of the few houses remaining in this district of the Italianate style, however, due to size and location it fits into the streetscape and forms an important element in the neighborhood.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The N facade has a small, 1 bay, raised concrete porch with a round hood canopy on brackets. A pent roof dormer with 2 windows is at the attic level. A 1 room brick, now screened porch is at the NE corner. Its N opening is an segmental arch; openings to the E are rectangular. A brick soldier course runs around the house at the basement level and as the header course of the 1st. story windows and doors. Most windows are 4-over-1. On the S facade is a small screened porch on brick piers and steps (see attachement)

43 History and Significance
Past owners - Mrs. Bernice Smith and Mrs. H. Selck. Mrs. Selck, a retired school teacher, sold the structure to M.C. Wilkerson, a nephew, in 1980. Construction is currently underway to expand the 2nd story to form a residence for Wilkerson by adding N and S dormers, and adding kitchen and bath facilities.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Structure sits on small lot facing N onto High Street. A concrete drive runs along the E of the property. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features Window festration on primary facade may indicate addition to W. Original rooms may be log. To the rear (S) are 2 structures which ajoin the house. Immediately to the S is a 1½ story frame structure with gable roof; a pent roof extension joins it to the main house. To the SW is a 1½ story frame, gable roofed building attached to the SW corner of the 1st addition. Presently there is a 1 story Eastlake porch across 3 bays of the primary facade. It has a plain balustrade, turned posts, (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features Characteristic of the style, there are gable roof attic dormers, decorative vergeboards and chamfered corners with scroll brackets and pendents. Windows in the central 2 story projecting bay have stained glass. Porches on the SE and SW retain evidence of Eastlake motifs such as turned posts, spindles, and lattice work. The SE porch has been screened in on the SW; a 2nd. story porch has been added and the 1st. story porch shortened. (approximately 20 years ago.) (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Important as an element in this streetscape and neighborhood, the structure is significant on a local level. The structure was built by William Alexander Sombart, a part owner of the Boonville Mills Company that was family owned. Sombart also served as the 1st vice-president of the Boonville National Bank and on Boonville's first Board of Public Works.

The present owner has resided in the structure for approximately 20 years.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The house faces S onto High Street at the NW corner of High and 7th. Streets. The property drops off sharply to the N and affords a grand view of the river. To the S & E there is a low concrete reinforcing wall. To the E is a gravel drive extending from the Seventh Street dead end section. (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) It originally extended around the W. facade to the rear entrance. Part of this area on the W. facade was converted to a sun room. A single leaf entrance door with a belcast canopy supported by knee braces is on the E. facade.
Interior ceilings in living room and parlor still retain a pressed tin ceilings. Several interior openings have spindle frieze detailing. The front door (SW) retains the ornate millwork of the period with an etched glass window pane with the initials W.A.S. the second story belcony door (SW) possesses a finely milled door with red, etched glass window pane in a horsehead motif. Remaining in the Sombart family until c 1950's the majority of additions and alterations have taken place in the last 20 years. Much of the Queen Anne/Eastlake stickwork and architectural motifs have been removed at times when the house was painted. There is 1 addition to the rear; it is 1 story on a field stone foundation.
Interior alterations include deleting a stairway from the back bedroom to the main stair landing and the door opening between the parlor and kitchen. Three fireplaces remain usable.

44. (cont.)There are 3 outbuildings. A vertical board and batten garage sits to the NE of the residence. It has a hip roof with iron ridge cresting and asphalt shingles. Sitting on a concrete slab, the open carport extension was built approximately 12 years ago. There is a frame open storage building to the NW. To the rear (N) of the structure is a 2 room clapboarded frame building on a brick foundation and with a standing ribbed tin gable roof. According to the oral history as proclaimed by "Judge Roy Williams" the Sombarts' lived in the small structure during the building of the large house; later it was used as servants housing. Residence originally had an iron fence on the S. facade; a wooden fence to the E.

