R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE A spanish colonial façade, complete with a tower and ogie arch on the west third of the building and a balcony above. Ceramic tile dawns the side gabled roof, and the gated parapet has a cross gable with a stepped roofline. Wooden braces separate the first floor from the attic, and a massive paladian window asserts itself along the eastern two thirds of the building. Polychromatic brickwork creates two diamond shapes along the estern corner, and a small light rests above the arched tower entrance.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. Walther, Bernard A. 2. Walther, Gustav C. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE The two story structure that affronts Broadway was commissioned in 1916 by Bernard "Bern" A. Walther and his brother Gustav C. Walther, as an addition to the three story structure that faces Middle Street (located behind the 502 location). The two story building facing Broadway was a furniture store with show rooms on the first and second floors. The three story structure was the funeral home, with the first floor used for delivery of the deceased, and the second floor for viewing. The south wall still has the original pulley that extends to the third floor and was used for moving bodies and supplies. In 1927 the two businesses separated, the furniture store remained at 502 Broadway, and the funeral home moved t 260 N. Middle Street.

A wood awning supported by iron columns surround the main door. A small balcony with wrought iron railings is on the second floor and is accessed through French doors that are flanked by sidelights.

The west façade on the gabled end has three asymmetrical windows and an entrance. One of the windows is a twelve over twelve double hung sash window with a stained glass transom light; two of the windows are six over six double hung sash windows, of different lengths. The uppermost window has a small fan light above it. The side entrance has an awning, and there are concrete and brick steps with a wrought iron railing leading up to it. Additionally on the west side there are six double hung sash windows on the upper floor, and two double hung windows on the first floor. To the rear of the building there is a carport.

The addition to the east side of the house is a stucco covered concrete building with a concrete foundation and a flat roof. A west facing entrance with concrete steps lead to a small porch with wrought iron columns. Two south facing eight over eight double hung sash windows with aluminum awnings and wrought iron windowsills. A limestone retaining wall surrounds the west and south sides of the property.

Under the portico there are 3 evenly spaced double doors with 3 rectangular 2/2 stained glass transom lights surrounded by trim. Both sides of the building have a large setback section with 5 arched stained glass windows separated by brick pilasters that extend from the basement line of trim to the entablature trim. The windows each have stone keys. Located directly underneath the lowest belt course lie 5 multi-light windows which coincide with the 5 arched windows. Both façades have 2 projecting elements, one to the North and one on the South. The North projecting element contains 1 trabeated 1/1 square window and 1 double entry door with stained glass transom lights. The South projection matches the North, with an additional window in the attic story. On the Western façade, the rear section extends from the main footprint of the building and the North façade of the extension contains 2 6/6 double hung sash windows on each of the 3 story sections. The rear extension projects further from the footprint. The attic level has 5 6/6 double hung sash windows. The main level has 5 windows alternating in size. One set, 6 in total, is casement while the other, 4 in total, are 6/6 double hung sash windows. On the Eastern façade, there is a suspended covered walkway composed of metal and glass that connects the church to another building.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE This 1.5 story structure is a vernacular bunaglow. It is front gabled and has a steeply pitched roof. The large pediment centrally placed is the dominant facadal feature. Bare rafters expose ceadershake plants with a centrally placed window in the gable end. The bottom of the pediment slopes down to reviel two horizontal bays, mostly likely the bungalows porch filled in. These bays are made of brick, each with two slabs of faux ashlar cut stone. Each slab contains small transom lights. A dominant cross gable protrues from the east elevation and houses a band of three horizontal double hung windows.
