43 History and Significance Groceries, dry goods and crockery were sold here in 1885 and 1892.[1] By 1900 it was listed as "General Supplies." The 1910 Sanborn lists the property as a "Racket" Store.[2] The building was used as a restaurant in 1917 and 1929, with the kitchen in the rear section, and was the first site of Holt's Cafe. It was in this cafe during a Commercial Club dinner that the groundwork for developing a road bridge across the Missouri River was (cont.)

The building was then purchased by Chris Shaler who renovated it and opened Shanna's Restaurant. In the mid 1970's the building and the business was sold to the present owner. The Palace was the first restaurant/bar to serve alcoholic beverages on Sunday, c. 1978. Beneath the basement floor are the remains of two filled in cisterns allegedly used by the cavalrymen during the Civil War for watering their horses.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary entrance is set at an angle at the SE corner of the structure and is accented by vertical panelling, wood shingles, large display windows and a mirror covered column. The fenestration has been altered several times, however most 2nd story openings retain their segmentally arched headers. Quoin-type pilasters mark the corners of the building and indicate a later 2 story rectangular addition to the W, which has an entrance to the upstairs apartments to the S. Also on the S facade is a double leaf entrance (cont.)

43 History and Significance This structure sits on the site of two of the oldest commercial buildings in town, which were still extant as late as 1937, and a building which faced Morgan Street. In 1885 these buildings housed a hardware store, D.W. Koontz General Store, a gun shop, and an office. At the turn of the century they housed a tailor and the Koontz Store. By 1910 the N section had bowling on the 1st and a tailor on the 2nd, the S section had "Gents Furnishings," but changed in 1917 to billiards (N) and Ruskin's Grocery & Meat Market (S). (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NW corner of Main and Morgan Sts. An alley and parking area are to the W. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

43. (cont.) It appears that part of the original fabric, 1st story S facade, was retained when the building was reworked. In the 1930's W.G. Holt purchased the building and operated the Greyhound Bus Station out of it. In 1935 Holt moved his cafe to this location after remodeling the 1st story to suit his needs. From at least 1963 to 1975 the A & P Grocery operated at this location followed by the Gibson Department Store until 1979. The 1st story has remained vacant since that date.

From 1912 to 1977 the 2nd story was the site of numerous offices among which were a lawyers offices, Arthur J. Smith, physician (c. 1912), Joseph Varney, dentist (c. 1912), Paul Darby's C.P.A. office, and the American Life and Accident Insurance Co. In 1977 the new owner converted the 2nd story into a number of apartments.

43 History and Significance The Central National Bank (north section, 300 Main St.) was established in 1865 by Col. Joseph L. Stephens, financier and lawyer. During the life of Joseph L. Stephens until his death in 1881 this was one of the leading financial institutions of central Missouri and continued to be so for a number of years thereafter. Following the death of Joseph L. Stephens, the bank was largely under the control and management of his two sons, (cont.)

42. (cont.) story windows were rectangular and the 1st story had round arched windows. Between 1900-1910 the structure received a coating of concrete stucco, which covered the majority of the decorative detailing. On the N, the present 1st story windows have block glass with the initials BNB (Boonville National Bank) and there are several entrances including a single-leaf 1st story entrance, a double-leaf 1st story entrance, and a basement well with entrance. Metal siding and large display windows now form the 1st story of the W facade. The S section of the structure is a full 3 stories in height and has been less severely altered. It is capped by projecting cornice with panelled frieze and scroll brackets. Windows on the 2nd and 3rd stories are coupled and set off by engaged doric columns of cast metal. The 1st story repeats the metal siding and large windows. The windows on the rear (E) facade have round arched headers.

43. (cont.) W. Speed Stephens and Lon V. Stephens, and for a number of years was a flourishing financial institution. On 28 October 1916 it was forced to close its doors by the comptroller of currency and went into liquidation. There was no run on the bank and every depositor received his money. The supposed cause of the closing of the bank was a series of bad loans running back through a number of years. The Boonville National Bank was opened for business on 30 October 1916 as successor to the old Central National Bank. N. Nelson Leonard, Arthur W. Nelson and Roy D. Williams were among members of the first board of directors. Arthur W. Nelson later became Chairman of the Board.

By 1877 the structure had the Osage Valley and Southern Kansas Railroad Office, the "Speed and Lon Stephens Insurance Department , the Sheriff's Office and a telegraph office located at the basement level. In 1884 the Boonville Post Office was in the basement level, with the office of the bank and of George B. Harper, County Treasurer, on the 1st floor. The 2nd floor housed the offices of the telegraph company, telephone company and the Draffen and Williams law offices. The bank and the telegraph remained on their respective stories till after 1900. Between 1910-25, only the bank remained. In 1932 the offices of the Farmers Trust Company were located on the 2nd floor. These offices were the scene of a disagreement between the two partners, J.L. Meistrell and W. W. Kingsbury, and the subsequent murder of Meistrell. Following the depression the building housed a number of businesses including a confectionary (Ice Cream Mart) and the present Western Auto store. At one time a pair of iron dogs, which were a present from Jay Gould to Col. Stephens, graced the front facade entrance. Presently they are located above the Laura Speed Elliot School entrance.

The building, which comprises 302 Main (south section) was built in the 1870's and was the site of H.C. Miller and Co. during that era. Approximately 1876, a Mr. Aehle operated a china and glassware (Queensware) store, followed by the Sauter Brothers dry goods store. Subsequent businesses include Charles Wagner's restaurant and ice cream parlor, and a music store. Western Auto has been present in the building since the early 1970's. Between the late 19th century and 1929, the IOOF Hall was located on the 3rd floor.

43 History and Significance By 1885, Epstein & Hain's Dry Goods Store was in this building. By 1912 it housed the Palace Clothing Co. In 1915, Charles E. Hirlinger bought the building and moved his book and stationery store there from its former location at 311 Main. The business was purchased by Louis E. Hirlinger in 1932. In 1934 the store was completely remodeled. In 1937 Kenneth F. Hirlinger, Sr., purchased the business. Between 1967 and 1978 the business was purchased by Kenneth F. Hirlinger, Jr. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main Street. There is an alley and parking to the W. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

43. (cont.) Louis L. and Joseph W. Chilton, proprietors. This business began in 1888 in a shop on Morgan St. and then moved to this location. In addition to jewelry, the firm carried a line of quality chinaware. The Chilton's traced the origins of their family in America to Mary Chilton who came with the Pilgrims in the "Mayflower" in 1620 and was the first to set foot on American soil (mentioned in Gov. Bradford's Journal). The father of Louis and Joseph (Joseph Chilton, Sr.) came to Missouri from Virginia prior to the Civil War and located at New Franklin where he was engaged in the mercantile business for more than 40 years. From about 1948 to 1968 the building was occupied by Gamble's Hardware Store. In 1968 the present business began in the building.

The earliest known business in the building (1870's-80's) was Martin Schieberl's clothing and tailor shop.

42 Further Description of Important Features This building received a new front facade c. 1920. It has a stepped parapet with concrete copings. A rowlock course echoes the form of the parapet and has a rectilinear panel in the center. This panel is filled with a concrete sign with letters embossed to read "ZUZAK". The 6 bays of the 2nd story are 3-over-1 and have corbelled rowlock sills and soldier course lintels. The 1st story with its large glass storefront and 2 inset entrances is capped by a canopy which echoes the stepped line of the parapet.(cont.)

43 History and Significance From c. 1860 to the 1880's this was the building site of the M.J. Wertheimer clothing and tailor shop. During the Civil War the merchandise of the store was "liberated" by Southern guerrilas. From c. 1885 through 1900, the building housed a book and stationary store on the N first owned by John P. Neef, later purchased by W.J. McCarthy. In 1896 Charles F. Hirlinger purchased the business and remained there until 1915 when he reopened at 307 Main in a building he had just bought. The S section served as a clothing and tailor shop in 1885,(cont.)

42. (cont.) The cast iron pilasters on this facade were manufactured by Christopher & Simpson of St. Louis.

The W facade is divided into a N & S section. The S section has a 4 bay 2nd story with 1-over-1 windows with rowlock lintels. The 1st story entrance has been closed in. The N section repeats the 2nd story; however, on the 1st story is a window and a large opening, now altered to a single leaf entrance and window, both having double rowlock lintels. Openings are all segmentally arched. This W facade indicates an older building with a new front facade.

43. (cont.) a crockery and stationary shop in 1892, and notions and books in 1900 and 1910. By 1917 both stores housed "Zuzak's Wonder Store", Herman Zuzak, proprietor. This store is credited with developing the concept of the "Department Store Santa." Santa would arrive in Boonville the day after Thanksgiving via the ferryboat "Dorothy." For a short period c. 1924 it was the site of Wagner's Ice Cream Parlor. In 1926 Herman Zuzak, leased the store to the Woolworth Corporation for their 5 & 10¢ store. Ben Franklin Stores was in existence, however, in the 1960's. In the 1970's Sunnyday Fashion Shop and Country Squire Mens Shop cooperated in the joint location. The Country Squire went out of business in 1978. Sunnyday presently uses the entire store.

In 1929 the structure is listed as having iron columns and a wall division on the 2nd story only.

43 History and Significance This building was the location from the early 1860's to about 1915 of the Durr Brothers Saddlery business. John Durr (1837-1918), who established the business in 1859, came to America from Germany in 1851 and first located in New Jersey. He eventually made his way to Louisville, Kentucky, where he learned the trade of saddler and harness maker. In 1859 he located in Boonville after working at his trade for a short time in St. Louis, Mo., (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main. There are alleys to the S. & E.

43. (cont.) and established his business here. A faded portion of the Durr Saddlery sign is still partially visible on the S wall of the building.

By 1917 the building was occupied by a book and stationary business, and at sometime before 1924 by Manion's Clothing Store. From 1926 until 1932 it was Brownsberger's Clothing Store, and then for a number of years it was occupied by the "Pattie Shop", a women's clothing store. From 1963 to 1968 it was the offices of the Public Finance Corporation, and from 1968 to the present it has been the offices of the Wooldridge Brothers, attorneys.

2nd story offices were occupied by the Ben Smith, Sr., Insurance Co. from about 1933 to 1945, at which time Judge Roy D. Williams moved his law practice to this location. This later became known as Williams and Reeseman, Attorneys, and remained there until 1970. The 3rd story offices were occupied by Schaumberg, Pendleton and Martin, Attorneys, during the 1930's and early 1940's.

42 Further Description of Important Features This building is capped by an ornate cast iron and pressed metal cornice. Above the wide entablature with large paired brackets, small brackets and stamped medallions is a stepped out cap where the words "The Phoenix" appears. Over this is a pediment with stamped panels and shell motifs. This cornice has been cropped to the N when the new Zuzak facade was erected. On the 2nd. story the 1-over-1 attenuated windows have stone hoodmolds and a connecting belt course. The 1st story is now sheathed (see attached)

43 History and Significance From 1885 to c 1920 the structure was used as a saloon. In 1892, an ice house was on the alley. By 1900, the alley building was used as a warehouse. It continued to be used for this purpose, including a Grocery Warehouse in 1929. The saloon that existed here until the early 1920's was the Phoenix Saloon.[1] Following prohibition, John Stretz bought the building with Bart Harrison and opened the "Cash and Carry" Store. Stretz later sold out to Harrison and it was operated under his ownership for many years. By 1968 the (cont.)

43 History and Significance In 1885 the N section (314) was W.R. Edgar & Son Hardware Store. Its 1 story addition was a tin shop and there was a 1 story detached warehouse at the alley. These continued and a plumbing business was added in 1900. By 1910 the N section (314) was Emil Mueller's Saloon and the rear additions were warehouse space. By 1912 Gantner Bros. Deluxe Photography Studio was on the 2nd story. This continued at least through 1916. Also, by 1912 Charles Wagner's Ice Cream Parlor was in the building. Between 1935 and 1960, Pete's (cont.)

An entrance to the upper story is in the N bay and is listed as 316½ Main St. The N facade has 3 bays at each level which repeat the segmental headers and extends in several sections E to the alley. The N section of the E facade has a concrete block 1st story section and is listed as 314½ Grand Street. The S section of the E facade has vinyl siding and 2 entrances at the 1st story level.

43. (cont.) Cafe operated at 314 Main St.

The S section (316) was used as a book and stationary shop with the George Sahm Shoe factory on the 2nd story by 1885. In 1892 the section along the alley was a beer depot 1st story, and Power Printing 2nd story. The Main Street business continued til c. 1915 but by 1910 the rear section was simply a warehouse. A barber shop and billiards hall were located here in 1917, but by 1929 the 1st story was used as miscellaneious storage and the 2nd story was vacant.

By 1948 the S section (316) was occupied by the Montgomery Ward store. By 1963 the partition between 314 and 316 Main was torn out and Rechter's Discount Store (later Rechter's Dollar Department Store) occupied the building. In 1970, P.N. Hirsch & Co., the present business, occupied the building.

Emil Mueller owned this building before it sold to Dick Cochran, the present owner.

The 2nd & 3rd. story windows have pedimented lintels and projecting sill. The 1st story has a large sign, vertical metal panels and a metal awning over the large glass storefront and inset entrance. The N facade has both flat arch and segmentally arched openings and a rectangular bay window at the 2nd. story level. Extending to the W, along the alley is a 1 story brick series of additions with an entrance (see attached)

Photo

43 History and Significance The building housed dry goods[1] and groceries on the 1st story, offices 2nd. story, and a photographer[2] on the 3rd. story in 1885. A warehouse was to the rear. By 1892 skylights were added along the alley and a warehouse was built at the corner of the alleys. The same businesses were there in 1900 and another addition was built. They continued there 1929 when the full additions to the rear were completed and listed as a warehouse. The rear area was later used as the "Boonville Sheet Metal & Furnace Works." (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces E onto Main St. There is an alley to the N and the W. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) to the N. To the S is a brick addition with large garage type openings E & W.

43. (cont.) Footnotes to Item #43:

[1]The original store was Heimsen's, but soon after became Waltz and Brenneisen (Nicholas Waltz and C.L. Brenneisen). The store featured dry goods, boots, shoes, groceries, carpets and notions. Waltz, a German immigrant, arrived in Boonville in 1857 and began clerking in Brenneisen's store. By 1860 he bought the business. Prior to 1883 Waltz sat three terms on the Boonville City Council and was an influential member of both the Oddfellows Lodge and the Turners.

[2]O.D. Edwards, an English immigrant, arrived in Boonville in 1859 and became a skilled photographer. He photographed many local Civil War personalities. In 1869 he was listed as operating a confectionary and photography business on the E side of Main St., but by 1885 he concentrated solely on photography and remained in that trade for over 50 years at the 317 Main St. location. Edwards was quite active in civic affairs and developed an area of town known as the Edwards Addition to the City. Edwards resided in a 2 story brick structure on the SE corner of 6th and Locust Sts. until 1891 when the structure was razed for the building of the Meguire Seminary.

In 1928 Fred Barth opened Barth's Clothing Store and operated at this location into the 1950's. Following this, another clothing store operated here, but by 1968 it was called Hirlinger's Clothing Store. The Camelot Shop dates from the early 1970's. During the 1940's and 1950's Dr. Beckett and Dr. Stone had their medical practices on the 2nd floor.

43 History and Significance 318 and 320 Main St. comprise the Brokmeyer Building. This building has been in the Brokmeyer family since the early 1890's when it was purchased by C.H. Brokmeyer (1845-1902) from John Otten, a clothing merchant. The Brokmeyer Grocery occupied both 318 and 320 Main St. until 1894 when the John Walz Jewelry Store occupied 318, continuing there until the 1940's. John Walz learned the trade of watchmaker and jeweler from 1880-84 with the firm of Hannacke and Kaufmann and then joined the firm of Gmelich & Huber until 1894 when he (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main Street. There are no outbuildings. Grand St, now used as an alley, is to the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features A fire in 1976 destroyed this structure. Today only the E facade remains standing. This facade repeats the corbelled brick cornice, pedimented iron lintels and molded sills which dominated this block of buildings. Windows are 2-over-2, but are boarded up. An iron beam extends across this facade above the 1st story which is also now boarded up.

43 History and Significance A tailor used this building in 1885 and there was a 1 story tin shop at the rear of the lot. By 1892 the H.T. Hudson harness and hardware business was operating here. A.K. Mills Undertaking then occupied the building, and by 1910 the George & Goodman Funiture and Undertaking business was at this location. By 1917 it was Lampros Confectionery (Pete Lampros, proprietor). Lampros sold the business to John Toennes and Kelly Brummer who operated it as the "Kandy Kitchen." They sold the business in 1920 to Pete Christus, Sr., who renamed it (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The front facade has a projecting cornice with ornate scroll brackets painted in 2 tones. The brickwork and fenestration has been altered. Glazed brick now covers the wall surface and the 2nd. story has a large 3 part window with transom. The 1st story has metal panels and a metal canopy. The entrance has a transom and is inset. The Wards sign is styled so as not to be obtrusive. To the E is a 2 story gable ell.

Photo

43 History and Significance The building stood vacant in 1885. By 1895 a 1 story addition was built to the E and the main structure housed a Book & Stationery shop. Between 1900 & 1910 it changed to a confectionary & bakery. In 1917 an ice cream factory was in the basement of the bakery. This bakery was known as Hirlinger's Bakery (William "Boss" Hirlinger, proprietor) and was at this location from about the turn of the century until the 1950's when Hirlinger died. Following his death it was owned for 3 or 4 years by William Shepherd and the building (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary (E) facade has been modernized. It now has a glazed tile veneer. Capped by a projecting tile molding at the cornice. The building has paired windows with large transoms, stone sills and stone lintels with block end and center applied decoration. A large wood sign is beneath the 2nd story window. The 1st story has tile sheathing, large storefront windows and an inset entrance. N & S are common walls. The W facade's 2nd story has 3 windows which are 2-over-2 and have concrete sills and double (cont.)

Photo

43 History and Significance The original 3 story building continued the original scheme of the block of buildings constructed after the 1859 fire - corbelled brick cornice and pedimented lintels. Prior to 1885 it was the location of R.H. Howard and Son druggists and book dealers (c. 1869), followed by Gus Howard Jr.'s grocery store. By 1885 there was a stove shop, and by 1892 a hardware and stove shop. In 1900 it is listed as a book and stationery store. During this time offices were on the 2nd story. In 1910 Tearle's Dry Goods was in the building and there (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features New metalic siding covers the primary facade (W). An advertising sign is at a diagonal across the 2nd. story level. A metal awning caps the 1st story which has large display windows and an inset entrance. The E facade is obscured by buildings along Grand Street.

Photo

43 History and Significance A tailor was located here in 1885 & 1892 (Martin Schieberl). Following this it was a shoe store for a number of years, owned first by William Johnson and then by William Sombart. The building was owned at this time by the Sauter estate, who sold it in the early 1930's to Harry Brownsberger. It has been Brownsberger's Clothing Store since that time. The orginal brick facade with a cast metal cornice is still intact beneath the present siding and the building could be rehabilitated.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main Street. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance: This structure is part of the block of 3 story buildings constructed after the 1859 fire. The first business to operate in the building was O'Brien & Andrews (James H. O'Brien and David Andrews, proprietors) specializing in stoves, tinware and agricultural implements. By 1885 Jacobs Dry Goods was in the building on the 1st story and offices were on the 2nd story. F.W. Otten ran a clothing business here in 1900. In 1910 it is listed as a book and stationery shop with a dry goods section to the rear. By the 1920's the building (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: There are no outbuildings. The building faces E onto Main. There is an alley and gravel parking area to the W.

43 History and Significance Up to about 1904 this building housed 2 separate businesses. In 1885 a book and stationery shop is shown at 326 Main and a bakery and confectionery at 328 Main (Sanborn). This latter business, and perhaps the one at 326 Main, was operated by John Christian Gross, and, later, his son, Charles Emil Gross. John Christian Gross came to Boonville in the 1860's and just after the Civil War established a bakery on Morgan St., which he operated until 1875 when he purchased the building at 326-328 Main and moved to that location. C.E. Gross (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure's primary facade faces W onto Main. Secondary entrances are to the S onto Spring Street. The building sits at the NE corner of Spring and Main Streets. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) about the same time and originally contained 2 storefronts. The 2nd story has 2 paired windows with straight-side arched headers. The 1st story has cast metal corner posts. A metal canopy covers the large windows, the inset entrance, and an E bay entrance which leads to the 2nd floor. The whole structure has a corbelled cornice.

43. (cont.) took over this business in 1884 following his father's death. C.E. Gross was appointed postmaster in 1897, a post he held until about 1918. By 1897 the bakery was in 326 Main and the post office was in 328 Main.

In about 1899, the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. began remodeling the building, which at that time was owned by the Sauter family, and the Sauter Mercantile Company (est. 1870) occupied 328 Main with the William Johnson Shoe Store in 326 Main. Remodeling continued up to 1904, by which time the building had become a single business (still Sauter Mercantile) and also included the rear portion of the building now occupied by the Million Ins. Agency (where,at the time the Sauter's owned it, Augustus Sauter had a music store). One room on the 2nd story was occupied in 1904,and for a few years thereafter, by C.H. Dunkle, who started his business school here.

A.H. Sauter came to Boonville c. 1860 and embarked in the mercantile business in 1870. At one time he was connected with the Farmers Bank and the Citizens Trust Co. of Boonville (having taken part in the erection of the old Trust building at the corner of Main and Court Streets). He was the main promoter in the organization of the Citizens Trust Co., which purchased the Bankers Bank (both were subsequently merged with the Boonville National Bank). Augustus Sauter was also a noted musician in Boonville and taught music here for some 25 years preceding his death.

Sauter Mercantile continued in operation until 1919, when Fred Sauter, a brother of A.H., died. At this time the extensive stock of goods was sold to the Bassett and Gregory Co. This business was later bought out by Malone and Forbachs Department Store. In about 1939 Mattingly Bros Variety Store (Howard Dyer, mgr.) moved into this building from their former location at the NE corner of Main & Morgan Sts. Mattinglys continued in the building until 1978 when the present Coast to Coast Hardware Store began business at this location.

43 History and Significance Felix & Adolf Victor began a clothing store "F&A Victor Clothiers" in 1893. In 1900 they moved to a 3 story building on this lot known as the Windsor Building and an adjoining building to the N. The Windsor building had a cast iron storefront 1st story E facade. All other openings were 1-over-1 and had segmentally arched lintels. The building was capped by an ornate cast iron projecting cornice and ornate pediment. This building had housed clothing stores, a jewelry store (1892) and a drug store (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits on the NW corner of Main and Spring facing E onto Spring. There are no outbuildings. In laid into the sidewalk at this corner are the words "Victor's Corner" in brass.

43. (cont.) (1885). Offices were located on the 2nd. story and the W.O.W. Lodge (c 1900) was on the 3rd. story. Other buildings that were destroyed to build the new building were 2 shops facing Spring - both were 2 story structures. They housed a tin shop a grocery in 1885, a paint shop was added in the 2nd story of the tin shop and a shop where hand painting was done in 1892, a sewing machine shop in 1900, and a clothing store in 1910.
In 1928 the Victor store was closed and leased to the J.C. Penney Co. The Boonville Medical Group had offices on the 2nd. floor.

42 Further Description of Important Features The W facade continues across 400 & 402 Main Street. It is capped by a corbelled brick cornice. The 3 brick pilasters have caps which are joined by a corbelled brick dentil course at the 2nd & 3rd stories. Windows on the top floors are 2-over-2 with iron sills and segmentally arched soldier course lintles. The 1st story originally had a cast iron storefront with large glass windows. This has been covered by green tile panels, a large sign, and a metal awning. The entrance is inset at an angle to the S. (see attached)

Photo

43 History and Significance In 1885, the 1st story of the structure was vacant. The central steps lead to offices on the 2nd & 3rd. stories. By 1892, the Commercial Bank used the 1st stories, offices were on the 2nd. story and the AOUW Hall was on the 3rd. story. An addition was added to the rear. These uses continued through c 1925. The building was originally used by the A.H.C. Koontz Grocery and in the offices on the 2nd and 3rd stories were the John Cosgrove (cont)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main and sits at the SE corner of Main and Spring Streets. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary entrance is at the NE corner. It has flanking ionic columns and a large pediment. The E facade has large vertical bays with pilasters. The N facade has windows with large transoms and paired pilasters. There is an entrance as the W bay. The structure is capped by a wide entablature and a spindle balustrade. The structure is of fireproof construction with reinforced concrete in the floors and roof. It has suspended metal lathe and pilasters. A weather/time sign is at the NE corner.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure sits on the site of the Farmer's Bank (c 1885-1910), Old Trails Bank (1910-1928) and Kempers State Bank. (1928-70's). During the years 1885 to c 1914 a Saloon was in the basement of the building.[1] The original building was a 2 story brick structure on a raised basement. It had an ornate cast iron E facade and cornice. The entrance set at an angle at the NE corner. Two 2 story brick buildings to the S were razed for the new building[2]. The following businesses were located in these razed two story Italianate (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of Main and Spring Streets, facing E onto Main. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The W facade continues across 400 & 402 Main Street. It is capped by a corbelled brick cornice. The 3 brick pilasters have caps which are joined by a corbelled brick dentil course at the 2nd and 3rd. stories. Windows on the top floors are 2-over-2 with iron sills and segmentally arched soldier course lintels. The 1st story originally had a cast iron storefront with large glass windows. This had been covered by green metal tile, a large sign, and a metal awning. The entrance is inset at an (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance In 1885 the 1st story was vacant, offices were in the 2nd. & 3rd. stories By 1892, a hardware store used the 1st story, offices were on the 2nd, and the AOUW Hall was on the 3rd. A tin shop was in addition to the rear. This business continued through 1910. The 1st floor changed to a Book & Stationary store by 1917. During the 1920's the store operated as Stalling's Confectionery. By 1940 it housed the Smith Auto Supply and Gregory Maytag Co. In the 1940's the building was the site of the Coney Island Restaurant. During the (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The building is sheathed in square, white metal tiles. The 1st story has 2 large display windows and an inset entrance to the N on the primary facade (W). Black carrara tile is below the windows. A canvas awning extends across this facade. The 3 part window on the 2nd. story is centrally located, N & S facades are common walls. To the E, the concrete block structure is evident on the 2nd. story. There are several 1st story additions including one constructed of hollow brick tile.

43 History and Significance In 1885 there was a brick dwelling on this site sitting about 10' back from the sidewalk (Sanborn). It is possible that this was the residence and offices of Dr. John Fetzer, a Civil War surgeon and later a U.S. examining physician for invalid pension claims. Sometime just prior to the razing of this house (1885-92) it was used for a marble and granite works. By 1892 the present building was on the site and listed (cont.)

Bleckman was still in the building in 1917. From the 1920's into the early 1950's the building was occupied by,first, "Tutti" Fusco's Fruit and Grocery Store, then the Howard Roberts Grocery Store (1938-1948), then Hopper's Supermarket (1948-50), then Gambrill's Grocery (1950-51). Foster's Drug Store moved to this location in 1958. In 1977 Foster's Drug was bought out by Robert Pryor, the present proprietor.

42 Further Description of Important Features The E facade is a c. 1926 alteration. It has a glazed brick surface with a projecting molded cornice which has an egg and dart motif. It is located at a mid-point between the attenuated 2nd. story windows and the top of the parapet. Also in this area is a geometric design laid in blue glazed tile. The 1-over-1 windows have flat arch lintels with extended keystone and label stops. The 1st story has transoms filled with block glass, an inset entrance (N bay), and an entrance to the 2nd. story as the (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The original 2 story structure was used as a Saloon (c 1885-1930). Several additions were added to the rear through the years. Around 1910, Rudolf Toennes painted a mural on the N front wall, a portion of which remains, but is covered at present. From 1888 to 1918, German immigrant Herman Schnack operated Schnack's Saloon at this location. Between 1918 and 1926 the building was the site of Manion Clothing, followed by Glover the Clothier from 1926 to 1975. In 1975 Ed Scrivner relocated his Family Shoe Store to this location. (cont.)

43 History and Significance The structure housed a harness shop in 1885. In 1892, the Pacific Express Company was located in this building. Changing business several times, the building served as a cigar factory in 1900, a Pool Hall in 1910, and became the Huber Jewelry Store in 1915. E.J. Huber, proprietor and founder of the Huber Jewelry Co., was born in Boonville in 1858, the son of Karl F. and Anna (Walz) Huber, natives of Germany. Karl F. Huber came to Boonville in 1857 and conducted a saloon business here until his death in 1873. In 1873 (cont.)

43. (cont.) E.J. Huber was apprenticed to Jacob Gmelich the pioneer jeweler and watchmaker of Boonville. After spending a 4 year apprenticeship with Mr. Gmelich he was then employed by Gmelich for another 3 years. From 1882 to 1893 he was a partner in the business, which was conducted under the firm name of Gmelich and Huber Jewelry Co. In 1906 Mr. Huber sold his interest to Mr. Schmidt and after a period of resting for a few years, he spent seven years in business in Blackwater, Mo. He returned to Boonville in 1915 and established Huber Jewelry at this location. It remained Huber Jewelry until 1946 when it became Grover Jewelry. In 1958 it became Esser Jewelry. The present owner took over in 1965 and since that time it has been known as Gordon's Jewelry.

This building,as well as the two buildings immediately to the S now occupied (and severely altered) by the National Bank of Boonville, were built by Dr. John Fetzer, a Civil War surgeon who at one time resided in a brick dwelling on the site of the present Foster's Drug Store (406 Main).

42 Further Description of Important Features The 2nd. story was sandblasted in 1976 as part of a clean up Bi-Centennial project. The original structure had a metal and wood projecting cornice which has been removed and replaced by a brick parapet with light corbelling. The 2nd. story 2-over-2 windows have pedimented stone lintels. Below the sills and extending to ground level is vertical metal paneling. The centered, inset entrance and display windows are capped by a metal awning. The W facade has a 2nd story entrance with a frame pent (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance In 1885 the building was vacant but had the extended addition to the W. By 1892 the structure was used as a furniture store and the addition as a furniture warehouse. By 1910 it had changed to a Grocery & Grocery Warehouse, and operated for many years under the names Brummel Grocery, Rippeto Grocery and Blanck Grocery. From at least the early 1960's, it was the site of both Mode O'Day Clothing and the Fashion Laundries and Cleaners (1st story) and S.L. Jewett Insurance and accounting office (2nd story).

