42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES | Although altered, many Italiane features still remain. The overhanging eaves of the hip roof are bracketed. There are two wall dormers - front and right - which have gable returns, brackets, and attic vents with classical, pedimented surrounds. The very thin, 1/1 windows are paired. Windows and doors have entablatured surrounds. The first floor door has a rectangular transom, and the second story door (which at one (cont.)
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE | Although altered by additions and siding alteration, the house retains much of its integrity in design. It is located on a prominent corner lot on a formerly very prestigious residential street in Liberty.
44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS | The house is sited close to Arthur Street on a block of finer, large homes. The front is overgrown with plants. Gravel parking is in the rear.

Indicate the chief topographical features, such as streams and elevations. Also indicate houses and roads. Indicate the site location by enclosing the site area with dotted line. Note scale of map and portion of section included in sketch map. Include drawings, photographs, etc. on additional pages.

Notes: 42. (cont.) time obviously opened onto a flat-roofed porch) has arched top lights. Ther is a one-story bay on the right. A rear addition now includes an entry. The full-length front porch, a later addition, has a hip roof and round, classical columns.

THIS IS PROBABLY THE ONE MOST IMPORTANT PART OF THIS DATA FORM!

Please Attach a copy of a topographic map with the site marked on it.
42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   This simple cottage has been much altered over the years, hiding its true original character. The bellcast hip roof has a lower, projecting hip roof section to the front. The front porch has been enclosed. The eavea are wide and overhanging. The windows are 6/6, and are probably replacement. There is an interior fireplace.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   The house has lost much of its integrity due to alterations, although it still is in scale with its original construction. It is possible that it may have been a vernacular Queen Anne cottage, or a later Prairie/Craftsman bungalow.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   The house is set close to the street on this small lot.

45. SOURCES OF INFORMATION
   City water permits.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   The hip roof with wide overhanging eaves has one front and two side dormers that are also hip roofed with the eave emphasis. The full-length front porch has square columns that are clapboarded, as are the porch rails, which extend to the left to form a patio area. There is a right window bay and an interior fireplace. An addition is on the rear. The windows are 3/1. The multi-paned front door has multi-paned sidelights.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   A nearly intact example of a common 20th century housing type, the 4-square, as shown here in its usual Prairie stylistic interpretation.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   The small front yard is taken up by a half-circly concrete drive, which detracts from the house. There is another concrete drive on the left.

This bellcast hip-roof 4-square has front and side bellcast hip-roof dormers with wider, overhanging eaves. The second floor clapboards are narrower than the first. The hip-roof front porch has simple, classical columns. The corner treatment is full-height, grooved pilasters. The door and window surrounds have entablatures. Windows vary from 4/1 to fixed sash with multi-paned diamond transom lights. There is a right window (cont.)

43. History and Significance
A nearly intact example of a common 20th century housing type, the 4-square, as shown here in a Colonial Revival stylistic interpretation. It is noteworthy to compare the two neighboring 4-squares and contrast their stylistic treatments.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings
A small lot with a left, concrete drive leading to a small, flat-roof garage. The house sits close to the road.

The mansard roof has a molded, denticulated cornice above; the shiny, bright blue tile is highly visible. There are attic dormers with over-size, highly decorative vergeboards. Some windows (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE The current owners have transformed the original appearance so that the current building is no longer historic. Many of the decorative features came from other historic buildings, purportedly some from Europe.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The large, corner yard has a swimming pool in the rear and reproduction, 5-globe lights.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
An example of a popular housing type, called "Homestead Temple" at times in reference to the front-gable shape echoing the pedimented facade of typical Greek temples. In this instance, the form has a mixture of two different stylistic treatments. The low-pitched, hip-roofed front porch with tapering square columns on stone piers are typical of the Prairie/Craftsman movement, as are the wide, overhang roof eaves, in this (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
The house retains its integrity of design, scale, and setting, and contributes to the historic character of the neighborhood. It is a good example of the freedom with which features from different styles were often used in combination in vernacular housing. Eclectic houses were especially typical of the houses promoted in early 20th century catalogues and pattern books.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
A right drive leads to a rear, concrete block, gable roof garage. The house sits close to the road; there are mature trees in the back and on the left property line.

45. SOURCES OF INFORMATION
City water permits.

Indicate the chief topographical features, such as streams and elevations. Also indicate houses and roads. Indicate the site location by enclosing the site area with dotted line. Note scale of map and portion of section included in sketch map. Include drawings, photographs, etc. on additional pages.

Notes: 42. (cont.) case with decorative batten strips under the gable front eaves. The stone porch rails extend to the left to form a patio. The curved gable end returns and the denticulated porch frieze are more indicative of the Colonial Revival style, as are the 6/1, double-hung sash windows. The front door has rectangular sidelights. There is an interior fireplace, right dormer, and exterior stairs leading to an upper floor on the left.

| 42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES | A Prairie style home, although the Tudor influence can be seen in the front gable end, which is stucco with decorative timbering. The house has very wide, overhanging eaves, and a full-length front porch with massive square brick columns. A stone course runs horizontally even with the 2nd story window sills. The windows are 4/1, and a small, center window is provided on the second floor has decorative stone trim. The interior (cont.) |

| 43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE | The house retains its integrity of design, materials, scale, etc., and adds to the historic character of the neighborhood. A good example to contrast with 155 S. Leonard; both houses show the influence of the Tudor and Prairie styles. In the early 20th century, it was often common to borrow features freely from different styles. |

| 44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS | The house is on a large lot, set back a distance from the road. There are some mature trees, a left concrete drive leading to a clapboard garage in the rear. This and the larger houses to the left are set back further from the road than are the other houses on Arthur. |

The highly irregular roofline and surface pattern are typical of the high-style Queen Anne. The two lower cross-hip portions have front, gable dormers which are particularly elaborate. There are decorative vergeboards, attic windows with classical surrounds, and scalloped edge eaves. There are paired brackets under the roof eaves, and scroll-work brackets at the corners. The window surrounds have bracketed entablatures.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

The house retains much of its integrity, and adds to the character of the historic neighborhood. Arthur Street was a small enclave of fine, larger homes at the turn of the century, and 406 Arthur remains a good example from that period.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

The house is located on a large corner lot; parking is in the rear off of Lincoln Street.

Note scale of map and portion of section included in sketch map. Include drawings, photographs, etc. on additional pages.

Notes: 42. (cont.) The wrap-around front porch has been altered; it currently has Craftsman style, square stone columns, with balcony rails above. The tall, narrow windows are grouped singly, in pairs, or tripartate, and are 1/1 or 2/2. The house corners have decorative pilasters. There is a rear addition, but the vinyl siding is the major visual alteration, preventing the house from being a perfect representative of the Queen Anne. Nonetheless, a fine example with much original detailing.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

This symmetrical Prairie style home is often referred to locally as the "Shirtwaist" style in reference to the differing wall treatments on the two stories. The first floor has a brick veneer, and the second is stuccoed. The windows are 4/1, and have simple, bracketed entablatures. The full-length, front-gable roofed front porch has square brick columns with stone strapwork. The open masonry porch rails extend in a (continued).

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

A good example of a vernacular expression of the Prairie style which retains its integrity of design, materials, and setting. Arthur Street was a small enclave of fine, larger homes at the turn of the century, and this is a representative of those times.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

The house is set fairly close to the street on a large lot. Parking is in the rear.

   The wide, overhanging eaves of this irregular house have exposed rafters and false beams on the gable ends. An exterior fireplace dominates the front facade. Quarter round attic windows flank either side of the chimney. A flat-roof side porch has been enclosed with clapboards and multi-paned windows. The other windows are 4/1.
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   A somewhat different interpretation of the Craftsman style, the house nonetheless retains its integrity and adds to the character of the historic neighborhood.
44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   The house sits closer to the street than its neighbor on the right. A rear garage has an attached carport.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES A typical vernacular form of the Prairie, called the "Shirtwaist" style locally for its differing wall treatments on the two stories. The first floor has a brick veneer, and the second has narrow clapboards. The gable-front porch has brick square piers, and the brick rails extend to the left to form a patio. There is a shed-roof front dormer; all roof eaves are wide and overhanging. The windows are 3/1. There is a 2-story right bay.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE A typical example of a vernacular expression of the Prairie style which has retained it integrity of design, materials, scale, and setting.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS There is a right drive leading to a gable-front garage with curved end returns. The large lot contains mature trees.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

This much altered residence still retains features of the free-classic subtype of the Queen Anne style, such as the irregular roof massing and the classical porch columns with denticulated porch frieze. There is a left bay with pyramidal roof. The windows on the historic portion of the house are all paired. There is a front bay with bracketed flat roof. There are two interior fireplaces, one with flared masonry cap. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

The house retains its integrity of scale, setting, and some detailing, although it has lost its integrity of materials. Arthur Street was a small enclave of fine, larger homes around the turn of the century, and this house recalls those times.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

A drive slopes down behind to parking in the rear of this large lot. A shade tree blocks the view of much of the house in front.

Notes: 42. (cont.) There are two-story additions to the right (flat-roofed) and rear (shed-roofed). The right addition has 6/1 windows, and appears to be an enclosed porch. The stucco is non-historic.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
This Queen Anne residence is characterized by the hip roof with lower cross gable to the front, and lower hip to the side, making the typical irregular roofline. The cornices are boxed, and form a pediment in the front gable. The front porch, inset in the "L", feature paired, square classical wood columns on brick piers. The piers and wood rails wrap-around the left to form a patio. The windows are paired or tripartate. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
The house retains some of its integrity as an example of the free-classic subtype of the Queen Anne style. Arthur Street was a small enclave of fine, larger homes at the turn of the century, and this house had historical significance in that group. It was built around 1880 for Dr. Wm. Renfrew and Fannie Pitts Rothwell. Dr. Rothwell was one of Missouri's prominent educators associated with William Jewell College. It later was owned by Frank and Younger Hamilton.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The house is set back a distance from the road on this large lot, which contains some mature trees. There is a clapboard garage at the left rear. The historic brick sidewalk remains in front of the house.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
This simple vernacular housing form has a left, shed-roof porch inset in the "L" formed by the two wings. The porch has simple, square wood columns. The windows are paired, and are 6/1.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
This simple, gable-front-and-wing house probably did not have many details originally, but nonetheless the appearance of the house has been altered by the siding. It retains integrity of design and scale.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
There is a gable front garage at the rear, and a right driveway.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
    A vernacular housing type which has been altered over the years. The gable-front section has the entry inset under the left portion of the gable. The front door has two transom lights with a pediment above. The first floor windows are 6/6 and have pedimented surrounds. The porch columns have been replaced with decorative iron supports. There are two interior fireplaces with tapering stacks.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
    There alterations, although not great, have removed important clues to the buildings construction date. Knowledge of the original windows, porch columns, and wall covering would help in further classifying this vernacular housing type. The house still retains some historic detailing, and remains in scale with the smaller buildings towards the end of Arthur Street.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
    Two gravel tire tracks on the left lead to a clapboard, gable roof garage.

| FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES | The attic windows on the gable front portion of the house have a Palladian window with wooden keystone. The cornice line of the house has dentil motifs. The front porch wraps around both sides, and has round, classical columns. The entry is off a left projecting bay, and the door has rectangular sidelights. There are two cross gable dormers. Some windows have non-historic aluminum awnings. |

| NO. | 43 |
| HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE | The line between early Colonial Revival examples and late free-classic Queen Anne houses is not a sharp one. The Palladian window and the more regular roofline link this house more closely with the Colonial Revival movement. The house is in excellent condition, and is important as a transitional example between the two styles. Arthur Street was a small enclave of fine, larger homes at the turn of the century, and this house remains a good representative of that period. |

| NO. | 44 |
| DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS | The house is on a corner lot, set quite close to both Arthur and Jewell Streets. Large trees obscure the view of much of the house. Parking is in the rear off of Jewell. |

A vernacular housing form, called "Homestead Temple" by some in reverence to the front-gabled shape echoing the pedimented facade of Greek Temples. Some Craftsman inspired details are the square, tapering wood columns on brick piers for the front porch supports. In addition, the first floor has clapboard wall treatment, which the upper floor has wood shingles. An interior fireplace is broken off at the roofline. There are (con)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