43 History and Significance The house was built in 1898 by Judge John Thro, a local lumber yard owner and county court Judge, using the highest grade lumber to meet the needs of his growing family. Thro was a soldier in the civil war and in 1863 he made the Overland Trip to California spending three years there before his return. Upon Thro's death in 1924, his wife inherited the house, and in turn left it to her three daughters Emma, Laura, and Ella. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto High St., sitting at the NE corner of 7th and High Streets. The yard drops off sharply at the rear of the landscaped lot to afford a grand view of the river to the N. At the NW corner of the lot is a gable roofed, 1 car garage. It has vertical board and batten siding, and a pent addition (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) dormer. A 2 story, low hip roofed addition extends to the W at this point. It has an entrance to the S which leads to the 2nd. story. This later addition repeats all the motifs of the main structure. A 1 story porch extends from the chamfered bay to the edge of this addition. Raised on stone piers with lattice skirting, the porch has pediments over each entrance and is ornately embellished with Eastlake porst, spindle balustrade, and a pendent frieze.
The W facade has a centrally located, 2 story chamfered bay with a gabled wall dormer. The N bay is an entrance. Extending from the N entrance of the new addition along the W facade and across the N facade is an open deck which repeats the spindle balustrade from the S facade. On the N facade is a double entrance at the walkout basement level. To the E of this N section is a pent addition on the 1st story with an entrance to the E. It has a concrete stoop and small patio. Capping the addition is a 2nd story porch.
Accenting the structure is a band of fishscale shingling, all gable dormers have small windows, scalloped vergeboards with a cut-out floral motif and a scallop frieze. The roofline has ridge cresting and lightening rods, and retains an ornately corbelled chimney cap and wood bracketed gutters. Openings have segmentally arched, frame headers with a raised scroll pattern applied. Windows are 1-over-1 and shuttered. A frame sill course with vertical motifs are complimented by the use of a bi-chromatic painting scheme. The interior retains the majority of its Eastlake millwork.

43. (cont.) In 1929 it was sold to Robert Turner who eventually lost the house in 1933. Turner converted the house into two apartments altering the floor plans in the rear portion of the house. It was also at this time the front parlor/back parlor doorway was closed in, central stairway removed, west porch removed and the second floor apartment entrance built. In 1933, Mrs. Roy (Adda) Williams purchased the house at a foreclosure sale. Her husband, Judge Roy D. Williams was a prominant mid-Missouri lawyer, State Appellate Court Judge, local historian, and President of the Missouri Historical Society.
In 1976, Mrs. Williams sold the home to the present owners, the Enid and Crosby Kemper Foundation, with the understanding that she could reside in the house as a renter as long as she desired.
Under the ownership of the Kemper Foundation the exterior of the house was restored. Marcus Monroe, re-designed the house, using the Vine Clad City photographs circa 1900 as the standard. Jerry Adkins was the contractor in charge of carpentry and painting. During this restoration the front porch was extended to cover the apartment entrance, the side to rear deck was built, decorative embellishments milled and added, wood shingle roof constructed, and two separate heating and central air conditioning units installed. The two stained glass windows on the first floor were designed for the house by Joe Fray, using 1900 circa glass, the stained glass windows at the second floor level originally in the front parlor was found by James Higbie, restored and installed in 1979. The house is to be used as a model of Queen Anne Architecture, House Tours, Residence for the Kempers when they are visiting in Boonville and other historical purposes.
Past renters of the 2nd. floor apartment have been James Higbie, past Director of Family Counseling In Problem Drinking/C.A.R.E. and current Director of The Historic Survey Office and Tia Higbie, current Director of the Boonville Planned Parenthood Office.

45. (cont.) Personal Remembrances of James Higbie

43. (NOTE: Since its recent restoration, the structure forms a pivotal point in both this district and in the overall preservation scheme of Boonville. It has local significance architecturally as a fine example of the style and historically for its association with several prominent families.

43 History and Significance Architecturally the 713-715 E. High structure is significant due to its early construction date and fine Italianate addition. It is significant as an integral part of the E. High Street neighborhood and streetscape.