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main. An alley is to the W. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance In 1885 the structure was used as a Meat Market.[1] The 1892 map shows a smoke house to the rear. By 1900, it had changed to a grocery. In 1910 it is listed as a 2nd. Hand Store, in 1917 as a Fruit Market[2] and in 1929 an ice machine was installed in the basement, and the store was in operation as Poole & Creber Grocery and Meat Market until the early 1940's. From the 1940's to the 1970's it was the site of Mike Angelo Printing. In c. 1976 Virginia Bridgewater purchased the building and developed the Chesire Cat, a (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features: The building's primary facade (W) and SW corner have been altered by the application of stone veneers-a light gray above and red marble below. The 2nd story is embellished by vertical projecting stone panels. This motif is echoed on the 1st story by vertical windows. On the SW corner, 1st story, is a walk up inset window and a round column. The S facade is brick, has a stepped parapet, and 2 windows on the 2nd. story. Windows on the 1st story have been bricked in. There is an exterior brick flue (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance: In 1885 the 2 story building had a wall partition on the 1st story level only and central steps leading to the 2nd. story. A Meat Shop was on the N; a Tailor on the S.[1] A jewelry store used the N and a china shop the S in 1892. In 1900, a Tailor was in the N side and the S was vacant. However in 1910 a Millinery shop in the N and a barber shop[2] in the S used the building and remained there at least till 1940's. During the 1930's the N section was (cont.)

From 1923 to 1945 the building housed the Pieper Drug Store (W.P. Pieper, proprietor). The 2nd story was used as their residence for a period of time. Following this use it was the office of Dr. Robert Evans, then the office of Dr. Shields, and, since 1955, the Harlan Law Offices. The 3rd story of the building was added by Pieper in the 1930's and rented as an apartment. From 1948 to the present Long's Drug Store has occupied the building. The rear portion of the building, listed separately as 417 Trafficway, has been occupied by Williams Carpentry Shop, Smith's Sharpening Shop, Loganbill's Sharpening Shop, Mike Angelo's Print Shop, and (since 1978) Popp's Upholstery Shop.

43 History and Significance Beginning in at least 1885, this was the location of the Palace Saloon, Valentine Diel, proprietor. Mr. Diel was followed as proprietor by a Mr. Linski and, in 1912, by A.J. "Butch" Hesel. During Prohibition the store became the location of Noble Geiger's Radio and Appliance business, alleged to be the first business of its kind in Boonville (1921-30). The next business was a liquor store, managed first by Samuel Ruskin and then by the Boggemeiers until 1964 when the building was purchased by Hilliard Selck, Sr., and renovated to (cont.)

43 History and Significance The Knights of Pythias buildings were significant to both the history and architecture as well as the commerce of Boonville. The present building, which replaces an earlier structure was built in 1920. In that year the offices of the Farmers Trust Co. were located on the 1st story, offices on 2nd and the Knights of Pythias Hall on the 3rd. A large vault used by the Farmers Trust Co. is still present at the 1st story level. In 1933 Marion Miller and her husband renovated the 1st story to house the Casino Theater, a movie house (cont)

42. (cont.) closed brick parapet acts as a crowning balustrade. On the N facade, the E bay repeats the motifs of the E facade. Other openings on the 1st and 3rd stories have no headers, the 2nd story has segmentally arched lintels. Windows exposed on the 3rd story S are paired with transoms. To the W, the 3rd story has a central projecting rectangular bay window and an entrance as the S bay. The 2nd story has 4 attenuated windows with double rowlock, segmentally arched lintels. The fenestration of the 1st story has been altered several times.

43. (cont.) that was in operation into the 1950's. Mr. Miller and a young helper were killed in the fire of 1934. In 1937 the 1st floor S was the site of the Walz Jewelry Store while the 2nd floor was utilized for business and professional offices and the Laura Estell Myer Studio of Dancing and Dramatics. A 3rd fire during the 1950's again caused damage to the building, and after repairs, the 1st story S housed the Jones Watch Shop while City Tire and Electric was to the N. During the 1970's the 1st story housed both City Tire and Electric (N) and the Automobile Association of America (S). Presently the building is vacated and the present owners have plans to restore the 1st story into a twin theater movie house.

The original 1898 building was a 3½ story brick structure that dominated the Boonville skyline. An ornate stone entrance graced the center front facade and is now believed to be relocated at the Boonville Water Works building in Harley Park. Vertical and semi-circular stone hoodmolds covered the 1st and 2nd story windows respectively. In its early days the 1st story was used for a dry goods store, the 2nd story as offices, the 3rd story as the Knights of Pythias Castle Hall containing parlors, kitchen, regalia and anterooms, and the top ½ story was the Knights of Pythias club room. In 1910 a movie picture theater was in the S 1st story and a business school in the 2nd. In 1917 the S 1st story was used by an auto sales company with a capacity of 6 cars while the N was used for the sale of farm machinery and seeds. By 1919 the 1st floor S was the location of the Farmers Trust Co. of Boonville.

The Knights of Pythias Building replaces an earlier log structure that housed Jacob F. Gmelich's Jewelery Store, est. 1861. George Garthoffner operated his cigar factory in 1894 on the site along with barber and cobbler shops.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has a later W facade. It originally was capped by a metal cornice and had a bay window on the 2nd. story and a cast iron 1st story storefront. The newer facade has a buff and red brick surface with a corbelled brick cornice with tile coping. The parapet area is embellished with panels, diamonds, and swastika laid in a white glazed brick. The 3 windows of the 2nd. story are 1-over-1 and have concrete lug sills and soldier course lintels. The 1st story is sheathed in white (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The original 2 story brick sturcture housed a General Store by 1885. Additions were added to the rear through the years, but the business remained the same till c 1910 when it was listed as a Second Hand Store. In 1917 the 2nd. story was listed as a Hardware Store, but by 1928 Vaughn's Tire Shop was in operation. In 1932 it became the site of Warnoff's Hardware Store operating under that name until 1954. Following this (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main Street. An alley and 1 outbuilding are to the E. The gable roofed shed is completely covered with corrugated metal.

Stegner who renamed it Stegner's Market. Stegner had been an employee of both Deck and Haller during their ownership. He operated the business until about 1939 when it became the Howard Roberts Grocery. Harrison Cochran Implement Co. was in the building in the 1940's, and in the late 1940's it was the Matt Davis Pool Room. On the 2nd story from the late 40's to early 50's was Clayton's Beauty Shop. "The Bottle Shop" (Kenny Esser, proprietor) was in the building in 1952 and 1953. From about 1959 to 1972 Geiger's Furniture occupied the building. From 1972 to the present it has been Dr. Kronk's Office.

43 History and Significance This building is made up of a N and a S section. In 1900 the N section contained W.A. Hoefer and the S section contained the J.F. Buckingham Bakery. The bakery continued under various managers (George Jones and Billie Mayhews) until c. 1923 at which time a long progression of pharmacies began. It was first the Haberly Pharmacy (1923-24), then Phelps Pharmacy (1924-44), then Hassics (1944-48), then Frank Foster (1948-1958). In 1958 Foster moved the business to 406 Main and the building was occupied by the Western Union office and (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main and sits at the NE corner of Main and Chestnut Streets. There are no outbuildings. An alley and parking area are to the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure was a 2 story building through 1929. The new front facade is a continuation across 419 & 423 Main. It has a corbelled brick cornice, 1-over-1 windows inset into panels with flanking pilasters with a double dentil course connecting these. The windows have segmentally arched lintels and lug sills. The 1st story has carrara glass and an entrance which is inset. The S facade has segmentally arched openings and a 1st story entrance. To the W. the 2nd. story repeats the window motif (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The original 2 story structure housed the Aehle and Sauter Grocery by 1885 By 1892 and at least through 1900 the Fred Dauwalter harness shop was in the building. By 1910 there was a drug store in the building, and by 1917 there was a grocery. Kemp's Bakery and Hesel's (or Heysell's) Bakery were here in the late 1920's and early 1930's. From 1938 to 1940, Esser and Maestro's Appliances were here. And from the late 1940's until 1977, Henry Schler's Appliance Store was here. Since 1977 it has been the Senior Citizen's Center.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the NW corner of Main and Chestnut Streets facing E onto Main. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance Originally a 1 story frame building with a paint and wallpaper store occupied this site. It was moved on to the back of the lot and existed at least until 1900 after which it was razed. By 1885 the N half of the present structure was on the site and was occupied by the John Weber wagon and blacksmith shop. By 1892 the Jack Monroe Furniture Store was in the building, and in 1907 the Boonville Mercantile Co. was there. The Boonville Mercantile Co. was organized as a corporation in 1906. Its officers were: W.M. Rowe, President; (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of Main and Chestnut, facing E onto Main. There is an alley and parking area to the W. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

43. (cont.) R.P. Burge, vice-president; W.W. Kingsbury, secretary. R.P. Burge was associated in the mercantile business for many years with H.T. Hudson, prior to the organiation of the Boonville Mercantile Co. The company moved to the Main and Chestnut building in 1907 and extensively remodeled the building in 1914. When the Mercantile Co. moved into the building, two dwellings immediately adjoined the building to the south. By 1914 Boonville Mercantile Co. had expanded their building to include the site of the two dwellings and vacant lot to the S of these dwellings. At this time a complete new front facade was given to the building. Boonville Mercantile occupied the N section (501-503 Main) of the building up to 1967 when it became Gibson's Store. In 1977 it was occupied by the Paradise Donut Shop and pool room, the present occupants.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure is a combination of alterations and additions. The NW section is 2 stories with a corbelled cornice. 2nd. story windows are 1-over-1 and have a rowlock lintel course and sill course. The 1st story has no openings and has been covered with stucco. This forms a rectangular panel motif. The W facade central section repeats the panels and stucco, but retain a saw-tooth cornice. This panel motif is also repeated on the S section. The Southernmost section is frame and inset. (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure sits on the site of a dwelling, an office and a shop along Main and the B.F. Jones and Sons Lumber Company along Chestnut (c 1885). Through the years business along Main changed and included a Meat Market, a Glass Shop and Millinery Shop. In 1910 businesses along Main were a restaurant, a cobbler, a tin shop and a dwelling and along Chestnut were a concrete block works, a Pool Hall, and a Negro Lodge. A new building appeared by 1917 and appears to be the base for the current building. (see attached)

42. (cont.) It has vertical siding and a porch with arcade motif and is used as a shop. Behind this section is a brick section with large garage doors to the W. It sits on a concrete foundation and is covered with variagated red brick. On its E facade are 4 multipane windows. The central section E is a butler building and a new construction with only the concrete foundation extant. The N section is a Butler building with a concrete loading dock and 4 large garage doors to the N. Large tanks and vaults are to the N. The N facade is 2 stories and repeats the motifs of the NW corner, except there are small rectangular 1st. story windows and an entrance.

43. (cont.) It was a garage which had concrete floors and had a 36 car capacity.[2] Two dwellings were along Main, and E.F. Garthoffer Feed Mill was along Chestnut.

In 1942 Ben Trout hired the Cochran Construction Company to convert the garage into a bakery building. Trouts Bakery, which relocated from 326 Grand Street to this site, remained in business until 1972 when the business was purchased by the C.J. Patterson Co. of Kansas City, Mo. In 1977 the company changed to Interstate Brands, which produces Holsum Bread Products. In 1977 the structures on Chestnut Street were removed for the erection of loading bays.

42 Further Description of Important Features The brick primary (E) facade has a stepped parapet. The central section is an open drive through area with lumber storage at the attic level. Flanking this large opening are 1 story sections with block glass window: a pedimented, colonial type entrance, and a double window with a soldier lintel. This fenestration is repeated on both N & S sections. The W facade of the building has 2 large openings. Pent additions extend to the W along the N property line and across the W property line. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Sometime between 1905 and 1910 a lumber yard was constructed on this site (which had been a vacant lot up to this time) by C.J. Harris. Harris, a native of Pilot Grove, Mo., entered the lumber business in 1888 when he and Shaw Roe purchased the Rust-McVeigh lumber yard in Pilot Grove. Harris then bought out Roe and established another lumber yard in New Franklin, and, later, the yard in Boonville. C.J. Harris Lumber Co. was incorporated (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main Street. An alley is to the W. The main structure sits at the NE corner of the lot. A gravel lot with access from Main is the S section of the property. In the SW corner is a metal Butler-type building on a concrete foundation.

43 History and Significance The structure was built as the residence for William E. Roeschel, on the site of the Dr. Ernest Roeschel house. Dr. Roeschel, a German emigrant, was a pharmacist who arrived in Boonville in 1851 and soon after entered into a drugstore partnership which was known as Speed and Roeschel. In 1862 the store, located at 310 Main St., became known as E. Roeschel. William Roeschel inherited his father's business and operated it until 1915. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main Street. There are no outbuildings. An alley to the E gives access to a gravel parking area to the E.

The SE bay of this projecting bay has a 1st story entrance with a pent cap. To the E is a 2 story original ell with a 1 story brick addition to the E. To the N of the ell is a 2 story enclosed frame porch and a 1 story brick addition at the NE corner. Chimneys have ornately corbelled caps. Windows are 1-over-1 with soldier course segmentally arched lintels.

43. (cont.) A subsequent owner developed the structure into apartments. The present owners presently utilize the structure for storage. Holsum Bakery has plans to raze the structure for the future expansion of the bakery.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 1st story is sheathed in buff colored brick and is capped by a soldier course string course. Fenestration includes a double leaf entrance with a pediment as the N & S bays and a large central window which has a transom. The red brick 2nd. story has attenuated, 1-over-1 windows with metal grills, concrete sills, and a soldier course lintel course. A wide stone cornice is capped by a rowlock and a soldier course. The parapet has stone work including a panel which reads "IOOF". (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The original structure was an "L" shape. A later addition (NW corner) completed the rectangular shape of the structure. Up to 1910 an east-west street (Marl) separated the old C.J. Harris Lumber Co. property (now Benson Building Materials, 511 Main) from the property on which the present Sears Roebuck/I.O.O.F. Lodge building now stands. This property originally had a 2 story brick dwelling on the N half (built sometime prior to 1869 and razed in the 1940's) and a vacant lot with a well on the S half (site of present bldg.) (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main Street. There are no outbuildings. An alley is to the W.

42. (cont.) The N facade shows an alteration and has 4 bays on the 2nd story which are 4-over-1. The S facade's 1st story windows are bricked in. The 2nd story has nine 4-over-1 windows. The W facade has two 4-over-1 windows on the 2nd story. The 1st story fenestration has been altered. There is now a concrete loading dock and a basement entrance on this facade.

43. (cont.) The dwelling was at one time the residence of David Andrews (1809-1893) who came to Boonville about 1828 and followed the trade of tinsmith. During his lifetime he amassed a fortune of over $300,000 and was one of the wealthiest citizens of Boonville, serving as mayor of the city for a number of years.

By 1917 Marl St. had been closed off and the present building had been erected on the S half of the property by the I.O.O.F organization, who used the 2nd story as their Lodge Hall and rented the 1st story to a movie house. In the 1930's and 40's this space was leased by the Piggly Wiggly grocery store chain. From the late 1940's to the late 1950's the space was occupied by W.N. Geiger Furniture and Appliances. From the late 1950's until 1971 it was occupied by Williams Furniture Exchange (Roy Williams, proprietor), and from 1972 to the present it has been the Sears Roebuck store.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade is cantoned by rectangular 45' towers at the NE and SE corners. These are embellished by corner pilasters with ornate caps which feature both an egg & dart and floral motif. Entrances in these towers are flanked by brick columns with ionic caps, and capped by large consoles and a denticulated pediment. The entrance has a semi-circular stained glass transom. Over this is a large rectangular stained glass window with a concrete surround. Capping the tower is a wide denticulated entablature, a balustrade (cont.)

43 History and Significance The present church replaces two prior Presbyterian Churches that were erected in 1841 and 1872. Erected in 1904, at a cost of $21,414.07, the church is significant as being Boonville's only example of Baroque architecture. The walnut chancel was made from woodwork original to the second church. The pipe organ was presented in 1941 by the Pigott, Johnston and Hitch families and was originally a theater organ from Kansas City. The congregation has (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of Main and Vine Sts., facing E onto Main. An alley is to theW. There are no outbuildings. The parsonage/office is listed seperately as 417 Vine St.

It repeats the pilaster and cap motifs and is capped by a pediment with dentils and a stained glass attic window. The N facade is somewhat plain, however there is a projecting gabled bay without a window. The S facade repeats the classical motifs of the buff brick structure. A palladian window is flanked by smaller stained glass windows. The SW corner has a projecting rectangular bay which has a 2nd story pedimented wall dormer. A later addition (1920's) on the S facade is a 1 story entrance vestible. It also repeats the classical motifs. The W facade has arched windows 1st story, rectangular 2nd story, all stained glass. A 1920's addition connects it to the parsonage and sunday school area. This 1 story addition has a double leaf entrance with transom, corner lights and sidelights to the S. The 1 story brick sunday school addition was built in the 1920's and is on the NW corner of the whole structure. It sits on a concrete foundation. Openings have no headers. An entrance to the basement and a 1st story entrance with a lattice porch is to the S. The Education Building and Church offices are in a 2 story brick structure at the SW corner of the whole complex and is listed seperately listed as 417 Vine.

42. (cont.) mansard roof. Interior alterations included the sloping of the 1st floor, construction of a balcony, application of ornamental plasterwork and reworking the lobby. Restoration of the building began c. 1975-76 by the Friends of Historic Boonville with Architects and Planners Colaboratives (John Huffman) of Kansas City as restoration architects.

43. (cont.) In March 1855 the Association reincorporated as the Boonville Library, Reading Room and Thespian Association; and, together with the local Mason's, Oddfellows, and the City of Boonville, raised funds for the erection of a Thespian Hall. On July 25, 1855, the cornerstone was laid with the declared motto "Esto Perbetua". The 50' by 103' structure, built by local contractors with some slave labor, was completed in July 1857 at a cost of $16,000. The building was dedicated on July 4, 1857.

Upon its opening the basement area was used as a library and reading room, the 1st story was used for play reading and other forms of entertainment, and the 2nd floor for lodges and city offices. In 1860, however, William Chamberlin was operating a bowling, billiard parlor and saloon at the basement level. During the Civil War the building saw service as a quartering place for both Northern and Southern troops at various times, and later as a hospital and horse stable. During these war years it was purchased by Col. Joseph L. Stephens.

In 1869 and 1895 the building was leased to the Turn and Gesang Verein Society for play reading, singing and athletic events. During the 1880's a skating rink was in operation at the basement level.

In April 1901, talk of demolishing the landmark was followed by an announcement by Alex Stephens and Crockett Hickman, building managers, and W. Speed Stephens, building owner, that the building would be enlarged by the addition of a stage house, remodeled and modernized with J.L. Howard of St. Louis as architect. On October 5, 1901, the building was reopened as the Stephens Opera House. Being midway between St. Louis and Kansas City, many legitimate, vaudeville, and minstrel shows played Thespian Hall in the years up til 1930. Around 1912, conversions were made to the Hall to accomodate moving pictures and the building was later renamed the Lyric Theater. In 1929-30 the theater was adapted for showing sound films. In the late 1930's the building was again threatened with demolition but local interest in saving the building prevailed and it continued as a movie house until 1975. In May 1975 the building was purchased and donated to the Friends of Historic Boonville by the R. Crosby Kemper Charitable Trusts. A restoration grant was also made for repair and renovation to be matched by the Friends. In 1976 the Kemper Foundations granted funding for the renovation of the Stage House area with work to be completed prior to the 1st Missouri River Festival of the Arts.

The building is currently used for special functions and theatrical endeavors which include the annual Missouri River Festival of the Arts, community plays and other community functions. The building is included on the National Register of Historic Places.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (E) is accented by brick pilasters with corbel caps and a connecting dentil course at the 2nd. story level. Windows are 2-over-2, attenuated, with soldier course segmentally arched lintels and molded iron sills. The 1st story is capped by a large wood sign and a canvas awning. The entrance is central and inset with large flanking display windows. Fenestration on the other facades repeats the arched lintels, but many windows have been closed in. There are 2 entrances to the N.

43 History and Significance The building was built by Edward Stegner as his place of business for the sale of groceries, hardware and software. When Stegner's sons entered the business the name of the business changed to J.A. Stegner and Sons. The last two businesses to be operated at this location have been photographers. In 1977 Gene Toennes, who was located here for many years, sold his business to Tom Burns. The 2nd story of the structure contains 2 apartments. Prior to 1881 this property was the site of the Hoefer flower shop and greenhouse.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of Main & Vine Streets, facing E. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features A new mansard canopy sheathed with wood shingles is along the E facade. The NE corner and the windows flanking the entrance are curved and formed of block glass. The gray brick veneer covers the N, E & S. Red brick is on the W. There is a N entrance.

Photo

43 History and Significance The building was constructed in 1945 by Paul Craig for Craig's Dairy and Refrigeration Service. By 1968 it also housed the Greyhound Bus Station. By 1977 Craig changed his business name to Craig's Refrigeration Sales and Service and was still present along with the U.S. Army Recruiting Office. The present owner purchased the building in 1977 and renovated the interior for his Beauty Shop and offices. The shake shingle canopy was added in 1978.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main and has parking along this facade. A drive is to the N. Along the W alley is a red brick structure, now only a shell.

42 Further Description of Important Features: The primary facade (E) is accented by 1/1 extremely attenuated windows. Several have ornate iron scroll lintels, others have soldier course flat arch lintels. The entrance surround has wood pilasters supporting a wide entablature and inset into a pannelled frame. It has a transom and is protected by a 1 story frame Greek Revival porch. The structure has a bracketed cornice, gable ends have skews. There is a 2 story brick ell to the W which has a 2 story pent frame porch on its S facade. On the (cont.)

Photo

43 History and Significance: The structure was probably built in the late 1850's by Charles F. Aehle. Aehle, of Aehle, Dunnica and Co., a banker and dry goods merchant, resided in the house in 1869. In 1881 it was sold to W. Speed Stephens, president of the Boonville National Bank and brother to Gov. Lon V. Stephens. Stephens may have resided here till his home one block south was built. Subsequent owners are Albert Weddicombe, a lawyer--1896; Dr. Jerome D. Potts--1900; George W. Conner, a livery stable owner--1905; Frank C. Brosius, a realtor--1910; W.R. Ryan--1921; (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The structure faces E onto Main St. There is an alley to the S & W. The commercial section sits directly on the sidewalk. The 1 outbuilding, a carriage house is listed separately as 611 Main St. The 1970's Merle Norman Store to the SE of the residence shares the same address but is a separate bldg. Its date & construction are listed separately.

42 Further Description of Important Features The main block of the structure is 5 bays deep and has a 3 story tower at the NE corner and a 2 story tower at the SE corner. Buttresses accent the corners and seperate the bays. The gable end is to the street. It has a raking cornice with medallions and a large center bay stained glass window. Over the bay is a segmentally arched name panel. All openings have soldier course lintle and follow the pointed arch motif. There are 2 additions. Extending to the W is an early gable roofed brick (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The first Baptist Church of Jesus Christ in Boonville organized in 1843 and met for 4 years "in the school room of Mr. Bronaugh." In 1847 the congregation built their first house of worship located at 518 Vine Street. The church remained the property of the Baptists until their second and present church was dedicated in 1889. Originally the church was of Gothic design containing a three part stained glass window and impressive (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment and faces E onto Main. Alleys are to the N & W. There is a large parking lot to the W. No outbuildings are associated with this property.

42. (cont.) section which is 7 bays deep. There is an entrance to the N and 3 bays and an entrance to the W. Openings in this section have double rowlock, segmentally arched headers. In 1952, a large brick section, Education Building was added to the S. It has 3 bays on the E & W and 11 bays on the S. Windows have corbelled sills, but no headers. They have 2-over-2 horizontal lights. There is a 1st story entrance to the S.

43. (cont.) entrance towers; the NE tower was 3 stories and the SE tower was 2 stories. In 1889 additional hitching posts appeared to the rear of the church to accomodate the growing congregation. In 1892 the church sold their old church bell and charged admission to the dedication to pay for their first pipe organ. This organ was replaced by a Wicks pipe organ in 1958. In 1905 fire caused $1500 damage to the building and furnishings. A new sidewalk replaced the original brick sidewalk and a retaining wall to the N side of the church was added in 1911. In 1912 a basement with a kitchen was built to the rear of the church. In 1922 the educational annex was built to the south of the church with an additional expansion in 1952. The dates for the removal of the tower roofs are unknown. To date the congregation has employed 39 pastors, the present pastor is Rev. Mel Lanz.

42 Further Description of Important Features The N section is the original section and motifs repeat on both the N & W facades. The structure is capped by a brick balustrade and a heavy cornice with block modillions, brick frieze, and concrete architrave. This is supported on 2 story fluted ionic columns. The 1st story has a heavier basement effect. The end bays and the central entrance bay project slightly. The entrance bay is embellished by an ornate cap with dentils, egg and dart moldings and a pair of large dogs flanking the crest. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The Laura Speed Elliot School was built in 1915 on land donated to the Board of Education by John S. Elliot as a memorial to his deceased wife. Recognized as one of the finest high school structures in the State at that time, the building including furniture and equipment cost $85,000. The original school building contained 25 rooms. To meet the needs of an expanding student body the south addition was completed in 1939 and included a new auditorium gymnasium and music room. The building remained as a high school until Sept. 1979 when (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main Street. There are no outbuildings. An alley and gravel parking area are to the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features The new addition to the E, built 1939, is rectangular in shape with slightly projecting end bays E facade. This E side is accented by a parapet with rectaangular panels over each bay. The central 3 bays are set off by 2 story concrete pilasters with connecting belt course. The double leaf entrance has a label header, a transom and quoins. A large concrete stoop extends along this facade. Windows in this section are 8-over-8, paired, but have no headers. The irregular shaped original (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The original Queen Anne structure had a circular tower at the NE corner. This and the primary facade were destroyed when the new E section was added, 1939. Home of W. Speed Stephens., Boonville financier. Following Stephens' death the structure was used as a rooming house. The structure with addition has served as the Masonic Temple since 1939.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of Center and Main Streets facing E onto Main and to the High School. The rear yard drops downward. There is a gravel drive to the W. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

43 History and Significance The structure was built by David Andrews, but it is unknown whether it was his place of residence since apparently he had the house built and sold it the next year in 1856. Andrews arrived in Franklin in 1828, moved to Boonville, became a tinner and was in partnership in a hardware store with Robert F. O'Brien in 1869. During the Civil War he produced canteens for the Southern troops and was imprisoned and sentenced to die by (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on the front third of the lot, facing E onto Main Street. To the S is a drive which leads to a molded concrete brick garage with a gable roof. Its entrance is to the E and there is a pent addition to the N.

42. (cont.) much of its original woodwork, however, all fireplaces have been enclosed. The present owners converted the structure from 3 apartments of unknown date back to a single family residence.

43. (cont.) General Nathaniel Lyons. Reprieved, he went on to become one of Boonville's wealthiest citizens. In 1856 Franklin Parker purchased the residence. The next owner, Freeman Wing, 1857, was an early pioneer who arrived in Cooper County in 1831 by covered wagon. He purchased 480 acres from General William Ashley and became his "agent". Later he became attorney to Mrs. Ashley during her marriage to Gov. John Crittenden. Apparently this structure was his "retirement" home. Prior to his death he willed the residence to his daughter Virginia R.S. Wing in 1865. In 1865 Justinian A. Williams, Cooper County Circuit Clerk (1860-67), purchased the house. From 1866 to 1912 the residence was known as the "Gibson House" and was owned respectively by David B., W.T., and Margaret. Additional owners have been Edwin I. Smith, 1912; Iva N. Powell, 1921; Paul Winders, 1921; Oliver Thomas, 1939; Annie, Ruth and Mary Chambers, 1940; Frank and Ruth Arnold, 1946.

42 Further Description of Important Features: This structure is built on a 2/3rds, plan with the entrance as the S bay of the E facade. Built in 3 sections the structure has an exposed basement level with front windows set into window wells and a walk out entrance to the rear. Both the basement and 1st story have soldier course flat arched headers. The basement retains the original 6-over-6 windows. The later 2nd. story has windows with double rowlock segmentally arched headers. The primary entrance is inset with a panelled surround, (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance: Property evaluations obtained from the abstract indicate the structure was built between 1845-1857 by Alfred and Cynthia Simmons probably as their residence. The residence was purchased in 1859 by George Graham Vest. Known as "Missouri's Little Giant" the noted lawyer and U.S. Senator arrived in Boonville in 1856 and opened a law office. In Boonville he became active in the local Thespian Society and was a co-builder of Thespian Hall, ca. 1857. Professing states rights, Vest left the city in 1861 (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The structure faces E onto Main Street. There are no outbuildings now, however there had been a frame barn and later a 1 car garage to the rear.

42. (cont.) a transom and fluted doric columns. The recent porch has a concrete stoop and wrought iron railings supporting a gable roof. The W facade has a small frame stoop and stairs at the 1st story level. On the interior, the structure was for some time divided up into 3 apartments, but the basic plan was not altered. Recent remodeling has returned the structure to a single family dwelling and has been sympathetic to the early date of the primary construction. The large entrance leads into a hall way which contains 2 stairways, 1 up and 1 down, which has been moved slightly to allow for a small half bath. This stair is enclosed. The 2 major rooms downstairs have brick fireplaces, mantels are gone. Some windows have been closed in. Remnents of the old wall paper remain . A chair rail is indicated in the E room. Millwork, where extant, is lightly molded. A bath is being added at this level. The main floor has 2 large rooms to the N, the E one used as a living room, the W one converted to a kitchen. Both have large fireplaces with Greek Revival mantels. They are closed up. The door from the hall to the W room has the original 2 panel wood door. Millwork on this level is wide and heavily molded and has a circular motif at the top corners. Windows have ornate panels below the sills. The newel is turned with a gentle curve and may have been the original post and hand rail to the lower level. The current balustrade is plain. The upper floor, added in the 1920's, has trabeated millwork and is divided into 3 large bedrooms and a bath.

43. (cont.) and as a State Legislator introduced Missouri's Secession Ordinance. Vest's oratory skills and belief in the expansion of personal liberties led him to argue the cause for the fair treatment of ndians and the religious rights of The Church of the Latter Day Saints. His most famous case was representing the owner of "Old Drum", the dog for which his "Eulogy to a Dog" orginated. "Old Drum" has been immortalized through a statue in Warrensburg, Missouri. As a United States Senator (1879-1903) he was active in obtaining National Park status for Yellowstone and stood against U.S. imperialism. In the 1870's he returned to Boonville briefly and opened a law partnership with James W. Draffen.

The residence was sold to James M. Nelson an early Boonville banker, large land owner and patriarch of the influential Nelson family in 1861. A city directory credits the house as his residence in 1869. In 1876, Nelson's heirs sold the house to William L. Stephens. In 1876 it was owned by Col. Joseph L. Stephens, president of the Central National Bank, father of Missouri Governor Lon V. Stephens and post Civil War owner of the Stephens Opera House (Thespian Hall).