A good example of a modest folk house type, which was inspired by Craftsman detailing in the decades from 1910 to 1930. The house retains its integrity of design, materials, and scale.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

The house is currently on a large lot across from a busy commercial establishment. A left gravel drive leads to parking in the rear.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES A vernacular expression of the Craftsman style, lacking the exposed rafters or eave brackets, but retaining the wide, overhanging, unenclosed eaves. The full-length front porch has tapering, square columns on brick piers. A gable front dormer has three grouped windows. There are two right bays with lower extending gable roofs. The windows are 3/1. The interior fireplace has a tall chimney stack.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE While not a pure Craftsman house, it remains a nearly original representation of a vernacular housing type. Its design, materials, scale, and setting add to the character of the historic neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS Parking is in the rear of this small lot, reached by a back alley.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   The siding is the major alteration to this steeply pitched Colonial Revival house. There is a large, gable front dormer, a shed-roofed right bay, and a left, two-story extension of the gable roof. Also on the left is a lower barge roof porch with side entry. The porch has simple square columns. The windows are 6/6 and have entablature surrounds. There is a capped interior fireplaces. The front entry has a curved brick stoop.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   In spite of its siding alteration, this simple Colonial Revival example retains its integrity of design, mass, and setting, and adds to the character of the neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

| 42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES | A non-historic house which contains detailing reflecting the Cape Cod version of the Colonial Revival. On the left is a front facing gable with vertical boards in the gable. The entry porch is shed-roofed and has spindle columns and rails. The windows are 6/6, and there is a grouping of three on the front. There is a gable-front dormer, and a one room addition to the right with a lower gable roof. |

| 43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE | Although non-historic, the house is similar enough in scale and detail to the older homes so as not to detract from the neighborhood. |

| 44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS | A good-sized lot which has rear parking, reached from the alley in the back. |

   The only alteration to this Craftsman bungalow appears to be the screening of the front porch.
The porch roof is formed by an extension of the gable roof, and there are square columns set on brick piers.
The wide, overhanging eaves have triangular knee brackets, and the unenclosed eaves on the gable front dormer have exposed rafters.
The windows are 6/1. Wood trim differentiates the first floor from the attic. The interior (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   A nice example of a little altered Craftsman bungalow, which retains its integrity of design, materials, setting, and scale, and therefore adds to the character of the neighborhood. Built in 1926 at a cost of $3500.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   A portion of this formerly large lot has been sold for the new construction to the right. The yard slopes up somewhat to the house.

The gable ends of the low-pitched roofs have vertical boards with curved end. A two-story porch is placed within the L formed by the two wings - it has simple wood square posts. There are doors on both porch levels, and a right side entry with a gable portico. There is an interior fireplace. Wall coverings are both asbestos shingle and vertical grooved paneling. There are two sash windows with sidelights; the others are 1/1.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
City water permits indicate service hook-up in 1952. It may be possible that the building is older, but in its current condition it is non-historic and non-contributing.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES The appearance of this Craftsman bungalow has been altered by the enclosure of the front porch and the addition of the siding. The porch roof was framed by the extension of the gable roof, and the tapering, square wood columns on brick piers are still evident. There is a shed roof, front dormer with a row of four windows. There are non-historic aluminum awnings and a set of exterior wooden stairs on the right to the upper (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE Although altered in appearance, the house still retains its integrity of scale and setting, and does have the potential for rehabilitation.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The house is located on a small, corner lot in the Prospect Heights subdivision, an area of modest, workingclass homes.

Further Description of Important Features

The wide, overhanging eaves on this Craftsman house are unenclosed and have exposed rafters and triangular knee brackets on the eave ends. The gable roof is extended in the front to cover the porch, which has massive brick columns. There is a gable front dormer, and two side bays. The wall treatment is stucco with decorative half timbers. The windows are 3/1, double-hung sash.

History and Significance

The house is a good example of a modest Craftsman residence, and retains its integrity of design, scale, mass, and setting. Prospect Heights subdivision was for the most part a neighborhood of simple, working-class homes, and this house adds to the character of the neighborhood.

Description of Environment and Outbuildings

A small lot with an alley to the rear.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES A modest Craftsman bungalow, with a lower gable front porch. The porch has square wood columns on brick piers. The wide, overhanging, unenclosed eaves have exposed rafters. The windows are 3/1, with wide surrounds and original storms. There is an interior fireplace.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE The house, though modest in scale, retains its integrity of design, materials, scale, and setting. For the most part, Prospect Heights was developed as a neighborhood of small, workingclass homes, and this house adds to the historic character of this neighborhood. The house was built in 1928 at a cost of $3500.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The lots in Prospect Heights are very small; there is an alley to the rear.

42. Further Description of Important Features

   The alterations to this bungalow, primarily the siding and the front porch, have removed the details which might further aid in categorizing it. It is possible that it had a Craftsman flavor, due to the wide, overhanging roof eaves and full front porch. Presently, the front porch is partially enclosed, and the supports are modern iron railings. The front door has 3 rectangular lights; some windows are 3/1, others 1/1.

43. History and Significance

   The house remains similar to others in the area in scale, but it has lost its integrity of design and materials. It may have the potential for rehabilitation.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings

   The small lot has a concrete drive on the left, leading to a rear carport attached to an outbuilding.

The alterations to this small cottage (possibly Queen Anne) have been so extensive as to leave few original design details. The hip-roof front porch has been enclosed and two large shed-roof side dormers are possibly later additions, as is the siding. The steeply pitched hip roof has a steep pitch gable wall dormer. The windows are 6/6, double-hung sash.

The house remains similar to the others in scale and setting, but has lost its integrity in materials and design. It still has the potential for rehabilitation.

The house has a larger, corner lot with a right gravel drive and a gable roof garage in the rear.

City water permits.

42. Further Description of Important Features
    A Colonial Revival house which is altered from its original appearance, primarily by the siding additions. The front has two front gables, and there are two side hip roof dormers. The windows on the first floor are paired, 6/6 double-jhung sash. The entry has a small flared gable portico, supported by brackets. A new wood deck with rails extends the full length of the front. There are two front entries.

43. History and Significance
    The house remains similar to the other in scale, but it has lost its integrity of materials. It may have the potential for rehabilitation.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings
    The house is set at an angle to the corner lot, making it more visible to the traffic coming to downtown Liberty on W. Liberty Drive. The yard slopes down to the left to a concrete parking pad.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

This Craftsman bungalow has an extended gable roof to cover the full-length front porch. The porch has tapering square wood columns set on brick piers. The wide, overhanging eaves of the main roof and the gable front dormer are unenclosed with the roof rafters exposed and decorative triangular knee brackets under the gables. The 3/1 windows are paired on the first floor, and are tripartate in the dormer.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

A very nice example of a Craftsman bungalow, in nearly original condition. The house is situated on the northeast corner of the district in a prominent corner lot. As such, it is one of the first houses seen coming west from downtown, and is significant for its location and the character it adds to the district.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

The house is on a very small corner lot. A wood privacy fence encloses the rear yard. A rear garage was built in 1948.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   A good example of a Prairie 4-square, known as a "Shirtwaist", primarily for the differing wall treatments on each floor. The first floor has brick cladding, the second has narrow calpboards, and the roof dormers have wood shingles. The wide overhanging eaves are also evident on the bellcast hip-roof dormers. The full length front porch has a gable roof, square brick columns, and brick rails. There is a central interior fireplace.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   The house is a good example of Shirtwaist style home, and it fits in with the north side of W. Franklin in scale, mass, details, and materials. It is in a prominent location at the northwest edge of the historic district. It was built for Dr. F.M. Derwaiter.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   The corner lot has a drive on the right with original concrete curbs and driveway material. A Prairie/Craftsman style garage is at the rear of the lot, with front gable roof with brackets.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
A very nice example of the Prairie style. The full-length, on-story front porch has square brick columns, brick rails with stone caps which extend to form a patio on the right. This, along with the glassed-in porch on the right gives the house an asymmetrical appearance, even though the main portion of the house is symmetrically arranged. The windows are typical Prairie, with multi-light sashes over a single pane. The attic dormer (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
Along with 222 W. Franklin, this house represents one of the higher-style examples of the Prairie style. The north side of the block of W. Franklin between Prairie and Morse streets contains some of the most prominent homes in this section of Liberty, and this house is certainly significant in this area.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The lot is very deep, reaching back to the rear alley. There are several old evergreens in the front yard. A right drive has its original concrete curbing and paving material, and leads to a rear, hipped-roof garage. The rear fencing is chain link.

Indicate the chief topographical features, such as streams and elevations. Also indicate houses and roads. Indicate the site location by enclosing the site area with dotted line. Note scale of map and portion of section included in sketch map. Include drawings, photographs, etc. on additional pages.

Notes: 42. (cont.) windows have colored art glass lights. The windows have stone lintels and sills. The hipped roof has wide, overhanging eaves, as does the hipped-roof dormers. The front porch sits on a raised limestone foundation. There are two fireplaces - a left exterior and a central interior. A rear, one-story porch has been enclosed with clapboards.
42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
The irregularly shaped roof line, wrap-around front porch, bay window, and asymmetrical facade are details common to the Queen Anne style. The second floor features tripartate windows with a wood fan over the center window, forming a Palladian motif. This, along with the gable-front returns and the round porch columns indicate free-classical detailing. On the right is a bay on the first story, and a dormer on the second. A (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
The free classic subtype of the Queen Anne style became common after 1890. The house is similar in setback, massing, detail, and scale to the other buildings on the block, and adds to the historic character of the neighborhood.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
This vernacular 4-square form of the Prairie style has wide, overhanging eaves on the hipped roof, dormer, bays, and main roof, emphasizing the horizontality of an otherwise boxy house. The windows are of varying shapes, ranging from 4/1 to 7/1. The front porch has square brick supports and brick piers and rails with stone caps. There is a one-story box bay on the left, as well as an exterior fireplace. A tripert grouping (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
The house lends character to the south side of W. Franklin, a group of homes less grand in scale than the north side, but representative of historic housing types nonetheless. The house has remained in the Yancey family since it was constructed.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The houses on this side of W. Franklin are set fairly close to the street. A drive on the left leads to parking in the rear.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   Originally a residence, the nursing home has retained enough integrity of design, setting, etc. to lend character to the historic district. There are many vernacular Prairie 4-squares on the south side of W. Franklin, and this remains a good representative of that building type. It was built by Pack Hansen, a local contractor who was active in this neighborhood.
44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   A 20' deep parking area is in the left portion of the front yard, and the right portion of the yard is gravel drive & parking. A new brick front walk leads to the entry. The yard is beginning to lose its historic character.

Richard L. Raymond Home, Campbell House

Richard L. Raymond was a leading early citizen of Liberty, and was active in many community projects, as well as a generous supporter of the Christian Church. Born in Kentucky in 1842, he moved to Clay County in 1856, and to Liberty in 1881. A farmer and stock raiser, he was one of three members of Liberty's Semi-Centennial Committee who lived to the Centennial Celebration. He moved to this house in 1909 from 232 W. Kansas, having built this on the back of the lot. He lived here until 1922, when it was sold to Everett & Mary Garth Campbell (daughter of Capt. Wm. Garth, another prominent Liberty citizen). Raymond's daughters built a still smaller home after 1922 further east on Franklin.

Large lot has gravel drive on left. There is no clear delineation between this lot and the left, as shown in a historical photo from 1922 (Clay County Missouri Centennial Souvenir 1822-1922).

Clay County Missouri Centennial Souvenir 1822-1922. Liberty Sun, Vol. 13, #52.
Notes: 42. (cont.) 1st story wall treatment (up to bottom of 2nd story windows), 2nd story stucco, and dormer treatment is clapboard. Center front inset dormer with hipped roof. Bracketed, hooded front entry, right bay, right central interior fireplace, and varying window treatments, including some with geometric patterns of small-pane glazing. Contrasting wood trim serves to delineate between the stories, and further emphasize the horizontality.