713 E. High Street structure was built in 1866 by Morris J. Wertheimer, a Bavarian immigrant, to meet the needs of his expanding family. Mr. & Mrs. Wertheimer, who had been in residence at 715 E. High Street since 1855, remained in the expanded structure until 1885. Being (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S onto High Street. To the N the ground drops off to afford a grand view of the river. A recent concrete drive runs along the W side of the property with access from High. The house abuts 715 on the E. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) as square fluted pilasters and heavy entablature with dentils and modillions embellish this entrance in the easternmost bay of this 2/3rds plan house. The W facade has a 1 story Eastlake frame porch. A frame porch is also to the N.

The interior of the house features ornate plaster molds in the ceilings of the living and dining rooms and the hall. Large floor to ceiling sliding doors with ornate panels divide the living and dining rooms. Original window shutters which are louvered and panelled and fold away into the molding are also a distinctive feature. Four fireplaces heated the house. The 2 downstairs are black marble with ornate metal summer plates. A unique feature is the walnut, bracketed string staircase. The landing is large and serves as sitting area (now has piano). The 2nd half flight of stairs split to give access to both the N & S 2nd floor rooms.

43. (cont.) a "merchant, tailor, clothier and dealer in piece goods", Wertheimer lost $4000 worth of clothing when General Joe Shelby occupied Boonville on October 11, 1863.

In 1888 the two sectioned house was divided and 713 E. High became the property of Wertheimer's son-in-law, Charles P. Gott. In 1894 Gott obtained 715 E. High and both remained in his possession until 1899. Gott, a one time partner in the Sauter Brothers Mercantile Co. was employed by his father in the Gott Tobacco Manufacturing Company between 1883 and 1900. The next owner, John F. McClanahan, obtained both sections of the structure in 1899, but sold to T.F. Waltz in 1903. Waltz was employed by the MKT railroad and worked his way up to station agent over a career that spanned 60 years. Both structures remained in the Waltz family until 1964 when Waltz's daughter, Frances Wasco, and her husband gained possession. In 1972, 713 E. High was sold to the present owners, Mr. & Mrs. Barry Thacher, owners of the Thacher Funeral Home.

43 History and Significance
Built for Mr. & Mrs. A.E. Hirsch, owners of Hirsch Drug Store, located on Main Street. Architecturally this building has local significance due to the fact that it is one of two buildings in town which exemplify the Prairie Style. The brick used on the exterior is "hydraulic pressed brick."

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. A concrete drive leads from High Street along the W side of the residence to the garage. There is a concrete reinforcing wall along the primary facade which faces N onto High Street. An alley is to the W of the structure.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure is built on a 2/3rds plan with 713 E. High built as a later addition. On the primary facade (S) the entrance is the westernmost bay. It has a transom and retains its interior. Eastlake door. The 2-over-2 windows have flat arch soldier course headers and green shutters. There is a 3 window, pent roof dormer on this S facade. On the E facade, the ground drops off to expose the basement which has a walk out entrance at the NE corner. This and the N facade are done in common bond. Windows are segmentally arched (cont.)

43 History and Significance Architecturally the structure is important due to its early construction date. It is locally significant as an integral part of the E. High Street neighborhood and streetscape.

The exact date and builder are unknown, however, the Flemish bond brickwork dates the structure c. 1840's. Ownership of the structure between 1839 and 1849 is Mary Dobbins, an early merchant (1839); John Dade, executor of the Dobbins estate (1842); August Simpson, (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto High Street and actually intrudes into the original alley space to the E. A gravel drive now is to the E with access from High Street. 713 High Street abuts the structure to the W. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) 6-over-6, and have rowlock headers. Two rooms deep, the E facade has 2 chimneys, each with an ornately corbelled cap. There is a frame, partially enclosed addition at the 1st story level of the N facade.

The entire interior of the house was panelled during the residency of the Wascos in the 1960's. Interior woodwork repainted upon Frank Thacher's purchase of the house, 10/79.