In 1888 Stephens, heirs sold it back to James M. Nelson, who in turn sold it to Russell Harriman in 1902. It again returned to the Stephens family in 1903 when S.H. Stephens resided there. Stephens was quite active in Boonville public life having sat in the first board of public works and as acting as a public school director.

Subsequent owners of the house have been: R.L. Evans, 1905; Elizabeth Mitzel & Julia Adams 1912; A.F. Nixon, 1919; Dudley Monroe, probable constructor of the 2nd. floor, 1920; Charles Clayton, 1922; Martha Tucker, 1930; Vaughan family (Tucker heirs), 1940; Georgia Smith, 1960; Trout's Investment Inc., 1972.

In 1976 the present owners, Orville and Mai Thi Gordon purchased the residence in poor condition which had been long since converted into three apartments. Under their ownership they have conducted appropriate exterior and interior restoration that includes tuckpointing, new front steps, insulation, rewiring, and interior decorating. There are future plans of additional work to take place at the basement level.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is built on the 2/3rds. plan with the entrance as the N bay of the E facade. Originally the windows were 9-over-6. They are now 1-over-1, and have soldier course flat arch headers. Alterations and additions include a c 1900 1 story plus basement gable ell extending to the W, N bay;and a 1 story and basement addition to the N built c.1975. It is constructed with brick from the original porch, has a basement entrance E, and a 2nd. story deck. The S yard has been graded to expose (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Abstract indicates in 1851 Benjamin Emmons Ferry obtained a $1080 mortgage and may have used this to build his residence on the lot he had purchased from the Jacob Wyan Estate. At the time of Wyan's death the lot was appraised for $201, which strongly indicates the structure was not in existance. In 1868 when the property was sold the evaluation had been elevated to $3845. Ferry was the first editor of the first newspaper in Boonville in 1834, acted as Aide de Camp to General Henry W. Crowther during the (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E, at the NW corner of Spruce and Main Street. There are no outbuildings. Parking area is to the S. To the E is a filling station which has been converted to a liquor store. Reportedly 4 or 5 sections of slave quarters extended W to the alley.

42. (cont.) the basement which now has a S entrance, which leads to the office space. The W has a pent porch and an enclosed porch area, both in frame, as the S bay. A new concrete porch is to the E. The interior has been reworked but the plan has not been severely altered. The basement was originally 2 rooms and a stair hall; one room had a brick floor and was probably used as a kitchen. Both large rooms had fireplaces. This level is now office area and furnace room. The stairway has been removed. The 1st story has molded pine millwork with circular corner medallions. Both large rooms had large fireplaces, only 1 remains. The back parlor is divided into 2 rooms and the kitchen is in the enclosed W porch. A delicate curved walnut newel and balustrade has u-curves at the landings. It leads to the 2nd. floor and attic. The 2nd. floor has 1 large apartment. Fireplaces may have originally had stoves but are closed in. The attic story is a large bedroom. Trussing is exposed and 2 skylights and a fireplace have been added. The rear ell is 2 bays deep and has Eastlake millwork. This area was used as a kitchen and dining room at the rurn of the century. Currently there is an apartment on each level.

Features of the house include the 40' hall, 4 panel doors, and original house hair plaster. The structure has been rewired, hot water heat was added in the 1920's by Nobel Geiger, and new concrete floors added in the basement level.

43. (cont.) Morman War of 1838, and served as Cooper County Clerk, 1837-54.

The next owner William Johnson is listed as residing in the structure in 1869. Johnson operated a clothing and piece goods store located on the west side of Main Street between Morgan and Spring. His widow Margaret retained ownership till 1920, when it sold to Edward S. Harte. In 1928 his son Huston Harte, owner of the Central Missouri Republican newspaper, obtained the deed and in 1929 granted it to this mother Genevive Hart.

In 1929 the house and lot (75' x 187½') was sold to the Milton Oil Company. The property was sub-divided into three lots with a gas station being erected on the lot (51' x 75') fronting Main Street directly to the east of the residence. Oral history indicates apartments by 1940 and could have been completed most likely under the ownerships of the Harte family or possibly by the Milton Oil Company. In 1940, Ben Smith, Sr. abstractor and realtor purchased the rental property and retained ownership till its sale to another realtor, Jerry Quinlan in 1960. In 1963 it was sold to Earl Schader. In 1964, the present owner. Dr. John Rorah bought the structure and conducted sympathetic alterations, in which he modernized 2 apartments, developed his office of Chiropractory office and his residence on the third and fourth levels.

42 Further Description of Important Features The Romanesque affinities on the exterior include the use of corbelled brickwork, ornately molded brick in a jigsaw frieze, & buttresses. Gable parapeted wall dormers accent the roof on each facade; several have 3 part windows with an arcaded header. A circular tower at the NE corner ends with a conical roof with gable dormers & an iron finial. The wall surface is a smooth red brick embellished with white stone belt course and lintels & terra cotta panels. The primary facade has a 1 story hip-roofed (cont.)

43 History and Significance The home was built as the residence for Wilbur T. Johnson, a shoe manufacturer. The rose garland hand painted on the parlor ceiling allegedly was done by Constantine Brundini, a Washington, D.C. artist, who was brought to Missouri to paint the State Capitol by Johnson's brother-in-law, Gov. Lon V. Stephens. The following owners, Anna and Amanda Berndt, were dressmakers who designed and constructed exquisite gowns commissioned by (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a high embankment at the NW corner of Main & Walnut Sts., facing E onto Main. The porte-cochere and a 2 car brick garage and workshop at the rear (W) of the lot are reached by a circle drive from Walnut. The gabled garage was built 1974-75. A dog kennel is on the extreme NW portion of the property.

42. (cont.) porch with a pediment over the double leaf entrance and transom. To the N is an oriel window with a corbelled brick base and a 1 story polygonal bay. The S facade has a large chimney, a 2 story bow window, and a secondary entrance which is afforded protection by a hip roofed porte-cochere. The interior features a large entrance hall with a fireplace, circular room (base of NE tower) and an ornate staircase with built-in seats at the base and landing where there is a large stained glass window. The spindle frieze canopy has strong "Moorish" motifs complete with moon and stars. This is repeated in the NW room to set off the bay window. The 11 fireplaces feature a different color tile around the firebox in each room and that color sets the tone of the room. Each mantel is different. The SE room has a painted ceiling and there are several pocket doors on the 1st floor. The 2nd floor has bedrooms and the 3rd floor is a large ballroom. Additions and alterations include: 1959 chandelier-gasoliers sold out of house; 1960's fruit cellar filled in, carriage house removed, basement floors concreted; and 1970's rear porch/pantry removed, rear door bricked in, and concrete patio poured. The kitchen area was modernized and redone after this area was badly damaged by fire

43. (cont.) the Boonville aristocracy. The next owner was Henry E. Fuser. In 1961, the next owners, Pete and Shirley Christus, owners of Pete's Cafe, completed interior renovations which included remodeling of the kitchen. Additional owners have been Ruben Linneman and Giles McCoy, who completed interior preservation and added the garage. The present owners purchased the residence in 1979, own and operate Foster's pharmacy.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The structure indicates a main block and 2 additions to the rear. This main block is built on a 2/3rds plan with the entrance which has a transom and sidelights as the S bay of the primary (E) facade. This opening and the 2 1st story windows have pedimented stone lintels. The 2nd story bays and both levels on the N facade have flat arched soldier course lintels. Extending across the W facade and projecting beyond the main block 1 bay

43 History and Significance
Lot was purchased by August Glahn in 1863 and he is noted as residing there in 1869. Glahn later operatdd a business known as "Glahn's Flower Garden" in the area bounded by 2nd, 3rd, Chestnut and Vine Streets. Following his death in 1885, his son Joseph owned the residence. In 1898 M.R. Sloan bought the home but soon sold it later that year to George Viertel. Between 1903 and 1905 it was owned by Levi Gibson. In 1905 it was purchased

(cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The residence sits at the SW corner of Main & Walnut Sts., facing E onto Main. It sits close to the front of the lot. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) to the S is a somewhat later 2 story brick addition. Windows in this section have segmentally arched headers. There is an entrance to the E. The last addition is a 1 story brick room to the W. It too has segmentally arched lintels and there is a W entrance. It has a frame enclosed porch over it to the S. Generally the windows in the residence are 1/1 and the green shutters accent the structure which has been painted white. Extending across the 1st story of the E facade and wrapping around the SE corner is a c. 1920's porch with concrete slab and MCB columns.

43. (cont.) by Jacob Deck, who operated a meat market and owned Thespian Hall prior to 1918. In 1919, E.H. Huffman is listed as owner. In 1924 the dwelling was purchased by Edgar C. Nelson, who was editor and publisher of the Bunceton Eagle, which "had the largest circulation of any newspaper in Cooper County, and is the most prosperous and popular of the newspapers in central Missouri." In the 1930's and 1940's he edited the Boonville Advertiser and in 1947-48 was Secretary of State for Missouri. The present owner bought the dwelling in 1967. Information gained from interview indicates that there are future plans to raze the structure and to build a modern insurance office on the lot.

Due to this structure's association with E.G. Nelson it has both state and local historical significance.

42 Further Description of Important Features The roofline is accented by a bracketed cornice which rakes and has returns at the gable ends. The E facade has a 2 story projecting bay which contains the primary entrance. The E has a transom, sidelights and a frame surround with grecian ear molding. At the 2nd. story level is a 3 part window with an arcade type header. It is shuttered and its large central section is baorded up. A 1 story porch extends across the E facade and wraps around the SE corner, where there is a secondary 1st story entrance with transom. (see attached)

43 History and Significance The structure illustrates the transition period of Greek Revival (plan and entrance) and Italianate (arched openings and polygonal bay). The structure c. 1920's was the residence of O.F. Kelley who became the president and manager of Boonville Mills in 1928. The present owner operated Stephanie's Steak House, 402 Main, in 1968, while her deceased husband, Frank, operated Stephens Meat Market, 209 Main St. that same year. Mrs. Stephens (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto Main Street. Along the front facade is an iron fence. Two ornate cast metal lamp posts flank the walk up to the porch. A stone wall is to the S and an alley is to the W. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) Over this SE corner at the 2nd story level is a later addition, 1 room, which obscures the original fenestration. The NE corner and the S have windows which repeat the arch motif of the primary facade, both at the 2nd. story level. The S facade also has a 1 story polygonal bay. To the W is a 1 story gable addition and several pent additions and porches.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front open porch is supported on 3 square wooden posts on each side. It has a brick ballustrade & a shallow pediment with dentil work and caps a double leaf entrance with transom set in a panelled embrasure. The porch is not original to the structure. Windows are generally 4/4 however some are 1/1 or 6/6. The attenuated openings have straight side arch headers with label stops on the primary facade & segmentally arched soldier course headers (cont.)

43 History and Significance The house was built ca. 1857-60 by Dr. William H. Trigg, Boonville financier and merchant, as a residence for his daughter, Juliet Trigg Johnson, upon her marriage. In style and detail it is the same as 1307 6th St., which was built for Juliet's twin sister Josephine, except that the 1st story floor plans are reversed. The structure is significant in that it was built by Boonville's wealthiest citizen of the era and is one of a pair of houses that represent the earliest examples of residential Gothic architecture in Boonville. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Located on a hill, the residence faces W onto Main & sits back from the street with access road in front. A long driveway is to the S side of the house. Steps to the front walk are limestone with carved stone benches on either side. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) on the other facades. There is a polygonal bay to the N. Two windows on this facade have been bricked in, The bay window on the S was removed and replaced with rectangular paired windows. On each side of the rear ell are 2 gable roof dormers which are very narrow. A N door has been converted to a window. The roof line of the structure is accented by a boxed cornice which has brackets and forms returns at the gable ends. On the S facade is an open porch and entry. A gothic patterned bargeboard embellishes the porch which is supported on 3 octagonal columns. The interior newel repeats this octagonal motif. The staircase and newel are walnut. The floor plan has been altered. Some of the original black walnut woodwork has been retained. Two of four original fireplaces are in working condition. The 2nd story is in near original condition. There is a frame attached pent roofed garage on a stone foundation. It is on the E end of the rear ell.

43. (cont.) The use of segmentally arched window and door openings are among the earliest examples in Boonville. Trigg, a man of means and culture, purchased a large tract of land beyond the southern boundary of the city which became known as "Trigg Hill." On this hill,which is the highest point in the area, Trigg built at least four residences for his children and one for himself. Originally the "twin houses" had grounds landscaped in the Andrew Jackson Downing manner and commanded a fine view of the city to its north. Although the 1304 Main lot has been subdivided in the 1930's, 1307 6th St. still retains the original lot size. From this vantage point General Parsons of the Missouri State Guard surveyed the routing of the State Guard by Federal troops during the first Battle of Boonville, June 17, 1861. The masonry of both structures is believed to have been contracted by Andrew Gantner, a master immigrant brick and stone mason and personal friend of Trigg. Gantner was the only non-family member residing on Trigg hill and his sandstone homestead at 1308 6th St. still survives. Juliet and her husband, William M. Johnson, a prominent Boonville merchant, resided in the structure till 1883 when they moved to their home at 720 6th St.. In 1887 Dr. Trigg sold the house to Nancy Davis, who sold it to John and Josephine Trigg Pigott in 1888. The Pigotts, who had earlier lived in the other twin house, retained ownership till 1895 when it was sold to "Judge" Joseph F. Rutherford, court reporter, Prosecuting Attorney and stand-in Circuit Court Judge. Rutherford is credited with the bricking-in of the two NW windows because "he did not want to view the wicked lights of the city by night." Rutherford sold the residence in 1910 and in 1916 became the successor of Charles Taze Russell, organizer of the Russellites. As leader of this religion he is credited with changing the organization's name to the Jehovah's Witnesses, coining the phrase "millions of people now living will never die", and in furthering their doctrine by writing four fooks on church philosophy. The next owner, Lafayette Coulter, a supervisor at the telephone company sold the house to Charles W. Powell in 1916. In 1917 William L. Koenig, county collector (1909-15), owner of a local bus and transfer company and the Koenig Auto Sales Company, purchased the house. The next owner, Maude Huckabay, 1919, was foreclosed upon in 1924 and Eugene Windsor and Crockett Hickman became the recipients, possibly converting the house into 3 apartments. In 1927, Lon Wendleton became the owner, made alterations to the house& subdivided the large lot on which he built the 3 houses to to the north. The 4 houses were dedicated to the City as Wendleton's Addition in 1928. Also in that year the house was sold to Dr. K.L. Frazier, a local chiropractor. The next owner, Charles T. Babbitt, 1945, was the owner of a large and successful poultry farm near Pilot Grove. In 1946, Hensley Hall, a county extension agent, purchased the house as his residence. The next owner, Thomas J. Miller, President of the National Bank of Boonville, converted the structure back into a one family dwelling, installed a new heating system and lowered the 12 foot ceilings to 10 feet. In 1978 Howard Kelley and his wife Meo, an artist, bought the house. In 1979 James and Tia Higbie bought their "dream house" with the purpose of restoring it to its original opulence. Higbie, past director of Chemical Abuse Rehabilitation and Education (CARE) Inc., 1974-79, and current Director/ Historian of the Friends of Historic Boonville's Historic Survey Office, is active in civic affairs being a proponent of issues both popular and controversial. Tia Higbie is currently the Director of the Boonville Planned Parenthood office, a post she has retained since 1979. The structure is significant architecturally on a local level and historically on both a state and local level due to its association with J.F. Rutherford and William Trigg, respectively.

43 History and Significance The structure was the residence of Dr. William H. Trigg, who resided there from before 1869 to 1890. Abstract information indicates that Trigg purchased 3.25 acres to be known as Trigg Hill from his father-in-law's (Jacob Wyan) estate in 1842. This acreage, a high point in Boonville, overlooks the city and was the site of at least five residences built for the Trigg family members. Trigg, a prominent merchant and banker, arrived in (cont.)

There is a drive to the N from Main Street and a drive S from Poplar Dr. Outbuildings include a newer gable roofed metal shed and a gable roofed brick structure with bracketed eaves. It has pent additions W & S which almost obscure the small (see attached)

43. (cont.) Boonville in 1834 and practiced medicine originally. Shortly thereafter he entered into partnership with pioneer merchant, Jacob Wyan. In 1847 he opened the first bank in the city. In 1858, he developed a partnership with J.L. Stephens and James Nelson and the bank became known as W.H. Trigg and Co. til it dissolved during the Civil War. The firm of William H. Trigg and Co., a mercantile firm, developed after 1865 and became the largest business of its type in central Missouri. In 1880 the company erected the building now known as the "Shryack-Givens" building, 515 E. Morgan. In 1890 the residence on Trigg Hill was sold to Anna Lionberger. Subsequent owners have been David C. George, 1895; William C. Scott, 1912; Drury Davis, 1915; Dr. John Barnett, an osteopath, 1915; the First Baptist Church, serving as the Church parsonage, 1926; Grace F. Viertel, as her residence and two apartments, 1930; Augusta M. Farris, 1939; and Marvin and Margaret Greis, 1940. In recent years the present owner, a widow, has placed vinyl siding and has redecorated the entire structure. It is unknown when the one story ell was reduced in size or the veranda decorations were removed.

43 History and Significance
The structure was used as a boarding house in 1885. By 1900 a restaurant is listed in the building, and in 1910 and 1917 the building is shown as housing a general store and lunch counter. Lester Sanders operated a cafe here during the 1940's, and in the 1950's "Dutch" Fowler operated a sheet metal shop here. Roy Bridgewater and Lyle Chenault bought out Fowler's business in c. 1963 and operated it as R & L Plumbing, Heating, and Sheet Metal. This business continued through c. 1970. During Fowler's and R.& L. Plumbing's (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure sits close to the streets at the NE corner of Morgan & 1st. Streets. It faces Morgan Street. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance In 1885 the structure was used as a Saloon, but by 1892 it had been converted into a dwelling. In 1900 it was a restaurant but again changed to a dwelling in 1910. It is listed as a confectionery in 1917. "Pop" Holland had a restaurant in part of this building sometime prior to 1929, and from c. 1929 to 1930 Roy O. Williams operated a grocery store at this location. In 1930 Rupert and Mary Rennison leased the building and started a restaurant known as Rennison's Cafe (operated by Mary) and a barber shop (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the street facing S onto Morgan. Rupes Branch is to the N.

42 Further Description of Important Features

The structue's primary entrance has classical affinities of a transom and sidelights. Windows have segmentally arched lintels and are generally 1-over-1, however, some 6-over-6 windows are retained. The front facade has had some alterations to the fenestration. Frame porches on the NE have been enclosed and are covered with composition siding.

43 History and Significance

The structure was listed as a boarding house from 1885 through 1917 and as a hotel in 1929. Prior to 1942 the building was owned by Gene Darby and leased to Jim Ross who ran it as a rooming house/hotel and restaurant. About 1942, the building was purchased by Rupert and Mary Rennison who operated it as the Rennison Hotel until c.1977 when they sold it to Ed O'Bryan who sold it to the present owner, Joe Boggs. It continued to be used as a rooming house until 2/80 when it was extensively damaged by fire.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings

The building sits close to the street facing S onto Morgan St. The rear yard drops off to allow for an exposed basement. There is a large outbuilding to the N.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade is a frame store front with a pent roof porch which extends over the sidewalk and is supported by square wood post. E & W facades have new small windows set into the larger original openings. Ornate holdmolds are projecting brick straight-side segmental arches with labels. There is a brick 1 story addition with a pent roof to the N as well as several additions which are gable roofed and are of corrugated metal.

Photo

43 History and Significance Brick section was used as grocery as early as 1885, and remained a store thru 1929 (?) During the 1890's it was known as Miss Preston's Grocery Store. During the 1920's Miss Jess Mitchell continued the operation.
The structure sits on the site of the Sandrock Boarding Home, Adolph Sandrock proprietor, 1869.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The structure faces S onto Morgan St. and sits right on the sidewalk. An open graveled lot is to the W of the structure (past site of RR depot)

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a piano nobile plan the residence has flat arched soldier course headers, a dentil course with a corbelled string course below, and chimneys and parapets at the gable ends. Windows are 2-over-2; some brick alterations to a main facade window may indicate a change from a door to a window. On the primary facade (S) there are 2 basement entrances. Also on this facade is a raised 1 bay flat roofed frame porch with Eastlake affinities. (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance
As early as 1885 property listed as dwellings.
Present tenants A. Williams, H. Jackson, J. Bridgewater
Important as example of Piano Nobile plan and Missouri German style.
The significance is at a local level.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Structure sits back from Morgan Street, facing S. A brick outbuilding with a gable roof and a segmentally arched rowlock header over the door on the S facade is to the NW of the main structure. A large gable roofed barn covered with composition siding and sitting on a stone foundation. (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features Concrete plaster covers the brick foundation. The 1st story is log or half-timber construction. The structure sits at the sidewalk with frame steps leading up to the N entrance which has sidelights. A basement entrance is directly under it. Windows on this facade are 2-over-2 and there is a chimney at the NW corner of the structure. The W facade has an attic window, 1 6-over-6 1st story window, and a basement entrance with a gable cap which is filled with fishscale shingles. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure is significant as an example of the early piano nobile style. The significance is at a local level. The house was built by Enoch Moss and Azariah B. Bone, a one-time Methodist Minister. Both men were early Pilot Grove area settlers c. 1820 but apparently moved to Boonville in the 1830's. It is unknown whether either man resided in the structure because in 1840 it sold to John Moss, who soon lost it for failure to pay taxes. The next year it was owned by William Shields who sold it when he left to serve a term (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the street facing N onto Morgan St. An alley is to the E. There is a vertical board shed to the rear of the structure.

42. (cont.) The E facade repeats the attic and 1st story windows. The roofline is accented by a boxed cornice.

43. (cont.) in the Missouri Legislature, 1842-44. The house was then purchased, in 1842, by Nancy and Martha Moss. In 1852, Samuel Jackson bought it and in 1854 it was purchased by Daniel Berger. In 1854 Philip Back bought the dwelling for his residence. Back was a co-owner of the Back & Stegner Saloon located on the E side of Main Street between Morgan and Spring Streets in 1869. Following Back's death in 1874 it was willed to his widow, Elizabeth, and later his children, Ernst (City Assesor in 1912) and Emma (1900). Following Emma's death it sold to Frank Mitchell in 1925, who quit his claim to Joseph Memmel later that year. Memmel retained ownership, probably as rental property, until 1939 when it sold to James Stegner. The following year the exterior was renovated by the new owner, Ben Smith, Sr. From this point on both this structure and a brick structure to the rear (built in the late 1850's) served as rental property.

42 Further Description of Important Features The gable runs N & S and the chimneys are at the NW and SW corners of the structure. First story openings all have rowlock, segmentally arched lintels. There is an entrance to the E & W; each has a transom and sidelights. Windows are boarded up, but evidence indicates 6-over-6 lights and frame sills. There are attic windows just below the eaves E (3) and W (2). Basement windows on the W. are also boarded up. Evidence of a raised porch remains to the W. and a line of gabled addition to the S (see attached sheet

43 History and Significance Used as a residence, the structure at one time had an addition to the S which was used as an ice house. The structure was probably built by Philip Back who resided at 210 E. Morgan. He was co-owner of the Back & Stegner Saloon. An assumption is made that both the ice house (since razed) and the cellar were used to store ice and spirits to be sold at the saloon. The structure has had a close relationship since its beginnings with 210 E. Morgan, having never been divided from it. Oral history indicates that when the structure (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure seems to face W, originally onto 2nd. St. however the Swift Building now blocks its view. It sits on the NW corner of the alleys between Morgan and Spring and between 2nd and 3rd. Streets, and behind 210 E. Morgan St. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The N facade features a gable wall dormer and an Eastlake porch with a flat roof. The 2 entrances with transoms retain their Eastlake interior doors. Windows are attenuated 2-over-2, and have soldier course segmentally arched lintels. Some have a raised scroll work and medallions in their arched headers. There are projecting rectangular gabled bays E & W. These have pent additions to the S. which are later and sit on concrete foundations. To the S is a projecting bay with original (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance This structure replaced an earlier (pre-1856) structure that was the residence of the Kopp family. The present structure was built by Phillip Kopp, a barber in the Kopp Barber Shop. In 1918 it was purchased for rental property by Benjamin Fredmeyer, a local cleaner. Subsequent owners were James Mills (1944), Richard Cochran (1960's), Kenneth Zimmerman (1974) and the present owner Jack Hasselbalch (1975).

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Morgan Street. There is a 2 car garage along the S alley. It is sheathed in corrugated metal.

42 Further Description of Important Features
Built on a dog trot plan with end chimneys and a central hall, the structure's primary entrance (S) has a transom and sidelights. Windows are 6-over-6. There is a 3 bay Eastlake porch with turned post and spindle frieze with a gable over the entrance which is filled with fishscale shingles. There are several additions to the NW and an enclosed porch on the NE. Alterations on the interior are evident to change the structure from single dwelling to a duplex.

42 Further Description of Important Features The gable roof runs E & W and appears to have had end chimneys originally. Two rooms to the W have been added. The entrance to the N has a transom. Windows are 2-over-2 and trabeated. The porch on the N has a pent roof, rest on concrete block piers with lattice skirting, and has a concrete stoop. The basement is partially raised; the brick is exposed on the E. Extending to the S is a 2 section gabled brick ell. To its E is a pent porch with 2 entrances; to its W is a pent (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Property Abstract indicates that 226 E. Morgan lot and 2 others were purchased in 1837 by Charles Rector for $260 and that the single lot where 226 E. Morgan is located was sold in 1838 for $1000. This would seem to indicate that a structure was erected in that year. In 1838 it was purchased by Nathaniel Mack, a merchant and developer, and may have been his residence prior to the building of his home on Main Street. Subsequent owners have been Elisha W. Brown, 1840; Henry C. Cope, 1865; George Hardcastle, a dry goods merchant, for (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the SW corner of 3rd. & Morgan Streets on an embankment facing N onto Morgan St. An asbestos covered pent roof garage is to the S and has access from 3rd. St. An alley is to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features Structure has raised concrete porch on N facade which has square brick columns, closed balustrade and a hip roof. Windows are generally paired, 6-over-6 with corbelled sills, but no headers. There is a 1 story ell to S. On the E & W is a pent roof wall dormer. On the W is a chimney with small flanking windows, and a basement entrance at street level. Entrance also to S.

Photo

43 History and Significance
The structure was originally built as a basement house with the 1st. story added at a later date.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment at the SE corner of 3rd. and Morgan streets. There is a drive from 3rd. street to the W basement entrance. The rear yard is fenced. There is 1 small metal storage building to the S of the residence.

43 History and Significance This house has been called "one of the oldest houses in town." A will of an early owner, John W. Keiser, relates that the residence was in existence in 1849. An 1839 transaction indicates that the lot on which this house was built sold for $1000, which would seem to indicate that a structure of some type was present. While residing in the house, John Keiser was a captain in the Boonville Home Guards. In 1866 it was purchased by Richard (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The addition of modern siding has obscured most of the Queen Anne details except the porch posts and brackets, and the original massing. The primary facade has a projecting rectangular ell on the NE. and a 1 story hip roof porch on the NW. The entrance with a transom, is set into the angle where the NE ell meets the structure proper. To the E is a projecting 2 story rec. bay. On the S is a 1½ story room, original to the structure , across the full facade with an open porch on the W. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance
304, 308 and 312 E Morgan are architecturally alike in plan and style. The orientation has been changed for this structure. This structure and 308 and 312 E. Morgan Street were built in the 1890's by Colonel John and Laura Speed Elliot, for speculative purposes. Mr. Elliot was also involved in supplying the M.K.&T. Railroad with railroad ties, organizing and presiding over the Commercial Bank, and developed and presided over the Boonville Water Works.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment, has a stone wall to the front and faces N onto E. Morgan. The yard rises sharply to the S. There are no outbuildings. There is an alley to the S.

43 History and Significance This structure and 304 and 312 E. Morgan Street were built in the 1890's by Colonel John and Laura Speed Elliot, for speculative purposes. Mr. Elliot was also involved in supplying the M.K.&T. Railroad with railroad ties, organizing and presiding over the Commercial Bank, and developed and presided over the Boonville Water Works. Ownership of this property is: 1907-1921-Thomas Hogan, 1921-E.M. Darby, 1921-1937-Edward and Catherine Scott, 1937-1962-Leroy Aggeler, 1962-1968-Carl & Margaret Malotte (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a high bank facing N onto Morgan. A concrete drive with retaining walls on each side lead from the street to the garage. The back yard rises sharply and is fenced. A small child's play house is the only outbuilding.

42. (cont.) balustrade over the 1st. story enclosed porch. The E. & W. gable roof lines have been altered to jerkinhead gables. Under the projecting ell to the NW the ground has been removed and a garage has been added. It has an overhead door. Windows are 1-over-1, some are attenuated, the larger ones have shutters. A scallop frieze and turned balustrade are retained on the front (NE) porch, as well as an ornate Eastlake interior entrance door and millwork. Alterations include interior changes to form 2 upstairs apartments.

43 History and Significance The Kiwanis Pool was built to serve the needs of the community and was in active operation until 1977 when it was closed due to its poor filtration system. The present owners plan to raze the pool and locker rooms to expand their lumberyard. Historically the site contained a wagon and paint shop which was in existence until 1885. Around 1892 M. Zimmerman operated a wagon manufacturing company in conjunction with a blacksmith shop.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces E. The concrete pool and patio area is to the E. To the N is a grass area with a pent roofed patio cover, constructed of wood posts set in concrete footings. There is an alley to the W.

43 History and Significance Mrs. Homer Cook resided in this house for "a number of years" before she was killed in a robbery at the Boonville Golf Course Club House (where she was employed) in early 1980. Before the present structure was built in the 1930's there was a frame house on the site which was the residence of Mrs. Emma Hassenbach.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the sidewalk, facing S onto Morgan. Along the N alley is a pent roofed molded concrete block garage.

43 History and Significance The building is presently part of the Lacy Estate and has stood vacant approximately 15 years. 304, 308 and 312 E. Morgan are architecturally alike in plan and style This structure and 304 and 308 E. Morgan Street were built in the 1890's by Colonel John and Laura Speed Elliot, for speculative purposes. Mr. Elliot was also involved in supplying the M.K.&T. Railroad with railroad ties, organizing and presiding over the Commercial Bank, and developed and presided over the Boonville Water Works.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment, has a stone wall to the front and faces N onto E. Morgan. The yard rises sharply to the S. The foundation of a garage and brick drive with access from the E alley is at the SE corner of the lot. There are no standing outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The structure is accented by gable end raking parapets with end corbelling, shuttered windows with flat arched lintels, and a 1 story front porch which extends across the 2 entrances. The primary entrance has a pediment and sidelights. The later porch (1920's) has square brick columns and an iron railing. The E facade has a balcony with iron railings and a square tower type structure. It has a coal chute and brick dentil and sawtooth ornamentation. Side windows have segmentally arched headers. An ell to the rear repeats the tower motifs. (cont.)