43. (cont.) In addition to being associated with some of Liberty's prominent early citizens, it is a high-style example of a Prairie house, as well as one of the earlier homes on West Franklin.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

This cross-gable roof house has wide, unenclosed eave overhangs with triangular knee braces on the eave ends. The windows vary in size and treatment, from 3/1 to a tripart grouping on the first floor which has a multi-paned transom. The full front porch has a front gable roof, square brick columns, and porch railings covered with aluminum siding. There is a small window bay on the left, a left exterior fireplace, and a central interior fireplace.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

In spite of the aluminum siding, the house still adds character to the historic neighborhood due to its mass, detailing, etc. It has the same set-back as the other house on the south side of this block of W. Franklin, which is fairly close to the road.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

A left drive with concrete curbing leads to a small rear garage.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
Modified from an early antebellum to an Italianate style residence, this house has the features typical to that style. The low-pitched hip roof has paired brackets under the wide, overhanging eaves. The tall, narrow windows are arched above, as is the opening for the second story door. The windows have been replaced with 6/6 rectangular panes; the arched opening above has been filled in with wood. A right bay tower has corner (cont).

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
Besides being one of the few examples of Italianate housing in Liberty, 242 W. Franklin is significant for its role in Liberty's history. Originally built by St. Clair Dimmitt between 1848 & 1856, the house underwent modifications by subsequent owners wishing to enlarge & update it. Richard Ringo, one of Liberty's early settlers and brother to Samuel Ringo, and Capt. Lewis B. Dougherty were among the owners. Capt. Dougherty was a pioneer banker who helped found the Liberty Savings Association (later the Commercial Bank of Liberty). The house remained with his family until 1946, when it served for four years as the residence of the President of William Jewell College. The present owners are working on the restoration of the house.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The corner lot has a low, stone wall on the street property lines. There is a right drive; the house sits close to the street. There is a gable roofed, brick outbuilding/kitchen with two fireplaces, arched window openings, and a diamond patterned vent in the rear elevation bricks.

Notes: 42. (cont.) brick detailing. A Craftsman style porch was removed by the present owners, revealing the elaborate front door surround, with square transom & sidelights, engaged columns, and entablature with dentil motif. Brick detailing emphasizes the division between the first & second floors. There is a two-story, shed roof addition in the rear. A front patio extends above grade to the right of the house, forming a low wall with a window to underground storage. The brick was painted at one time, and is in need of tuckpointing in some areas. The roof, soffit, & cornice at the front entry is currently under repair. There are two central interior fireplaces.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This Queen Anne cottage is characterized by a hipped roof with cross gables and shed roof additions. The small front porch wraps around a portion of the left side, and has square columns which may be replacement. There are paired brackets under the eaves, and the flared gable ends have boxed cornice returns. The 1/1 windows have entablatures above. There is an interior fireplace, and two rear additions - one is a glassed-in porch.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE A nice example of a late, modest Queen Anne cottage, the house adds to the historic character of the neighborhood. It also occupies a corner lot, and is a fairly prominent visual feature. In spite of some additions, it retains enough integrity of design, scale, material, and setting to make it a viable part of the historic district. The house has been owned by the Gilmer family for over 75 years.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS Located on a small corner lot, the house has no provisions for parking.

This cross-gable roof house has flared eaves and boxed cornice returns. The one-story full length front porch has a hipped, square wood columns with triangular cut-out detailing, and non-historic iron porch rails. The windows are 1/1, and there is a central fireplace. There are metal window awnings on the right, a rear, shed-roof addition, and a concrete handicap ramp leading to the front.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
Typical of a modest, vernacular home, such as might be promoted in residential pattern books in the early part of this century, this house is a part of the historic character of the neighborhood in spite of a few alterations.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
A very small lot with a retaining wall on the right. A graveled alley on the right leads to rear parking.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
This free-form and variable house has many features expressive of several styles. The large, gable front has cornice returns, stucco covering, and a bay windows. On the first story, there is a left oriel bay and a right bay with wood panelling. The rest of the first level has brick veneer. The front porch is inset on the right. The entry door is non-historic, with jalousie windows. The sidelights (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
Exact categorization and subsequent dating of this house is difficult due to the eclectic manner in which details were used. Further research would prove beneficial. The house retains many historic features, probably all original, and adds to the historic character of the neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The house sits up quite high from the road, with a flight of steps leading from the sidewalk. A stone retaining wall helps with some of the slope. The house is also much closer to the road than its neighbors on the left.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
A steeply pitched cross gambrel roof which contains almost a full second story of floor space under the roofs. The inset, full-front porch has square columns and round rails and frieze spindles (possibly a later addition). Contrasting wood timbers delineates the floors. A small bay window is located midway between the first and second floor on the right side. There is a central fireplace and a left one-story bay. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
A good example of the early form of Dutch Colonial Revival. Form about 1895 to 1915, the most common form was a front-facing gambrel roof, often with cross gambrels, such as this one. The house is also significant as part of the historic character of the neighborhood due to its setting, style, massing, and scale. It has the potential for restoration to its original form: the current owners note that the original shingle siding still exists under the asbestos siding, which was added in 1975. The garage was built around 1960.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The back yard has a tall picket fence. There is a rear deck and an attached garage, reached from the alley along the right property line.

A simple, 4-square plan to which Colonial Revival details have been added, such as the curved pedimented porch with round, classical columns set on brick piers. The front gable-roof dormer has boxed cornice returns and three windows arranged in somewhat of a Palladian motif. The side dormers have hipped roofs; all eaves are widely overhanging. The dormers have wood shingle wall treatments. There is a one-story bay on (cont.)

A nice example of the 4-square form of vernacular housing to which Colonial Revival details were adapted (most 4-squares in Liberty were Prairie influenced). The house is also significant for its contribution to the character of the historic neighborhood.

A simple, vernacular form of multi-family housing which features an eclectic mix of details. The full length two-story front porches with wide, overhanging porch eaves and massive, square brick columns have a Prairie/Craftsman feeling. The 1st floor porch eaves have triangular knee brackets. The flat-roofed building has an embattled and pedimented parapet. The windows are 4/1 on the front, 3/1 on the sides. The two (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

One of the few historic structures in the neighborhood built as an apartment, it is identical (except for minor alterations) to 347 W. Franklin on the right. Both were built in 1924 at a cost of $7500 apiece. In size, scale, detailing, and set-back, they fit in with the rest of the buildings, and add to the character of the neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

The house is on a small lot, and is set close to the street, as are the rest of the houses on the south side of W. Franklin.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES: Typical of high style Queen Anne houses, this residence has many devices which were used to avoid a flat-wall surface. The front gable with boxed returns has patterned shingles. On the right side, there is a one-story bay with a second story balcony porch above. The left side also has a one-story bay, which has bracketed eaves and spindlework railings above. The one-story wrap-around porch has elaborate Eastlake details, (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE: Although the asbestos siding does alter the appearance of the house, it still has a significant amount of original detailing. As part of a grouping of larger, prominent homes, the house matches in size, mass, set-back, and detailing with the historic character of the neighborhood. It represents the exuberance of the Queen Anne style.

45. SOURCES OF INFORMATION: City water permits.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   Although currently a rectangle in plan due to later additions, this is a typical example of a Prairie 4-square, as evidenced by the hipped roof with wide, overhanging eaves & full-length, one-story front porch with square columns. There is a hipped-roof front dormer and left interior fireplace. A box bay is on the left side and the two-story rear addition has a second story jetty. The windows are 1/1. The front door is on the left.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   A typical example of a Prairie 4-square, this house is also similar in scale, mass, detail, and set-back to the other houses in the historic neighborhood, and thus adds to the character of the district.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   A shared gravel driveway on the left has a brick pad at the street curb. There is a frame, clipped gable garage in the rear; a chain link fence encloses the back yard. The house is set fairly close to the street, as are the other houses on this side of the block.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
    Identified as Queen Anne due to the irregular roof form, wrap-around front porch, and bays which were used to avoid a smooth-walled surface, later alterations have modified its appearance. The porch columns are Craftsman, with square tapering supports set on stone piers. Under the left porch roof is a curved bay - the porch is curved on that in in response. There are two additional two-story bays on both sides.(cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE Although somewhat altered in appearance from its original Victorian appearance, the house is prominent due to its size, location, and distance set back from the street. Similar to the surrounding houses, it is an important part of the character of the historic neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The house is set back some distance from the road on this deep lot. A drive with historic curbing is on the left.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

The original portion of this house is typical Tudor, with a decorative chimney with two shafts on the front gable. The front gable is stucco with decorative half-timbering. The front facade is brick with stone quoins. The other elevations of the original are clapboard; the recent additions on the right are panelled. The addition has a lower gable roofline, and is set forward 4' from the original portion. The windows (cont.)

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
Larger than a 4-square, this vernacular residence has some Colonial Revival detailing, particularly in the front porch. The full-length, hip roof porch has a pediment over the entry, and is supported by simple, round classical columns. The central, hip roof dormer is clapboarded. The first floor windows on the sides have an arched double row of brick voussoirs. The windows are 2/2 and have stone sills. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
With relatively simple detailing, the house is a good example of a vernacular expression of the Colonial Revival style. As part of a small grouping of large, prominent houses set back from W. Franklin, the house adds to the historic character of the neighborhood. It has been in the McMurtrey family for over 80 years.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The house is set back from the road on this deep, wooded lot.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

The house has undergone many alterations, so as to disguise its original style. The front facing gable has boxed cornice returns, and the wrap-around front porch has simple classical columns. The second story cross gables are later additions, and are shingled. There is a rear one-story addition. It appears to be currently used for apartments, as there are currently three entrances on the right.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

Although altered, the house is similar in scale, mass, set-back, and some detail to the other houses in the historic neighborhood, and thus adds to the character of the district.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

A slightly irregularly shaped lot, whose entire back yard is taken up in parking, reached by a gravel drive on the right. There are several trees on this lot and the one to the left.

Liberty's finer residential streets, the structure is also significant for the character by a drive which leads to a gable-front, clapboard garage at the rear of the lot. Two very large, old firs flank the house in the front yard.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
Except for the siding, the house is a good, intact example of the Colonial Revival style, and is nearly identical to 444 W. Franklin. As part of one of Liberty's finer residential streets, the structure is also significant for the character it lends to the historic neighborhood. It was built for the Misses McKinleys in 1926 by Hank Simpson (a noted Liberty contractor who built many other homes in the area) for $6000. However, water permit record indicate hook-up on the same lot in 1910.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The medium size, square lot is bordered on the right by a drive which leads to a gable-front, clapboard garage at the rear of the lot. Two very large, old firs flank the house in the front yard.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES:
The alterations and additions to this non-descript house have covered up a possibly historic structure. The gable front entry bay has two turned pilasters (the only evidence of an older structure on the exterior). The current front porch has 4x4 post. A hipped-roof addition on the right is two-stories, the remainder of the structure is one story. There is a rear shed-roof addition, a central fireplace, and 1/1 windows.
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE:
Local residents believe there is a possibility that a portion of this house is quite old; there is a small bit of evidence that there was some sort of historic structure (the Victorian spindle posts), but efforts to the present have not revealed anything further. Its current visual character does not contribute to the character of the neighborhood, but further research is recommended. Early photos indicate a structure here from 1905–1912.
44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS:
A irregularly shaped lot which has its front boundary determined by a creek. The lot is very wooded, and the house is barely visible set back from the road. Parking is in the rear, reached by a rear alley.

Although altered in appearance by the Craftsman style stone porch foundation & piers, the highly irregular roofline, floor plan, and other devices used to avoid a smooth-walled surface definitively suggest the Queen Anne style. The front gable has boxed cornice returns; the cross gable roof is uneven, with the right side being lower. The are two bellcast hipped gable wall dormers which jetty over the first floor. A right cutaway (cont.)