43. (cont.) publisher of the Boonville Observer newspaper (1849). In 1855 the structure was sold to Morris J. Wertheimer, a Bavarian immigrant. Wertheimer, a "merchant, tailor, clothier and dealer in piece goods," constructed the 713 E. High Street addition in 1866 to meet the needs of his expanding family. In 1888 5he home was divided and 715 E. High sold to Charles Gott, a son-in-law. Ther term "Siamese Twins" probably originates from this date. In 1894 Gott acquired 715 E. High and united the "Twins". In 1899 possession passed to W.C. Knight and then to John McClanahan. In 1903 T.F. Waltz purchased both houses. In 1964 the Waltz's daughter, Frances, and her husband, Judd Wasco, who had been in residence in 715 E. High for many years, obtained ownership of both sections. In 1972 they sold 713 E. High to Barry Thacher, owner of the Thacher Funeral Home. In 1979 the 715 E. High structure was sold to Frank Thacher, son of the owner of the adjoining structure. Thacher has future plans of re-opening a closed doorway between the two structures and restoring them to a one-family residence.

NOTE to Item 42: An impressive reeded Federal fireplace mantle has been retained at the basement level.

43 History and Significance: Structure was built as the residence of Dr. Joseph C. Varney, a dentist, c. 1903. By 1912 it served as the residence of Judge Roy D. Williams, a prominent local attorney and area historian. When Williams left Boonville to practice in Kansas City, Mo., he sold the residence to his Boonville partner, John H. Windsor. Windsor served 3 terms as Prosecuting Attorney in Boonville and continued in his law practice for many years. The present owner is the widow of John Windsor. In 1928 Windsor hired the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. to (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The structure faces S onto High Street. A gravel drive leads from High Street to the 2 car brick garage at the NE of the lot. It has a belcast hip roof with asphalt shingles. The 2 windows on the E facade have double rowlock, segmentally arched windows.

42 Further Description of Important Features Added in 1891 the towers are the most outstanding quality of the house. The tower on the NE is 3 stories with a dome roof topped by a finial. Small brackets are under the eaves. Ornate courses of terra cotta of circles, stars and nailheads motifs are below the 3rd, story windows which have small border panes and diamond centers. The nw tower is 2½ stories with a "bell" dome and ball finial. The terra cotta bands are repeated on this tower. (see the attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The house was built by Charles Christian Bell 1848-1931. Bell, one of the most prominant men in Boonville during his era was engaged first in the business of packing and shipping apples. Selling this business in 1901 he developed the Bell Fruit Farm which became known for the production of "Lady Finger" apples. At the Interstate Fruit Growers and Shippers convention of 1885 he was given the title of "Missouri's Apple King." For eleven years he was president of the Boonville Board of Trade and (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of 8th and High Street facing N with a grand view of the river. A herringbone brick patio is to the N and continues to the E as a walk. A low stone wall is to the N and E. As it continues along the E it is topped by a stepped brick wall built in 1975 wraps around the SE corner. (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) Windows on the 1st. and 2nd. stories are attenuated, have segmentally arched with soldier courses lintels, and have stone lug sills. A corbelled string course is below the 1st. story windows. Intaglio motifs are found in the wood segment between the window and the header. Recent construction rebuilt the entrance and porch on the N facade using the original small brackets and doric columns. Above this area is a 2nd. story sun room which repeats the detailing of brackets and columns. This room has large windows. The large 1 story, gable roofed, brick addition to the W was built in 1959 and serves as a family room. It has large windows and sliding doors on its S facade. There is a gable roofed dormer centrally located on the N facade. It has stickwork at the gable end. To the SE is a brick 2 story ell which has 2-over-2 segmentally arch windows, except at the 1 story polygonal bay which has soldier course, flat arch headers. On the S is an Eastlake 1 story porch and a 1 story board and batten addition which contains the garages. The structure was also remodeled in 1928.

43. (cont.) for many years served on the Boonville City Council. He also served as mayor between the years 1882-1888. The present owner of the house also served as mayor of Boonville.

44. (cont.) An alley to the S gives access to a concrete drive and the attached garages. A frame pilasade is at the SW corner and along the W property line. The original barn and livery stable were removed in 1968.

NOTE to Item #43: Both local historical and architectural significance is attached to this structure. This residence of a prominent business man is built in a style generally constructed in frame, however a strong local tradition dictated that the style could be constructed in brick. It is a pivotal point in the streetscape and cohesive quality of the district.

