DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Mutual Musician's Foundation Building (Musician's Union Local #627), 1823 Highland Avenue, is located in the East District of Kansas City, Missouri. Constructed in 1904, it was originally designed as a multi-family residential structure. The building is constructed above grade with its main facade facing west onto Highland Avenue.

EXTERIOR

Overall Dimensions

Rectangular in shape, the maximum dimensions of the building measure approximately 31' (north-south) by 52' (east-west). The building, two full stories in height, contains approximately 4836 square feet of interior space.

Construction Materials and Colors

Native rubble limestone forms the foundations, while exterior walls consist of pressed red brick. The main, west facade is stuccoed and painted magenta. The secondary, north and south facades are painted gray. Along the east facade is a two-story, frame and concrete cinder block addition; the second story is presently surfaced with asphalt composition sheeting. Glass bricks are used for some window openings. The roof is flat, surfaced with built-up tar and tar paper.

Alterations

Originally designed as an apartment house, the building has received extensive modifications from ca. 1940 to the present. Major alterations include:

1. removal of an original first story entranceway on the west and east facades
2. addition and remodeling of present main entrance
3. resurfacing with stucco of west facade
4. removal of sash windows on west, north and south facades
5. construction of secondary entrances on north and south facades
6. replacement of original frame rear porches
7. removal of five of the original six chimneys.

Site

The Mutual Musician's Foundation Building is located in the once flourishing commercial center of the black community. The immediate area surrounding the building contains single and multi-family residential buildings. Churches and small commercial buildings are also situated in the area. The property slopes from east to west. Remnants of a concrete cinder block garage are located at the northeast corner of the property.

Present Status and Condition

The building, owned by the Mutual Musician's Foundation Inc., serves as a clubhouse, recital hall and museum. The organization has been considering the purchase of a new building to relocate and furnish the organization with larger facilities. The building is included within an area designated for future redevelopment, centered around the intersection of East 18th and Vine Streets. The building is well maintained and is in fair condition.

The Mutual Musician's Foundation Building in Kansas City, Missouri, is a significant center for the development of Jazz, particularly the "Kansas City Style," one of America's indigenous musical expressions. The building, constructed in 1904 for Mrs. A. Lizzie Burr, was originally built as an apartment flat from designs by local architect, Rudolf Markgraf. The structure was utilized for residential purposes until 1928, when the building was purchased by the former all-black Musician's Union Local #627 for their organizational headquarters. Many of the nation's leading jazzmen were or are members of the Musician's Union Local #627 and the Mutual Musicians Foundation, Inc. They include: band leaders, Bill "Count" Basie, Bennie Moten, Jay McShann and George F. Lee; singer, Julia Lee; trumpeter, "Hot" Lips Page; tenor saxophonists, Dick Wilson, Hershel Evans and Lester Young; alto saxophonist, Charlie "Bird" Parker; drummer, Baby Lovett; and pianist, Pete Johnson. The building is immortalized in the song "627 Stomp," one of the original "boogie-woogie" tunes by jazz greats Pete Johnson and singer, Joe Turner. The song is named in honor of the Musician's Union Local #627.5

HISTORICAL DATA

Between the first three decades of the twentieth century, Kansas City experienced an increase in its black population following a rapid migration to the urban areas. To satisfy the demand for entertainment that grew out of a diverse culture, a separate world of black entertainment and show business evolved; derived principally from minstrel shows, vaudeville, traveling companies and ragtime, culminating into its greatest product, Jazz. Jazz developed simultaneously across the country in the early part of the century. Prior to World War I, the main center of jazz was located in New Orleans. In 1917, city authorities closed down the largest club and red light district in the country, dispersing many performers to other American cities. Many arrived in Kansas City. The genesis of Kansas City jazz dates to approximately 1917 following the organization of the Musician's Union Local #627.8
bands with any reputation were heard at the annual tournament of bands staged by Local #627. The tournaments, begun in the early twenties, were strictly limited to union members. The proceeds from these events were used to purchase the building at 1823 Highland Avenue.

In 1929, the Negro Musicians Association was formed and chartered. It was comprised of a group of black professional musicians in need of rehearsal facilities. In 1958, the Association changed to its present corporate identity - Mutual Musician's Foundation Inc. The Foundation's prime tenant was the Local #627.

The Foundation was a second home, a training ground and a source of jobs for approximately 90 percent of the musicians who created the powerful Kansas City sound of the '30s and '40s. There was a period when the Foundation directly supported Count Basie and other jazz greats.

The general prosperity in Kansas City came to a sudden end in 1939 with the indictment of Thomas Pendergast for income tax evasion. Following his conviction, reform elements soon took over. Most of the clubs and speakeasys were forced to close down and the musicians who were not established in big travelling bands drifted away. Some musicians went to war and a few remained in Kansas City. This great era of Kansas City jazz was over, and replaced with the "Bebop Revolution." The mainstream of musical ideas that shaped this new jazz style emanated from Kansas City with saxophonists Lester Young and Charlie "Bird" Parker being the most notable practitioners.

By the late 1950s and the early 1960s, Mutual Musicians Foundation, Inc. held regular weekend and after hours promotions for its members and their friends. These concerts and jam sessions have outgrown the facilities at 1823 Highland Avenue, and have been periodically performed in the nearby Armory Building. The Kansas City Jazz Festival concerts have been presented with other jazz programs sponsored by or affiliated with the Mutual Musician's Foundation, Inc. The proceeds from these events have been used for musical scholarships and other charitable projects.

The survey of Missouri's sites is based on the selection of sites as they relate to theme studies in "Missouri: State Historic Preservation Plan." The Mutual Musician's Foundation Building is therefore being nominated to the National Register of Historic Places as an example of the themes of "Fine Arts and Humanities," "Recreation," and "Society."

Kansas City, in association with the other jazz centers - New York City, New Orleans and Chicago, became the western center of American jazz. Under the control of political boss Thomas Pendergast, night life flourished in Kansas City during and after Prohibition. In the 1920's, large bands formed throughout the region and gravitated towards Kansas City, whose night clubs and dance spots remained open around the clock. The most famous clubs were the Reno, the Subway, the Sunset and the ballrooms, El Paseo and El Torreon. The clubs nurtured jam sessions, a Kansas City speciality, encouraging jazzmen to participate in musical contests. During the late twenties all groups and bands with any reputation were heard at the annual tournament of bands staged by Local #627. The tournaments, begun in the early