Photo

43 History and Significance
The dwelling was built by John T. Thornton who is believed to have been present in Howard County during the War of 1812, and may have been an early Boonville merchant. Subsequent owners are: Robert Perry, 1849; Pauline and George Miller, a contractor, 1867; Dr. Roy H. Ellis, a dentist, 1903; Harry Ruskin, a Russian emmigrant who operated Ruskin's Grocery Store, 1920; Herman W. Bueker, a carpenter and contractor, 1937; Ben N. Smith, Sr., (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces N onton Morgan St. and sits on an embankment with a retaining wall to the N & W. There are alleys to the S & W. To the S is a 3 car garage built of molded concrete block with a flat roof and set into the hillside

42. (cont.) To the W of this ell is a 2 story frame addition. It has a side entrance and and patio, and a 1 story section which may have been a porch originally. There is a distinct break in the brickwork from front to back and it appears to be 2 separate structure which have been joined together.

43. (cont.) an abstractor, who rented out the structure, 1946; Arthur Putnam, an abstractor, 1946. During the ownership of Harry Ruskin, the front facade was altered somewhat and the front porch was added. In 1937, Herman Bueker converted the dwelling into 3 apartments. The present owners have made extensive interior changes in developing the house to their tastes. This includes the development of a 3 room art studio and gallery and a 3 room apartment on the second floor with separate entrances and a private stairway. The original house, which was built into a hill, had a formal parlor and entrance hall on the first floor. Dividing the first floor was a breezeway connecting to the kitchen and cellar. The main dining room was upstairs and servants carried food to the upstairs by way of stairs on an "L" shaped two story porch extending on the west side of the house. The bedrooms and sitting quarters were all upstairs. The east side of the dwelling has an interesting brick firewall and design which was the type of brick work done at Williamsburg, Va. Also, the wrought iron balcony on the east side of the dwelling existed from the time the house was built. The front of the house was surrounded by a quarried limestone wall and had a five foot iron fence with gate at the flared front steps. The original house did not have a front porch but only a stoop at the front door.

43 History and Significance E. H. Roberts ran a lumber yard here in 1885. It was listed as Roberts and Sons in 1892, 1900, and 1910. By 1917 it was the Klenk Bros. Lumber Yard. Dascomb-Daniels Lumber Co. was on the site in 1929. Other owners include Frank Smith and the Logan & Moore Lumber Co. The lumber yard operated under the name Boonville Lumber until 1979 when it was purchased by the McFarland Lumber, Inc. The present office and hardware building dates from the 1930's while the lumber storage area is of an earlier date.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NW corner of 4th & Morgan Streets. There are no outbuildings. An alley is to the N.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building has hip dormers to each facade and a wide frieze and architrave. The windows are attenuated 2-over-2 and have heavy stone lintels and sills. A 1 story porch extends across the N & W facades and wraps around the NE & SW corners Built on a molded concrete block foundation, it has a molded concrete block balustrade, doric columns, a wide entablature and a flat roof. It affords protection to the primary entrance (NW bay) which has side lights and is now enclosed by a frame (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance Built originally as a 3½ story hotel which sat on a high embankment, the structure was truncated and additions to the SW were removed by W.J. Cochran when he renovated the building into his private residence c. 1909. Brick from the top story as well as materials from the interior, which he gutted, were used to build 4 structures on the same lot which face 4th. Street. The lot was graded and the porch was added. Oral history indicates ~~that the hotel was the headquarters for the Union Troops during the Battle of Boonville.~~

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment with a stone retaining wall and faces N onto Morgan. There is an alley to the E & S. The only outbuilding still extant is a 2 story brick structure with a corbelled stepped parapet to each facade and garage door openings to the E & W. Openings have segmentally (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features
The structure has a later (c. 1920) brick primary facade which is accented by a parapet with a sawtooth pattern. The central 2nd story window has a soldier course lintel. It has been closed up. The 1st story has a large glass display window & a single leaf entrance with transom. The E wall is a common wall. The W wall has 1 segmentally arched 1st story window & a large "Bull Durham" sign painted on the brick. The sign is faded but restorable at this time.

Photo

43 History and Significance
The structure housed a barbershop from 1885 through 1910 operated by the Kopp brothers. In 1917 it was listed as a tailor shop, and in 1929 as a paint and wallpaper store operated by Ben Fredmeyer. By 1949 Ben Fredmeyer and his sons operated a liquor store. The business was sold to Tom Pullium. The present owner purchased the business in the early 1970's from the National Bank which foreclosed on the past business operator.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces N onto Morgan St. There is an alley to the W. No outbuildings are associated with this property.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The 1st story originally contained 2 storefronts. This has been altered (E to W) into an apartment and office, and stairs leading to the upper stories, however the large display windows and doors with transoms remain. The 2nd story has a frame 3 bay balcony. Bi-chromatic paint accents this balcony and the cast iron pilasters and details of the 1st story. Windows on the 2nd story & the corner windows of the 3rd story have ornate straight side arched hood molds. The central 3 bays of the 3rd story (cont.)

43 History and Significance
The structure was built in 1882 allegedly by W.J. Cochran for James C. Macurdy. Macurdy, born in 1837 in Ohio, was a well known early professional portrait and landscape photographer. During the Civil War he was engaged by the Federal Government to accompany the army as an official photographer. In 1868 he arrived in Boonville and opened up a photography studio on Main St. A second location during the 1870's may be on the site of the present building. Macurdy operated out of his last studio between the years 1882 to 1888. A description (cont)

42. (cont.) were originally filled with a large glass skylight; they have since been filled in with brick and 3 rectangular windows. These have no headers, but repeat the bracketed sills of the other windows. A brick parapet with a sawtooth pattern now caps the structure. Originally each end bay had a mansard roof with a round arched dormer. Windows to the W and S are 2-over-2 with segmentally arched headers. There is a frame 2nd story balcony to the S. The ornamental ironwork on the front facade was manufactured by J. Christopher and Co., St. Louis, Mo.

43. (cont.) in 1883 relates: "Recently he has erected a handsome art gallery and photograph building, which for size, beauty of appearance and elegance of finish is not surpassed in the state, and will compare favorably with the finest structures of the kind in the whole country. From its spacious and superbly appointed entrance room on the first floor to the handsome skylight apartment above, including a suite of elegant and richly furnished parlors, it is a perfect triumph of art, beauty and good taste. Certainly the citizens of Boonville owe to the enterprise of Mr. Macurdy no ordinary debt of gratitude for this handsome ornament to their city. If others would show the same degree of ability and enterprise in their respective callings, Boonville could justly claim to be one of the most beautiful cities in the country." Following Macurdy's mortgage default in 1888 the building was owned by numerous people through the years, none of whom were photographers. It is believed that a Mr. Hughs operated a photography business following Macurdy, however no record other than the finding of 'Hugh's Photography' stamped under the wallpaper of the second floor has ever been found. In 1900 Frank Truby was utilizing the building as his studio and shop. Truby is well known for his photographic study of Boonville's new houses and streetscapes of Main Street published in the 1900 souvenir publication, Vine Clad City. In 1916 William L. Tanner leased the studio for 'the Tanner Studio' which was in existence till a fire devastated the north light photography area in 1919. Shortly thereafter the fourth story was removed as was the northlight photography area and a new roof was added. At this time a third story apartment appeared and the second story became the law office of Whit Draffen. A second story apartment was added in 1945 by George Reeseman as was the east first story apartment in the 1960's. Historically, the first story has been the site of many businesses other than those related to photography, among which have been: telegraph office, restaurants, beauty shops, alteration shop, osteopath office, "Old Trails Antique Shop," "Corbin's Shoe Repair," "The Knot Shop." The Historic Survey Office is currently located in the west first story unit. The present owner purchased the building in 1977 from Dale Reeseman and has personally renovated with sympathy all three rental units.

43 History and Significance: The structure sits on the site of a 2 story building listed as a cabinet shop and as "old" in 1885. Originally the SE section was divided off as a jewelry store;[1] the remaining L-shaped area was a dry goods store.[2] This continued through 1900 when a barber shop was also in the building. By 1910, the dry goods business used the whole structure. Through the ensuing years the Cambell building has been the location of the following (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary (S) facade has been altered as well as the roof line. The boxed cornice is probably original. The 2nd. story now has paired windows E & W and a single center entrance; all are 1-over-1 with double rowlock, segmentally arched headers. The 1st story now has large metal and glass panels and the transoms are enclosed. There are 2 entrances. The N facade has a 2 story gable ell as the E bay with pent addition on the ell's W. E & W walls are common walls; to the E is a gable parapet.

Photo

43 History and Significance The original structure had a hip roof and consisted of 3 storefronts (505-07-09) The 2nd. story openings had 1-over-1 windows with slightly pedimented stone lintels with a block motif at the ends. In 1885 a millinery (507) and a drug store (509 and addition to rear) were in the building. Changing by 1892 a chinese laundry was in the W section and a paint and oil store was on the 2nd story. The drug store continued in 509, and the pent addition was built. The drug store continued til c 1910. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces onto Morgan Street. Court Street and a gravel parking area is to the N.

43. (cont.) By 1917 it was a a clothing store.[2]

At the 507 location between the 1890's and the 1930's (except for 1900 when a fruit store made a brief appearance) a succession of restaurants were being operated by Charles Heiberger, Mr. O'Neal and J.Q. Hull (c. 1912) respectively. In 1928 this was the site of the Payne Brothers Florist Shop, but by the 1940's the Jones Shoe Shop was operating here. Prior to 1968 Russell Hanna had opened the Hannah's Bookkeeping Service. In the 1970's the address was incorporated into 509 Morgan by Charles Malone for the Malone & Korte C.P.A. firm.

43 History and Significance In 1866 this building became the site of William H. Trigg and Co., bankers, real estate agents and conveyances. The company later entered into dry goods sales before moving to 515 E. Morgan St. c. 1880. By 1885 there was a stationary store in the front section and the office of the Topic newspaper in the rear addition. By 1892 through at least 1917 the building was occupied by Pigott and McKinley Dry Goods. The rear addition was used as a warehouse for this business during those years. By 1928 J. C. Pigott was sole owner of the business.(cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features. The primary facade features a boxed cornice and 3 bays on the 2nd. story. These 2-over-2 windows have stone sills and pedimented lintels which end in a block motif. An early photograph indicates the windows were originally 9-over-6 and the 3 bays were repeated on the 1st story with the same pedimented stone lintels. This 1st story has been altered and now has 2 entrances inset as the W bay. Both have transoms. A large window with black carrara glass is the E bay. A metal awning extends (see attachment)

43 History and Significance The structure is listed as a dwelling. 1885 to 1900, when it changed to office space. In the early 1920's until the 1940's the building was the site of Jenry Taxi Company. The building was later purchased by Bill Snapp of Western Auto for storage. The structure has erroniously been called "the first brick building in Boonville" and for many years carried a sign to this effect. The structure has had a close association with 516 E. Morgan and was probably a slave or servant's quarters for that house.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the street facing N onto Main There are no outbuildings. To the E a brick gateway connects 516 & 514 E. Morgan.

43 History and Significance
The building was constructed by the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. c. 1880 for Dr. W.H. Trigg, prominent early businessman (see form O-37, 1314 Main St., for biography) and was originally a mercantile store (considered the first department store in the mid-Missouri area). Before the building was built there was a marble and granite works on the site. The building sat back 50 or 60 feet from the sidewalk and a Mr. Bedwell was the owner. When Trigg's company dissolved the building was occupied by the H.T. Hudson harness and saddle shop.(cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces S onto Morgan Street. An alley is to the E and a narrow walkway is to the W. The N facade faces onto Court Street and the Court House. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) segmental headers. Alterations include a bricked-in door (W) and window (E). The N facade repeats the cornices, but in a less ornate style. The 2nd story has 4-over-4 windows in a 5 bay pattern. They are attenuated and have stone sills. The 5 bay 1st story has a single leaf entrance and a double leaf entrance with a large transom. Some windows have iron bar grill-work. This facade has a sign painted on the brick surface between floors which reads "Newton's Fidelity Flour." To the W (2nd story) is a "Coca-Cola 5¢" sign and a "Wrigley's Doublemint" sign (1st story). The interior retains a large walnut staircase and corinthian columns of cast metal through the center of the structure. New office space is to the S, 1st floor. The structure was rehabilitated in 1975 with careful attention to retaining the exterior details and style. Rehabilitation cost was less than $2.00 per sq. foot.

43. (cont.) H.T. Hudson and Robert Burge established the Boonville Mercantile Co. in 1906 and moved to their new location at 501 Main St. The Sahm Shoe Co. then moved into this building from their long time location at 316 Main St. By 1910 Hirsch Wholesale Grocery was in the building. This business later changed to Shryack-Givens Grocery Co. The present owners purchased the building in 1975 after leasing it for many years.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure sits on an exposed basement and has a frame Eastlake 1 story porch at the 1st story level. Built in 2 sections, the primary facade is accented by a molded brick cornice. The E section is 2 story; the W is 2½ story and has double chimneys with connecting parapet to the W. The fenestration has been altered. Windows vary in size and style. Some are 6-over-6; others are 2-over-2 and attenuated. Headers are both flat arch and segmentally arched. There is a 1 story pent addition and frame steps leading (cont.)

43 History and Significance The structure is significant to Boonville in that it was an early hotel and has served the community in this capacity for over 100 years. The first county history, by Levens and Drake, erroniously states that this structure was built by Asa Morgan and is the oldest brick structure in town. Melton, in his history of the county continues the mistake but relates the story to 514 E Morgan, one door to the west. The brick structure cannot be the home of Asa Morgan, the co-founder of Boonville, since Morgan died in 1822 and this lot and (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the sidewalk. An alley is to the E. The structure is connected to 514 Morgan by a breezeway. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) to a 2nd story entrance on the S facade. The molded cornice is repeated on this facade.

43. (cont.) others were donated to the County Commissioners to be sold by them to ensure Boonville being the county seat of Cooper County. A lot with such a structure present would not have been donated to the commissioners and sold by them in 1821 to David Jones for $160.00. A notation, however, on the obverse of a historic photograph in the Missouri Historical Society which pictures a portion of a log cabin that was allegedly behind the brick structure state: "log cabin of Asa Morgan - Daniel Boone spent most of one winter here during his last hunting trip in the Boonslick." An association between the two structures lying on the same lot may account for the historic inaccuracies.

Abstract information indicates that David Jones did not build the original portion of the brick structure because he sold the E half of the lot on which the structure would later stand for $90.00. The next owner, James Dow, is credited by us as being the builder between the years c. 1828-1845.[1] In 1869 the structure sold to Charles Force and the City Directory of that year indicates that he was residing within and operating the "Star Boarding Home" at this location.

In 1879 the structure was sold to Julius Sombart, owner of the Boonville Mills, who undoubtedly leased the building out to an unknown hotel keeper. During this period, a Dr. Miles had his office located at this site.

In 1888 it was sold to Andrew Hosp who resided in the structure till 1919. In 1906 the hotel was operated by Ben Powell. During the last years of Hosp's life it was operated as the Grey Hotel by a Mrs. Grey. It remained under that name through the ownerships of Clement Sims (1919), Mary McMahan (1920) and Horace D. Quigg (1922).

In 1945 the structure sold to A.H. and Ruby Burkhart and the building was operated as the Boonville Nursing Home. In 1956 it sold to Henry Fuser and leased to Martha Jobe, and operated under the name of Boonville Boarding Home. In 1975 Jobe purchased the structure but lost it due to foreclosure in 1979. The present owner, who owns and operates Western Auto, purchased it at that time.

NOTE to Item #43: [1]The smaller structure at 514 E. Morgan may have been an associated slave house, but nothing to this effect is mentioned in the abstract.

43 History and Significance A dwelling was on this site from at least 1885 until the present building was erected in the 1930's by Gilbert Haller. In 1916 this residence (also listed as 518 Morgan) was occupied by Frank M. Vanatta, a tinner, whose business was located at 506 Main Street.

Haller had the present building erected for a business known first as the Boonville Bottling Works and later as the Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. His partner, Stanley Kramer, bought the building from him in the 1940's and retained ownership until it was sold to the present owner. (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features This is a section of a larger building which housed 4 storefronts. This section has been severely altered. It appears that the cornice with dentils continues across this facade however the surface has now been plastered over. The new windows of the 2nd. story have no headers, but continue the 3 bay rhythm. A metal awning caps the 1st. story An entrance is to the W, a large window is to the E, and wood shingles accent the wall surface. The N facade has 6-over-6 windows with soldier (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance This section housed a millnary shop c 1885 - c 1910. By 1917 it was listed as the location for "Tire Vulcanizing". In 1929, the 1st addition had been added and was listed as a printing shop and publishing office for 3 newspapers edited by E.J. Melton. The Cooper County Record is the only survivor. The current editor, Gene Hansett, worked for Melton until Melton's retirement. The present front facade was added c. 1929. The 2nd story was once used for an apartment but at present is used for storage.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The structure faces S. onto E. Morgan. The rear facade is reached from an alley to the W and a vacant area behind 519 & 521.

43 History and Significance: In 1885 this section was listed as a Sewing Machine Shop. By 1892 it had changed to a Soda Water Factory. This soda water factory was first known as the Tackett Bottling Works, then Tackett and Meyer. The Meyer brothers (J.H. and F.A.) purchased the business in 1915, by which time the business was known as the Boonville Bottling Works. Ben Fredmeyer was managing this business in the 1920's, followed by Stanley Kramer and Gil Haller. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The structure faces S onto E. Morgan. There are no outbuildings.

The business then sold to Walter Winborn who continued to operate the Singer Store until 1977. For a brief period following this a ceramics store operated. For the last two years (1978-1980) the building has been vacant. The present owner recently purchased the building to be used as a meeting place for the Knights of Pythias club.

43 History and Significance 607, 611 and 615 indicate similar construction in plan, style and date. W.J. Cochran related that he has done considerable modernization to structure including excavating crawlspace forming basement area. The structure was built by C.W. Sombart for Alex Sombart. In c. 1900 it was the residence of Max Schmidt, proprietor of Gmelich & Schmidt. In c. 1937 it became the residence of W.J. Cochran, Jr. Mr. Cochran, along with his sister, Jessie Cochran, inherited the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. and were leading contractors for (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a 2/3rds. plan with the entrance the easternmost bay. The transom is retained, but the sidelights have been closed in. The structure appears to have several additions. A brick 2nd story was added on the main block before 1885, as well as 2 story brick ells to the N. At an even later date a brick 2 story section was added to the E of the rear addition. It projects beyond the original main block and has an entrance on this S facade.
(see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure is similar in plan and style (originally) to 607 & 615 E. Morgan. It was built as a one story structure by C.W. Sombart for the son of his second wife, J.E. Thro. Thro went on to develop a lumber yard and later built 703 E. High St. as his residence. The owner at c. 1915 was Harry Reed, a foreman for Cochran's Construction Company. Reed was killed on a job site c. 1917, and W.J. Cochran, in sympathy, added the 2 story addition to the earlier rear addition for Mrs. Reed as an extra rental apartment. The (cont.)

Windows in this sections have slightly pedimented headers on the S. and are 1-over-1. On the E and W facade, windows are segmentally arched with rowlock headers. The later E facade has a stepped parapet, a concrete foundation and have newer 3 part windows with no headers. There is a 1 story, 1 bay brick addition to the N which has segmentally arched windows. There are 2 porches. A frame screened in porch on the W at the 2nd. story level on square post. On the S is a 1 story porch with a wide overhang, built in 1915. It sits on a molded concrete block foundation. Molded concrete forms the piers, balustrade, and spool columns.

42 Further Description of Important Features The jail is the section to the W and is built in a rough, quarry-faced ashlar. The 2/3 plan building has a heavy stone cornice and a T-shaped lintel over the entrance (Eastern bay) which is now closed in with stone. The small windows are now closed up with the exception of the 2nd story central window which has a louvered treatment. The W end chimney has a parapet wall. Attached to the jail on the E is a 2/3 brick section used as the jailer's residence. The entrance is the western-most bay of its N facade. (cont.)

43 History and Significance Built in 1847-48, the Cooper County Jail is significant as being one of the oldest, if not the oldest, existing county jail in the State of Missouri. In operation from 1848 until 1978 the structure was known as the oldest continually operated jail in the state. In August 1846, County Commissioner of public buildings published notice for proposals to build a county jail in accordance to the following specifications: The house is to be two (cont.)

42. (cont.) It has a transom and flanking pilasters and side lights. Windows are 6-over-6 and have iron lug sills and pedimented lintels with floral medallions. On the E and S facades the windows have segmental arches of rowlock brick work. The frame cornice is boxed and rakes at the gable ends. There are 2 end chimneys. On the SE there is a 1 story pent roof brick addition which repeats the window motifs, and 2 pent roof frame porches.

On the interior, the millwork on the 1st story is heavily molded and reflects an early Greek Revival Style. The two fireplace mantels echo these motifs. These features would seem to indicate that this millwork might predate the building and was reused from some other early structure. The 2nd story has very plain millwork. The kitchen and bath are modernized. Considerable maintenance is necessary to the eaves and to some interior walls and ceilings due to water damage. The structure is sound and could easily be rehabilitated.

The western half of the structure is comprised of the jail. At the first story level are a series of iron barred cells complete with bunks, toilets and small sinks. A shower stall is off of the hallway. On the second story level there are a number of iron box cells of varying dimensions and a toilet area at the end of a "U" shaped hallway. The interior outside wall at both levels is unfinished.

43. (cont.) stories high, with two rooms and a passage in each floor, the rooms to be 14 x 15 feet, and the passages 6 by 30 feet in the clear. The foundation walls to be 2½ feet below the surface of the ground, thence to the surface 2½ feet thick - built of large rock, not less than 6 inches thick, 2½ feet broad and 3 feet in length...; there are to be partition walls, one 15 the other 30 feet in length, foundations for which to be of same dimensions as those of outer walls. All the wall from the foundation to the square of the building to be 2 feet thick...and built of rock not less than 8 inches thick, 2 feet broad and 3 feet in length, to be securely clamped together with wrought iron clamps.... All the rock used in the building to be good sound limestone, all other materials to be well seasoned and of best quality, and the work done in the best manner, and finished in a workmanlike style, a plan of the building filed in the office of the county clerk."

The jail was built by local contractor William Spiers, using hand labor supplied by slaves. The limestone blocks were quarried in the vicinity of Boonville. The building consisted of two large rooms each with rings protruding from the walls to which prisoners were shackled. By 1871 the second story's appearance changed with the addition of iron box cells that are present to this day. The jailer's residence was built in 1871 on land previously leased to the City of Boonville for hay scales by Marcus Williams. Records show that this brick addition consisted of three rooms and a hall. Later that year a second story was authorized as well as a rear unattached one story brick kitchen with cellar and a porch to its west: a fence, cistern, and privy were also added at that time. In 1875 a smoke house appeared. None of these out-buildings survive. The jailer's residence served as housing for the Sheriff or jailer from its completion until its closing in 1978.

The most famous of the many prisoners associated with the jail was Frank James, who along with his brother Jesse and other members of the gang, halted and robbed a Missouri Pacific passenger train, one mile east of Otterville on the night of July 13, 1876. Restrained only a short time in the structure, his bond was made by a number of sympathetic local citizens. Later the case was dismissed.

The area around the jail has been the site of numerous hangings with the last being held inside the jail barn

Locally significant on both architectural and historical grounds, the jail is important for its stone construction, for its associations with well known criminals and events, and for its long years of continued use.

43 History and Significance The Cooper County Court saw the need for a stable to house the sheriff's horses. Commissioned by Robert McCullough the structure was built later that month for $149.99. The Barn was used for many years as a stable and for storage. In 1937 one of the last hangings in the state took place here and was in itself a deciding factor in the change from County to State capital punishment. Gradually the barn fell in unuse and disrepair. In 1971 the barn was threatened with razing and the Friends of Historic (see attached sheet)

43. (cont.) Boonville became interested in its purchase and subsequent restoration. On 11/22/71 the Friends purchased the Barn and a small surrounding area. The restoration project was the first venture of its sort for the Friends. In 1974 the restoration project was complete with the following work being completed: replacement and preservation of the brick foundation, ridge, siding, stalls, stairs, roof sheathing and tin roof.
The barn has been used once in a Friends historical tour of Boonville and is currently utilized for storage.

43 History and Significance 607, 611, 615 E. Morgan are built on a similar plan and style. This house was built by C.W. Sombart for his sister, Mary. She and her husband, John Durr, a saddler who pperated a shop in 1869 on the E side of Main Street between Morgan and Spring, were the early residents in the house. In 1919 the Durr heirs sold the residence to Miller T. Atkinson, who in turn sold to A.L. Vanatta in 1921. In 1926 the residence sold to (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings A pent roof, aluminum sided garage and a concrete drive is on the alley to the E. At the NE corner of the lot is a pent roofed brick structure attached to the N of the garage. An alley is to the N. The residence faces S onto E. Morgan Street.

In 1941, it became the residence of William J. Brownsberger, owner/operator of Brownsberger's Clothing Store. Upon his death in 1971 it was inherited by his daughter Dorothy Brownsberger, a school teacher. The present owner, who purchased the home for his residence from the D. Brownsberger estate, is employed as a history/psychology/sociology instructor at Kemper Military School and repairs automobiles in the garage.

42 Further Description of Important Features The addition of siding obsures much of the Queen Anne detailing , however the ornate Eastlake porch motifs and the irregular massing and elevation reflect the style. To the NW is a 2 story projecting rectangular bay with a 1 story polygonal bay which is capped by a pediment. On the NE is a 1 story porch which has a pediment over the entrance. The spindle frieze follows the rake of this gable. The entrance has a transom. There is also an entrance on the W. To the S there are 2 hip roofed ells, both covered (see attachment)

43 History and Significance After 1843 a minor structure was built on this site which probably remained into the 1890's when the present structure was built by George Roeder for his residence. Roeder, a German immigrant, arrived in Boonville in 1853 and entered into the blacksmith trade. By 1860 he began a carriage and wagon manufactury located on the SE corner of 6th and Spring Sts. in conjunction with George Garthoffner who he later bought out. Although Roeder died in (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to 618 Morgan on the W and faces N onto Morgan. To the S is a board and batten outbuilding which is attached to the main structure by a pent roof. There is a pent roof outbuilding, sheathed in a metal at the S alley

42 Further Description of Important Features This little structure shows the tradition of styles and architectural motifs within the community. The projecting ell on the NE has a paired window with a straight sided segmental arch header. The window, as well as most others, is 1-over-1 and attenuated. In the gable is 3 rows of stretchers done in ashlar brick. On the NW is a later porch which has molded concrete block columns. The concrete floor extends across the full length of the N facade. The entrance has a transom (see attached sheet.)

43 History and Significance Abstract information indicates that a portion of the house was built between 1876 and 1883 by Henry Hoffmeister, a teamster. In 1883 it sold to both F.J. and John Weber. In 1893 the structure sold to Patric Darby, a farmer who retired and came to town. In 1903 Darby sold to his daughter, Julia Cleary. Mr. & Mrs. Cleary resided in the structure with their family until 1944 when the property sold to Fred and Hanna Martin. In 1972 it (cont.)

43 History and Significance Structure was built as a residence for Charles A. Sombart in 1886. Sombart, miller, banker and builder owned and operated the Sombart Milling Company. He is credited with being one of the organizers of the Farmers Bank and the Citizens Trust Company, and developed the block of stores at the southwest corner of High and Main Streets. In 1905, Sombart also erected the Hotel Fredrick costing $40,000. The structure in 1935 became a meeting place for the American Legion, with space being rented to other (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the NW corner of Morgan & 7th. Streets, facing S onto Morgan. An alley is to the N. There is a stone retaining wall S & E. A concrete drive to the N seperates the house from the 1 outbuilding. Facing 7th. Street is a large 1½ story brick Carriage House. On the E facade is a gambrel parapet. (see attached)

42. (cont.) with a pointed arched window centrally located on the S., an ornate cornice with brackets and a panelled frieze, and ornate iron ridge cresting. Windows on the S facade have extended segmentally arched brick headers with stone skews and stone lug sills with brackets, and are 1-over-1 and attenuated. Windows on the other facades repeat these motifs except the header is laid in a soldier course. On the S facade is a 1 story porch on a stone foundation. Sitting on stone piers, the doric columns support a wide entablature with small brackets. A spindle balustrade is at the 2nd, story level. Stone steps with stone newels with ball finials leads to the double leaf entrance. Its transom is filled with leaded glass. A large canvas canopy leads from the porch to Morgan Street. Another canvas canopy leads from an entrance in the central bay of the chamfered bay on the E to 7th. Street. On the N is a 2½ brick gable ell with 2-over-2 windows with frame sills and soldier course segmental headers. A 1 story brick addition extends to the N. It repeats the window motifs of the ell, but has a belcast hip roof. To the W of these additions is a 2 story frame clapboarded structure which includes porches on both stories, a porch enclosed with vinyl siding which retains small brackets and a pent 1 story room with asbestos siding.

42 Further Description of Important Features Ornately corbelled chimneys highlight the roof. A frame painted white, cornice, which rakes at the gable ends and a pent roof porch supported on molded concrete columns are features of this structure which is built on a 2/3rds. plan. The entrance which is the easternmost bay of the S facade has a transom and retains its Eastlake screen door.

43 History and Significance Abstract indicates that structure was built in 1866 for Lambert Demkes, since property evaluation increased from $650 in 1864 to $1350 in 1866. City directory of 1869 lists Demkes, a tailor, as residing there with entrance on 7th. Street. The next two owners J.F. Gmelich - 1875 and C.C. Bell 1879 did not maintain residences within. In 1880 the structure was given by Bell to his sister Wilhelmenia Manger who resided within for many years. Buildings along this block form a tight, cohesive neighborhood quality (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the NE corner of 7th and Morgan facing S onto High. Sitting on an embankment, the property has 1 outbuilding, a 2 car frame garage to the N. It is covered with asbestos siding and has overhead doors to the W. A concrete drive from 7th. Street leads to the garage. A covered breezeway connects the garage and the house.