42 Further Description of Important Features Room on SW is log and was original log cabin. E room and frame addition to N were added in the late 1800's Logs are walnut; clapboard sheathing is under present siding. Rafters are oak. The NW room was changed from a porch to a kitchen in 1961. The NE proch was altered to a bedroom in 1969. These N rooms have a pent roof and are on a concrete block foundation. The 2 bay Eastlake frame porch on the S received a concrete floor in 1967. There is a chimney of the E facade.

43 History and Significance
Found large number of minnie balls on site when digging new sewer line. Oral history claims that there is a cannon ball in the E wall of the original 1 room cabin. Original SW room is of log and probably dates from the 1830's. This structure is architecturally significant on a local level as a surviving vernacular log structure from an early period of Boonville history.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure sits close to the street and faces S onto High street. To the W is Bell Park. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The irregular plan and roof line are accented by a rectangular bay at the NW corner with a gable roof which is intersected by a hip roof, hip dormers NE and W., and a porch at the NE corner. There is also a porch across the N facade. Windows are 1-over-1. Recent reworking has added a brick veneer on the lower 1/3 of the structure.

43 History and Significance
The structure was built by W.J. Cochran, owner of W.J. Cochran & Sons Construction Co, for his residence. Cochran added the roof dormers and finished the second floor into bedrooms in 1898-99. The Cochran family remained in the house until 1907. In the 1960's and 70's the structure served as Mary's Boarding Home. In 1979 it was purchased by the present owners and converted into a duplex.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces N onto High Street. There are alleys to the W & S. One outbuilding, a small metal shed, is associated with the property.

42 Further Description of Important Features This house is distinguished by its piano nobile style, large central chimney, saddlebag plan and parapet gable end walls which has corbelling at the roof line. The entrance on the S facade is the easternmost bay, has a 3 light transom, and is covered by a 2 bay frame, flat roof porch with Eastlake motifs. There appears to be an original ell on the N as well as a later pent roofed addition (1955) which sits on a concrete block foundation and has asbestos siding. The house was stuccoed c 1929-30. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance In 1870, Daniel Kline, insurance agent was listed as living in the house at the NW corner of 9th and High Streets facing S onto High. The Lauer Family purchased the house in 1904 from the Sombart Family.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a high embankment at the NW corner of 9th and High, facing S onto High. This embankment was cut down somewhat while the Lauer's owned the house. There is an alley to the N. There is a frame double garage on the NE corner of the lot. It has a gable roof, asbestos siding, overhead (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure retains clapboarding under the later siding and some of its 9-over-6 windows. Where the siding has been removed the half timber construction with brick rubble nogging and the heavy timber sill are still evident. The yard drops off to the E & N so that the basement level is exposed. Windows are to the S & N and an entrance is to the E, at this basement level. The raised porch of the N facade is gone. There is no indication of transom or sidelights for either of the central (see attached sheets)

43 History and Significance This structure is significant as one of the early residences in Boonville. At this point it might be restorable. The property abstract did not offer any worthwhile information or clues as to construction of the house as the ownership of the land was in question until 1838; however, the pioneer doctor, George C. Hartt, along with Henry Carroll and Robert Wallace received a patent for the land in 1822 a number of years after their claim. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure appears to have originally faced N and would have had a grand view of the river. Today it sits on a high bluff with Water Street to the N, Bell Street to the E and High Street to the S. An alley way is to the W. To the W of this impressive structure is a later residence. Its front (S) facade has 4 bays including (attached)

42. (cont.) entrances N & S. End chimneys and a boxed cornice accent the roofline. At the attic level, just under the eaves N & S are small 3-over-3 windows. The structure is in the process of being torn down and the interior has already been gutted. One mantel remains.

43. (cont.) Hartt bought out his partners and the size and style of the house indicate that it could have been the house of the prominent doctor. Subsequent owners of the property, but not necessarily those who resided there were: Isaac N. Bernard, an early pioneer, 1835; John Aimslie, 1838; Emmett R. Hayden, 1867; Mathew Gaunt, 1875; Edith Gaunt, 1894; Rudolph Toennes, 1912; Nancy Bruce, 1914; Charles Gooch, professor at Sumner School, and a known resident in the house, 1915; John Stretz, for rental, 1919; Ernest Gooseberry, a known resident, 1919; John Stretz, for rental, 1927; Thomas Jones, a known resident, 1929; John Stegner, for rental, 1940; Charles Coleman, 1960; Rev. N.H. Coleman, 1961; Nelson Coleman, unknown date.