In spite of its alterations, this house remains an interesting example of the many devices used in the Queen Anne style to avoid a regular, symmetrical appearance. The house is also similar in scale, mass, detail, and set-back to the other houses in the historic neighborhood, and thus adds to the character of the district. It has been in the B.P. Thompson family for over 80 years. The street address is out of order; it [442] is located between 416 & 428. Originally built for J. Dougherty in 1891 by prominent local contractor, John Will Hall.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
*A typical example of a side-gabled roof subtype of the Colonial Revival style, which is a simple two-story rectangular block. The symmetrically balanced facade has an accentuated front door, with a portico supported by fluted columns. The six-panel front door is surrounded with sidelights and a fanlight. A right exterior fireplace has quarter round attic windows on either side. On the right is a one-story, screened in porch, with (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
The house is a good, intact example of the Colonial Revival style, and is nearly identical to one across the street, 429 W. Franklin. As part of one of Liberty's finer residential streets, the structure is also significant for the character it lends to the historic neighborhood. Building permits indicate the structure was built for $5000 by T.P. Henson, a contractor who built many homes in the area.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The lot is large and irregularly shaped, with the northwest border formed by a creek. On the right is a gravel drive which curves to the rear attached garage. There is a carport also attached to the garage. The landscaping is modern.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE This house is significant as a pristine example of a Craftsman Bungalow. Most of the bungalows in the area are on West Kansas; this is one of only a few one-story residences on West Franklin, yet it lends definite character to the historic neighborhood.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This simple bungalow has few distinguishing details. The hipped-roof, one-story front porch has slender square porch columns and square rails. The paneled front door has 8 window lights. The replacement windows are now 1/1. The two exterior fireplaces (on both sides) have tall stacks. The front gable is slightly flared; the side gable has returns. The details, particularly on the porch, add a slight Neoclassical feeling to (cont.)
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE While lacking in architectural details found in higher-style bungalows, this is significant nonetheless as an example of a vernacular bungalow, and for the character it lends the historic neighborhood.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
A simple but intact example of a Craftsman bungalow with many nice details. The integrated front porch has paired square columns on shingled piers. The sides of the porch have wood trellises and crossed railings. The windows are 6/1 double-hung sash. The front gable has triangular knee braces under the wide eave overhang. There are two fireplaces – a right interior and a left exterior. On the right side is a small window bay (cont.).

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
This nearly intact example of a Craftsman Bungalow complements 500 West Franklin. They are one of only a few one-story residences on the street, but they both lend character to the historic neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The small lot has a left drive with an old concrete pad which lead to a garage on the right rear.

As one of several vernacular Prairie style homes on West Franklin, this residence is important for the character it lends to the historic neighborhood.

This common vernacular form of the Prairie style of house (also known as the Foursquare) has undergone some alterations, primarily in the siding and the replacement windows. The flat-roof, full width, one-story porch has simple round columns and square porch rails. The entry is off-center to the right. The slightly flared hipped roof has wide, overhanging eaves. There is a central, belcast hipped-roof dormer and an interior fireplace.

Except for the alterations, this house is nearly identical to 519 West Franklin next door, and was probably built by the same builder, H.B. Simpson, a noted local contractor who built many houses of this style in Liberty. It lends important character to the streetscape of the historic neighborhood.

The good-sized lot has a clapboard garage with open eaves and exposed rafters at the right rear. A large old tree is located on the left front corner.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
This house actually has design details common to both the Prairie and closely related Craftsman style, but is classified here as Prairie due to the sophistication of detailing and the emphasis on horizontality. The wall treatment on the first story is brick; on the second, wood shingles; the gable end has Tudor secondary influences with the false half-timbering and stucco treatment. The horizontality is further emphasized by (cont.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
The house is a nice example of the eclecticism of domestic suburban architecture, and adds character to the historic neighborhood. Built in 1908 for Dr. Henderson, it remained his residence for many years. In 1940, substantial repair was made to the roof costing $4000.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The long, narrow lot contains a garage on the right, behind the house, which is reached from the shared drive on the right. The front lot has two fairly large trees, and the concrete sidewalk leading to the front door is edged with brick

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
This common vernacular form of the Prairie style (also known as the Foursquare) has undergone alteration, primarily in the siding and porch railings. Early photos indicate that the one-story, full front porch had a central entry and wood balcony rails on the second story. Today the entry has been moved to the right side, and the balcony rails are wrought iron fencing (historic). The simple wood columns are original. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
The Presbyterian Manse was built in 1908 for Hugh P. McClintic, pastor of the Church, by funds provided for in Mary Elizabeth Dorsey's will. The will provided each of Liberty's four Protestant Churches with $6000.00 for a home for their pastors. This was the only one to be built west of the square, and was built by Hank Simpson, who was said to have built several others in the same style, "solid, square, spacious). Several Liberty couples remember being married by the living room fireplace. It was purchased in 1961 by the Walleys, publishers of the Liberty Sun.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
A driveway on the right leads to a garage with a jerkinhead gable roof and wood sliding doors, built sometime after 1914. A 8" tall redwood fence separates the property on the right, with chain link around the back yard. Next to the sidewalk are remnants of old iron fencing (not original to the site).

<td>A good example of a vernacular housing form influenced by the neighboring higher style homes, 526 W. Franklin retains its stylistic additions which enhance its basic simplicity. Located on a prestigious residential street, it adds character to the historic neighborhood. It has remained in the ownership of the same family since it was built.</td>

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   - This eclectic house features many characteristics of the Prairie style, such as square brick porch piers, contrasting stone caps on the porch rail, and contrasting wood-panel porch frieze, and widely overhanging roof eaves (all emphasizing horizontality). Other interesting details which are not common to the Prairie style are the large, center front gambrel dormer which features narrow clapboards, shingled gable ends, (cont.)
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   - The house was built for an E.P. White by a Mr. Tomlinson, a hardware store owner who built a least one other prominent brick home, the Fence Place (302 W. Kansas) at approximately the turn of the century. It was one of the first houses built on the east end of W. Franklin, next to the Liberty Ladies' College. As the eastern terminus to the historic neighborhood, it is very significant to the character of the district.
44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   - The long lot contains old cedars on the right property line, and a large street tree. The driveway is entered from Fairview, and has a stone retaining wall which leads to the garage beneath the house. A picket fence surrounds the rear lot.

This hip roof house has a lower rear hip roof extension, a right screened-in porch, a left enclosed porch. The windows are 2/2. The hip roof front entry porch has decorative iron porch supports. There are two front doors.

Although undoubtedly a simple expression of vernacular housing, the house has lost its character through subsequent alterations. It possibly was built as an early duplex.

The large, odd-shaped lot has a right gravel drive which leads to a rear, gable roof garage.

A vernacular expression of the 4-square with Queen Anne spindlework porch supports and pilasters on the shed-roof front porch. The steeply pitched hip roof has flared eaves. There is a front, hip roof dormer. A rear shed roof addition and the asbestos siding are the major alterations.

An early example of the 4-square, which became a popular vernacular housing type at the beginning of the 20th century. The house is purported to have been built by the sons of Bill & Mary Slaughter, the only black family to have lived in this section of Liberty.

43. History and Significance
   A notable, high-style Prairie home, it is significant as a nearly pristine example of the style. It is in a highly visible location, and adds greatly to the character of the neighborhood. It was built in 1913 by Jack Mosby, grandson of Nicholas Mosby, who came to Clay County in the 1820's. The Bruening's are a prominent local family in the nursery business.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings
   Located on an odd-shaped corner lot at the stoplight intersection of Mill, Harrison, and S. Terrace Av. A rear, hip roof garage has an asphalt drive off of S. Terrace. The yard has been heavily landscaped.

The floor plan is a modified "H" with two large wings on each end, and a smaller center wing extending to the rear. The walls are common bond brick, with stonework used as ornament around windows, doors, and on the roof parapets. The west & north elevations are the most heavily decorated, with the windows having stone sills, lintels, and quoins. The south windows have stone lintels and sills, and the rear have only a (cont.)

History and Significance:
The Administration Building is significant in architecture as a good example of the Jacobethan Revival style. William B. Ittner, one of the architects, is especially noted for his work in this style, most particularly in the many schools he designed for the St. Louis, Mo. school system. It is also significant in the social/humanitarian area as the first structure built for the state complex of the Missouri Independent Order of Odd Fellows. The Odd Fellows is a fraternal and benevolent order whose chief purpose is to give aid, assistance, and comfort to its members and their families. The state Odd Fellows Home was established for the care and maintenance of members of the Order who were unable to earn a livelihood by reasons of age or (cont.)

Description of Environment and Outbuildings:
The Administration Building is part of a 4 building, 36 acre district. The grounds are terraced west from the buildings down to a creek. Walkways connect the buildings, and a circle drive leads from Mo. Hwy. 291. There are 4 related outbuildings.

42. (cont.) Stone sill. The windows are the original 2½ double-hung sash. The steep sided gable roofs have several gable wall dormers on the south, west and north; the east has gable roof dormers. On three sides, the dormers and gable ends are parapeted, with the gable ends having pommel decorations. The west entry has a 2½ story projecting gable bay, flanked by a pair of tall chimney stacks. The stone arched entry is partially obscured by an aluminum awning; the original doors have been replaced with plate glass. The front entry has two stone decorative panels. The is a one-story, five bay porch with square brick columns and low-pitched triangular arches along the north, added in 1913. A simple 1½ story porch, apparently original, on the south covers four bays and is in deteriorating condition.

43. (cont.) Affliction, those who were indigent, and for the wives and orphans of members. In 1895, the Winner Hotel and 12 acres was purched by the Odd Fellows, along with an option on 230 additional. The frame structure burned in 1900, and the Administration Building was built to house the elderly, orphans, classrooms, and offices. It quickly became too crowded, and additional buildings were soon built. In its heyday in the 1930's, there were over 300 residents.

The Nursing Home is a non-historic, non-contributing building to the historic Odd Fellows' Home district. It was built on the site of the School Building, which was built in 1904, and used until the late 1940's. The Independent Order of Odd Fellows' is a fraternal and benevolent organization dedicated to the aid and care of its members.

The portion built in 1955 had a cruciform plan, is two stories, and had stone window sills and a stone band in an attempt to blend somewhat with the other historic buildings in the district. The one-story, 1978 addition to the rear is brick.

The Nursing Home is part of a four building, 36 acre district. The grounds are terraced west from the buildings down to a creek. Walkways connect the buildings, and a circle drive leads from Mo. Hwy. 291. There are four related outbuildings.

42. (cont.) elaborate. Between two large square brick columns, there is an arched stone entry containing many symbols of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Above that are two simple Doric columns supporting a stone tableau with the words "Odd Fellows Home". On the south, a two story porch extends five bays with square brick columns and triangular arches on the second level. Both wings also have similar in the rear which have been enclosed. All three porches were added in 1912-1913. The left entry has a small, one story porch executed in the same style. At the time the porches were constructed, all three wings were enlarged.

43. (cont.) was built in 1907 in response to the growing number of elderly applicants. At one time, the building also served as the hospital. In its heyday in the 1930's, the complex had over 300 residents.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE This house is significant not only as one of the few early, higher-style craftsman bungalows in the neighborhood, but also for its location as the cornerstone of the residential area. It is currently used as a business, and is for sale. Next to one of the few antebellum homes in the area, it is critical for the character it lends to the neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The bungalow is located on a larger corner lot. The lot contains some old trees, and there is a detached garage at the left rear. Across Prairie Street to the east is a commercial building (non-historic).

This residence has many intact features of the Dutch Colonial Revival style, including the side gambrel roof with a continuous shed-roof dormer across the front, front door accentuated with decorative crown pediment and surrounded by side & transom lights, a symmetrical facade with first floor windows in adjacent pairs, and 6/1 double-hung sash windows. Alterations include the asbestos siding and wrought iron porch supports.

Originally part of the Garth property across the street (218 W. Kansas), many stories relate that this house used to be the Garth's barn. Interviews with elderly residents, city records, and stylistic details place the date of construction squarely in the 1920's as a representative example of the Dutch Colonial Revival style and not as a moved barn. However, the building is a good example of its style, and lends character to the historic neighborhood.

This long narrow lot finds the house situated close to the road, the same distance as its neighbors. Parking is in the rear, entered from an alley off of Prairie.