42 Further Description of Important Features: A wide variety of wood textures cover the structure, on its primary facade (S) including a vertical shingle course under the windows and a band of fishscale shingles over the windows. Gable end decoration on the E,S, & W facades includes 4 bands of fishscale shingles and a wide raking cornice. A small attenuated window appears in each gable end. Windows are 1-over-1, wide on the S projecting bay, and shuttered on the S facade only; the primary entrance has a transom. (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance: Oral history and Historic Sites Map indicate that the house was built by Herman Schmidt in 1892, however abstract indicates that Schmidt did not own the property till 1898. The lot prior to 1898 was owned by Wilheminia and Casper Manger, 703 E. Morgan, who may have actually built the house in 1892. In 1905, Schmidt purchased a 7' by 14' strip of land on the NW portion of property from W. Manger for $60. Subsequent ownership includes heirs of H. Schmidt - 1930, August Blank - 1931, R.H. Mueller - 1941, (see attached sheets)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: Facing S onto Morgan St the house sits on a slight embankment with concrete steps and a wrought iron balustrade leading up to the residence. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) A frame 1 story porch of Eastlake quality wraps around the SW corner of the structure. There is an addition on the NW which is on a concrete foundation, has a gable roof and is covered with vinyl siding. A fireplace is on the W end.

43. (cont.) Ben Smith, Jr. - 1956. Smith, owner of the Boonville Abstract and Insurance Company, purchased the house at auction and modernization and alterations have taken place under his ownership: The family room addition on the N.W. is finished in walnut woodwork from a home which was originally built in Howard County in the late 1830's.

This structure is an outstanding example of the Queen Anne cottage style and is therefore architecturally important. Its local significance also lies in its relationship to the cohesive quality of the neighborhood.

43 History and Significance Marcus Williams, a Virginia native, arrived in Boonville in 1831 married Mary Jane Littlepage of Virginia in Boonville in 1839 and built this residence in 1855. He was a contractor, building numerous homes in the area and the county jail, steamoat captain, miller, farmer, and cabinet maker. Children include Judge W.M. Williams, a Missouri Supreme Court Judge, and Dr. Walter Williams, who was born in the house and was the founder of the School of Journalism at Missouri University, and later president (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Facing S onto Morgan Street the structure sits on a slight embankment, with concrete steps leading up to the residence. There are alleys to the N & E. A drive way has access to the E alley. A concrete slab is at the NE corner of the property. A concrete/brick burner is on the N alley. There are no outbuildings.

Windows are 2-over-2 and are attenuated on the 1st. story. Heavy lintels which end in square panels are slightly pedimented and appear on the E,S, & W facades. Windows to the N are segmentally arched with a soldier course and stone lug sills., except a small window at a stair landing level which has a circular arched header and is stained glass. Scroll brackets appear at the eaves with larger brackets at the corners. Dormers include gable roofed dormers surrounding the chimneys at both the E & W ends, and a pedimented dormer located over the entrance on the primary facade: all have fishscale shingles. Single bay frame porches, with enclosed 2nd stories, are on both the E & W facades. The 1st story entrance on the W is now bricked-in. On the E facade is a 2 story ell to the rear. Additions include a small 1 story 1 bay room to the NE of the ell. Its windows have segmental arches and row-lock headers. A 1 story gable roofed addition is on the NW of the main structure. Its openings have stone lug sills and lintels. Two pent roofed additions to this structure.
Rooms were added as the family increased and the structure has been remodeled several times.

*George Caleb Bingham served as his apprentice for a short while.
The home was inherited by Judge William Muir Williams, Supreme Court Justice 1898, Grand Master of Missouri Masons, 1888, and President of the Board of Managers of the Missouri Training School for Boys.
The current owner of the home, Charles Leonard operates and owns the B & J Bowling Lanes and farms Ravenswood Farm in Bellaire, Mo. As the home of a prominent citizen and the birthplace of Walter Williams the residence has state historical significance. It is also significant to the district as a pivotal property in the streetscape and neighborhood.

42 Further Description of Important Features: The roof has high solid ridge cresting which helps to give it the apperance of a mansard roof, actually it is closer to a truncated belcast hip, roof form. The eave line is accented by a double row of small scroll brackets which alternate. The structure features openings having straight sided segmental arches which are highlighted by a dark glazed brick string course which tops these hoodmolds and continues between windows. This brick course is repeated in a course at midwindow. There is a (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance: Built for Alex Stephens and his bride Adda Edgar in 1888. At that time the grounds with lovely gardens extended eastward to the corner of Morgan and 8th. Streets. The house was sold in 1913 to Judge T.H. Winterbower, Cooper County Probate Court Judge (1909-17) who resided in the house 15 years. In 1928 Henry Neef purchased the house. Mrs. Neef converted the stables into the Book Barn which served for several summers as a reading center for the young people of Boonville. In 1972, Larry Tate (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The residence sits on an embankment and has a palisade fence around the back yard. It faces S onto Morgan and has an alley to the W and N. A small frame open well house is to the N of the structure. On the NW corner of the property is a 1½ story, brick carriage house and stable, currently used as a garage (see attached sheet)

The (S) primary facade is embellished with a 2 story polygonal bay on the SE which is capped by a mansard roof dormer with a louvered panel and having a raking cornice with medallion trim, a double leaf entrance with segmentally arched transom, a 3 part stepped window under an arcade type hood mold, and an Eastlake 1 story porch on the SW which has square chamfered post, spindle balustrade and medallions on the frieze. Hoodmolds on this facade have ornate keystones. On the E facade is a 2 story circular tower with a conical roof. On the N facade there is a 1 story brick ell on the NE and a 1 story frame porch on the NW. On the W corner of this porch is a frame 1 room addition at the 2nd. story. The ornate hoodmolds, string course on brackets are not continued on the N facade. The chimney has an ornately corvelled cap.

Openings are segmentally arched with rowlock headers except for the wide garage door on the W which has a wood lintel. The 1½ story section has a chimney. Stalls were originally on the N side where small windows appear on the ground floor; a hay loft above, and living quarters. During the time that the Neef's had the property this building was used as a reading room for the young people of the community and was called the "Book Barn".

42 Further Description of Important Features Characteristic of Bungaloid style, the structure has grouped windows, most being 3-over-1; open rafters with rounded rafter ends; knee braces at the gable ends; and oak interior millwork. A concrete porch with square brick columns extends across the primary facade (S). Openings have stone lintels and lug sills with a row-lock course above the lintels and a brick course which runs around the structure just below the header level. Two entrances on the S include double french doors with 8 panels of beveled glass (cont.)

Photo

43 History and Significance This structure is a classic example of the Bungalow style, both in its exterior and interior motifs. It was built by J. Hirsch, Sr., a wholesale merchant of the Hirsch Wholesale Grocery Co. whose business house was at 515-17 E. Morgan. Structural masonry was completed by J.H. Stretz & Co. This block indicates a development of architectural styles from the 1850's to this exceptional 1920 Bungalow, and yet they form a visually cohesive (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NW corner of 8th & Morgan Sts. facing on to Morgan. It sits on a slight embankment. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) each. An enclosed sun porch is to the E and sits atop the single car garage, which is a drive-thru type with access from both Morgan and 8th Sts. On the E is a rectangular projecting bay and an end chimney with small flanking windows. A large gable roofed dormer sits centrally on the S facade. It has 3-over-2 grouped windows and is ornamented with a half-timbering motif on yellow stucco.

On the interior, the large front room has been divided (c. 1930's) with a partition to form a 3 room apartment on the W side of the structure. Stairs to the 3 upstairs rooms are tucked away into the pantry between the kitchen and the dining room, which has a beamed ceiling. A breakfast nook is located off of the kitchen. An outstanding feature of the residence is the leaded glass, done in an Art Nouveau style with red roses, which appears in both the french doors to the sun porch and the sliding doors to the dining room.

43. (cont.) streetscape. All are fine examples and are locally significant as integral parts of the whole.

42 Further Description of Important Features The chamfered gable ell to the NE has fishscale shingle and a stickwood gable end detail. The shingles are repeated on the projecting bays on both the E and W facades. A porch with molded concrete block columns, piers, and balustrade wraps around the NW corner of the structure. Windows are 1-over-1 with soldier course , straight aided segmentally arched header. A basement cellar type entrance is on the E. A 1 bay enclosed porch with vinyl siding and a pent roof sits on a poured concrete (see attached)

42 Further Description of Important Features The brick structure has a frame cornice with brackets and returns which rakes at the gable ends. There are end chimneys E & W. The main block has 2-over-2 windows with segmentally arched headers, rowlock 2nd. story, soldier 1st story. The N facade has 6-over-6 windows with no headers. There is a 1 story gabled brick ell on the E bay, N facade. It is 4 bays deep and has small 1-over-1 windows with rowlock segmentally arched headers. A gable roofed dormer with a parapet front is on (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance Abstract indicates that the house and lot is composed of the W. half of lot 142 and E half of lot 143 of the original town of Boonville. The house sits on the line of lot 142 and 143. Both half lots were united in 1865 by A.H.C. Koontz so the structure could not have existed prior to that time. The City Directory records that Koontz, a dry goods merchant, resided there as of 1869. The house was sold to Elmer and Josie Koontz in 1885 and they maintained possession to 1893. J.G. Sexton the owner at that time lost (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the sidewalk at the front of the property, facing S. onto Morgan St. The rear yard has a high palisade. The outbuilding is at the rear of the property along the N alley. It has a gable roof, is stuccoed and has a garage door to the N.

42. (cont.) the W side of this ell. The inset primary entrance has a frame surround. It has an arched entablature with molding supported on heavy fluted pilasters. Directly over the lintel is a single rowlock course. Over the entrance on the 2nd. story is a small window which has a frame and wrought iron balcony. There is a molded concrete block porch with wrought iron railing across this S facade. The interior of the house contains 4 rooms on the first floor and 2 bedrooms on the second. It has been modernized in that the E. fireplace has been covered over while the W fireplace contains a modern mantel. The partition originally separating the 2 back rooms of the house has been removed developing a kitchen-dining room area. Ceilings have been maintained at 10 feet and a simple walnut stairway remains.

43. (cont.) the house by foreclosure in 1895. It was purchased by John Welby in 1896 and sold immediately to W.T. Gibson a realtor, and again to John Elliot. It was sold in 1919 to Ernest Hoewellman. In 1927 John Stretz (proprietor of the Phoenix Saloon and later the Cash and Carry grocery Store 315 Main Street.) became the owner and the house was utilized as rental property. In 1950 after renting the house "a couple of years" it was bought by Harold Stretz as his residence. Stretz owns and has operated the Stein House Bar and Restaurant since 1945.

The second story iron balcony railing was purchased and installed by the present owner and was originally on the front facade of Dr. Charles Swaps office building located on the Mid-Missouri Savings and Loan lot.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The chamfered bay projecting on the NE has returns, fishscale shingles, and stick work brackets. An Eastlake porch on the NW affords protection to the entrance which has a transom above. Area under porch is painted white. Windows are 1-over-1 with concrete lintels and lug sills. There is a gable roofed ell on the SE which sits on a brick foundation and has asphalt siding.

Photo

43 History and Significance
The structure was probably built to be the residence of Herman Stretz, a saloon keeper at the Woodbine Saloon. The present owner is the daughter of Herman Stretz, having been passed on to her upon his death.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
There is a low concrete reinforcing wall to the E. The residence sits on a slight embankment and faces N onto Morgan. The 1 outbuilding, a 1 car garage with hip roof and stuccoed walls sits at the SW corner of the lot with access from the alley to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features Original structure appears to be dog trot, with central hall and end fireplaces. 1910 Sanborn shows only as 1 story. Recent additions include 2nd. story and enclosed 1 story, pent roofed porch to rear. Main entrance door has transom. Due to stucco, window treatment is not evident. Basement windows still show brick segmentally arched headers. A 1 bay, 1 story wooden porch is on the primary facade (s).

Photo

43 History and Significance Original structure is quite old, but alterations obscure the building's integrity.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Faces S onto Morgan, an alley runs to the N & E of the structure. 1 outbuilding, a pent roofed, vertical board shed, sits at the rear of the lot (N).

42 Further Description of Important Features Hip roofed dormers with 4 small windows are on the W and S facades. The porch is an integral part of the roof line and has 5 molded concrete block columns, piers and balustrade. Openings have double rowlock course straight sided segmentally arched headers, except at the entrances which has only a single rowlock course over the transoms. The two 3-part windows on the N side have an arcade type header. Windows are 1-over-1 and have concrete lug sills. There is a frame, pent roofed porch, on concrete block piers ~~across the S facade.~~

43 History and Significance
Rev. R.E. Andrews--current pastor. The Morgan Street Baptist Church was formed in 1865 with 52 members under the pastorship of Grandison Roberts, a blacksmith-preacher. Meeting two evenings a week at the First Baptist Church Building, 518 Vine St., the congregation soon saw the need for their own church building. Between November 1865 and December 1867 the congregation met in a blacksmith shop located at 214 9th St. During this period the present (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings, however in 1910 there was a dwelling to the N of the church. The structure faces S onto Morgan St. An alley runs immediately to the W of the Church.

Morgan Street Baptist Church

42. (cont.) There is a brick addition to the NW. Additions to the N include restrooms. Some windows along the E facade basement level have been bricked in. Most additions were complete by 1929.

43. (cont.) church lot was purchased and a simple frame church was erected slightly to the north of the existing structure. Completed in 1867 it served the needs of the congregation till it was destroyed by fire in 1884. In 1884 the present brick structure was built. In 1928 new additions included the vestibule and the rear chapel. Additional changes include the renovating of the basement into a kitchen and dining area in 1944 and the replacing of the brick sidewalk to the south in 1956. The Rev. R.E. Andrews is the 18th minister to serve the needs of the congregation.

This church is historically important on a local level for its role in the black segment of this community.

43 History and Significance
Property owner relates that structure dates from the mid-1920's. There are, however, "hand hewn ceiling joists in the living room ceiling," indicating a modern reworking of an earlier structure, or, more likely, the use of used building materials in the building's construction. A 1968 owner/resident of the structure was Mrs. Mamie Miller. The present owner acquired the property in 1978 for rental property.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
Facing S onto Morgan the structure sits at the NE corner of Morgan and 9th streets. There are no outbuildings. A large vacant lot is to the E of the residence.

42 Further Description of Important Features Ornate brick work is the outstanding feature of this small structure. On the S, the gable end has corbelled brick work of sawtooth and dentil patterns with an alternating cross hatch pattern above. Square brick porch (SE) columns become pilasters at the corners of the front projecting bay. A 3 part window in this bay has a flat arch of brick; scewbacks, keystone, and a sill course are of concrete. The SE porch has a brick openwork balustrade. Other windows have double rowlock (see attached)

42 Further Description of Important Features The mansard roofline is accented by ornately corbelled chimney caps, wide boxed eaves and a wide molded frieze. Windows are 1-over-1, attenuated and have segmentally arched, soldier course headers. There is a 2 story rectangular bay on the E and at the angle of the NE corner. On the S is a 2 story rectangular addition. Across the N facade and wrapping around the NE corner is a 1 story hip roofed porch which has large square wood columns and a panelled frieze. The NE and E section has been enclosed. (cont.)

43 History and Significance See Missouri Training School for Boys Administration Building form for history of school. The structure was built under the administration of the 1st superintendent, Lyman R. Drake (1888-1904), and served as his residence. During the 1970's it was changed to a Group Home, a residence for 9-10 boys on a "less stress treatment" plan. The 3 bedrooms upstairs now are used as dormitory space. A new furnace has been added.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure now faces N onto Morgan. It sits back from the street on a large open lot and has access from a circle drive from Morgan. Extending to the W is a 1 car flat roofed brick garage and a 2 car gabled brick garage, both with doors to the N. A brick wall extends W along the circle drive. The yard to the W is terraced.

42. (cont.) The original primary facade faced E and the porch was originally an ornate Eastlake one. On the interior, the use has changed but the rooms have not been seriously altered and the millwork remains intact, though not cared for with great attention. It has 16 rooms and a total of 8560 sq. feet.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure features an extensive use of polychromed and glazed brickwork. The red brick structure has buff brick accents as a jigsaw course at the cornice, quoins, a sill course, and as straight-side arch hoolmolds with connecting belt course. The projecting ell on the S facade has a lozenge design of glazed brick. The 2 gable wall dormers of the central section, S facade have terra cotta courses. The 1 story Eastlake porch has spindle frieze, brackets & turned post on brick piers. Windows are (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built by John Henry Stretz for both his residence and as an example of his masonry skills. Stretz, along with his partner, Louis Gantner, purchased Claus Stammerjohn's brick yard and expanded it under the name Boonville Brick Company. By 1919 their brick yard had the capacity to produce 20,000 bricks per day. The firm was also involved in masonry contracting, often subcontracting from the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. The many buildings they contracted include the Cooper County Rest Home, St. Joseph Hospital, (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment with a patterned brick retaining wall to the S. A drive to the E leads to a concrete area to the NE of the residence. Outbuildings include a small 1 story brick building directly to the N. At the NE corner of the lot is a frame barn, converted to 4 garages in 1919 (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features The original block had an ornate slate covered, curved mansard roof with dormers, a 6 story central tower, bracketed eaves, and a 1 story 3 bay ornate frame porch. In the 1930's under a WPA project the above mentioned features were removed. The now 2 story structure still has a 3 story central section. It retains paired, attenuated windows accented by a concrete sill course and label headers connected by a string course. The exposed basement has a water table which forms a header course for the half windows (cont.)

43 History and Significance On March 30, 1887, the Missouri State Legislature approved an act providing for the location and erection of a State Reform School for Boys. A commission comprised of Gov. John S. Marmaduke, Attorney-General B.G. Boone and the State Registrar of Lands, Robert McCulloch, selected Boonville as the site for the school and the tract of 168 acres of land east of Boonville was purchased. The first building, now known as the "Storage Garage" (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W and is the focal point of the campus. A large parking lot is to the W.

42. (cont.) at that level. The primary double leaf entrance with transom has a stone veneer surround and is protected by a 1 story, 1 bay closed brick porch. The N & S facades have a central 1st story double leaf entrance with transom and concrete stoop. The rear (E) facade has segmentally arched windows and a 2 story ell which was built in 3 sections. Much of the fenestration in this ell has been altered, however there are 1st entrances E & S. By 1892 a 2 story breezeway connected the main building to the 2 story hip roof central section of the ell. By 1910 the eastern most 2 story section was added. The breezeway remained. In the 1920's the breezeway was removed and a brick section connected and completed the ell.

43. (cont.) was constructed in 1888 and all of the functions of the School were administered at this site until the building of the main Administration Building in 1890 or 1891. Prior to 1900 a considerable amount of construction took place with the following buildings being erected: Boys Dining Hall (portions retained in present dining hall), Hospital (razed), Superintendant's Residence (Group House #14), Laundry (Frances and G Cottage), Stone Cottage (C and D Cottage), Stephens (T and H Cottage), Colored Cottage (razed), Shop Building (Commissary) Bakery (razed), Stables (severely altered).

Between 1900 and 1910, "D" Cottage (Dockery Cottage), the Boiler House (with plumbing shop and laundry severely altered in 1949), and the Commissary-Armory (Laundry) were constructed.

From 1910 to 1917 construction included the Commissary, Storage Building, Business Manager's Residence, and the Greenhouse.

Between 1920 and 1930 there were no buildings constructed, however, the main Administration Building received an internal heating system.

In 1937 the Gymnasium was constructed and was the first building solely designed for recreation at the school. In 1945 the Reception Cottage (D Barton Cottage), and Boone, Bingham, Twain, and Carver Cottages were constructed.

Between 1950 and 1960 the following buildings were constructed: Slaughter House (1950), Pershing School (1952), Chapel (1958), Corum Cottage (1958), Staff Cottage, 2 garages and the stables.

After the extensive building of the 1950's the Multipurpose Building appeared in 1969, followed by a brick outbuilding in 1970 and the new Maintenance Building in 1977.

In the years prior to 1930 all of the buildings except the Administration Building were built by labor furnished by the incarcerated boys with direction by supervisors under the principal of "self-sufficiency". One such supervisor who directed the carpenter shop in the 1890's entered into business with his father (W.J. Cochran and Son) and contributed much to the building of Boonville between the years 1900 and 1940. The firm is still in operation. All of the millwork used in the buildings was milled at the school as were the bricks which were burned at the School's brick yard which was established in 1880.

L.D. Drake, the first Superintendent of the Training School, wrote in 1899 that "this school has been founded upon the economic and humane principal that it is better to make a good citizen than to punish a vicious one, and that schools are cheaper to the State than penitentiaries." Also believing that "idleness is the seed of evil" each boy was assigned to one of many differing types of work which included brickmaking and masonry, carpentry, plumbing and steamfitting, blacksmithing, farming, dairy work, animal farming, weaving, tailoring, shoe repair, machinery and later the automotive shop. Each boy was also required to attend school for at least a portion of the day. Boys who were recalcitrant of their duties or who caused problems were "housed in the hole" located on the second story of the main Administration Building.

Under the present Superintendent, Richard "Jack" Bell, the Missouri Training School adopted a new philosophy of "Positive Peer Culture" and became a pioneer in the field. This has greatly affected the overall length of stay from up to 2 years in 1899 to 6 months in 1979. Boys are no longer assigned to manual labor designed to develop a trade, rather they attend GED classes and participate in local area cleanup and "good will" endeavors.

The Administration Building has a primary local and state significance for historical reasons as both the visual and literal center of the campus area.

42 Further Description of Important Features The residence has gable wall dormers N, E & W. The red brick construction is accented by white paint to bring out the brick quoins at the 1-over-1 windows and the door surrounds. Gable ends are set off by brackets. On the primary facade is a porch supported on square brick columns which caps the entrance and its sidelights. An enclosed brick porch is to the E and there is a 1 story rectangular bay and porch under a pent roof to the W. Fenestration on the rear facade (S) indicates interior stairs.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original rectangular structure (Francis) is the W section. The E section (G), built about 1938-39, repeats it in shape and decorative motifs. The central section connects the 2 ends with a 3 bay wide, 1 bay deep (projecting to the S) brick 2 story structure which repeats only the cornice. It appears to have been built c. 1950's and has 6-over-6 windows with a soldier lintel. Both Francis and G have barred windows set in panels with a dentil course across the top. Decorative segmentally arched (cont.)

43 History and Significance Francis Cottage was built c. 1892 as a laundry facility with a central wall partition dividing the 1st story into an E & W section. In 1900 the E section 1st story had bathrooms with a mending area above and the W section 1st story was the laundry with an ironing area above. By 1910 it had been altered into a residential cottage. In c. 1938-39, G Cottage was built on the same plan and style to the E. It functioned as a residential cottage. Later the 2 were connected. See MTS Administration form for further history on the school.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The large structure faces N into the quadrangle. It is to the SE of the Administration Building and forms the S boundary of the district.

42. (cont.) The 2 side bays (N & S) of this main block were also altered to repeat the large round arched windows with brick hoods and concrete sills. Projecting to the E is a 1 story brick middle section which is original to the early structure. It retains the stone label hoodmolds. It now has a loading dock and basement entrance. The NE section was constructed at the same time as the front facade and its windows are accented by the stone label hoodmolds removed from the main block. It is a 1 story brick structure with a N entrance which has a 1 bay hip roofed porch and a concrete stoop. A later (c. 1915) 1 story brick section was built to the S of the original ell. In the 1940-50's a 1 story brick rectangular building was attached to the S of the 1915 section. It has large multipane windows, a basement entrance S, and an entrance with concrete stoop E.

43. (cont.) remaining the kitchen and the new NE section listed also as a dining room. Oral history indicates that the attic section of the kitchen was used as a detention area. The latest SE section is the bakery.

42 Further Description of Important Features The steeply pitched, slight belcast roof is accented by hip dormers on each facade, a boxed eave, and wide plain frieze. Openings have segmentally arched headers formed by 3 corbelled rowlock courses. Windows are 4-over-4, attenuated, and have stone sills. The primary (N) facade has a 3 bay rectangular projecting bay which contains the main entrance. There is a secondary double leaf entrance to the E of this central bay. Currently the fenestration has been altered by the closing up of many windows and the addition of 2 large (cont.)

43 History and Significance This was the original structure on the campus and all functions were administered from there. By 1900 the W section was used as a Blacksmith - 1st, and Printing Shop - 2nd. The E section housed the Woodworking Shop - 1st, and the Knitting Shop - 2nd. These shops continued til c. 1920 with the exception that the Shoe Shop replaced the Knitting Shop c. 1910. By 1929, the W section was listed as "C" Cottage, the "colored" dormitory, and the E section housed the school - 1st floor, and a dormitory - 2nd floor. Further history is available (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N. There are no outbuildings. It is to the E of the Administration Building.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 1st story openings have small, rectangular 6 light windows with segmentally arched headers. The N facade is capped by a boxed cornice and wood frieze, has a 1 story rectangular W bay, and a basement well. Extending along the W facade and forming an ell to the S is a flat topped basement section. The basement levels are exposed to the E, W, & S. To the E is an octagonal brick smoke stack.

Photo

43 History and Significance See Missouri Training School Administration Building form for school history. This structure sits on the site of a previous power plant c. 1910-1940's. It had a square stack to the E, was coal fired, and its W section housed the plumbing shop and laundry. This building was 2½ stories. The current structure may be a part of this original structure.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure is to the E of the Administration Building.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The gable end is to the front and has a raking cornice and splayed ends of the roof. The attic level has 2 small windows with ashlar brick straight-side arch headers and a connecting bilt course. The original 3 bays of the 1st story repeated this motif, however this has been altered by closing up 1 window and extending the entrance to form a large double leaf garage door. Windows are 4-over-4. E & W facade windows have only segmentally arched (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade has a stepped parapet with a large garage entrance. The 6 bays of the 1st story, N & S sides, have concrete lintels and sills. The 9 basement level bays S are large semi-circular arched openings, however most of these have been closed in. The parapet gable end is repeated on the E facade where there is a large arched garage opening, a steep incline ramp, and a 1 story pent roofed ell as the S bay. This ell is brick on a concrete foundation and is 3 bays deep with segmentally arched openings.

Photo

43 History and Significance See Missouri Training School Administration Building form for school history. The original 2 part gabled brick structure was built c. 1890's. It was 2½ stories with segmentally arched openings and a corbelled Romanesque cornice on the gable end. The Sanborn map indicates this building was razed c. 1920's, however there is some indication that the front section was demolished and the rear section was reworked into the current structure. This construction or rebuilding was done c. 1931.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W into the Campus. There is a steep earth incline or ramp up to the door. It sits E of the Administration Building and is at the eastern edge of the major concentration of complex buildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built in several sections, The primary facade's 3 story W wing is the original section and has a projecting central bay entrance. This has a stepped parapet with a cross and the name panel. A projecting 1st story porch with a balustrade over it and resting on brick columns protects the double leaf entrance with transom and sidelights. Windows are generally 4-over-1, paired and have a brick and concrete square panel in the spandrel. A 2 story brick section connects this wing to a 4 story section (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The central section's cornerstone reads 7-19-1937 in memory of Mother Agatha. The grounds and the building are very significant to the history of Boonville (also see 230 Pawnee Lane form). The grounds is the site of the Hanna Cole homestead and cabin, first Howard County Court, Missouri Fair Grounds, and the Second Battle of Boonville, 9/13/1861. It also contains numerous graves among which are the Burress infant, Samuel Mahan (killed by indians 1814), at least two civil war soldiers killed in (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The hospital has a large 2 level parking area and front yard to the S. To the E is a stone shrine. Gravel parking lot is to the NE. To the rear of the original section is a ground level building with a tall smoke stack which was probably the power plant and a vertical board, gable roofed shed with an entrance to he S and 4 small windows E. Also associated with the property is a 1½ story brick bungalow (see attached)

42. (cont.) built in 1937 which repeats the general motifs of the original including the concrete cornice. A glass and concrete breezeway at the 1st story level connects this to the later E section. Its S wall has a concrete portico and is embellished by tile and a large statue. E & W walls have multiple vertical windows. To its E is a small 1 story brick rectangular structure and to the N is a 6 bay 2 story red brick ell. Its E entrance has a metal canopy. The N facade generally repeats the motifs of each section respectively. The W & N of the original section has loading areas at the basement level.

43. (cont.) action. At least two public hangings took place on the land: Luke Harris, a slave, for killing his master, 1826; John I. West, a tramp, for murder, 1879. In 1911 the Benedictine Sisters purchased the 11 acres for $2,200. The building was dedicated in September 1918 and was constructed at a cost of $49,000. The proceeds for building the hospital were raised locally. In 1920, an accredited nurses training program was organized. The east wing was added around 1934. The bungalow beside the hospital was used as the nurses residence and the area to the north was used for a large truck garden operated by the Sisters. The hospital later became associated with Cooper County and remained in operation till 1969 when the Cooper County Hospital was built. It remained vacant for a number of years until purchased 1977 and used for a retirement center.

44. (cont.) at the NW corner of the property. The lot drops off sharply to the N and gives a grand view of the river.

42 Further Description of Important Features The openings on the primary (N) facade have straight-side arch headers. The 1-over-1 windows on the other sides has soldier arched headers. The entrances have transoms. A projecting ell to the N and the gable end to the E have ornate stick-wood gable details. The E end also has an ornately corbelled chimney cap. Additions include a later pent porch over 3 bays on the NE and a 1 story ell to the rear.

Photo

43 History and Significance The present owner purchased the property at auction on 5/17/80. The prior owner, Luther Shellnutt, a retired riverman, operated a frame shop from a shed at the rear of the house.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment facing N. A frame, hip roofed outbuilding is at the SE corner of the lot.

42 Further Description of Important Features Originally built as a 2/3rds house the structure was enlarged in 1912. This addition resulted in the hip roof, front porch which is a 1 bay, 1 story pedimented structure, S porch which wraps around the SE corner and is a 1 story supported on brick columns with a 2nd. story balustrade S facade, and a slightly off center entrance which has a transom and flanking fluted doric column. The added rooms include a dining room with bedroom above. Windows in the structure are 6-over-1 with (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance Original east section of the house was built by Andrew Adams, prior to 1850, and was located on the Santa Fe Trail. Local legend relates that burr oak tree, now a stump, was a meeting place for travelers starting west. A 200 year old sugar maple tree, 46 feet in circumference was designated a "Liberty Tree" in 1976, and was used to plat the city of Boonville in 1817.
The house was later owned by C.F. Wagner, a confectioner, and their (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Morgan Street and has a grand view of the river. A large yard surrounds the structure which sits at the corner of Morgan and Santa Fe, a remainder of the original trail. A large tree in the yard was reportedly the tree from which Boonville was platted. The Maple Tree was designated (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) large lintels and are shuttered. There are 2 chimneys E & W. A room to the S, now a kitchen and room above were added 1856. Molding in the 1912 parlor was milled to match the original Greek Revival millwork of the original section. The stair hall measures 8' X 36' and has a simple walnut banister with cannonball newel post.

43. (cont.) son-in-law, John and Laura Stammerjohn. In 1912 the Stammerjohns commissioned an architect to design the 2 story west addition which includes the dining and bedrooms, front, side and rear porches, and hip roof. By 1960 the structure fell into disrepair and "practical additions" were conducted by Rev. Emil F. Abele, pastor of the Evangelical Church. The present owner, an interior decorator has conducted redecoration sensitive to the early era of the house in 1978-79.