44. (cont.) 2 entrances. Windows are 1-over-1. Extending to the N is a gabled ell on molded concrete block foundation. There is a pent addition to the N with an entrance to the E. The structure is in poor to deteriorated condition.

42 Further Description of Important Features The end chimneys and boxed gutters are the key features of this structure. The primary S facade has 2 entrances with a gable cap, concrete stoop and wrought iron railings. The gable ell extending to the N projects past the main block 1 bay to the E. The E facade of this ell has an integral porch. Gabled additions project to the W & N off of this ell. There is also a pent porch to the N. Windows vary in size and style but the majority are 6-over-6 or 3-over-1.

43 History and Significance The structure was the residence of J.M. and Anna Jegglin. Jegglin operated the Jegglin pottery which was located to the NW of the residence on 7th St. The structure has been converted into 4 apartments for many years and has always remained in the Jegglin-Stegner family. A prior owner was Helen Stegner Whitlow.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S onto Locust St. An alley is to the W & N. Just to the NE of the residence is a small brick, gabled structure which has a chimney and segmentally arched openings. A gravel parking area is to the N.

43 History and Significance Present owners purchased the house in 1977 for rental property from J.D. Twenter who had bought it in that same year from James F. Edwards who had resided in the house since 1941 when he bought it from John Gentry. Previous to Gentry it was owned by S.H. and Cordelian Hickam (since 1923), and prior to that by M.J. Felton who bought the property at a Sheriff's sale in 1922 for $1820. Previous to this the property was purchased by Horace Kinney for $200 in 1914

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Locust. A garage along the W alley is gone, only the concrete footings remain.

42 Further Description of Important Features: Despite the additions of a NE room and a 1 story porch on the SE done in 1907-10, the structure still retains many of its Queen Anne motifs and massing. The NE room is 1 story and has a hip roof, a rectangular bay and leaded glass windows. The porch has wooden panelled piers, round wood columns capped by ornate corinthian capitals, and a spindle balustrade. Fishscale shingles, returns, and stickwood gable end details are at the chamfered bays on the S & E and at the gable attic (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) dormer on the S. There is a fishscale belt course between the 1st and 2nd. story windows which extends about the house. Most windows are 1-over-1, and are attenuated. There is a belcast cap over the library entrance on the E. A sleeping room and porch on the N were enclosed in 1956-7. The concrete block attached garage to the W was also added in 1956 -1957.
The interior has an L shaped stair with Eastlake balustrade and newel to the W of the entrance foyer. An Eastlake mantel caps a fireplace set at an angle in the foyer. It has decorative tile around the firebox and a brass summer plate. The kitchen has been modernized. Other rooms have been only slightly changed; most of the millwork is retained.

43. (cont.) Frank Truby was a well known photographer in Boonville whose studio was locatèd in the Macurdy Building, 426 E. Morgan Street, c. 1900. IN that year he published Vine Clad City--A Souvenir of Boonville, Mo.--in Photo-Gravures.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure now appears as a piano nobile, however the difference in bond work may indicate that the basement level may not have originally been exposed to its current level. The basement level W & S, and both levels E are lain in a common bond. The 1st story W & S are lain in a more decorative bond work, similar to Garden Bond. The L shaped structure with its original ell to the N, W bay, has a later pent addition at the NE corner which completes the rectangular shape. There are gable parapets with stretcher (attached)

43 History and Significance The structure was built in 1844 by George Vollrath as his residence. Vollrath and his brother purchased a pottery from Marcus Williams which he had established in 1835 and which was located directly across Locust St. from the residence. Both men were also associated in the development of a mill on Water St. (Boonville Mills) later purchased and operated by the Sombart family. George Vollrath, apparently a man of many skills, also (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment facing S onto Locust. A stone wall to the S has similar quarry marks as the "Brewery." A drive from Locust to the W of the residence leads to a 1 car frame gabled garage at the NW part of the lot.