The Garth House was built in 1857 by Frank Cockrell, a Virginia brickmaker, who burned the bricks for the house on the grounds. Originally part of a farm complex on the western edge of Liberty, the house and land was bought by Capt. William G. Garth in 1859, and remained in the family for 62 years. William Garth was a Mexican War veteran by the time he was 15 years old and went west in the California gold rush. He came to Liberty in 1856, and became a prominent livestock dealer. During the Civil War, he helped form the Liberty Home Guards and earned the title of Captain. After the war, he returned to managing his farms, and also served as a state representative. His father was very prominent in Missouri's history. With two other men and $3000. (cont.)

This brick I-house with vestial Georgian details has had many alterations and additions over the years, including an elaborate two-story, wrap-around turned spindle front porch. Of that porch, only the two-story front entry bay and one story on the right side remains. The gable ends and the pedimented portico feature square shingles arranged in a diamond pattern. The cornice on the gable ends is emphasized with (cont.)

The largest lot on West Kansas is the remains of the Garth complex, which once included both sides of the street. A small wood shingled outbuilding is located on the right rear of the lot, and a newer, aluminum sided garage is on the left rear. One large street tree and old pine remain.

- Alterations include the addition of aluminum siding, the enclosure of the front porch, and the replacement windows. Alterations have somewhat changed the appearance of this craftsman bungalow, but some original details still remain. The enclosed front porch has brick piers. A brick exterior fireplace has two stacks with clay pipes. There is a box bay on the right side, and a front gable dormer.

History and Significance

This bungalow is among several in the West Kansas neighborhood and Prospect Heights subdivision built by Mr. Hauson, and is representative of the local builder and its time. As part of the historic district, it is a contributing building. The 1½ story, 5-room bungalow was completed in 1925 at an estimated cost of $4000.

Description of Environment and Outbuildings

The bungalow is on a long, narrow lot, with approximately the same setback as those on the rest of the southside of the block. There is a large, old spruce tree which blocks the view of the buildings to the east.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE Richard L. Raymond was a leading early citizen of Liberty, and was active in many community projects. Born in Kentucky in 1842, he moved to Clay County in 1856, and to Liberty in 1881. A farmer and stock raiser, he was one of three members of Liberty's Semi-Centennial Committee who lived to the Centennial. He lived in this house with his three daughters until 1909, when he built a more "modern" house on the back of the lot (235 W. Franklin). He was known as a generous supporter of the Christian Church.

In addition to its connections with the Raymonds, the house is significant as one of the earlier prominent homes on W. Kansas, and for the architectural details described above.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The house is located on a large, wooded lot, and is set-back from the road further than its neighbors on either side. One-story, gable front garage is attached to the house on the right by a passageway.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
This Prairie style house (also known locally as the Shirtwaist style, primarily for its contrasting wall treatments on each floor and boxy shape) has nearly original identifying features. The wide overhanging eaves of the roof and the porch are typical of the Prairie style, as are the massive brick porch supports. In spite of its upright, boxy shape, the building's horizontality is further emphasized by the separate (cont)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
The house is a nearly pristine example of the regional adaptation of the Prairie style into the vernacular "Shirtwaist". Located on a prominent street leading into Liberty's square, the house is also significant for the character it lends to the historic neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The long, narrow, treeless lot features a curved front walk. There is a one-story, gable front, clapboard garage at the rear of the lot.

Notes: 42. (cont.) style porch has a hipped roof and massive tapering square columns. Also not original are two shed-roof front dormers and a rear addition. The corners of the house are elaborately decorated with wood cut-out detailing. The front door also has an elaborate door surround, with side and transom lights. There is a left interior fireplace.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This vernacular form of National housing types features a one-story shed-roof porch place within the L formed by the two cross wings. The porch detailing, slender square columns and rails, have a slight Neoclassical feeling. The paired 6/1, double-hung sash windows are also suggestive of a Classical Revival type. There is a left exterior fireplace and a rear addition.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE The house is a modest, vernacular example of a typical housing type, and reveals how often "higher style" districts were often infilled with a more simpler style of architecture.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The house is set closer to the street than the surrounding houses. The narrow lot shares a gravel drive with the house on the left, and features mature trees and a curved front walk.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
This 4-square house contains many features of the Prairies style, such as the low-pitched roof with widely overhanging eaves, a single story front porch, a horizontal row of dormer windows. The porch has square paneled columns on brick bases. There is a second story bay on the front right, a first story bay on the left, and a box bay on the right between the first and second floors. There is a second story jetty on the right. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
Coleman Younger (uncle of the Younger in the James Gang) owned the lot in 1849, which was later purchased the house by William H. Thomason in 1907, the sheriff of Clay County who tried to track down the James Gang. He built the house that year, and in 1908, Mrs. Gray, principal for many years at Franklin School, moved in. The house is also an excellent example of a higher style Prairie 4-square, and lends important character to the historic neighborhood. It is prominent in its location at the corner of W. Kansas and Harrison. (cont.)

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The large wooded, irregularly shaped lot has a garage/carriage house at the rear of the lot (reached from Harrison). The carriage house is in a Dutch Colonial Revival style, with a gambrel roof, dormer dormer, clapboard siding, and stone foundation. An old fence marks the back property line, and there (cont.)

Recent replacement windows. *As one of the few masonry Queen Anne residences, it has comparatively little wooden detailing (although there is some evident in the porch and the gable ends). White stone lintels and sills around the windows contrast with the red brick. The gable ends are decorated with wood shingles; the recessed attic windows have Eastlake detailing. The right, wrap-around front (over)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

The Pence Place is believed to be located on the site where the Presbyterian Church of Liberty was founded in 1829. The church was said to be situated "in a grove of trees", and some feel the two ancient pines which predate the house are remnants of the original pine grove. A local resident recalls that the hardware store proprietor, a Mr. Tomlinson, was the contractor for both this house and another exceptional brick house in the neighborhood, 528 W. Franklin.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

The house sits in a prominent location on a large lot at the corner of W. Kansas and Morse. There are two large old pines (see above). At the rear (north) are brick remnants of the original fruit or root cellar. Also to the rear is a new garage, with a modern, wooden pergola connecting the house to the garage.

Description of Location

This modest, antebellum residence was one of the first homes west of the square in Liberty, and was built for Dr. William Dougherty, a physician and surgeon significant in Liberty’s and Missouri’s history. In addition to establishing a large medical practice in Liberty, he served as both city councilman and mayor of the city. He was one of the organizing members of Liberty’s Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1878, he was elected to the Missouri State legislature. Dougherty introduced a bill to establish the State Board of Health and worked on bills authorizing benevolent insurance companies in Missouri. He helped organize, and was later president of the Kansas City District Medical Society. Although his home has been modified over the years, it (cont.)

Description of Location

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
The attic 1/2-story prevent it from being a true example of a bungalow, and the narrow lot dictates few long extensions typical of a true Prairie style house. A variety of eave forms give the house a picturesque appeal - from the side she-roof dormers, steep pitched front gable, and low pitched front porch gable extension with boxed returns. The full-length veranda front porch has corner brick columns and square, wooden entry (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
The house is a good example of the eclectic mixture of styles which were prevalent in residential pattern books available during the first part of this century. It lends character to the group of "workingman's" homes found on West Kansas Street.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The house sits on two very small lots, and the rear property line is a small creek.

42. Aluminum siding is the only major alteration. This simple Craftsman bungalow has a full front, hipped-roof porch with square brick columns. The porch rails are also brick with a concrete cap, and lower vent openings. The roof overhang has enclosed rafters and open eaves. There are two fireplaces - a central, rear and a left, exterior. The windows are 3/1, double-hung. The box bay on the left has a metal awning.

43. A typical example of the many Craftsman bungalows in Liberty, and one of several built by L.W. McConnell, this house lends character to the existing neighborhood and is a contributing building. It was completed in 1926 for a cost of $5400.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

This gable-front bungalow is nearly identical to the one next door, 324 W. Kansas. The main roof extends over the full front porch, which has square columns, stuccoed porch rails, and a segmental arch. The roof has wide-overhanging eaves with two triangular knee braces, common to Craftsman house, in the gable end. A decorative, wooden diamond cut-out is attached to the porch rails and the front gable end (cont.).

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

One of two nearly identical bungalows built by Ray Henley in 1924 for $5000.00, the builder nonetheless put slightly different details in the two spec houses. Both bungalows are in excellent shape, add character to the streetscape, and are contributing buildings to the historic district.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

Built on an extremely small lot, the bungalow has a rear garage shared with 324 W. Kansas (the garage straddles the two property lines). The garage is entered from the alley which runs along the right (east) property line.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This house has undergone so many alterations and additions so as to obscure its original style, which was probably the vernacular National style, gable-front-and-wing subtype (with the original front porch having been enclosed). There are two gable roof wall dormers on the left, and a shed roof dormer on the front with three small casement windows. There is a left interior fireplace. 43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE Although altered over the years, the house has potential for renovation. It fits in the historic neighborhood by virtue of its mass, scale, and set-back from the street.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS Set close to W. Kansas (as are the other houses in this block) on two small lots, the house has a line of old shrubs. The rear of the lot is defined by a small creek.

| 42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES | 36. Only apparent exterior alterations are the aluminum storm windows & door and the iron porch railings. *This gable-front bungalow is nearly identical to the one next door, 320 W. Kansas. The main roof extends over the full front porch, which has square columns and semi-elliptical arches. The roof has wide-overhanging eaves with the triangular knee braces common to Craftsman houses in the gable end. (over) |

| 43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE | One of two nearly identical bungalows built by Ray Henley in 1924 for $5000.00, the builder nonetheless put slightly different details in the two spec houses. Both bungalows are in excellent shape, add character to the streetscape, and are contributing buildings to the historic district. |

| 44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS | Built on an extremely small lot, the bungalow has a concrete drive on the right which leads to a garage shared with 320 W. Kansas (the garage straddles the two property lines). |

   There have been two additions - one to the rear and another on the left side. The replacement siding is the most noticeable alteration, especially out-of-scale on this small of a cottage. In spite of alterations, there are many details left on this modest, Queen Anne cottage. The front-gable end has boxed, cornice returns, as well as three different types of wood shingles in wide bands. The front (over)

| 41. OTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES | This very modest Craftsman bungalow nonetheless has a few distinguishing details, such as trapezoidal brackets under the rake roof edge. The front shed-roof dormer has exposed rafter tails and paired windows. The set-in left front porch has a square, tapered porch column. The side gabled roof has wide, unenclosed eave overhangs. |

| 42. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE | While being a very modest home, the bungalow represents a housing type available to the working class. As part of a section of vernacular historic homes on W. Kansas, it lends character to the neighborhood. |

| 43. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS | The large, corner lot has a drive on the right side with a stone retaining wall. The rear property line is defined by a small creek. |

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   Although modest in scale, this house can be considered Queen Anne (rather than the vernacular "Folk Victorian") due to its varied and irregular rooflines, all steeply pitched, and irregular floor plan. The boxed cornice has paired brackets at the corner eaves. The front cross-hipped portion has paired, tall narrow windows with non-historic shutters (too short). All windows have projecting entablatures in the window surrounds. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   The house is an excellent example of a small Queen Anne residence. Its scale, mass, and detail lend character to the historic neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   The small, treeless lot has an alley on the right which provides access to parking and an outbuilding in the rear.

Notes: 42. (cont.) There are two fireplaces - a left exterior and right interior. There is a shed-roof addition in the rear. The house was completely remodeled 3½ years ago by the present owners. At that time, a shed-roofed front porch with half a pediment over the entry was removed, leaving a patio area with square railing today. The front door, now visible on the right side of the projecting portion of the house, has a rectangular transom.

   This bungalow has a 3/4's width, hipped-roof porch with stone rails extending the full length of the front. The tapered square wooden porch columns are set on stone piers. The entry door has square sidelights. The right front was formerly part of the porch, and today is enclosed with windows. The roof has wide, overhanging eaves. There is a rear, shed-roofed addition.

43. History and Significance
   Although somewhat altered, the house is still important for the character it lends to the row of modest, workingclass historic homes on W. Kansas.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings
   The house is partially obscured by a large evergreen in the front yard. A drive is shared on the left.