44. (cont.) as a "Liberty Tree" in 1976. A concrete wall is to the N. and there is a drive to the E. which leads to a single car, frame garage with a gable roof.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure's original orientation was to the S, now it is approached by a street to the W. The primary (S) facade is accented by a chamfered 2 story bay with a gable wall dormer. The attic window is lozenge shape and the gable has fishscale shingles, stickwork and fan brackets. Running along this facade and around the E & W corners is a bracket cornice. The E bay of the S facade now has a 1 story porch with square wood columns and a wrought iron railing. There is no 2nd. story balustrade. (see attached)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built for August Brueckner as his residence in 1904, on land which encompassed 30 acres. A tree lined lane which later became Pawnee Lane led from Morgan Street and circled the house. In 1905 he set out an orchard which consisted of 500 peach trees on five acres. A portion of his land to the West, 11 acres in all, was sold to the Benedictine Sisters in 1911 for the building site of the St. Joseph's Hospital. Brueckner's eldest son George was killed by lightning on the land. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S, but the main road Pawnee Lane is to the W. The 2 car gabled garage is connected to the residence by a gabled breezeway. Both have asbestos siding. The garage is to the N, doors face W onto the Street. This structure now sits in the middle of a 1950's-1960's subdivision.

42. (cont.) Entrances on both levels (S) have transoms. Windows are 1/1 and have soldier course, segmentally arched lintels. On the W is a rectangular bay ending with a small wall dormer, and a gable cap with stickwork detailing. The N facade has a gable wall dormer. To the E is a porch, enclosed to form a dining room (1949-66). The 2nd story Eastlake porch is still open. Frame steps lead up to the 2nd story. A 1 story pent addition has been added to the E and a gable breezeway to the N connects to the garage. A cellar entrance is to the N. The main block is crowned by iron ridge cresting.

43. (cont.) During his tenure of ownership a brick smoke house was built to the NW of the residence, but is no longer in existence. Additional sons farmed portions of the farm for a number of years. The 30 acre tract was sold in 1919 to John Erhardt. In 1926 Alvin and Isla Bozarth purchased the house, enclosing the rear porch to form a kitchen, and developed the 2nd floor into an apartment by installing a bathroom, gas line and exterior frame stairway. Bozarth, past president of the Mid-Missouri Savings and Loan, once found a civil war bullet on the land which is now owned by the F.O.H.B. Archives. In 1946 Russell Hanna purchased the house, the land of which he sold in 1949 to the Boonville Sales Corporation who developed it into the Indian Hills addition to the City of Boonville. Considerable alterations took place in 1957 including the addition of a new fireplace and flue in the "family room." In 1966 the house was sold to Paul Mayginnes who is the Cooper County Extension Agent. The original farm on which the residence is located and which once incorporated the area of the St. Joseph's Hospital is perhaps the most historic area in Boonville. In 1810 Hannah Cole and her family, the first white people to inhabit the area south of the Missouri River, built a cabin on this tract of land on the edge of the bluff. In 1813 the first school in the Boonslick was conducted here. In 1814 nearing the end of difficulties with Indians resulting from the War of 1812, it was necessary for neighboring settlers to fortify Hannah Cole's cabin. From this "fort", which was built in one week, water could be drawn from the Missouri River when necessary. In 1816 the fort became the site of the first County Court within the territorial limits of Howard County, with David Barton presiding as Judge. Prior to the Civil War the tract became the site of the original Missouri State Fair Grounds. Approximately 1837, David Lilly built a residence on this tract, which remained as ruins perhaps into the 1950's when the land was developed into a subdivision. Shortly after 1869 Blasius Heiberger established a vineyard and winery containing at least one cellar becoming known as "Heiberger's Winery." The remains of a cellar was evident in 1936 and was probably covered over with the 1950's development. In September 1861, the tract was the scene of the second battle of Boonville, trenches of which were dug and reportedly still found near the bluffs of the river. The tract contains one marked and at least one unmarked Civil War gravesite. Prominent owners of this tract of land prior to the building of the present residence in 1904, include: C.W. & Julius Sombart, founders of the Sombart (Boonville) Mills, 1864; John Cosgrove, local attorney and U.S. Congressman (1883-85), 1893; John Speed Elliot, pioneer railroad builder and banker, 1893.

42 Further Description of Important Features The irregular plan is accented by a central (E) projecting gabled ell which has a polygonal bay with hip roof and brick foundation, and a projecting rectangular bay at the SE corner of the S gable ell. New foundations have been placed under parts of the gable ell N and the gable ell W. The N ell has an East-lake porch which affords protection to the primary entrance (E). Under this is a walkout basement entrance. The W ell has several pent additions at the main level and a basement (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This house was owned and resided in by Mr. & Mrs. Jack Shearer from c. 1960 to 1977 at which time it was sold to Julius Johnmeyer for rental property. Originally the house was located at 215 Elm Street (now Ashley Road) and was moved to Porter Street in the 1950's by Orscheln Bros. Trucking Co. when they purchased the property to build their business. In its original location it was the residence of Mrs. Mollie Moore from at least the 1920's through the 1930's, at which time it was bought and resided in by Herman and Louise Potter. They (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the rear of an odd shaped lot, facing E onto Porter. A gravel drive from Walnut leads to the residence and runs to the E of it. Rupes Branch meanders through the large open front lot.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The 6-over-6 windows are shuttered and have soldier course lintels. Brick quoins accent the windows, corners of the structure, and the entrance surrounds. The central entrance has an eliptical canopy. To the E is an original pent ell with a garage, basement level entrance under it. The attic gable window is circular.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure may be hollow tile with brick veneer construction. The main block faces S. To the N is a 1½ story gymnasium rectangular section, the W end of which probably housed the power plant as indicated by the large brick chimney stack at the NW corner. A pent roofed 1 story brick addition is on the N of the gym. It appears to be a basement entrance and storage area. The structure's main block is accented by corner quoins and a slightly projecting central entrance bay to the S. (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The building was originally used as the high school for black students and was in operation up until the Boonville Public Schools were desegrated in 1955. Guy's Foods, a nut and potatoe chip company, expanded the building to suit their needs and it is currently in operation as their area wholesale distributing center.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S and sits at the NW corner of Jackson and Rural Streets. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) This bay has a stepped parapet with a rectangular concrete name panel over the double leaf entrance and transoms. The large 5 part windows have double rowlock lintels. Three of these on the S have been altered to double overhead garage door openings. A loading dock and large door have been added to the E side of the gymnasium section.

42 Further Description of Important Features A prime example of the style, this small structure has end chimneys, boxed gutters N & S, and openings with soldier course segmentally arched lintels. The entrances N & S have transoms. Windows are 2-over-2. There is a frame stoop and steps to the N entrance. Also on this facade is a frame, pent roofed addition over the basement entrance.

43 History and Significance An excellent unaltered example of the early Missouri German architecture in Boonville. This house is significant in that it is the only surviving brick residence in East Boonville, although there are a number of frame houses of similar style and dimensions. It typifies the kind of structure that emancipated slaves were living in after the Civil War. This structure is also unique in that the owners of the house had always owned the adjoining lot which was used as a garden space. The house and grounds at present comprise 3 lots in (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Rural Street and sits at the NW corner of Rural and Washington Streets. The original primary entrance may have been the N facade. There is 1 outbuilding, a pent roofed frame shed on a concrete foundation.

43. (cont.) East Boonville which was developed in 1857 as a distinct town. East Boonville was platted with 53 uniform lots of 50 by 120 feet with alleys and streets on land once owned by Hannah Cole, the original settler of the area that was to become Boonville. The northern-most boundary of the town contained a wharf area. East Boonville was later incorporated into the City of Boonville and has been traditionally known as the "black area of town." The original owner of the residence was Mary Diggs who purchased two of the three lots in 1869 and 1870. It is possible that the prior owner, C.W. Sombart, built the house, but the property evaluation as indicated on the abstract does not indicate this. The house and adjoining lot remained in the Diggs family till 1943 when it sold to Frank Patterson. In 1944, William and Evelyn Tezon, who owned the lot to the west on which was situated a simple one room dwelling, bought the Diggs house thus increasing the property to its present size. On June 3, 1975, Mrs. Tezon, a widow, and her daughter Dorothy McDonald were murdered in the house by a jealous ex-lover of McDonalds. The present owners purchased the residence in 1977 as a small retirement home and have made minimal repairs to the interior.

42 Further Description of Important Features Brackets accent the gable ends N & S and the gable dormer E. There is a pent dormer to the W. The primary (E) facade has a pent porch supported on cantilevered braces and an entrance with sidelights. The N facade indicates interior stairs; the S facade has a chimney, a basement entrance and a rectangular pent roofed bay. Windows are 1-over-1. Additions and alterations include a sun room added and back porch enclosed in 1935, Kitchen remodeled, ½ bath added back bedroom enlarged.

Photo

43 History and Significance The house was built for the Bozarth family who sold it to the Kuecklehan sisters (Annette and Margaret). In the mid-1930's it was purchased by A.B. Bates (who owned the property immediately to the S) for his daughter Frances and her husband, Howard Dyer. They rented the property for a period of time and then purchased it from Bates. Howard Dyer was a manager of the Mattingly Bros. Store in Boonville & a founder of the Boonville Rod and Gun Club.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto Shamrock. The front yard is terraced. An alley to the S leads to a single car gabled frame garage with open rafters and an E entrance. The back yard is spacious and landscaped with rock walls and walks, a rock pool and patio. The back line of the property adjoins the Kemper Military School grounds.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has been altered into apartments and has frame steps on the S facade leading up to the top floor where there is an entrance with a pent cap. The primary facade (W) has a gabled porch. The entrance is slightly off center. Windows are 1-over-1 and trabeated. There is an addition to the E. A garage entrance is at the basement level on the S facade.

Photo

43 History and Significance The house was probably built by Alvin Bozarth in the 1920's. Subsequent long time owners of the property (ca. 1940's-1950's) were Harold and Mayme Mills. Following Harold Mills' death his widow moved to the upper floor and converted the house into 2 apartments. The Kueckelhan's bought the house in the mid-1950's, lived there about 3 years and then rented it out. At present it is a rental property with 2 apartments.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto Shamrock. The rear yard drops off to allow for a walkout basement. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance The structure was built by T.R. Peyton as his residence. Peyton developed the Peyton Nurseries 1902-15 in the north First St. area. In 1915 he ended his nursery and built 12 pre-fab houses on the site. Subsequent owners are: the Cregan Family, Mrs. Hy Sombart, G.W. Sombart.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto Shamrock and sits on an embankment. A concrete drive is to the W and gives access to a gabled garage. An alley is to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features The hip porch on the W facade covers the 2 S. Bays. Windows are of varied shapes and sizes, including 6-over-1 shuttered ones on the W., small horizontal windows flanking the chimney on the N., and paired windows on the W. with small pane top lights over a single large bottom pane. On the E & SE corner is a wood deck. On the S is an entrance and the fenestration indicates interior steps. Alterations include the removal of the stair landing and adding a ½ bath and closets about 1955-56.

Photo

43 History and Significance Originally built as 1 family dwelling, later the 2nd. story was remodeled into an apartment. It has now been returned to a single family residence.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto Shamrock. There is a concrete drive to the N. The yard to the E drops off to allow for an exposed basement level.

42 Further Description of Important Features There is a pent cap over the S entrance and a pent addition to the W. On the primary facade (W) is a gable pedimented porch on square wood post over the front entrance. Windows are 6-over-1 and shuttered.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built in the mid-1930's by Marion Phipps, a local contractor, for Lloyd Geiger, Sr. The architect was Ludwig Abt (who designed a number of bldgs. in the Boonville area). Originally, the structure was intended to be a garage. It was sold in the 1940's to Christine (Mrs. George) Honerbrink who sold in 1955 to J.E. and Carrie Harden. They sold it to John Tincher.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the rear of the lot facing E onto Shamrock. An alley is to the W. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The later 1 story front (S) porch is built of Molded concrete block and affords protection to the 2 entrances, both with transoms. Openings are rowlock, segmentally arched on the 1st story & ell. Windows are 2-over-2. There are end chimneys E & W. Additions extending to the N include a gabled 2 story brick ell as the E bay and a clapboarded pent addition which sits on a concrete foundation to the W bay. This NW area has enclosed porches. To the N are new frame garages (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance Oral history indicates the residence was built by Florenz Pieper, a stone mason, in the 1860's. He was the father of W.P. Pieper, Boonville druggist, who lived there as a boy. The residence remained in the Pieper family until the 1960's when it was bought by Dr. J.M Rorah, chiropractor, as a speculative piece of business property. He divided the lot and built a laundromat just west of the house. In the process of building the laundromat he (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The resdience faces S onto E. Spring and sits on an embankment with a beautiful cut and laid stone reinforcing wall to the S & E. A large concrete wall is to the W. To the N is an alley and a gravel parking area.

42 Further Description of Important Features The porch detail and roofline are all that remain of the Queen Anne affinities. The entrance is set at an angle where the projecting ell (SW) meets the porch. It retains its ornate Eastlake door. This porch now has a concrete slab and brick piers. On the W facade there is a slightly projecting rectangular bay. There are 2 pent additions, one to the E of the original N ell and one to the N of this ell. The 1-over-1 windows are extremely attenuated.

Photo

43 History and Significance The present owner has been in residence at this location for over 50 years.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment with a concrete wall, facing S onto Spring Street. There is an alley to the N. At the NW corner of the property is a gable and pent roofed frame shed which sits on a stone foundation.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The porch on the SE corner has been enclosed to form a room and entrance hall. The gable ends have returns and there is cresting on the roof ridge. Windows are generally 1-over-1 however there are some 6-over-6 openings on the W facade. A c. 1920's addition is across the N facade. It has a pent roof, a dormer to the N, 2 entrances, and a small frame porch on its N facade. There is a basement entrance on the W facade.

43 History and Significance Travis has owned this property since the mid-1960's. Previous to that it was owned for many years by Emma Wilhite. The house was extensively remodeled in the 1940's by Raymond Knabe. The structure is believed to have been built by Isaac Lionberger, a "dry goods and notions" merchant, combination sheriff and County Collector (1842-46), and County Court JUdge (1858-62). By 1869 the structure became the residence of D.C. Lionberger. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SE corner of 3rd. & Spring Streets, facing N and sitting close to the streets. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance Oral history indicates the main block of the house was retrieved from the Missouri River during a flood. Dr. Swap lived in residence at turn of century. Edgar Swap lived there c 1950. Recent information obtained from obverse of historical photograph notes that structure was to be built in New Franklin and that prior to its Construction the building materials were ferried across the Missouri River. During the grading of Spring St. in the 1880's the structure was moved approximately 15 feet to the East. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment with a Molded concrete block and stone retaining wall to the S & W, and faces S onto E. Spring. It sits at the NE corner of 3rd & Spring Streets. An alley is to the N. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary (N) facade has 2 entrances each with a narrow transom and Grecian Ear surrounds. Windows are 9-over-6 and the basement windows are partial above ground. The cornice is boxed. There are end chimneys on the E and W facades. Additions include a 2 bay frame porch on the N which sits on concrete block piers and has turned post, spindle balustrade, brackets, and a flat roof, and a pent addition on the S facade W bay which was built as a utility room c 1950. The original weatherboard (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance Significant as fine example of Greek Revival housing on a small scale. Oral history indicates house to be "about 150 years old" and built by a "Mr. Memmel for a piano tuner." Current owners have had property 35 years. From c. 1910 to 1930 the residence was used as a duplex. This structure is significant on the local level.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto E. Spring Street. There are no outbuildings. A new ranch style residence is to the S along the alley, see individual listing 308 E. Spring.

42. (cont.) raised S facade basement level are 2-over-2. On the E is a basement entrance which has a small brick extension with a gable roof. Additions to the rear include a frame board and batten hip roofed room. On the interior,ceilings are 13'. Millwork is pine and was reportedly sent up river from New Orleans. It is molded and has a circular corner motif. Marble surrounds the S room fireplace. Original brass locks and hinges remain on several doors including the large 4 panel doors between the living and dining rooms. Windows are recessed and panelled below the sills. A delicate walnut newel and stair leads to the 2 rooms of the 2nd story,which have fireplaces, then turns and extends to the attic level. Additions and alterations include the placing of cove molding and built-in book case in the S room, 1st story in 1941. This work was done so as to complement the original millwork. The rear of the long hall was altered to a narrow kitchen and the rear addition is used as a breakfast nook.

43. (cont.) quarters served as a residence for Mrs. Penick's mother and later as an antique shop.

44. (cont.) N facade. It is accented by a parapet on its S facade. It is the original kitchen and slave quarters to the residence. There is a kitchen and living room on the 1st story and 2 bedrooms up. It now houses an antique shop. To the N is a metal, Butler-type building which also is an antique shop. It has a gable roof and a concrete slab foundation. An overhead garage door is to the E. There is a covered cistern in the rear brick patio. An alley is to the N.

NOTE to Item #43: This structure is locally significant for both its architectural merit and historical association.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure appears to have been built in 4 sections: the NE being the oldest, a brick addition to the NW, a basement level brick section, and a 1st story frame addition over the brick basement section. The basement is partially exposed to the front and has a walk out level to the S forming almost a piano nobile type plan. The primary entrance with transom is reached by frame steps leading up to a raised front porch which has turned posts and brackets. The brackets are repeated at the boxed cornice.(attached)

Photo

43 History and Significance Present owner bought it from Kenny Esser in Jan. 1980. Esser bought it from Wendell Easter in 1975. Easter bought it from Mae Stock. Another previous owner was a Mrs. Quigg.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are alleys W & S. No outbuildings are associated with this property.

42 Further Description of Important Features The most outstanding feature of this piano nobile structure is the molded brick cornice along the N facade. It is obsured by a later Eastlake porch except on the NW corner where it is still evident. The main block has 6-over-6 windows and entrances with transom, all having rowlock, segmentally arched lintels. Additions on the N facade include a gable ell, E bay. which has a wide window with Queen Anne border glass and a soldier course lintel on the N; an Eastlake frame porch raised on (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance Significant as an early example of both piano nobile and Missouri German style. Its additions are characteristic of those attached to these early structures in the Queen Anne period.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Spring St. The basement area is dug out on the N facade to allow a walk out basement. To the S, the yard drops away to expose the basement facades. A concrete drive to the W leads to a open frame carport.

43 History and Significance The structure was built in 1846 or shortly thereafter by Robert D. Perry, a vintner. Perry was active in civic affairs and was one of the developers of Walnut Grove cemetery, and a part owner of a Missouri River ferryboat. Perry sold the structure to merchant H.B. Benedict in 1859 who continued to reside at his residence one door to the west at 311 E. Spring. In 1868, Capt. Henry McPherson, owner of the steamboat "Jennie Lewis" and co-developer of the Boonville Water Co. bought it. McPherson's widow resided there at least until (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a high embankment facing S onto E. Spring Street. A stone wall is along the alleys to the N & W. A gravel drive from the N alley is to the E of the structure.

42. (cont.) 1 story porch which connects the main structure to the 2 story brick slave quarters and kitchen. This structure repeats the pedimented lintels and 6-over-6 windows. It has a cellar entrance (W) and a single leaf entrance (N). The main block has a 2 story frame addition to the N. It is clapboarded and has 6-over-6 windows. The pedimental lintels are repeated. Across this is a 1 story frame addition on the N with 2-over-2 trabeated windows. It connects to the slave quarters/kitchen on the W and projects to the E 1 bay beyond the main block. This E facade has a parapet with an ornate bracketed cornice. These additions were there by 1900.

43. (cont.) 1916 and possibly longer. The house, however, was foreclosed upon in 1918 and purchased by farmer William B. Gibson, a son-in-law of Mrs. McPherson. The house was converted into apartments before this date since Gibson used the structure as rental property. In 1945 the structure was purchased by James Burks, an MKT railroad employee for both his residence and for rental property. In 1978 Jerry Atkins and Marcus Monroe purchased the structure and rehabilitated the apartments for rentals.

On the northwest corner of the structure is a two story brick slave quarters and kitchen. Unverified tradition exists that there is a covered over tunnel in existence in the north wall of the basement that may have been part of an underground railroad.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front (S) facade is embellished by 2 square corner towers with angular corner buttresses and crenelated parapets. The central section has a semi-circular arched stained glass window over a pent roofed arcaded porch, which was glassed in in 1960. This window, those arched windows in the tower and the large stained glass openings have tracery. The W facade also has an entrance. To the E is a 1 story hip roofed ell with a S entrance. It has a stone and concrete stoop. The initial cost (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This is the Third church building erected by the Methodists, with the two previous building dates being 1832 and 1880. In 1915, Mrs. Charles Leonard felt that a new building was necessary and offered to donate as a memorial to her parents $10,000 toward the new building if both her brother, Louis Nelson, and her sister agreed to give this amount. A Mrs. Stephens gave $5,000 toward the building fund and $5,000 for a pipe organ. The 1880 building was razed in 1915, the corner stone of the new church laid in 1916 (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The church sits at the NE corner of 4th & Spring Streets, facing S onto Spring. Alleys are to the E & N. The parsonage is to the NW.

42. (cont.) of building and equipping this original section was $39,000. A new Educational Building was added to the N in 1965 at a cost of $160,000. William Conrad was the architect. It is connected to the main block by a glass breezeway with entrances E & W. This new section is 2 stories and is sheathed in white ashlar brick, which compliments the original section. The kitchen was remodeled in 1964-the sanctuary was redecorated in 1965.

43. (cont.) and the building was completed and dedicated in 1917. The limestone for the building was quarried within the Boonville City Limits near Harley Park and is comparable in quality to Carthage Stone. The cost of building and equipping the church was approximately $39,000.

42 Further Description of Important Features End chimneys E & W. and a raking cornice accent the roof line. The primary facade has an exposed basement/1st. story area, which has 2 entrances, centrally located, and a large storefront window as its E bay. The 2nd. story has 1-over-1 windows without headers. The E facade has been stuccoed. Extending to the S is a gable ell (as the W bay) which has a large central chimney and a corbelled cornice along its W facade. To the E of this ell are 2 brick pent roofed additions. On its S facade (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The ell and 1st pent addition were there by 1885. The 2nd. pent addition was built c 1917. By 1929 the structure was divided into 406 (W- a dwelling) & 408 (E - a store in the basement), and the porch was added to the rear. Approximately 1920 the basement was exposed forming the store section. Shipman's Barber Shop has been existance since 1977. Prior to this for many years it was a beauty shop.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the sidewalk to the N, and close to 410 E. Spring on the E. Facing N onto E. Spring, the building's additions sit up on an embankment. There are no outbuildings. An alley is to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has changed several times. The structure currently has a molded concrete block porch over the 2 W bays of the N facade. These bays are an entrance and transom and a paired window which is 1-over-1, attenuated and has a segmental header. The porch has a wide entablature. The E bay is a 1-over-1 attenuated window with a segmental header. On the S facade there is a gabled addition. It is clapboarded and sits on a brick foundation. To the S is a pent enclosed porch.

Photo

43 History and Significance
The structure exhibited floor plan changes in 1900 and again in 1917. This has been a rental property owned by Ben Smith, Sr., since 1948. Prior to that it was the residence of Matilda Muelschuster.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits on an embankment facing N onto E. Spring. It sits close to 408 and 412 (E & W). There is an alley to the rear (S) but no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The gable end is to the street and has a raking cornice and skews. This primary facade (N) has an entrance with transom as the W bay. It retains both the Eastlake interior and screen doors. The E bay is a 1-over-1 window with a soldier course, segmentally arched lintel. The E facade has 2 windows which repeat the motifs of the front. Addition include a c. 1910 front porch. It has delicate turned post, fan brackets, spindle frieze and a cut out balustrade. To the S are 2 additions. (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features On the S facade the red brick structure is capped by a parapet which has a corbelled brick cornice. The 2nd. story windows are extremely attenuated and have pedimented lintels, projecting molded sills, and shutters. The 1st story is now covered with vertical board and batten siding and a wood shingle canopy. Fenestration includes a large multi-pane window to the E and a entrance with frame pilasters and entablature as its surrounds on the W. The W facade windows on the 2nd. story have rowlock, (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance By 1885 the structure was used as the Headquarters for the fire department. It continued to serve this function at least until 1929. During these years it had a wooden belfry on the SE corner. Between c 1900 & 1915 the city offices were housed in the 2nd. story. In 1917, the Police station was using the 2nd. story. The same arrangement existed as late as 1968. In the early 1970's Larry Smith relocated his Medical Arts Pharmacy to this location from 510 E. Spring. Dr. Diekroger also moved his office at the same time to space in the rear. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto E. Spring. There is an alley to the W. Gravel parking is to the N. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The S facade is capped by a corbelled brick cornice. Second story windows have pedimented lintels and molded sills and are 1-over-1 and attenuated. The first story has applied metal tiles. The E section has an entrance with a transom and flanking windows. The central section is a large window. The W section is listed as 415½ and has a single leaf entrance. The area below the 1st story windows is filled with brick veneer. E & W are common walls. The N facade has an 2 story enclosed frame (see attachment)

Photo

43 History and Significance In 1885, the structure was used as a Pool Room. In 1895 it stood vacant. The building housed a tailor in 1900 and the American Express Co. between c 1910 and 1917. By 1929 the building was divided into 2 story - a small narrow area to the W (415½) and an L shaped area to the E. A Miss Lowengroen operated a photography studio in the building followed by Ada's Cafe and, by 1948, Kempf's Barber Shop followed by the present business, A & Z Barber shop.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces S onto E Spring. A gravel parking area is to the rear. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The S facade has a lightly decorated parapet that has 3 courses of ashlar brick, 2 courses of ornate terra cotta of several designs, and 3 courses of ashlar brick. The 2nd. story windows are 1-over-1 and have frame sills and straight-side arched lintels. The E & W bays are paired. Extending across the 1st story is a metal beam with medallions. It is supported by cast iron pilasters and columns. The original inset entrance is centrally located and had 2 single leaf entrances. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance
Small 1 story shops stood on this lot prior to this building. They included a barber shop, Upholstery-Mattress makers, wallpaper & paint shop, a cigar factory, a broom shop and a restaurant. Upon completion of the new 2 story structure there was a photography shop in 417 which had a large skylight on the rear facade, probably the now enclosed NW corner. A dry goods store was housed in 419. By 1917 the building was used for dry goods and clothing shops, but no mention of a use for the 2nd story. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The building faces S onto E Spring St. There are no outbuildings. A gravel parking area is to the rear.

42. (cont.) The E one is closed up and the entrance to the E store is now inset at the far E bay. Transoms extending across the facade are paintee over but basically the integrity of the original store front is retained. E & W are common walls. On the N facade, W section, there is a basement entrance below ground level and 2 windows and an entrance at the 1st story level. All have double rowlock segmentally arched headers. A brick section to the W and an enclosed room on the E have asbestos siding, 2nd story level. The section of the N facade to the E is stepped out and joins the back of buildings which face Main Street.

43. (cont.) However in 1929, this top floor was again in use as a photography studio. In 1943 Herman Deck opened Herman's Beauty Salon at 417. In 1978 in this same location a short lived T-shirt embossing business developed but by 1979 Ron Ross relocated his Ross Interiors store here. In 1976 Corbin's Shoe repair relocated to 419. The name later changed to Sims Shoe Service.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (N) repeats the classical motifs and surface of the United Mo. Bank (401 Main). The 2nd. story has a new large window and concrete stucco panels. The 1st story has 2 entrances to the E bay and a large window as the W bay. The W facade has no openings. To the rear (S) is a 2 story brick addition. The fenestration on the S has segmentally arched lintels.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure housed a wood working shop in 1895 and was an independent building. In 1910 the addition was constructed and the building housed a millnery shop. With construction of the bank building in 1914, this structure changed to an office by 1917.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto Spring St. Concrete drives associated with the Mid. Mo. Savings and Loan Building are to the W., a small open yard is to the S. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary buff brick facade has a parapet, a 2nd. story paired window with a rowlock lintel and awning, and large windows and single leaf entrances on the 1st. story. The W wall is a common wall. The E wall is apparently owned by the National Bank of Boonville and is sheathed in red brick to match their buildings to the S. There are no openings on this wall.

Photo

43 History and Significance Sometime soon after this building was erected it was the location of the Coney Island Restaurant. Since that time it has always been the site of saloons. Sometime between the 1930's and 40's the 2nd story was the site of E.J. Haller's German newspaper.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto Spring St. To the E is an asphalt parking and driveway area for the Bank.

42 Further Description of Important Features The corbelled brick cornice of 509-511 continues across this structure which originally had 2 storefronts. The 2nd. story windows are paired and shuttered. The 1st story has been altered but still has 2 entrances and 2 paired windows: transoms are over all of the openings. The E facade has a stepped parapet, paired 1-over-1 2nd. story windows and segmentally arched 1st story 2-over-2 windows. There is an entrance to the E. Small windows at the attic level appear on the N facade.

Photo

43 History and Significance Previous to this structure, 2 1 story commercial structures were on this part of the block. By 1910 the current building housed a music store and a warehouse, run by Professor A,H. Sauter until his death in 1931, at which time the building was inherited by Joe Memmell. From this time to the present there have been a series of insurance agencies in the building: Dauwalter & Son, Dauwalter & Toennes, Sam Phillips, Memmell, R.W. Meyer, & Million.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Spring Street. There are no outbuildings. Additions were associated with the bakery (316 Grand). Grand Street, now used as an alley, is to the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features All openings have segmentally arched lintels. Windows are 1-over-1. The primary entrance to the S has a transom. A stained glass window is on the 1st story E of the entrance and on the E facade at the stair landing level. Constructed of molded concrete block, the 1 story porch on the S has a flat roof. Projections include gabled, chamfered 2 story bays to the W and to the S, both with brackets, and a rectangular bay to the E. The gables of the roof are accented by finials. To the N is a (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built by Frank Felton, a Cooper County farmer and stockman, for his residence. Felton had previously farmed 490 acres of land owned before him by Prof. F.T. Kemper (who had planned at one time to locate his school on that property). Upon Felton's death in 1948 the property was sold to his nephew, Bernard Esser who rewired and re-plumbed the house. In 1954 it was purchased by John Stegner, a lawyer, who sold it in 1956 to present owner. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Spring Street. There are no outbuildings. An asphalt drive which leads to the garage and a display area for farm implements are to the W.

43 History and Significance Previous owner J.A. Imhoff. Purchased by Dr. Remington in 1978 as Optometrist Office. Adaptive renovation includes lowering ceilings, use of existing false mantle as receptionist desk, paneling, closing off doorways and minor floor plan change for traffic flow. Future plans include restoring front porch on E. to original and renovation of 2nd. floor to additional patient areas and office. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto Spring Street. A gravel drive is to the W and a gravel parking area is to the S. Handicap ramp is in front.