42. (cont.) course cornice and corbelled ends E & N. A boxed frame cornice is S & W. The primary facade features a 2 story frame pedimented 1 bay porch with square wood columns and steps leading to the 2nd level to the W. It caps entrances at each level, over each other. Both have transoms and sidelights. The top entrance is inset into a panelled surround. Openings have soldier flat arch lintels basement level, and a pedimented stone lintel 1st story. The W facade has a basement entrance

43. (cont.) developed an extensive vinyard and built a wine cellar under his house. This cellar with approximate dimensions of 15' x 25' still survives. He is also credited with financing and building the First German Evangelical Church in 1854. Although George Vollrath died in 1865, his widow, Rosina, remained in the residence. In 1901 she sold it to Emma Vollrath. In 1908 it was sold to R.L. Steigleder, but it is unknown whether this was his principle residence. In 1919 the residence sold to H.F. Minor, who was employed in the drayage trade. Minor, however, sold the residence later that same year to John Stretz. The Stretz family sold the house to the present owner in 1964, and the conversion to apartments took place at that time.

42 Further Description of Important Features The W entrance has sidelights and flanking vertical panels of rock veneer. A loading dock is to the S and to the E. Associated with this property and to the W of the new building is the large grain elevator complex and old offices. Basically the foundation is concrete or concrete block with a central loading dock and a drive through scale as the E bay, S facade. There is a large pent roof storage tower to the E and a gable roofed one to the W. The pent roofed office area with entrance (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Original site of Sombarts Milling & Mercantile So. with sections built 1856, 1874, and 1881 at the original brick building plus later additions including incorporating c 1900, an abandoned "Park House" on the W of the lot. In 1885 the elevator handled 200 bushels. By 1910 the mill had a capacity of 300 bushels in 24 hours and the elevators held 80,000 bushels.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The new building is surrounded by a gravel parking lot. To the S, across Water Street, is a concrete 6 car garage with doors to the N. To the W of the elevators/office building are 3 large concrete silos, a pent roofed, metal building with an entrance to the S., and a round corrugated metal silo. Across Water Street at the SE corner of Main & Water is a gable storage building sheathed in metal, a circle drive (see attached)

42 Further Description of Important Features The street is 1 block long and approximately 20' wide. It is constructed of cobblestone without any apparent binding medium.

43 History and Significance The cobblestone street is alleged to be the first paved street west of St. Louis. Built in c. 1832 by slave labor, the cobblestones were believed to have been "part of the old docks at St. Louis," and when completed allowed for easier access to transfer goods and merchandise from the Wharf up to Main Street. The area is also the building site of the Steamboat, "Warsaw", the first to be built and launched in Boonville.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The street is now not used except for parking. It is located under the Boonville Road Bridge approach. Water St. is to the N and High St. is to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features: The 1st story forms a raised basement effect with a heavy belt course over it. Pilasters which extend through the 2nd and 3rd storys set off the bays. Corner bays project slightly. A wide entablature, projecting cornice and balustrade caps the structure. The central bay of each facade projects and contains a double leaf entrance. The N & W facades have ornate central bays with an arch over it decorated by swags. The E entrance repeats the Grecian ear motif but is less ornate. The S bay has only a simple panel over doors

43 History and Significance: The present Cooper County Court House is the 3rd court house to occupy this site. Built by the W.J. Cochran Co. in 1911-12, its construction was supervised by Miss Jessie Cochran, the young daughter of W.J. The building contains numerous offices and three courtrooms. Shortly after its appearance, a group of local athletes gained permission to erect a "Roquet" Court in the attic. The remains of this playing field is still present. The building (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The large structure sits on raised ground with concrete walls to the N, S & W. The open front yard (W) has several memorial markers, a miniature Statue of Liberty, and ornate lamps flanking the entrance. A gravel parking area is to the E.