The wide, overhanging eave of this truncated hip-roof structure has a boxed cornice, plain frieze band, and paired brackets. The tall, narrow windows are 1/1, and are paired or single with entablature surrounds. The two interior fireplaces have flared, masonry caps. There is a right, one-story box bay and additions on the sides. Aluminum awnings cover the left side windows.

This is actually a transitional house, which is generally Italianate in nature, but has some French and other influences. The higher pitch roof indicates a later construction date than most Italianate buildings. A 1905 photograph shows this structure on W. Kansas.

The large lot is at the end of S. Terrace Av. There are large, mature trees, and a rear clapboard garage.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES A typical Cape Cod cottage, with steep pitched roof, two oversized dormers on the front, and symmetrical facade. The roof is actually half-gable, half gambrel (on the rear). The rear dormer is shed-roofed and extends across the full-length, effectively making the attic into a second floor. There is a flat roof, rear addition, and a metal awning portico with iron rails over the front entry. The windows are 6/6.
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE A good example of a Cape Cod cottage, which is the most common interpretation of a one-story Colonial Revival house. As a form, it originated in the early 18th century and continued with few changes through the 1950's. The house adds character to the historic neighborhood.

| This plain vernacular house derives its form from the massed plan National houses. It has replacement 2/2 windows. The front door is set off to the right, and has a hipped roof portico with iron porch supports. |

| 43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE |
| Although lacking in historic character, the house is similar in mass, scale, and setback to the remaining historic houses in the neighborhood. |

| 44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS |
| The lot slopes steeply from the alley on the right property line to the left. A curved, stepped walk leads up to the house, which site on a high foundation. Parking is in the front yard on a gravel pad. |

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES Although modest in size, the house is exuberant in its Craftsman detailing. There is a variety of wall treatments - wood shingles on the first floor, stucco in the gable ends, and false timbering in both areas. The wide, overhanging eaves have exposed rafters and triangular knox braces. There is a variety of window shapes and groupings; many are tripartate with many panes. The front porch is inset under the front gable. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE Besides being an excellent example of a Craftsman bungalow, the house is significant as the former home of Elder Fred V. Loos, also known as the "Parson" and the "Shepherd of the Hills of Clay County". He first came to Liberty in 1891, and served as the pastor of the Liberty Christian Church until 1898. Then he served as minister of Mt. Olivet, Mt. Gilead and Smithville. He was much in demand as a speaker around the state, and was known for his civic and community activities. He served as Probation officer, Superintendent of County Welfare Office, School Truancy officer, and Superintendent of the County Farm. As a humanitarian, he would meet the freight trains with food for the hobos. It is said he performed over 6200 marriages and wrote (cont.)

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The house sits on a terraced lawn very high off the road, with many steps leading up to it. It is barely visible from the road due to all the mature evergreen trees (which are said to be planted by his son, Carter "Cub" Loos, who brought them as saplings from Colorado).

Notes: 42. (cont.) There is a central interior fireplace.

43. (cont.) 700 obituaries, and his colorful stories made him beloved to his parishioners. At his death in 1930, the judges closed the county offices in recognition for all his contributions to Clay County.

THIS IS PROBABLY THE ONE MOST IMPORTANT PART OF THIS DATA FORM!

Please Attach a copy of a topographic map with the site marked on it.
42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This later example of Tudor style has multiple gables and wall treatments. The brick entry has decorative, scattered rough cut stones and a lower, projecting gable. The front hexagonal attic window is multi-paned. The right, screened porch has a split lower gable roof. There are shed-roofed rear dormers and a central interior fireplace. A recent fire destroyed the interior, which was rebuilt in 1986.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE Although the interior is no longer original, the house is a good example of a popular residential style during the 1920's and '30's. It adds to the character of this section of the historic neighborhood. It was built in 1936 for Mr. White by Pack Hauson, a contractor who built other homes in the neighborhood, for $3000.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The large lot has a drive on the right with no garage. Fairly mature trees are in the back yard, which is enclosed with a chain link fence.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES The appearance of this Craftsman style house has been drastically altered by the raising of the dormer roof, giving a top-heavy appearance to the house. Underneath the dormer gable, the new addition is board & batten, while the remainder of the house has been stuccoed. There are three 3/3 dormer windows; the first floor windows are 4/1. The house has wide, overhanging eaves with triangular knee braces under the eaves. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE Although altered and not a true representative of the Craftsman style, the house nonetheless fits in with the historic neighborhood due to its mass, most of its detailing, and set-back.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS Parking is reached from Moss Street on this corner lot, which has a large evergreen tree in the front.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

This vernacular example of the Prairie style features a low-pitched hipped roof with widely overhanging eaves, 4/1 windows, a full two-story porch with square, clapboarded columns and a porch door on the second floor. The clapboards are narrower on the second floor, distinguishing the two levels. The front porch on the first floor has been partially enclosed with jalousie windows and screens. There are two-story bays on both sides.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

The house is similar in its vernacular expression of the Prairie style to the 4-square, and adds character to this section of the historic neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

The small lot has a drive on the left leading to a hipped-roof, wood shingled garage at the rear.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   This is a true bungalow due to its small size, simplistic detail, and full front porch enclosed under the main roofline. A hipped-roof dormer has wide, overhanging eaves with exposed rafters, as does the main roof. The porch has square columns and clapboarded rails. There are bays on each side. A rear porch has been enclosed, and the windows replaced (except for the multi-paned dormer window).
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   Although small in scale and simple in detail, the bungalow is representative of a workingclass housing type, and adds character to the historic district. The rear porch was enclosed in 1949, and the garage lengthened.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   The corner lot has large trees and a low stone retaining wall.

Further Description of Important Features

This vernacular example of a multi-family residence has an eclectic mixture of features. The front gable has boxed cornice returns, and the lower cross gable has curved returns. The windows are 12/1, double-hung sash, and the paneled front door with four lights has a decorative surround. The full-length Craftsman influenced front porch has massive stone columns and rails which extend on the right to form a patio. There are two stone...

History and Significance

In spite of being one of the few multi-family structures in the district, the building fits in with the historic neighborhood in scale, mass, detail and set-back.

Description of Environment and Outbuildings

The house sits on a very large lot (originally platted as two lots). An alley on the right leads to the gable roof, clapboard garage.

42. Further Description of Important Features

An early Tudor example with stucco wall cladding, with brick on the lower portion and acting as corner quions. The front entry is emphasized with brick detailing and a lower projecting gable. Decorative false timbering is under the rake edge of the eaves. There are two fireplaces - a central interior and right exterior. One window has been replaced with a single large sheet of plate glass; the other windows are 6/1. (cont.)

43. History and Significance

An example of a relatively small percentage of Tudor homes which have stucco walls. These were common on the modest examples built before the 1920's. In the early part of this century, wood-frame houses could most easily be disguised by applying stucco cladding. While adding to the character of the historic neighborhood, the house is also significant in relation to the other later Tudor homes in Liberty.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings

The house sits on a yard which slopes up from the street. The drive on the left leads to a rear, front gable, stucco garage. An alley is on the right property line.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   This eclectic house combines stylistic features from different periods. The paired, slender round porch columns on brick piers, the curved front gable returns, and leaded glass windows are typical of the free-classic Queen Anne style. The widely overhanging eaves, 5/1 windows, and more regular roofline are found in the Craftsman style. There is a right, hipped-roof wall dormer. The former wrap-around porch has been enclosed (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   The house is an example of the free eclecticism found in residential housing at the turn of the century. This was in part due to the freedom with which architectural pattern books mixed detailing. Although the front porch was partially enclosed in 1966 and it has been divided into apartments, it still adds character to the historic neighborhood by virtue of its scale, mass, and detailing.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   An alley along the left property line leads to parking in the rear. The house sits high from the road; there is a stone retaining wall along the sidewalk.

FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES:
Typical of the Colonial Revival style are the following features: accentuated front door with pedimented portico with curved underside, extended forward and supported with slender columns to form entry porch; entry door with arched fanlight and sidelights; symmetrically balanced facade with 6/6 double-hung sash windows. A one-story right side porch has been enclosed. There is a right side and a left interior fireplace.

HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE:
A good example of a style popular in this country for over 75 years, this house lends character to the historic neighborhood. The house was originally built with a wood shingle roof by Burton Maltby for $8500.

DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS:
Several mature trees are on this lot which is entirely enclosed by a chain link fence. A left drive leads to a garage in the rear.

For its size, a very elaborate Craftsman home, noteworthy for its fine detailing. The wrap-around front porch has corner stone columns and paired square columns on stone piers in the interior. The porch frieze has false timbering and flat brackets. The main gable roof is interrupted by several gables, which are shingled on the gable end. The front gable has vertical board & batten in the gable end. There are two, right (cont.)

An exceptionally detailed representative of the Craftsman style, this house is also significant for its prominent location at the edge of the historic district on the corner of W. Kansas and Fairview. Driving east into the square on the one-way W. Kansas, this house is the first one you notice coming over the hill. It was originally built for the Norton family. Dr. Smith lived in it after WWII, and Charles & Sara Yancey divided it into apartments prior to that war.

The small corner lot has a rear garage with driveway entrance from Fairview. Headstones from a graveyard located just south of the house have been found in the yard. There is a stone retaining wall in the front along the sidewalk.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES A front porch is inset under the hip roof. Windows are 1/1 and have stone sills. A right side door has been bricked up, and there are concrete additions to the left and rear. The front porch has square columns and flat pilasters. There is an interior fireplace. The wide, overhanging, unenclosed roof eaves have exposed rafters.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE After the opening of the A.S.B. Bridge across the Missouri River, the Kansas City, Clay County and St. Joseph Electric Railroad began scheduled operations. One line went between Kansas City and Excelsior Springs, stopping in Liberty. This opened transit between K.C. and Liberty, which brought greater communications and more residents and had a profound influence on the community. Service began in 1913, and ceased operation in 1933 after the building of public highways. This was one of two stops in Liberty; the other was at William Jewell College. The building is currently used by Missouri Public Service for storage.

This cross-gable house has boxed cornices and returns. The full-length, one-story front porch has an extended gable-front roof with square brick columns. The first story is stone-faced concrete block, and the second is narrow clapboards. The windows have been replaced with 1/1 sashes, and there is a rear addition. The house is beginning to suffer from neglect.

This vernacular example of the Prairie style adds to the historic character of the district. This portion of S. Leonard contains large homes set back from the street, and 121 S. Leonard matches in scale and setback to the others.

A large, deep lot which is bordered on the left by the railroad; just beyond that is the edge of the downtown commercial district. There are several mature trees located near the house.

A five-ranked Italianate house with a full-height, hipped roof portico. The porch columns are slender, square wood with arched brackets on the first level, and historic iron railings on the second story. There are doors on both levels of the porch. They have pilastered surrounds with an arched pediment, and curved-end side and transom lights. The 4/4, tall, narrow windows also have arched pediments, as well as bracketed sills. (con.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
An excellent example of the Italianate style, one of the few remaining in Liberty. The house retains much of its integrity of design, materials, scale, and setting. The house is also significant for its association with Darius Gittings, a Clay county pioneer who built the home in 1868. Gittings was an early mill owner and banker, and at one time served as sheriff of Clay County.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The house sits up from the road on a very large lot. Parking is in the rear from a back alley. This portion of S. Leonard has fine, large homes set back from the road. A one-story, historic brick kitchen is directly behind the house.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
An early, symmetrical example, reflected in the Prairie/Craftsman influence in the porch. The steeply pitch hip roof has a center front gable, with stucco and vertical, decorative half-timbering in the gable end and under the main roof eave. The full length front porch has square brick columns with brackets and arches. The brick railing curves around the right to form a patio, which is connected to a right side porch. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
An important early example of the Tudor style. Early examples were symmetrical, such as this, and often showed the influence of the then more popular Craftsman and Prairie styles. The house was built in 1908 by Edward S. Hunt, a banker who moved to Liberty from Hardin, Mo. It was bought by Joseph W. Clarke in 1919.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The house is sited on a prominent corner lot, and is highly visible coming into downtown Liberty. The large lot has a gravel parking lot in the rear.