42 Further Description of Important Features A typical Queen Anne structure with an irregular plan. Queen Anne features most ornate in front facade. Front porch with wooden floor has spindles in upper portion of balustrade. Front door has red floral patterned glass in center & transom with blue & gold stained glass squares around it and other decorative features. In front a chamfered bay has decorative pendents with spindles and bulls eye motifs. Bulls eye motifs are repeated in the section above the porch and over the main, round arched, paired windows. Other decorative trim is at (cont.)

43 History and Significance The house was built as the residence of John Bernard, a French immigrant cigar maker. Bernard arrived in Boonville in 1851, opened his cigar manufactory and marketed the "Dexter Cigar" nationwide. In the 1869-70 City Directory Bernard is listed as residing on the site, but this structure was razed for the building of the present structure. Bernard was a developer of the Boonville Public Schools, serving on the School Board from 1863-82. He also (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a long, narrow lot with alley on E side and in rear. 1 outbuilding, a frame garage and shed combination, has side alley access and composition roof. Wire and post fence on W side only. Sits very close to house on W.

42. (cont.) roof gables. In front, the 2nd floor door goes out over porch (no railing). Door has transom and decorative gable roof extension above. Gutters are enclosed with molding. Some side and back windows are 9-over-6. There is a balcony on the side. The rear porch addition has brick columns supporting turned posts above. A cistern or well is under the back porch and there is a walk-in basement with access through a recessed door under the back porch. One back room appears to be a porch that was enclosed. Interior walnut woodwork has bulls eye motif and there is tracery inside arched doorways. Rooms are of irregular shape. An elaborate mantlepiece is in the front room. Interior is original but needs extensive repair. Brick portion of the basement has an old washing caldron (for clothes).

43. (cont.) served the community as Justice of the Peace and as City Councilman. Subsequent owners were the Mills family who retained ownership until 1924. In that year D.E. Doyle became the owner and Mrs. Doyle, a widow, remained in the house til 1977 when the house was sold to the present owners. Presently the house is in poor condition, although it retains its original appurtanances. The small one car garage to the extreme south of the lot was built in 1928 or 1929 and replace a two story frame barn. This Queen Anne residence retains its decorative elements. It is locally significant due to its architectural integrity and as part of an integral turn of the century streetscape and neighborhood.

42 Further Description of Important Features Brick structure to the N was built c. 1850 as a later addition to the 3 log rooms extending to the S. This brick section is on a 2/3rds. plan; the entrance with a 4 light rectangular transom, is the easternmost bay. Windows are 6-over-6, shuttered and have a flat arch, soldier course lintel. A brick dentil course is below the boxed eaves. A chimney is on the W end. The ell to the S is composed of the original 3 log rooms. Concrete plaster now covers the field stone foundation. Asbestos (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance From abstract it appears that the 1st log structure was built in 1833 by Ewing Ellison. Subsequent owners were Horsley Rea (1834), John McCullough (1837), William Childs (1838). In 1841 John McCullough bought the property back and erected the 2nd connecting log structure selling it to David Andrews the same year. Between 1841 and 1848 Andrews had the Missouri German front addition built. In 1848 it was sold to John Babbit, known as leader of the "Fantastic Company" in 1841. Between 1852 and 1894 the Joseph (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the street and faces N onto Spring. The log ell runs S along to the W. A pent roofed shed sheathed in corrugated metal is on the S alley. A field stone retaining wall is to the S & W. 620 E. Spring is associated with this property - see individual listing.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (S) has an entrance with a 4 light transom and flanking pilasters and sidelights. It sits on a raised basement and is reached by a brick and concrete stoop with steps to the E & W. The roofline is accented by a wide frame frieze, end chimneys, and gable end parapets. The original ell extends to the NW bay and has a large end chimney. Windows repeat the 6/6 and soldier course, flat arch lintels of the primary facade. To the E, (cont.)

Photo

43 History and Significance Built by William W. Adams about 1844, the structure is both architecturally and historically significant. It is a fine example of Federal period architecture in the Boonslick area. It served as the home of the Christian Science Church for over 50 years (1923-77)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Main St. Alleys are to the W & N. This house is located in a residential area, just 1½ blocks from the main intersection in Boonville. It was built next to the sidewalk. Two homes of the same period are across the street. Just across the alley at the rear of the residence is the old town jail (1878).

42. (cont.) steps lead up the embankment to an entrance of the hip roofed ell addition extending to the NE bay. This 2 room brick wing was added c. 1920. In the 1950's additions and alterations were made to accomodate the church. The 2 back ells were connected by a flat roof and enclosed to form a large hall and bathrooms. The front hall and stairway were removed and the upstairs rooms were sealed off. Fortunately the stairway was saved. The interior features 7 original fireplaces, original doors and hardware, and the restored central hall with original stair and walnut balustrade. Structurally the building is sound and is in the process of being restored. The structure which was once endangered from the neglect of its previous owners is now being returned to its original elegance.

42 Further Description of Important Features Features typical of the bungalow style include the shallow bay with corbelled base (E), pent dormers (E & W), and windows with multiple vertical panels in the top light. The gable roof with its ornate tile copings and open rafters extend forward to form the porch roof which is supported on cantilevered braces and battered brick columns. The oak door with sidelights is slightly off center. At the SW corner of the structure is an attached brick garage. It continues the slope of the roof and the red tile.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure is significant on a local level as an integral part of a unique blend of houses making up a cohesive neighborhood. It is one of the finest and purest examples of the bungalow style in Boonville.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Spring St. There is a low retaining wall to the front. The yard is extremely well manicured. A small square, brick smokehouse with hip roof is to the S along the alley.

42 Further Description of Important Features Queen Anne features include the irregular plan; front door with spindles, floral motifs, transom; front porch with turned spindle frieze and balustrade and turned posts with decorative brackets. The paired windows of the 2nd story have arched stained glass windows with segmentally arched corbelled double headers with keystone above. A similar decorative arched window is on the W. Heavy stone (or concrete) headers appear above most windows. The front facade has a polygonal bay. On the E facade is a 2 story (cont.)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built by Charles Gross for his residence. Gross, a confectioner, operated his father's business out of 328 Main St. and later opened up the "Kozy Korner" confectionary. Gross served the city in many elected capacities among which were City Councilman (1885), City Registrar (1886), Police Judge (1914). In 1897 he was appointed Postmaster, a position he held until 1910. Following this he acted as the Office Manager of the Central Missouri Republican newspaper. The present owner and her husband (now deceased) (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a high embankment facing S. There is a 4 car brick garage along the rear (N) alley. Its roof has parapet walls.

43 History and Significance Structure is thought by prior owner to have been built by Marcus Williams, (local builder and sheriff) with slaves in period 1848-50. Bricks alledgedly were made on the site. It was the family home of J.L. Hesel and his descendants. Hesel, operator of the city meat market purchased the home shortly after the Civil War and raised a large family within. When his daughter Louise died in the N.E. bedroom it was locked and shuttered remaining unopened for 55 years. (see attaches sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings SE corner of 7th & Spring, slight rise above street, white picket fence & brick walk on east side. Board and batten barn in rear (used as garage & shed) has drive, access from 7th street, a tin roof, & stone foundation. Alley in rear.

42. (cont.) Interior of structure's first floor was restored in 1968. S.E. bedroom was converted into guest room with an addition of a bath. Original bedrooms in rear (S) have been converted into modern bedroom and kitchen area. The Southern most portion of lattice porch was enclosed to form closet for rear bedroom. Fireplace mantels in living room and guest room are Greek Revival. Beneath the guest room is a wine cellar. Basement area currently contains wash area, simple bedroom and storage. There is no interior stairway to lower level, access is via stairway on latticework porch.

43. (cont.) The Hesel brothers raised game cocks in the back yard and the barn was used at times as a site for area cockfights. There is a "secret" room in the barn. The house was purchased in 1968 by A.L. and Betty Crow as a retirement home. Crow, once superintendent of schools in Boonville, hired the Cochran Construction Company in that year to completely restore the interior first floor, exterior including front porch and barn. Research by the Crows and Cochrans yielded a completed restoration project that has been entitled a "gem" among local residences. Mrs. Crow remained in the home till 1977 when it was sold to J.E. Small. In 1977 the Cochran Construction Company completed restoration of the barn.
The original environment contained besides the barn a summer kitchen, well,numerous small buildings interconnected by pink brick walks. Only the barn and one brick walk remain.

43 History and Significance The residence was the home of Thomas Hogan, a railroad public improvement contractor. As a railroad contractor his company built a 4,700' tunnel for the Iron Mountain Railway at Carter, Oklahoma, a 15 mile track on the White River Line west of Batesville, Ark., part of the Missouri Pacific Line near Jefferson City, Mo., and additional projects in Nebr, Colo., and Idaho. Hogan was known locally for his Boonville improvements, which included (con.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings 1 outbuilding-brick, pent-roof garage on alley, frame addition to W and frame and metal additions on S. Yard on a rise-concrete retaining wall on Spring Street. Stairs facing Spring Street have metal trim with egg-and-dart motif.

42. (cont.) Doors echo hoodmolds and have transoms. The gables has fish-scale shingles.
A 1 room, 1 story brick extension, probably original to the house is on NW corner with a cellar type entrance to basement.
A 1 room frame addition on NE corner with wooden 1 flight wooden staircase is on E side.
A 2nd story door on N facade leads onto roof of addition.

43. (cont.) city street paving projects between 1898 and 1919, the city sewer system, and the construction of the City Water Works basins.

Local significance is attached to this residence because of its association with Thomas Hogan and because it helps to form a turn of the century streetscape and neighborhood identity.

42 Further Description of Important Features On the primary facade (N) the W bay is a 2 story chamfered projecting bay with fishscale shingle, stickwork gable end decoration and returns. Originally the bracket consisted of pendents with a spindle frieze between; only the pendents remain. The original Eastlake porch has been removed; in 1953 the concrete floor continued to wrap around the NE corner, had a wrought iron balustrade, and the entrance had a gable cap. Presently the porch has wrought iron columns, with the wrought iron balustrade (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The present owner, a local high school teacher, bought the house from Charles Hirlinger in late 1979. Prior to that it was owned by Bob Hill and before that by the S.S. Peter & Paul Catholic Church. Prior to the Church ownership it was the residence of Clay Grooms, a one time County Sheriff, who owned it from the late 1920's or early 1930's until he shot himself in the house in the mid-1960's. Asbury Hirsch lived here in the late teens.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There ia an alley to the W & N. A retaining wall is to the S. The Church rectory and parking is to the W. The residence faces S onto E. Spring.

42 Further Description of Important Features The steeply pitched gable roofs are embellished by decorative stickwork in the ends and drop pendents on the SW and SE corners of the eaves. The original 1 story, 1 bay polygonal vestibule has been replaced by a large open porch which extends across the S facade and wraps around the SW corner. It has doric columns and a molded concrete block foundation. The entrance has a transom. On the W facade are 2 gable dormers over the rear ell. The E facade features an ornate 1 story flat roofed bay window with (cont.)

43 History and Significance The structure was probably built for Mary and Juliet Massie who purchased the property in 1877. Juliet Married Fred Sauter and continued to live in the residence. Fred Sauter, son of Matthew and Rosa Sauter, came to Cooper County in 1866 and became the president of Sauter Mercantile Company and a prominent business man of Boonville. The firm was conducted from 1870 to 1905 as Sauter and Co., when it was incorporated under the name of Sauter Mercantile Co. Mr. Sauter died Sept. 21, 1918 and the business was purchased by the Bassett-Gregory (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a low embankment with a concrete retaining wall at the NW corner of 8th and Spring Sts. It faces S. There is a drive off of 8th St. to the rear of the lot.

Frame steps lead up to the attic story entrance with a gable cap on the N facade. On the 1st story of the facade is an inset porch and concrete stoop.

Additions and alterations include rebuilding the roof and porch after the 1923 fire, a basement c. 1920's-30's, & converting the structure into a duplex c. 1940. In 1978 the residence was returned to a single family dwelling and the several walls were removed and the stairway was replaced. An ornate front door and a pair of double leaf doors were retained on the 1st story. The exterior has been recently painted in a bio-chromatic color scheme which highlights the Gothic motifs.

43. (cont.) Co. Other owners include Charles Sauter (1916) and George Esser (1918-1965). The Catholic Church owned the property from 1965 to 1976. Present owners purchased the house in 1978.

43 History and Significance Lot number 197 of the original town has history of being divided . Property lot is the site of two early structures neither in existance at present. A small simple house must have been in existance in 1855 facing Spring Street when Solomon and Cynthia Williams, "free negroes", purchased the property from R.D. Holman. In 1859 Cynthia Williams, a widow, deeded a 60' by 40' section to the Methodist Episcopal Church for the building of a Church building. The trustees defaulted on a bank loan in 1864 and were (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. A concrete drive gives access from the carport to Spring Street. A herringbone walk remains on the S & W The residence sits close to the sidewalk at the NE corner of 8th & Spring Streets, facing S onto Spring..

42. (cont.) stair landing to the N has a bordered Queen Anne motif. Capping the structure is a wide frame cornice with scroll brackets. These brackets are larger at the corners and intermediately along the facade. There is a 2 story brick ell and a pent roofed frame addition to the NE. The frame section is covered with asbestos siding and is 1 room and a carport. The entrance transom exhibits the name A.M. Koontz.

43. (cont.) forced to sell the lot section for $420 to one of the trustees, James W. Harper, a devout confederate sympathizer. Soon after he sold it to Louise and Fredrick Rottger, a stone cutter, who resided within in 1864.

The large remaining portion of the lot was sold by William's trustees to William Senne, in 1867 Senne divided the lot and sold an "L" shaped center portion to F. Rottger who sold his portion 90' by 58' to Alfred M. Koontz in 1878. A northern portion of the lot was sold by William's trustees to John H. Tholke in 1869. Tholke was listed as residing there in 1869.
The northern most portion of the lot (92' X 90') was sold by Senne who resided in a small log and brick structure to Henry Grimm in 1879. In 1887 it was purchased by Christian Sauter who sold it to A.M. Koontz in 1888. The log structure remained in existance till 1958 when it was removed by Harold Oswald who built the structures at 314 and 316 Eighth Street.

In 1878 A.M. Koontz, a prominant Main Street grocer, had the present Italianate structure built. In the front entrance transom appears the name "A.M. Koontz" in red glass. A front door red window glass remained in existance until recently. Koontz remained in his residence till 1936 when his son, McKinzie inherited the house. On 1951 Henry A. Oswald purchased the structure. In 1957 the present owner , William Lang, an electrician, purchased the structure.

In 1958, all ceilings were lowered 3 feet, the rear porch was closed to form a utility room, the bath and kitchen were remodeled.

43 History and Significance Structure was built originally on plan with 2 rooms on each level. Mrs. Hess remembers that prior to her ownership there was a fireplace in the N.W. room and that it was destroyed by fire. House was owned c. 1900 by N. Meistrell. The present owner purchased the house in 1959 from John Stretz. Present owner installed hardwood floors in portions of structure and added insulation and storm windows in 1979. Wide pine floors in first and second N.E. rooms and the original staircase have been retained. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto E. Spring. To the S is a stuccoed, 1 car garage. It has a gable, rib-tin roof. A concrete drive to the E of the residence gives access from Spring Street to the garage.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure has been severely altered. The original section was the gable roofed 5 bay rectangular section to the S. It has 1-over-1 attenuated windows which are trabeated. A later hip roof ell was added to the NW. It projects to the W and has a molded concrete block foundation. It has a S entrance with a belcast pent cap and turned post and spindle frieze. To the NE are several additions, partially stuccoed. On the primary facade a Eastlake porch has been enclosed and obscures the (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Probably built by Frank Stretz, a builder of area brick streets and culvert bridges. His surviving widow remained in the residence until 1944 with her son, John, and her daughter, Mayme. John Stretz was locally known as the owner of the Phoenix Saloon until prohibition, and afterwards as the owner of the Cash and Carry Grocery Store. Upon Mayme's death in 1974 the structure sold to Frank Doyle who resided there until 1976. In that year Mr. Hill from Columbia bought it for rental property. It is presently undergoing alterations.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Along the alleys to the E & N are 2 outbuildings. One is of molded concrete blocks with a hip roof and an overhead door to the S. The other has concrete stucco and a truncated hip roof with a pent dormer on the N and 2 garage doors on the E. A concrete block wall and frame gate are to the N. An ozark rock (See Attachment)

43 History and Significance In 1912 this was the residence of the Boonville Postmaster, Edward J. Garthoffner, who may have been the original owner. During the first 20 years of Garthoffner's career he learned the cigar makers trade and operated his business on the site of the Knights of Pythias Building, and later at 404 Main Street with his brother. In 1910 he clsoed out this business and was appointed postmaster til 1914. For the next 3 years he worked as a (cont.)

42. (cont.) bays of the N facade. Its raised foundation, columns and balustrade are formed of molded concrete block. The structure appears to have been built in stages. To the S is a pent roofed section as the W bay which may be original to the front section. Large windows on its E facade indicate an exterior wall. However an enclosed porch now fills this space. With its gable roof (E-W), a brick section is also to the S. Before 1929 it had a frame porch across its S facade. Currently it has 2 later additions including a bath. It almost appears as if there were 2 independent structures joined in the center. This is echoed on the interior by the fact that the front 2 rooms, hall and pent ell have trabeated millwork accented by an egg and dart motif. Rooms to the rear have Eastlake millwork with bull's eye motifs. The NE room has a double leaf entrance off of the central ball and at one time was used as a kitchen.

43 History and Significance The land this residence sits on remained undeveloped in the family of original town founder's descendants until 1883. In 1900 the lot was purchased by Rosa Gantner, widow of immigrant brick mason, Andrew Gantner. The structure was built for Rosa by her sons who themselves were masons. Upon her death the structure was sold to Hannah O. Jellison in 1914. Residing in the structure in 1916 was Miss Eula Jellison, Mrs. J.L. and Richard Jellison. In 1917 the structure was purchased by Mary Prestin. In 1928 John Stretz, the last (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S onto E. Spring. There is an alley to the N & W. The rear yard slopes downward to allow for a walkout basement entrance. On the NW corner of the lot is a frame outbuilding which is sheathed in corrugated tin.

43. (cont.) proprietor of the "Phoenix Saloon" and owner and operator of Boonville's Cash and Carry Store, purchasd the structure and resided within until his death in 1959. It was then inherited by his sisters, Ida and Mayme Stretz, and utilized as their residence. In 1975 the structure was purchased by Jack Hasselbach for rental property. The present owner obtained the property in 1978.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary structure has been altered by the addition of a projecting ell on the E which has a polygonal window capped by a hip roof and a polygonal bay also with a hip roof. These 2 additions were made after 1929. The center entrance has a transom and retains its Eastlake door. There is a frame porch between the E & W bays. The roofline is accented by a raking cornice and skews. Along the W facade the structure is sheathed with vertical aiding. There is a gable ell to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure was originally a Queen Anne Cottage; however it has been severly altered. Rements of the earlier style include a projecting, chamfered ell to the SE which has a gable end filled with fishscale shingles, 2 entrances off the primary facade (S), and 2-over-2 windows with segmentally arched, soldier course headers. A new gabled roof has been added after 1929 which extends the attic level and forms an integral porch on the SW. This is supported by square brick columns, (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure has been so severely altered as to destroy the integrity of the original building. The present owner purchased the structure from Jack Bell in 1977.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S onto E. Spring. There is an alley to the N. A concrete stuccoed, 2 car garage with a gable roof is along the alley.

42 Further Description of Important Features Typical of the style, gable end to street and open rafters, the structure continues the Missouri German affinities in its 1-over-1 windows with double rowlock, segmentally arched headers. These have concrete sills. Porches include a 1 story hip roof section with brick columns, piers and open balustrade on the S and a hip roofed, frame porch which is raised and has lattice skirting on the N. Below this rear porch is a cellar-type basement entrance.

43 History and Significance Structure was the home of Urban Smith, a business machine repairman, during the 1920's. An avid gardener the "grounds were done up like a park". Structure has also been the residence of Albert Selk, John Warmbrodt, and Virgil Snook. The latter conducted alterations during the 1940's.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces W onto 9th Street and sits far back from the street. Gravel drives run along both the N & S. A frame gable and pent roof garage/shed is to the E of the residence.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building's central entrance (N) is raised and has a concrete stoop. Openings have double rowlock segmentally arched headers. There are loading docks E & W. Two independent gable roofed buildings have been incorporated into the rear of the main block. The building to the E is brick and gable runs N & S. The W building is constructed of concrete blocks and gable runs E & W. Frame and brick additions connect the 3 buildings to form 1 structure.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure sits on the site of C.C. Bell's Grain & Apple Warehouse c 1892 and 1900, and the Boonville Elevator Co. c 1910. The E gabled building may have been a part of the Boonville Ice & Laundry Co. originally. The building is currently used for storage by a wholesale grocery company.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto Spring. There are no outbuildings. The structures lie between 1st street and the railroad tracks and Rupes Branch to the E. A gravel drive and parking area surrounds the structure.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is built on a 2/3rds plan with the entrance with transom and sidelights in the E bay of the S facade. It is capped by a 1 bay rectangular porch with a wide bracketed entablature. Windows are 2-over-2 with rowlock segmentally arched headers. Raking wood cornice frames the gable ends E & W and the gable wall dormer to the S. The remainder of the S facade has a bracketed frieze. There is a gable brick ell in 2 sections extending to the N. It has 6-over-6 windows, and has (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The abstract indicates that there may have been a structure present by 1855. Present structure which first appeared as a 4 room (2/2) simple dwelling of gothic design dates after 1862. In that year John Fessler, who operated a restaurant in the Commercial Hotel, bought the land and between 1865 and 1867 obtained three mortgages totaling $1500.00. Default occurred and Sheriff Thomas E. Rochester bought the supposed structure but resided elsewhere. In 1872 it sold to Joseph Weber who was a First Lieutenant (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an extremely high embankment facing S. A drive is to the W. A small metal storage shed is to the NW.

43. (cont.) of the "home guards" during the Second Battle of Boonville. Default occurred and in 1878 it sold to B.E. Secongost, hotel proprietor, who probably built the rear "L" extension. In 1897 it sold to Austin K. Wallace who sold it the next year to Richard Toennes. Toennes, who did not reside there, was an orchardist and mural painter whose works appeared in the State Capital, Thespian Hall and a number of Boonville homes. Subsequent owners of the property were: Mary Rennison, 1919; C.W. Kirton, 1919; Henry L. Stewart, 1921; James R. Miller, City Marshall, who resided elsewhere, 1926; Hugo Schilling, 1927; Ben Smith, Sr., 1943; Fred Armstrong, 1944; Lewis Pogue, 1945; Jack Pogue, 1950; John Stegner, a lawyer residing elsewhere, 1953; Luther Shelnutt, 1955, (default - 1961); the present owner Opal Simmons traded her small farm west of Boonville for the structure in 1961. Present owner utilized rear "outhouse" till 2 years ago. The open porch on east side was enclosed in 1966.

42 Further Description of Important Features Presently the structure faces S onto Spring where there are 2 metal quonset buildings which have an entrance and an overhead door, with a pent corrugated plastic cap and a concrete loadindg dock. Behind this to the N is a 2½ story brick section used as the elevator. It has a concrete foundation. Openings are inset into 3 panels and have concrete sills and lintels. Repeating this panel motif on the NW corner, the N section is probably the oldest part especially the NE corner. It has a gable roof (attached)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure's central section and additions to the N were used as the Boonville Elevator Company as early as 1900. The N section was used by Boonville Electric Light Co. In 1929 the N section was used as a private garage and transfer company.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure now faces S onto Spring Street, however its original orientation probably faced W onto 2nd. Street and the railroad tracks. There is an alley to the N, There are no outbuildings. The structure sits on the NE corner of Spring and 2nd. Streets,

42 Further Description of Important Features Fenestration has been altered on the N facade. There is a single leaf entrance and a large overhead metal door. The 10 bays of the E facade have been bricked in. The 7 bays to the W remain open but have metal bars. Most windows are 1-over-1 and have iron lentils and concrete sills. The N corners are embellished by the tile laid as quoins. Interior structural posts are wood.

42 Further Description of Important Features The irregular plan is accented by a double stepped front facade (N). The E bay is capped by a gable wall dormer with ornate scallop and cut out vergeboard. The central bay has the 1st story entrance with transom and projects only slightly. This N facade retains its original 1 story pent porch with rich spindle work. It wraps around the inset W bay. Over the entrance the porch has a pediment filled with a closed lattice type pattern. Windows are 1-over-1 with ashlar brick, double rowlock (see attached)

43 History and Significance The structure was built as a residence for Col. Albert Gallatin Blakey on land belonging to his father-in-law and known as the "Ells Farm". Col. Blakey, a superintendent of the Missouri Training School, developed numerous reforms and under his supervision many repairs were made to the aging buildings. In 1910 the two story rear addition was built. In 1922 the house and 22 acres was purchased by James R. Miller. Miller operated a

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure features segmentally arched headers over the 6-over-6 windows and the entrance which has a transom and sidelights. This primary (N) entrance is protected by a 3 bay porch constructed of Molded concrete block columns and a hip roof. There are end chimneys E & W and a boxed cornice with a frame frieze. To the S is a 1 bay brick gabled ell as the W bay and a frame pent addition with a S entrance with pent cap as the E bay. The interior retains its 11 foot high ceilings.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was one of two early farmhouses in this area west of Boonville. An owner c. 1900 was Bill Kirton. The residence was later owned by Robert Buckholst and his housekeeper Sophie Hilden. The present owner, a relative of S. Hilden, inherited the house in 1945.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto W. Spring. Its front property line is accented by a picket fence. Outbuildings to the S include a 1 story gabled brick structure directly behind the residence. It has a ribbed metal roof and a chimney. There is a frame gabled structure to the SW and a gabled, frame barn.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 1-over-1 windows have double row-lock segmentally arched headers and concrete sills. The projecting ell to the N, W bay is accented by a glazed brick soldier course, glazed brick in the bondwork a small window at this attic level, and an ornate Eastlake peak detail. A new porch on this N facade sits on a concrete block foundation, has wrought iron columns and railings, but retains 2 small fan brackets from the original Queen Anne porch. A frame addition in the SE corner has asbestos siding and a pent roof.

42 Further Description of Important Features Ashlar brick laid in a soldier course forms a segmentally arched header over the openings. Entrances, at both levels, on the S facade have transoms. Windows are 1-over-1 and shuttered. The gable ends of the chamfered bay to the S and the ell to the E have fishscale shingles and returns. Across the E bays of the S facade is a 1 story porch on a concrete block foundation. It has square brick columns and a 2nd story frame balustrade. The gable 2 story ell to the N indicates some alteration. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The house and lands are significant for their relationship to Boonville's wine industry from the mid-19th century to the early 20th century. In 1858 William P. Speed and Ernest Roeschel, druggists and vintners, purchased 16 4/5 acres of land part of which was in vineyards. In 1863 Roeschel bought out his partner's share and consolidated with the Boonville Wine Company. A wine cellar from this era or before existed until (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the NE corner of W. Spring and West End Drive, facing S onto Spring. There are no outbuildings. A gravel drive and parking area are to the E & N.

42. (cont.) Additions include a 2 story frame pent addition to the E of the N ell and a 1 story frame section to the N which is sheathed in composition siding and has a garage entrance to the E & N.

43. (cont.) approximately 1965 when it caved in. A second, and larger, sandstone cellar was located to the north of the present structure, with access via 30 to 35 steps beneath a barn. Neither this cellar nor the barn exists at present. The lands still containing a vineyard were purchased in 1902 by Rudolph Toennes from the Roeschel estate. In 1905 Toennes built the residence on the site of a smaller house using the existing structure's basement. A second basement, not connected to the older one, formed the "double basement" as it exists today. Toennes operated a "wine garden" in the second story rear room until 1912 when the house and 33 acres were sold to Estil Oswald. The Oswald family farmed the land and in 1950 developed the area on West End Drive known as the Oswald Addition to the City of Boonville. The house and lot were bought in 1968 by Dwayne White and sold in 1973 to James Inskeep. The present owners purchased the residence in 1978 with plans of restoring the house. Oral history indicates that the original lands contained one Indian mound and the grave of a small child.

43 History and Significance
Oral history relates that this the residence of the August Bauman family from at least the period of the Civil War down to the time of Mrs. Bauman's death in the 1920's at which time it became the residence of the Bauman's daughter, Gertrude, who had married Junius Murray in 1916. Junius Murray died soon after they moved into the house and Gertrude then continued to live there until her death c. 1964, at which time the house was sold to the present owner, Nettie Fuser, who bought it for a rental property. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces N onto Spruce St. There are no outbuildings. An alley is to the W.

43. (cont.) August Bauman was born in 1836 in Switzerland and died in 1915 in Boonville. He came to America with his parents, John and Mary Bauman,in 1844. They arrived in Boonville in the 1850's. John Bauman was a weaver by trade and was also a freighter for a number of years, freighting from Boonville to the southwest. August, his son, was a wagon maker and wheelwright who established himself in business in New Franklin where he operated a shop for 39 years while making his home in Boonville. He was married to Margaret Stuckhart and they had 7 children, one of whom, Edward, was born in 1870 and became a Cooper County Collector by 1914 after spending 23 years as a harness maker (first for H.T. Hudson and then for Dauwalter & Son). The Bauman's daughter, Gertrude, was a milliner who worked for the McClanahan sisters up to the time of her marriage in 1916 to Junius Murray. Prior to the Murray's residence at 314 Spruce they lived in Jefferson City, Mo.

42 Further Description of Important Features The central bay of the S facade projects and has a wood entrance surround with paired pilasters and entablature. The entrance has a transom and sidelights. Fenestration above this opening indicates interior stairs. Windows are 3-over-1 on the basement level and 6-over-1 on the 1st and 2nd stories. Between the basement and 1st story and capping the structure is a corbelled brick string course. The building has stepped parapets at the roof line. On the N facade are frame porches over the double central entrances (cont.)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built to serve as a replacement for the earlier Elias E. Buckner Negro school which was destroyed by fire. Built in 1915-16, the Sumner School was Boonville's Negro school offering classes for grades one through twelve. The school ceased operations in 1938 when the new Sumner school at 111 Rural Street was completed. In 1939 the Boonville School District sold the building to a group of local businessmen incorporated as the Spruce Street Investment Corporation, who converted it into apartments (W.J. Cochran Construction (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Spruce and sits at the NW corner of 4th and Spruce Sts. A drive to the W leads to a 6 car brick garage with a pent roof. The doors are to the E. The original playground area extended several lots to the N.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure's primary facade (N) has small rectangular windows with 6-over-6 and 2-over-2 lights and a central entrance. There is no porch. A small window on the W end may indicate the attic was used as a loft. A pent addition extends across the S facade.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure helps to form a small district of early houses whose sites and relationship still exemplify the early streetscapes of Boonville. The structure was built in the early 1860's and was closely associated with the Weyrich Pottery, whose owner resided at 1103 6th St. The 1869 City Directory indicates that this structure was the office of the Pottery. The association with 1103 6th St. was retained until the 1920's and served as (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the front of the lot, facing N onto Sycamore St. A drive to the W leads to a 1 story pent roof frame shed at the SW corner of the lot.

