SECTION D – ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Estimate-Based Waiver – An application for an estimate-based waiver requires:

- The vehicle's most recent emission inspection report indicating a single * diagnostic trouble code, or DTC.
- The same inspection report indicating a MIL-KOEO: Pass, OBD Communications: Pass, and Readiness Result: Pass.
- The single DTC was not reported on the prior year's emissions inspection for registration purposes report, for which a cost-based waiver or estimate-based waiver was approved, without the single DTC documented as repaired.
- Diagnostic work, following manufacturer diagnostic processes, has been done to determine the cause of the DTC, and is explained in full on a write-up obtained from the diagnostic shop.
- The diagnostic facility's determined cost of correcting the cause of the DTC exceeds $450.

* An exception to the single DTC requirement is when diagnostic testing determines two DTCs have the same cause.

Explanation of Terms

Missouri-Recognized Repair Technician - Any person who:

1. Is professionally engaged full-time in vehicle repair or employed by an ongoing business whose purpose is vehicle repair. A Missouri-Recognized Repair Technician may only be recognized by the Department at one place of employment.
2. Has valid and current certifications from the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence in Electrical Systems (A6), Engine Performance (A8), and Advanced Engine Performance Specialist (L1).

Recognized Labor Costs - The labor costs that a Missouri-Recognized Repair Technician charges for emissions repair services performed on a vehicle that fails its emissions inspection.

Qualifying Repair - Any reasonable repair or adjustment performed on a vehicle's emissions-control system, after failing an initial emissions inspection. Repairs performed by a repair technician that were not authorized by the vehicle owner's signature on a repair receipt will not be considered a qualifying repair. The qualifying repair must be performed within 90 days of the date of initial emissions inspection. The qualifying repair may consist of either:

1. The parts costs, purchased by a vehicle owner or charged to a vehicle owner by a repair technician, appropriate for the type of emissions inspection failure.

or

2. The parts and recognized labor costs, charged to a vehicle owner by a Missouri-Recognized Repair Technician, appropriate for the type of emissions inspection failure.