43. (cont.) currently houses all of the county offices plus space for the counseling center, the health nurse, the Boonville Chamber of Commerce, the Extension agency and the Juvenile officer. Historically it has provided quarters for the Central Missouri Horticultural Society exhibits, the Leonard Thoma Post, Number 52, the American Legion, the Boonville Public Library and the Boonville City Hall and Water Department. To the west of the court house, fronting Main St. were three brick structures which were in existence from c. 1840 to 1910 and were originally used to warehouse supplies arriving by river packet for transshipment via overland freight routes. They were also used at various times for businesses selling flour, feed and grain, buggies, furniture finishing and upholstering, monuments, shoes, tin ware. Prior to their relocation to 422 E. High St., the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. was located in the South building. Contemporary but located on Court Street were the Mahan Hotel and a one story dwelling. A one story brick and frame dwelling, which was converted into a duplex, was razed in 1979.

42 Further Description of Important Features The E facade has an ornate projecting metal cornice with modillions and brackets. The 5 bay second story has ornate iron pedimented hoods over the 1-over-1 attenuated windows which have lug sills. The painted white wall surface is accented by black paint on the cornice and window treatment. The first story retains the large metal beam with rosette rivets, corinthian columns and fluted pilasters. The original angled entrance at the NE corner is now closed and the entrance is now inset facing E. Most of the large glass (cont.)

43 History and Significance This structure was built by the Sombart family c. 1900-1910 and from this time into the 1920's was the location of Cal B. Hagar's Santa Fe Inn (a saloon). Upstairs was a printing shop, then Tanner's photographic gallery, and still later a beauty shop. By 1929 it had become a "vulcanizing and battery recharging shop. In 1935, Fowler Metal Products was in the building. Following this there was a series of cafes: Ruth's Cafe, Herb's Cafe (by 1948), Andrews Cafe (1963-72). From 1973-75 it was known as "Boat's Place" and from 1975-78 (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of Main and High Streets, facing E onto Main. There are no outbuildings.

The N facade has a sawtooth brick cornice. The 4 bays of the 2nd story are 1-over-1 attenuated and have segmentally arched headers. The 5 bay 1st story has an entrance with transom, one 1-over-1 window, and three semi-circular arched windows.

43. (cont.) it was known as "Bob's Place" (Bob Imhoff, proprietor, was the first tavern keeper in Boonville to initiate the use of "membership cards."). Since 1978 it has been known as the "Corner Lounge."

Prior to the erection of the present building, a livery stable run by John Smith and James Q. Ragland was on this site. This firm succeeded Whitelow and Shimer in business in March 1882.

divided by columns and pilasters. It is flanked by entrances with pediments set on a wide plain entablature, ornate block caps and panelled pilasters. Below the central bay is a basement entrance and windows set in a walk down well. The N facade repeats many of the Neo-Classical motifs and has 4 bays. Its E bay is a entrance with wide sidelights and a leaded glass transom. The 2nd, story is visible on the E & S facades. There are 3 1-over -1 windows with double rowlock segmentally arched headers to the E. The 2-over-2 windows of the S repeat the headers and there is a stepped parapet.

43.(cont.) 2nd story of the building became the site of the Boonville Daily News, which remained there until 1964 with its printing machines at the basement level and offices on the 2nd floor. At that date they relocated to their present offices at 412 High Street. The Cooper County Abstract Offices date from 1964 at which time they moved here from their former location at 213 Main St. The lawyer, Harry Wooldridge, had offices located on the 2nd floor until his death. More recently in 1976, Family Counseling and Problem Drinking/CARE Inc., relocated to the 2nd floor. Planned Parenthood of Boonville located here in 1978.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure repeats the projecting metal cornice and corbelled brickwork of the adjoining building N (213 Main). The 2nd. story windows of this E facade are 1-over-1 attenuated and have rowlock, segmentally arched lintels. Across the much altered 1st story is a wood canopy with wood shingles. The central section was the original entrance, however the primary entrance is now the S bay. The 1st story is now sheathed with vertical siding. The N wall is common; the S wall has 4 bays bricked in on the 1st (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade has been altered by the application of vertical siding and a scallop trim board. Only the boxed cornice and the inset entrance remain intact from the original facade. On the 2nd. story is 1 large window with an awning and a sign. On the 1st floor is a hipped wood canopy and wood shingle surface treatment. N & S walls are common walls with raking parapets. The 2nd. story of the W facade repeats the vertical siding. The 1st story has a pent cap over the entrance.