42 Further Description of Important Features
Using 3 buildings, the distinct wall markings are still evident. The eastern section has a multi-pane window with a wood lintel with a rowlock course above. The middle section has a entrance with a rowlock header, a window with a segmentally arched rowlock header, and a bricked-in opening. The western section has 2 small windows with wood lintels and a corbelled rowlock sill. The W facade of this section has a gable end window and double doors with a heavy wood lintel. Concrete block pent addition (attachment)

Photo

43 History and Significance
In 1885, the 3 brick sections were used as dwellings and were listed as part of 413 Main Street. In 1910, the larger Western section was used as a General Store and had a oven built to the W. The sections were vacant in 1917. The W section was enlarged c. 1929 and was used as a Carpenter shop. The middle sections were still used as a dwelling. The building was purchased by W.P. Pieper in 1920's. Robert Long purchased the (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structures were built as an ell of 413 Main Street and face S onto the alley. There is an alley to the W. also.

Popp has operated his business in the structure since 1978. Oral history indicates that the building was in existence prior to the Civil War and was used at times to house slaves prior to their sale at the intersection of Main and Spring Streets. There may also be a wine cellar beneath the cement basement floor. The easternmost section currently houses Robert Long's apothecary collection.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary entrance has pedimented cap supported on consoles. Windows are generally 6-over-1 and shuttered. There are pent dormers N & S. On the W the basement level is exposed. A garage entrance is at that level. A 1 story brick addition is to the E. It repeats the 6-over-1 windows, except in this section they are paired. A chimney is on the E facade.

43 History and Significance The Hittners have owned and resided in this house since 1959. The previous owner was Mrs. Marjorie (McGuire) Steer, who inherited the property from her father, Dr. Morris S. McGuire, who acquired the property in 1931 from Charles Webb. Webb owned the property from 1928 to 1931. Previous owners were Lena Elliot (1921-28), Winfrey Gregory (1919-1921) and William Johnmeyer (1914-1919). The house was constructed sometime between 1917 and 1929, replacing an older 2 story frame dwelling. Dr. Morris McGuire (b. 1874) was the grandson (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Vine Street. It sits on an embankment. A concrete wall is to the W property line along the alley. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) of Levi McGuire, a Boonslick pioneer who came to this country in 1818 and spent 3 winters with the settlers at Ft. Kincaid in Howard County. Dr. McGuire was the son of Jonathan McGuire, a Baptist minister and lawyer. Dr. McGuire was active in the affairs of both Arrow Rock and Boonville, practicing medicine for over 40 years in Howard, Saline and Cooper Counties. He lived in Arrow Rock until 1927 when he moved to Boonville. He was an active member of the old Santa Fe Trail Committee that lobbied to route State Highway 40 through Boonville.

The part of the school that was on the Vine Street site was the president's home (Prof. Joshua Tracy) and dormitory (a large frame building), while the school building itself was located at the present 607 4th St. and is now an apartment house.

Mary Plumlee bought the house in 1958 from the heirs of the Goodman/Muelschuster family (Goodmans are listed as living there in 1912-13) who are believed to have purchased the property from the Dengoleskys. The house was converted to a duplex sometime during the latter part of the Goodman ownership.

Property Abstract

NOTE to Item #43: Subsequent to preparation of this form, Mary Plumlee located her abstract, which revealed the following information:

This house spans Lot 6 of Hendrick's Addition to the City of Boonville (1849)&lot 14 of Mack's Addition (1842). In 1855 the E half of Lot #6 (Hendrick's Addition) was sold to George W. Tracy (for Catharine G. Tracy) and a notation is made that a 2 story frame dwelling is on this portion of the lot. It is further noted that this structure was known at that time as the "Boonville House" and as the "Tracy Property". In 1865 this property was sold by Tracy to Thomas Nelson,who in 1878 sold it to Pianner Wettendorf, who in turn sold it in 1879 to William and August Dengolesky for $500. August Dengolesky died in 1917 and his wife, Annie, and her 3 daughters and son (also named August) sold the property in 1919 to John Henry and Bertha (Vollrath) Goodman for $2750. Mrs. Plumlee bought it from the Goodman heirs in 1958.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure features a boxed cornice N & S, soldier course flat arched lintels, extremely attenuated 1-over-1 windows, and end chimneys E & W. The primary (N) entrance has a concrete stoop with molded concrete block piers, an elliptical canopy supported on consoles, an enclosed transom and an ornate Eastlake interior door. An original brick ell, E bay, extends to the S and has an E entrance. The S facades W bays indicate several additions. There is a pent brick section and a frame gabled ell (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance This property was owned and was the residence of Margaret Hatton from 1945 until her death in 1979. At that time it was sold to Melvin Weed who only owned it for a month or two before selling it to the present owner.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto Vine. An alley to the W partially exposes the basement level. Along the S alley at the SE corner of the lot is a square brick outbuilding which has corbelled brick parapets N,S & W. Openings on the N & E have segmentally arched headers.

43 History and Significance The Old School Presbyterian Church was organized in Franklin, Missouri, in 1821, but due to the flooding of that town it reestablished in Boonville in 1830. The first construction of the church building was completed in 1841 with much of its building cost of $4500 coming from the East and through the aid of Dr. William H. Trigg and other local Presbyterians. Deemed as "Boonville's second oldest church" it served the needs of the (cont.)

43 History and Significance The Farmer's Hotel Building construction date is undetermined, however it cannot pre-date 1869. Oral history indicates that it was built to accomodate actors and actresses playing next door at Thespian Hall, but this cannot be verified. In 1869, Mathias Thomas, a stone cutter, was residing on that property. Thomas and his heirs retained ownership til 1907 and within this era is the construction date. A loan in 1883 for $1500 conceivably (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the sidewalk, facing S onto Vine St. There is an alley to the W and a concrete wall along the N property line. Immediately across the alley to the W is the Thespian Hall.

It has a jerkinhead gable, a 6-over-6 window, and is covered with asbestos siding. The rear addition sits on a concrete foundation.

43. (cont.) could have been used for the building's construction. Subsequent owners have been: Victoria Givens (1907), J. Edmund Gleason (1928), Harry Morgan (1945), George Alexander (between 1945 and 1954), who converted the building to house 4 apartments, Earl Porter (1954), Mary Plumlee (1955), and Larry Doty (1975)

42 Further Description of Important Features The original 1½ story block was brick with a gable roof to the street, 14' to the eaves, and a central wood steeple 30' above the roof. An original stone stoop with steps E & W still exists on the N facade. To this structure was added a large brick 1 story section section to the rear (1892-1900). By 1910 the brick 1 story side wings were added and a 1 story brick section to the rear (S), which was used as a stage. The building as it stands today reflects these alterations, as well as more (see attached sheets)

43 History and Significance The building was originally built as the church building for the First Baptist Church of Jesus Christ in Boonville. In appearance it was a 1½ story Greek Revival structure containing two front facade entrances on a porch having 6 steps. A frame steeple graced the roof. The Baptists retained ownership of the building until the dedication of the second church, 625 Main St., in 1889. Prior to 1895 the building was used as the (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the sidewalk facing N onto Vine Street. There are no outbuildings. An alley is to the W. and a gravel drive to the S. Across the alley is a gravel parking area used by this business.

42. (cont.) recent changes. The primary facade has a frame pent roofed addition over the original stoop and a concrete block foundation to the E. This addition has six 1-over-1 windows and is sheathed in asbestos siding. The entrance is on the NW corner. Behind this is the original brick gable end with semi-circular window and raking cornice. The original brick pent roofed wings also are evident and 1st story soldier course, segmentally arched window headers appear. The E & W facades reflect the semi-circular windows with soldier course headers, however there has been some alteration. The additions to the S include 2 rectangular brick structures with a corbelled brick denticulated parapet (E,W & N);and segmentally arched windows, both additions,appear to the E. The W facade's fenestration has been altered. The S facade has 2 stories of windows and a 1st story entrance. Over this, the attic window of the original gable section is still extant. The structure's brickwork has recently been cleaned.

43. (cont.) Four Square Gospel Church building, but it is unknown whether they actually owned the building. Between 1895 and 1936 the building was owned by the Turn and Gesang Verein Society and was known as Turner Hall. The Turners were originally an association of Germans interested in athletics, play reading and society; although in later years persons of non-German lineage were admitted. During the ownership by the Turners the building was enlarged at least twice for the addition of a stage and bar room. Before the purchase of the building the Turners leased the Thespian Hall (1867-95). In 1936 the building was purchased by the present owner for use as the Geiger Furniture Store. When the business moved to Main Street the building became the offices of the "Gygr-Gas Company". In the mid-1950's the building was damaged by the explosion of the Viertel Garage, located to its west. The loading bays on the west side, the front addition, and interior changes were completed by Lloyd Geiger at this time.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building which sits on a raised basement is sheathed in red brick up to the 1st story rowlock sill course. Over this is buff colored brick. The 3-over-1 windows have corbelled sills but no headers. The sill course is repeated on the 2nd. story. Fenestration on the E facade indicates interior stairs. The 2 entrances on the front (S) have a pent cap which is supported on large brackets and extends across the 4 grouped windows of the W bay. Under these windows is a corbelled brick panel. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This house was built for Mr. & Mrs. J.E. Gleason in the 1920's. Mrs. Gleason (Anna) was a daughter of Victoria Givens who owned the old Farmer's Hotel (515 Vine) from c. 1902 to 1928. The Gleason's also owned the Farmer's Hotel from the late 1920's until the early 1940's. The Gleason's sold 521-523 Vine to Helen Morgan who later moved to California.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Vine Street. The 1 outbuilding, a hip roofed 2 car garage, is at the NW corner of the property and has access from Vine by a concrete drive to the W of the residence. Built of hollow tile, the garage repeats the brick veneer. A concrete wall is along the rear (N) property line.

42 Further Description of Important Features Probably built as 2 row houses originally, the structure has been altered into 4 apartments and the fenestration has also changed. The primary facade (N) has a boxed cornice and each section is 3 bays including an entrance. The S facade has an original 2 story pent addition however a newer pent roofline has been added. Vinyl siding covers this facade. Sliding glass doors were added. The W section has a wood deck to the S. The W facade has a 2nd story entrance with a wood deck and gable cap. (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The first owner of the structure is believed to be Ezeriah Kennedy, a merchant of the firm A. Kennedy and Son.

For many years 530 Vine was the residence of Mr. & Mrs. Frank Draffen, retired farmers. The property was purchased by the present owner in 1967. 526 Vine was purchased in 1968 from Fletcher Korte who operated the Korte Trucking Co. and resided here. Fowler has rehabilitated both structures into 4 apartments and added one fireplace.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits directly at the sidewalk. There are no outbuildings. A concrete and gravel drive leads from 6th. Street to the S of 530 Vine. Gravel parking area for 526 is to the W, with access from Vine.

42 Further Description of Important Features The gable ends E & W and on the large gable dormers N & S are embellished by large brackets with pendents. Windows are 4-over-1 with concrete sills, but no headers. Fenestration on the E indicates interior stairs. Also on the E is a garage entrance, basement level. The roof of the raised porch with brick columns is integral to the slope of the roof of the varigated red brick structure. To the W is a chimney with small flanking windows. The N entrance has a pent cap.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built for Cliff Barnhart.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NE corner of Shamrock and Walnut Streets, facing S onto Walnut. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The S facade has the gable end to the street, a hip roofed porch on buff brick columns, and the entrance is slightly off center. The E facade has a shallow rectangular bay with a pent roof. A pent cap protects the N entrance.

Photo

43 History and Significance Oral history with owner indicates that the structure was built in 1921. In 1950 the "family room" was added. The original owner is unknown, however, the second owner was Fritz Bantrup, proprietor of the Boonville Monument Co. during his residency here.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Walnut Street. A gravel drive leads to an 1 car gabled garage at the NW part of the lot. It has composition siding and an open carport at its S facade.

42 Further Description of Important Features Typical of the style, the gable end is to the street (N) and there are pent dormers to the sides (E & W) A hip roofed porch on the N is supported on a molded concrete block foundation and brick columns. Windows are 4-over-1 with concrete sills and lintels.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built for the present owner and her husband.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Walnut Street. A concrete drive to the W leads to the only outbuilding, a brick garage at the SW corner of the lot.

42 Further Description of Important Features This residence has been altered by the addition of a 1 story, flat roofed room on the SE corner. It has 1-over-1 windows and a N entrance. The original central bay was a gable ell to the S with 2 attenuated windows. These are 2-over-2 with an ornate frame surround, which is pedimented and stepped above the sill level. A rectangular bay to the E repeats this motif with double pediments over a paired window. On the SW corner is a narrow porch which protects a W entrance and its transom. (see attached)

Photo

43 History and Significance
Oral history indicates that the structure originally was located on Kemper Military School property and was moved to its present site.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto Walnut Street. A concrete drive to the E leads to several outbuildings at the rear (N) of the lot. They are all frame, 2 have pent roofs, 1 is gabled.

42 Further Description of Important Features This composite structure appears to have been built in several stages. The original section is the W part, the SE section being built of Ozark stone at a later date and the NE garage and attached breezeway constructed as the last phase. In the 1st section, windows are 1-over-1 and the S entrance has a gable cap. Above is a pent dormer. An Ozark rock stoop extends across the S facade of this section and the SE section. Brick accents the entrance which is set at an angle in the SE corner of this later section. A brick breezeway (cont.)

The original structure had a bracketed eave, a 1½ story frame section to the W, and at one (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built as a farm residence for Shamrock Dairy Farm and remained in the Morton family for over 50 years. Robert Morton, the developer of the farm, which comprised 53 acres within the city limits of Boonville, was a successful market gardner and horticulturist with a large apple orchard. His son Wallace, developed the farm to include a dairy herd and operated a milk route. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E, however the primary facade is now somewhat obscured by later housing. Large stone gates mark a private drive to the S. which leads to a large parking area and the garages on the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features Accenting the roof line is a pent dormer N, brackets in the gable ends E & W, and ornately cut tips of the open rafters. The N entrance has sidelights which have been closed and is covered by a pent roofed porch. Fenestration on the W indicates interior steps; on the E is a chimney with flanking windows and a shallow projecting rectangular bay with a pent roof. Windows are 4-over-1 and have soldier course lintels and concrete sills. A pent porch on the SE has been enclosed. (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance This house was the long time residence of Marvin Kalb, a Boonville postmaster, who died in 1978. Kalb moved from this house in the 1960's when he married Frances (Bates) Dyer, following the death of his 1st wife, Gladys. From that time until his death he resided at 807 Shamrock. The buff brick house behind 104 W. Walnut that is listed as 905 Shamrock was built by Kalb in 1961, and he lived here for a few years prior to his marriage to Mrs. Dyer. During this time he rented the house at 104 W. Walnut until it sold to the Conners.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Walnut Street at the corner of Walnut and Shamrock Streets. There is a brick garage to the S with access from Shamrock. It has a hip roof and a pent roofed, clapboarded addition to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features A porch formed of molded concrete block extends across the S facade, capping the primary entrance with its sidelights, and wraps around the SE corner. Two gable dormers accented by stickwork and joined by a central pent section are on the S facade. The E & W gable ends repeat the stickwork and have brackets. The E facade has a 1 story shallow pent bay and a chimney with small flanking windows. A basement entrance is to the W where fenestration indicates interior stairs. The N facade has a large (see attached)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built in c. 1915 while the garage was added c. 1917.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the NW corner of Shamrock and Walnut Streets, facing S. Along the N alley is a gabled garage, which is clapboarded. It has been extended to th N by a small pent addition with the garage entrance on this N facade.

42 Further Description of Important Features The windows are 4-over-1, the entrance has sidelights; all have trabeated frame surrounds. To the E is a large pent dormer and a pent roofed screened-in porch. A 2 story gabled ell extending to the W, N bay and a 1 story pent roofed porch S bay forms the W facade. A large chimney and a basement cellar type entrance are to the S.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was built by a Mr. Klenk for his residence. In c. 1926-28 it was the residence of Judge Roy D. Williams. For many years following this it was the residence of Rev. Roy Gregg of the Episcopal Church. In 1948 the present owner obtained the residence. Mr. Million is the owner of the Million Insurance Agency, 513 E. Spring Street.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the end of W. Walnut Street, facing E. It shares the large stone gates and private drive to the N with the Schuh residence. This drive leads to a 1 car garage which has been enlarged by a single car, pent roofed addition to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has 1-over-1, attenuated windows which have frame trabeated surrounds and shutters. The primary entrance is to the N and is afforded protection by an integral porch (NW) supported on a turned wood post. This porch is repeated on the SW. A concrete ramp leads to the front porch.

Photo

43 History and Significance This SE corner of Water and Third Streets was the previous location of Jean-Hurst-Redfearn Produce (Poultry) Co. in 1900 and the J.S. Henry Tobacco Warehouse in 1910. The structure did not contain plumbinguntil it was purchased and improved by Lin Calvert in 1971 for his junk yard office. Prior to their purchase it was owned by Hallow Patterson, a city employee. The Calvert's previously had their office located in a school bus across the street on the junk yard lot.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto Water ST. A gravel drive is to the E & W, a small metal, gambriel roofed shed is to the S. Associated with the property is a large metal Butler building to the W. Its N facade has a large overhead door, a single leaf entrance, and a window. The large door is repeated on the E, S bay. 42 Further Description of Important Features The shot gun type house is 2 rooms deep. The N entrance has a raised frame stoop. To the W is a 2 room pent addition. An addition across the S has vinyl siding. A chimney is to the E. Windows are 1-over-1, shuttered and most have metal awnings. In 1978 under the HDC project the following work was done to this structure: shingled roof, installed gutters and downspouts, painted interior and exterior, and did electrical work.

Photo

43 History and Significance Present owner purchased the lot in 1946 from Fred Sombart and built the structure which served as a bar. Later it was converted to a residence.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on embankment, facing N onto Water St. A drive to the E gives access to a pent carport on the E facade of the residence. A pent outbuilding is on the SW corner of the lot.

42 Further Description of Important Features Parapets cap the N & S facades; the N one is ornately corbelled. Windows are 6-over-6 with soldier course flat arched lintels. The primary (E) entrance has a transom and side-lights. There are basement entrances N & E. Additions and alterations include a pent 1 story frame addition covered with wood shingles to the S., a 1 story 2 bay pent porch on the E, a pent enclosure over the basement entrance E, the closing up of 1 window E and 1 window N, and a hip porch over the N basement entrance.

43 History and Significance The building date is an arbitrary date set solely upon architectural style since abstract data and numerous oral histories were inconclusive. Prior to 1872 the land changed hands many times with numerous people owning shares of the land. In that year (1872) Dr. Horatio N. Ells sold a tract of 7+ acres to Daniel B. Ells. It is unknown whether or not the structure was in existence at that time. Later on that same year 1½ acres of this 7+ acres sold to Clarence C. Ells, and the reduced acreage was sold for a higher value, which (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at an angle to the lot. It faces SE onto West Street, where the front embankment is terraced. A gravel drive gives access to a frame, gabled garage with pent addition to the N, which sits at the SW corner of the lot. This outbuilding is sheathed in corrugated metal.

43. (cont.) may indicate a building being constructed. In 1874, a Sheriff's sale was ordered against liens and prior interests and Joseph L. Stephens bought 10 acres for $5,000. In 1888 the Stephens' heirs sold to Anton P. Hain for $1875. In 1900 it was sold to Timothy J. Sanders for his residence and oral history indicates that the structure was in existence. It remained in the Sanders family until 1919 when it sold to Frank Brosius for rental property. Brosius also divided the acreage into the Hilcrest Addition to the City. In 1920 the structure, now lot 3 in that addition, was sold to Arthur Wallace who rented out the apartments. In 1944 it sold to Vivian V. Ravenswaay. In 1960 it was again purchased for its commercial interest, by Jerry Quinlan but was sold in 1967 to Johnnie B. Andrews for their residence. In 1969 D. Edward Scrivner bought the structure for his residence and presently rents out the basement level apartment.

The history of known alterations are as follows: 1920's - interior stairway added, east window closed in, primary entrance changed from N to E; prior to 1950's - kitchen and back porch were added; 1972 - N window was enclosed to develop a bathroom shower.

42 Further Description of Important Features Openings are segmentally arched. The front (W) entrance has a transom and sidelights and is protected by a 3 bay porch. There are 2 central chimneys. The N & S gable ends have small attic windows and returns. Pent frame additions are to the E. On the interior the plan originally had a central hall with step which lead to the attic level, and one of the basement room was used as a kitchen. Some of the original molded woodwork remains, however most was altered to a trabeated form when the Ford's (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) reworked the house c 1930's. The 1st pent addition, 2 rooms, extending across the E was already there; they added the pent roofed S bay addition, made closets in the hallway, and closed up the chimney in the S room. A fireplace was reworked and modernized in the N room. The original high ceilings remain.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure features a unique motif, small half windows directly under the eaves on the W facade. The 1st story W openings have straight-side arched headers with alternating light and dark red brick bondwork. Windows are 1-over-1; the entrance has a transom and sidelights. Capping the 3 central bays is a later (1920's) hip roofed porch. The structure has end chimneys. Extending to the E is a 1 story gabled brick ell as the N bay and a brick pent addition with a pent frame addition as the S bay, (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This was the residence of the George Stretz (1861-1938) family from c. 1894 to the late 1930's. George Stretz was a barber in Boonville (in partnership with his brother, Joe) who operated from at least 1910 until the 1930's or 40's in a shop on the site of the present National Bank building (412 Main). His father, John George Stretz (d. 1885) was a bricklayer who was in Boonville by 1855. The residence remained in the Stretz family until 1950 (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto West Street. The back yard drops off to allow a walk out basement level. To the E is a small metal storage shed.

Built of steel trussing sitting on 2 concrete piers, this 1 lane bridge is 74' long and 13'wide. It has a wood plank floor. Two trusses form the sides, a triangular one to the E and a polygonal one to the W (See photo for detail).

Photo

43 History and Significance
Approach truss exterior stringers are severely buckled. June 1980 Bridge Inspection gave this bridge a maximum load limit of 4 tons.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The bridge cross Pisgah Creek as part of a gravel county road.

42 Further Description of Important Features

Concrete abuttments or ramp and steel piers support this suspension bridge. From the S ramp to the S end tower is a 71'4" span. The main span is formed of 35 spans of 6' each to total 210'. From the N tower to the N end ramp the length is 87'. This makes for a total bridge length of 368'4". The road width is 12' with a timber deck and steel railings. The bridge is now designated for autos only and has a 3 ton load limit. Bridge report indicates the deck needs replaing and maintence needs to be done on the steel superstructure and cable.

Photo

43 History and Significance

The bridge is Cooper County's only "swinging bridge" and was probably constructed as such for economic reason. The contractor, Joe Dice of Warsaw, Missouri hired 8 men to construct the bridge at a cost of $2.50 a day per man. One of these workers was Andy Klenklen.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings

The long bridge crosses the Lamine River in a NW to SE direction.

42 Further Description of Important Features The length is divided by 5 metal trussed, broken arched spans. Beginning at the Howard County side there are 3 spans of equal length, the large vertical lift span, and a span similar in length to the first 3. The approach on the Cooper County side has metal guard railings approximately 4' high. These spans rest on concrete pilings. Three buildings are constructed on the bridge. All are frame with metal sheathing and have gable roofs. There is one at each end of the lift span and one is built on a projecting base at rail (cont.)

Photo

43 History and Significance This 1930 bridge replaced the first Katy drawspan bridge which was located 65' upstream. The bridge is considered significant to the design of vertical lift railroad bridges because the automatic leveling mechanism was first developed for this bridge. It contains a 408' high lift which allows free passage of river travel between its pilings. It was opened for operation in January 1932.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The bridge connects Howard and Cooper Counties, crossing the Missouri River, and is located on the N edge of Boonville. Tracks enter Boonville just W of the corner of Water and West Sts.

42 Further Description of Important Features The total length of the span is 2,100' with concrete approaches: 584' on the Cooper County side and 500' on the Howard County side. The superstructure is divided by 6 metal truss arches: 3 of which are 420' and are 3 of which are 280'. The roadway is 19'wide and sits approximately 73' above the low water level. The flooring is open metal gridwork resting on concrete piers.

43 History and Significance The Boonville Road Bridge is significant as both a state and local landmark and was the only traverse of the Missouri River between St. Louis and Kansas City on transcontinental Highway 40. Funding for the bridge came from the Old Trails Bridge Co., Cooper and Howard Counties, City of Boonville, Franklin Township and Federal aid appropriated by the Mo. State Highway Commission. The bridge was built in 1924 and is presently in use as a traverse for both Missouri Highways 40 and 5. It was designed by Harrington, Howard & Ash (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure connects Howard and Cooper Counties and spans the Missouri River. It continues Main St. northward.

43. (cont.) of Mt. Vernon, Ohio. The deepest pier descends to a depth of 60' below water through 50' of gravel and sand. The Missouri Valley Bridge and Iron Co., erected the steel bridge section which weighs 1936 tons. The W.J. Cochran and Son Co., Boonville, constructed the Main St. approach. The total cost of the bridge was $550,000.

Originally conceived as a toll bridge, privately owned and to be operated for dividends, the resourcefulness of Boonville civic leaders was responsible for a quick change in plans that got federal and state financial aid to make it toll free and part of the interstate highway system. Dedicated on July 4, 1924, its opening marked a period of growth for the City of Boonville.

42 Further Description of Important Features 1) The 1st major site is a large rectangular structure with a gable roof and an ell extending to the N. It appears to be 2 stories with at least 4 barrel vaulted cellars at a basement level. It is possible that the attic was floored and used for storage, thus accounting for the "4 story" newspaper description. All bays, 5 to each facade, are pedimented except the primary entrance which was an arched opening (see attached photo and measured drawings). The wall surface is of cut stone laid in a broken course pattern (cont.)

Photo

43 History and Significance Prior to 1855, Emile Haas developed a vineyard and small brewery containing buildings and a river mooring approximately 1½ miles west of Boonville. In that year Haas, along with neighboring vintners, consolidated into the Boonville Wine Company. By 1858 the company expanded to include the manufacture of beer. It is unknown if the "Central Brewing Company" name originates from that date. By 1859 an "old" original building containing 3 storage cellars, which was designed by Haas, was present. Although a line drawing published in 1867 (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The area is now within the city limits and is reached by Riviera Drive, which is a dirt street running along the E boundary of the site. To the N are the railroad tracks and the Missouri River. Generally the area is a gently rolling terrain with drainage to a now small creek which runs N through the site. The area is heavily overgrown (cont)

Item #6: In 1874 the Brewery held an L shaped piece of land in section 34 approximately 1½ miles west of Boonville and just south of the Missouri River. The boundary drawn for the purpose of this survey and nomination is an irregular rectangular shape approximating the original N, E, and S boundary. The W boundary was arbitrarily set. In a reconnisance survey there appears to be no ruins or major sites in the area W of the line (the 1874 map indicates the rolling terrain was in vineyards and fields to the W). The three major ruins are pinpointed by independent UTM's and all lie to the E of the arbitrary W boundary line. During the survey of the site there appear several other areas which are associated with the brewery including a stone retaining wall along the creek bank and a partially buried cellar (?). Other minor areas of indiscriminate function are also in evidence within the boundaries. Only an intensive survey will uncover all the sites associated with the brewery and their respective functions.

Item #9:

15/ 520290-4313000	SE corner of designated area
15/ 520090-4313000	SW corner of designated area
15/ 520090-4313480	NW corner of designated area
15/ 520215-4313440	1) major brewery bldg. and cellars in ruins
15/ 520280-4313456	2) stone bldg. in ruins
15/ 520150-4313140	3) large stone cellar

42. (cont.) Beautifully cut and vermiculated stone blocks accent the corner quoins, pedimented headers, voussoirs, and opening surrounds which have angular mitered interior corners. The interior surface of the walls are of a rubble construction. Currently visible are most foundations. 3 bays of the E & 3 bays of the N facade (NE corner), & 4 interior cellars.

2) To the E of the major building is a rectangular building of like construction and masonry detail. It had a basement. A well cut water table and walls rising approximately 14 feet are still visible at the NW corner of the structure.

3) Of distinctly different construction is the 3rd major site. It is a cellar which stands alone. The stone is smoothly cut and laid in a smooth coursed pattern. Three massive blocks laid as quoins mark the entrance which appears to have had an elaborately cut segmentally arched header. This gives way to a large ante-room and then to a deep cellar. The barrel vaulted ceiling continues the regular coursed pattern. The central occulus is small. Three vent ducts (E,W, & S) at the base of the walls have segmentally arched headers with precisely cut stone voussoirs. Above these are rectangular niches. When these appear above at ground level the 2 side vents have cut stone copings. The rear one (S) is formed of brick.

Secondary sites include a cut stone wall laid in a broken course pattern which forms a retaining wall along the W side of the creek. It currently is visible running from approximately the 4th bay S of the Brewery building in a gentle curve to approximately 50' N of the primary entrance of the Brewery building.

To the S of the 2nd stone building and in the E side of the creek bank is what appears to be another cellar. Only a small section--approximately 4'--of the segmentally arched opening is visible. It is barrel vaulted and may have an ante-room.

Scattered within the area are several areas which warrant further investigation such as an accumulation of quarried stone near the source of what appears to be a spring.

Surface investigation is obviously not enough in such a site. The property associated with the brewery is obviously rich in historical archeological information and, by the development of an early commercial facility, is important to the understanding of industrial history and architecture.

43. (cont.) shows the building as two stories, a Boonville Weekly Observor story of 1859 states "the main building is 4 stories high, 80' square with a 2 story ell, 55' by 35', under which are 6 cellars, one for malt, and 5 large arched cellars for wine and beer. All buildings are stone covered with a composition roof. Water from an elevated spring, furnishes a stream 2" in diameter to any part of the premises.... Mashing and grinding in the brewery is done by steam.... Boats can easily land at the Brewery." Wine was produced from the Catawba grape and is credited as winning the "First Premium" in the "native dry wine class" at a National (cont.)

An ad of that era states that "Haas makes wine and 'lager' to displace 'bald face' and 'blue ruin'." The company probably terminated when the buildings were damaged by fire after 1875.