45. SOURCES OF INFORMATION Clay County Missouri Centennial Souvenir, 1922

Indicate the chief topographical features, such as streams and elevations. Also indicate houses and roads. Indicate the site location by enclosing the site area with dotted line. Note scale of map and portion of section included in sketch map. Include drawings, photographs, etc. on additional pages.

Indicate part of section included in sketch map.

Notes: 42. (cont.) The windows are 6/1, double-hung sash, and have stone sills. The front door has panelled and glass sidelights. There are hipped roof dormers on both sides, and a rear addition. The two fireplaces have masonry bands and caps. A second story bay is bracketed, as is the attic story jetty.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

The quality and level of detailing separate this Prairie style house from the similarly shaped vernacular versions, the 4-squares. The wrap front porch curves around the left side of the house. The porch columns are square brick. The windows are 3/1, and have stone sills (some with stone lintels.) The wide, overhanging roof has boxed cornices and gable end returns. The original tile roof has finial decorations.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

A very nice example of a high-style Prairie home in nearly original condition. The house retains its integrity of design, materials, scale, and setting. The portion of S. Leonard from Mill to Arthur Street contained many fine, larger homes on the east side. This house, situated on the west where smaller homes were built, is more in scale with those across the street.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

The house sits close to the street on this corner lot. A right drive leads to a rear, gable-roof garage.

| 42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES | For its size, a very elaborate example of the free-classic subtype of the Queen Anne style, characterized by its irregular roofline and surface treatment, and classical detailing. The gable ends have boxed cornice returns. There are paired brackets under the cornice, as well as a plain frieze band. The wrap-around front porch has short, panelled, square wood columns on brick piers. There is a left bay with pyramidal (cont.) |
| 43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE | This one-story residence uses many of the elaborate devices found in larger Queen Anne homes to avoid a flat, symmetrical appearance. The current owner, Ron Fuenfhausen, is a member of the Liberty Historic District Review Commission, and has worked on the house's restoration. His research leads him to believe the house was built around the early 1900's. The house has retained its integrity of design, materials, scale, and setting, and would add to the character of a potential district. |
| 44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS | Situated on a small corner lot, close to S. Leonard. The yard slopes up to the front of the house, which is partially obscured by foliage. Parking is in the rear, reached off of Cedar Street. |

Further Description of Important Features:
A very simple expression of a National folk style. The windows vary in size and treatment – the larger are 3/1, the smaller 6/1. The entry has a pedimented portico with plain, slender square wood columns on concrete railing. There is a right exterior fireplace, and a rear addition.

History and Significance:
A very plain and simple expression of a vernacular housing style, the National massed plan, side gabled. It retains its integrity of design and character, and is one of the earlier small homes built on the subdivided land of the larger estates which lined S. Leonard.

Description of Environment and Outbuildings:
The house is set back almost to the rear of the lot, and is partially obscured by evergreens. Parking is in the rear off of Cedar Street on this corner lot.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This hipped-roof house has lower cross hips, with the front projecting hip having a gable dormer. The boxed eaves are emphasized with paired corner brackets and dentils on a wide band of trim. The front porch has been altered, and currently has a shed roof. The second floor windows are tall, narrow and have entablature surrounds. The first floor probably had paired, narrow windows at one time, but are currently 1/1. (cont.)
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE The house has undergone some alterations, making it more difficult to properly date the building. The brick foundation and the more restrained appearance is more indicative of the Italianate in Liberty, rather than the more exuberant Queen Anne style. S. Leonard was originally a "country road" leading to and from Liberty, and had several fine, larger homes by the turn of the century. This house retains enough integrity of design, materials, and scale to certainly add to the character of the historic district. Water hook-up was in 1906.

A simple, symmetrical Colonial Revival cottage, with paired 3/1 windows on the front facade. The entry has a pedimented portico with curved undersides and round tapering classical columns. A lower right side gable addition houses the garage, and has wood siding.

A very simple Colonial Revival cottage, which retains its integrity of scale, materials, and setting. The design is not much affected by the addition, which is somewhat obscured by vegetation. S. Leonard was originally a "country road" leading to and from Liberty, and the first homes were larger. After the estates were subdivided and platted to the west, smaller homes began to be built on S. Leonard.

The house is set back from the road on this large lot. The yard terraces up to the front of the house.

This Queen Anne cottage has many features for its small size. The front and right side gable dormers are set into the lower cross hip roofs, which in turn are set into the main hip roof, making for the typical irregular roofline of the Queen Anne style. The gable ends of the dormers have decorative wood shingles and paired 2/2 windows. The overhanging eaves are boxed, and there is a plain frieze at the cornice line. (cont.)

A very nice example of a small, Queen Anne cottage, typical of many such cottages in Liberty. This retains most of its integrity of design, materials, setting, and scale. S. Leonard was originally a "country road" leading from Liberty which was lined with many larger home. As the estates' land to the west began to be subdivided, many smaller homes were built on S. Leonard. This may have been one of the first of these smaller homes built on subdivided land.

The house sits quite high up from the road on this large lot. Steps lead up from S. Leonard, and trees block much of the view of the house. The left side of the lot, bordering Murray Road, is quite steep and overgrown. There is a rear, clapboard, gable-front garage.

City subdivision plats.
Indicate the chief topographical features, such as streams and elevations. Also indicate houses and roads. Indicate the site location by enclosing the site area with dotted line. Note scale of map and portion of section included in sketch map. Include drawings, photographs, etc. on additional pages.

Notes: 42. (cont.) The front porch wraps around to the right, another typical Queen Anne style feature. The current porch supports are slender wood columns (not original).

An octagonal projecting front wing has a wrap-around front porch, with spindlework columns and rails, as well as an elaborate frieze with beadwork and cut-out details. The tall, narrow windows have arched brick openings, some with stone keystones, all with stone sills. A right, two-story bay is wood panelled, with brackets, dentils, and decorated panels. The (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE Purposedly built in 1875, this elaborate Italianate house is in excellent shape, and retains its integrity of design, materials, scale, and setting. The very decorative porch, probably a later addition, has achieved its own significance, and adds to the character of the house. S. Leonard, originally a "country road" leading from Liberty, was the location of many fine, larger homes around the turn of the century, and this house reflects those times.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The large, corner lot has many trees, which obscure the view of the house. The steps leading from S. Leonard have decorative ironwork railings. Parking is in the rear off of Groom St.

Further Description of Important Features

The wide, overhanging roof eaves of this Prairie are emphasized by large, flat brackets. The front and left side roof is interrupted by hipped roof dormers, three in front with eave brackets and clapboard sides. The full-length front porch has massived square brick columns, and masonry porch rails with stone caps, which extend to the left to form a wrap-around patios. A pedimented hood over the left side entrance is supported (cont.)

History and Significance

A very nice example of a high-style Prairie home, undoubtedly architect-designed. The house is in pristine condition, retaining its integrity of design, materials, scale, and setting. It is said to have been built in 1910 for James D. Wason, whose family came to Clay County in the thirties. Water permit records indicate hook-up in 1908.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
A typical Craftsman bungalow, with the emphasis here on the front porch, which has a cross gable, projecting roof. The gable ends are shingled, and the porch supports are tapering, square wood columns on short, concrete piers. The porch is slightly offset from the front door, which has typical rectangular lights. The low-pitched roofs have wide, overhanging eaves. The wall treatment is stucco.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
A typical Craftsman bungalow which retains its integrity of design, scale, and setting. S. Leonard was originally a "country road" leading from Liberty, and the first homes were larger. After subdivisions were platted to the west, smaller homes began to be built on S. Leonard, and this was one of those earlier small homes.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES |

A very elaborate Queen Anne house, with much original spindlework decoration. The wrap-around front porch has spindlework columns and porch frieze, but the jig-sawn porch appear to be recent (although sympathetic, perhaps even based on original.) The second floor slightly overhangs the first, and is accentuated by a ban of dentil trim. There is also a band of scalloped Eastlake trim between the second and attic floors. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE |

Although somewhat modified in appearance by the asbestos siding, the house retains integrity in design, scale, setting, and most original detailing. An 1891 plat indicates this lot as being Crawford's place. S. Leonard was originally a "country road" leading to and from Liberty, and many fine, larger homes were established here around the turn of the century.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS |

The large, corner lot has mature trees framing the house, which sits back a distance from the road. There is a rear, clapboard garage with two concrete block additions to it.

Section  7  Township  51N  Range  31W

Indicate the chief topographical features, such as streams and elevations. Also indicate houses and roads. Indicate the site location by enclosing the site area with dotted line. Note scale of map and portion of section included in sketch map. Include drawings, photographs, etc. on additional pages.

Notes: 42. (cont.) The hip roof has lower cross gables. The front gable has a projecting gable extension with incised Eastlake vergeboard and the date "1889". This decorative portion extends out from the wall plane, and is supported by decorative brackets. The windows have varying elaborate surrounds, from bracketed shelves to Eastlake moldings. There are many bays and projections, all devices to avoid a flat wall surface. There is a rear addition.

THIS IS PROBABLY THE ONE MOST IMPORTANT PART OF THIS DATA FORM!

Please Attach a copy of a topographic map with the site marked on it.
A much altered Queen Anne style home, of the free classic subtype. The remaining classical details are the pedimented entry portico with curved underside, square, paired wood columns, cornice line dentils. Other Queen Anne features included the many divices used to avoid a flat wall surface, such as an oriel bay on the left, first floor, and another inset under the cornice line on the right, second floor. (cont.)

Once a very fine example of the free classic Queen Anne, the house has lost much of its integrity of materials due to the aluminum siding and awning. Many other features remain, however, and the house retains integrity of design, setting, and scale. It was probably constructed after the house on the right (which was built in 1889), as an 1891 plat of the area indicates one large lot where the two houses currently stand.

The house sits back from the road on a large lot. There is a dying evergreen in front of the house. A three-car clapboard garage is at the left rear.

City subdivision plats: Ford Place, 1891.

Notes: 42. (cont.) On the right is a 1½-story curved bay, which currently has non-historic windows randomly placed on the side. The right side also has exterior wooden stairs leading to the upper floor. The front windows all have prominent aluminum awnings. The attic windows in the side gable ends are half-circle fans. The double-door entry has a rectangular transom light.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

This small cottage has some remaining Queen Anne details, such as the high pitched roof with centered gable and boxed cornices. The center gable has a decorative vergeboard. The tall, narrow windows are 2/2, and the center, interior fireplace has patterned masonry. The porch, which may not be original, is evident in a ca. 1905 photo. The current porch supports are jig-sawn, and the porch cornice has dentils. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

A very nice example of an early, modest vernacular expression of the Queen Anne style. The house retains most of its integrity of design, materials, scale, and setting. Interviews with the 91 year old neighbor, John Harlin, indicate that this cottage was built before his parents built their home next door in 1889.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

The house is on a corner lot, and parking is at the rear.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   A very large, detailed Craftsman house. The eaves are wide, overhanging, with exposed decorative rafters with cut-out ends. There are also decorative, false beams. The full front porch is shed-roofed with a gable over the porch entry. The porch supports are very thick, short tapering wood columns on massive brick piers. On the right side is another entry and a one-story bay with shed roof and exposed rafters. (cont)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   A very large and elaborate example of the Craftsman style, this house is significant in architecture for its design, detailing, and scale. Although Prospect Heights was originally platted for small homes, many fine, large residences were built on Moss (this house is also addressed as 116 Moss).

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   The house is on a very prominent corner lot, highly visible to traffic from downtown Liberty. It is set up from the street, and has several large evergreens. Parking is in the rear off of Mill Av.

The windows have a common Craftsman rectangular pane pattern on the top sash over a single pane. There are both a shed-roof and gable-roof dormers on the front, and lower, extended cross gables on the right and the rear, making a highly varied roofline pattern.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES A very small gable-front cottage with a shed-roof addition to the right. The left entry has a pedimented portico supported by iron rails. The basement has been stuccoed.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE A very small residence, which though was built within the historic period, is sufficiently lacking in integrity of detail and design so as to be non-contributing. It is similar in mass to the smaller homes which were built along Harrison.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The small lot has a left gravel drive leading to a front-gable, clapboard garage. The lot slopes down towards the rear property line.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   A Craftsman residence which is lacking the typical exposed eaves, but nonetheless has the full-length front porch with tapering square columns on stone piers and overhanging roof eaves. There is a large, shed-roof dormer on the right, and two fireplaces. A left addition has a gable roof, as does an enclosed right entry.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
    Although lacking some typical Craftsman detailing, the house is still a good example of a vernacular expression of the style.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
    The large, irregularly shaped lot has a right concrete drive leading to a gable-roof garage.

Like many of Liberty's early pioneers, he came from Kentucky to settle in Clay County. He managed the 200 acre farm surrounding the house as well as a mercantile store in town. In 1869, Darwin Adkins bought the property. He helped establish the Farmer's Bank (later the Commercial Savings), and became its president in 1870. In 1912, the owner was G.W. Notes: 42. (cont.) and elaborate door surround, with rectangular side and transom lights and dentil motifs above. A simpler entry on the second story has square transom lights. The front facade is Flemish bond brick, and the other sides are common bond. The front windows have brick radiating voussoirs above. The windows on the left rear addition have arched radiating voussoirs. There are paired attic windows on the gable ends, as well as boxed cornice returns on the overhanging gables. The current front Neoclassical porch was added sometime after 1914. It is full-height and covers three bays. The simple, classically derived columns are square and tapering. There are two gable end interior fireplaces. The rear addition was built around 1869.

43. (cont.) estate into a subdivision known as "Clardy Heights". During the late 1920's or early 1930's, "Cat" Sandusky owned the house and made it a public house and restaurant - the "White Horse Tavern". The current owners bought the house in 1976 and have worked on its renovation.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   The cross-hip structure features a elaborate, gable-roofed bay as its main focus of decoration. The gable end has decorative wood shingles. There are three tall, narrow 1/1 windows with panelled surrounds. The remaining windows and entry doors feature surrounds with shelf entablatures. The overhanging eaves have paired corner brackets. The new entry porch is flat-roofed with iron supports. There are two interior fireplaces.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   Occupying a highly visible corner lot, the house is significant for the character it adds to the historic neighborhood. It is a good representative of a modest Queen Anne cottage which nonetheless employs stylistic devices to avoid a plain surface and regular shape.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES: Typical of Queen Anne style, this house features a highly irregular orline, consisting of steeply pitched gables, bellcast hip (porch), and conical. Also typical of Queen Anne are the many devices used to avoid a smooth-wall surface, such as the round tower, bay windows, shingling on the gable ends, etc. The windows also vary from all sizes and types; most are 1/1 double-hung sash. The front attic features a (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE: In spite of its later Craftsman style front porch, this house represents one of the more exuberant Queen Anne style residences in Liberty. It is also significant for the character it lends to this portion of the neighborhood, which consists of larger homes set back from the road. Local rumor states that the small house in the rear is connected to the main house by a tunnel.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS: A stone retaining wall, needing some repair, helps set this house up off the street in its prominent corner location. A small gable-roof & bracketed garage is directly off W. Franklin, and a small cross-gable building is behind the main house.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This steeply pitched, hipped gable roof has a prominent cross gable and a lower projecting entry gable. There is decorative half-timbering on the stuccoed second floor, and brick on the first. There is a massive exterior chimney on the front facade. The two story entry is brick with stone quoins and decorations, and a stone arch over the front door. The windows are 6/6, and the arched front door is panelled with six (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE An excellent example of the Tudor style, which became extremely popular in this country in the 1920's and '30's. The house is also significant for its contribution to the visual character of this section of the neighborhood, which consists of fine, larger homes set back from the road.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS Situated on a very large yard, which slopes up to the house. An asphalt drive on the right leads to a rear stucco garage. A stone retaining wall is on the right side of the property.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   This side-gabled Craftsman structure's roof extends to cover the full length front porch. The porch has tapered square wood columns on brick piers and simple square porch rails. The roof has open eaves with triangular braces; the gable front dormer has exposed rafters and brackets on the rake edge. The windows are 3/1 and vary in size. A square bay on the right side has a projecting gable roof. There is a right exterior fireplace.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   A nice example of a Craftsman bungalow in nearly original condition. On the side on Morse which contains more modest homes, this structure lends character to the historic neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   A small, treeless lot, in which the house is situated close to the road (as are the rest of the homes on the east side of Morse).

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

This small cottage is actually an eclectic mixture of several styles. The steeply pitched roof with centered cross gable and wall surface extending into gable without a bread is indicative of Gothic Revival. The triangular pedimented window is more of an Italianate feature, and the turned porch columns and spindlework porch frieze are Queen Anne. The windows are tall, narrow 2/2 double-hung sash. There are two rear additions.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

While missing some details which could aid in categorizing the style, this cottage nonetheless is a good example of a modest, vernacular form of housing. It adds to the historic character of the neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

The house is situated close to the road, as are the other houses on the east side of Morse. The fencing is picket in front, chain link along the right, and rolled wire in the back. There is a rear attached garage reached from W. Mississippi (corner lot).

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   A vernacular expression of the Craftsman style, lacking the exposed rafters or eave brackets, but retaining the wide, overhanging eaves. The cross gable house has a lower, extended gable front porch with boxed cornice returns. The front porch has been screened, and has square brick porch supports. There is a box bay on the left, and an interior fireplace. Most of the windows have been replaced with 1/1; and exception is the leaded glass on the right.
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   The house is a good example of the vernacular expression of the Craftsman style in the bungalow form. The house retains its integrity in design, materials, setting, and scale, and adds to the character of the neighborhood.
44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   There are several mature trees on the lot. The yard slopes up quite steeply from the street; there is a stone retaining wall and several steps leading up to the house.

The distinctive form (side-gabled roof with the facade dominated by a prominent, steep cross gable and a massive chimney) marks this as a Tudor house. The multiple materials are also typical. The house has a stone veneer and clapboards, and the chimney is stone and brick. There are two front gable dormers. The windows are 6/1 and have decorative brick surrounds. The porch overhang is formed by an attic jetty. (cont.)

Although not quite 50 years old at the time of this survey, the house is a true representative of its style (Tudor) and period, and adds to the character of the neighborhood by virtue of its integrity of design, materials, scale, and setting. It was built in 1938 for a cost of $5000.

The house is on a double lot, which slopes steeply off to the left. There is a front gable, clapboard garage on the right, close to the street.

City building permits.

As with most Colonial Revival houses, the principal areas of elaboration are the windows, cornices, and entrances. The front door has multi-paned rectangular side and transom lights. The entry portico is supported by round columns with Ionic capitals. The porch frieze, cornice, and main roof cornice have dentils. Above the entry door is a multi-paned casement window with arched pediment and brackets. The entry is (cont.)

A very nice, high-style example of a brick, two-story Colonial Revival house. The small left addition does not detract from the building's integrity of design, material, scale, and setting. Prospect Heights was originally platted for small homes, but several fine, larger homes were built on Moss Avenue. This was built for a cost of $8000 in 1925.

42. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   Built by Dr. William H. Goodson in 1913 according to his own plans, the house is a good representative of a vernacular expression of the Craftsman style. Its visual character is important to the neighborhood. It is also significant for its association with Dr. Goodson. He began his medical practice in Liberty in 1907 and continued until his death in 1963. He was active in the state medical society. Dr. Goodson helped organize the American Red Cross in 1917. The second floor of the Clay County Museum, on the square in Liberty, remains as it was when it served as Dr. Goodson's office. A tower was removed in the 1970's which was used by a son for amateur radio antenna. It remained in the Goodson family for 50 years.
43. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   The house sits close to the street edges of the large, double lot. The garage is under the house, reached from Mill.

42. Further description of important features
   A common Tudor home as typified by the multiple, steeply pitched gables and roof lines. The first floor has a brick eneer, and the gable ends and dormer walls have multi-colored slate, particularly elaborate for this small size home. There are sheed roof dormers on either side, and an interior fireplace. The offset front door has an arched wood pediment. The windows are 6/1. A front extended gable porch is screened.

43. History and significance
   A good example of the Tudor style, which was extremely popular in the 1920's & 30's. The materials of this house are particularly nice. Its integrity of design, materials, size, and scale add to the character of the neighborhood. It was built in 1926 for $7000 by Hank Simpson, a noted local contractor who was active in Liberty.

44. Description of environment and outbuildings
   This corner lot is at the top of a ridge, and is visually prominent. There is a wood privacy fence around the rear yard along Mill.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

This Prairie residence is characterized by a low-pitched hip roof with wide, overhanging eaves. The full length, hip roof front porch has massive stone columns and rails, which extend to the right to form a patio. There are hipped-roof dormers on the front and left; these have paired windows with multi-paned sashes over a single pane and paneled window surrounds. The other windows are also multi-paned over a shingle sash. (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

Although altered somewhat in appearance, the house remains a good example of the Prairie style. Prospect Heights was originally platted for small homes. Many fine, larger homes were built on Moss Avenue, as was this one when built in 1916 for Ralph Davidson, a member of an old Clay County family.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

Situated on a large, double corner lot in Prospect Heights. Moss Avenue contains some of the larger homes in the Prospect Heights subdivision.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   An example of the free classic subtype of the Queen Anne style. The Queen Anne features are the steeply pitched, multiple rooflines - there is a left cross gable on the main pyramid roof, the lower porch pyramid roof, and the right bay pyramid roof. The wrap-around front porch is another Queen Anne feature. The classical details are the simple, round porch columns and the curved returns of the left gable end. (cont)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   Water permits indicate service beginning in 1944, but an early photograph taken from the roof of Liberty Ladies' College around 1905 clearly shows this house and a barn. The house is a good example of the free classic subtype of the Queen Anne style, and adds character to the neighborhood. It is in nearly original condition.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This house embodies characteristics of the transitional period between the Federal and Greek Revival styles of architecture. The features characteristic of the earlier Federal style are: a three bay front facade of Flemish bond brick, two small windows in the attic ends, formerly multi-paned windows (now replaced), and walnut use as the interior finish wood (also later replaced). The later Greek Revival features include: (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE A very significant house, first for being one of the few transitional houses between the Federal & Greek Revival styles. Earlier houses tended to be clear cut in their divisions between styles, but this house has features of both styles. It is also significant for its association with one of Liberty's early settlers, Graham L. Hughes, and with Wnykoop Kiersted, a hydraulic engineer. Graham L. Hughes was a merchant, who with his brother James M. Hugher, was in business in Liberty with Peter Burnett. He was also an early postmaster, a delegate on the committee to promote the building of railroads in the area, and he donated the land for the first Catholic Church in Liberty. He also formed a company with others and laid out a town on a bluff (cont.)

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS Situated on a very large lot, the remains of the former estate. The house is high on a ridge, formerly looking over the Missouri River. There is a brick smokehouse, brick cellar, and the remains of a brick outhouse.

The main portion of the house is square, and the former rear of the house is now (cont.)...

In spite of some alteration, the house is significant as an early Clay County example of a high style Italianate home. It is also significant for its association with the Croysdales, Mortimer Dearing, Baylis T. "Pomp" Gordon, and his son. The house is believed to have been built around 1859 by Mary Croysdale, a widow, for herself and her husband-to-be, John Price. She and her family moved to Jackson County after the Civil War, where her sons gained prominence in business, and were charter members of the Kansas City Board of Trade. Mortimer Dearing bought the house in 1870 when he was the proprietor of the Arthur House, known as one of the finest hotels west of the Mississippi and the site of many important events in the history of Liberty. (cont.)

The house sits on a very large lot, and was once part of a much larger farm estate. The lot is wooded, and has several old pines and cedars. The drive is on the left; no outbuildings remain.

In spite of some alteration, the house is significant as an early Clay County example of a high style Italianate home. It is also significant for its association with the Croysdales, Mortimer Dearing, Baylis T. "Pomp" Gordon, and his son. The house is believed to have been built around 1859 by Mary Croysdale, a widow, for herself and her husband-to-be, John Price. She and her family moved to Jackson County after the Civil War, where her sons gained prominence in business, and were charter members of the Kansas City Board of Trade. Mortimer Dearing bought the house in 1870 when he was the proprietor of the Arthur House, known as one of the finest hotels west of the Mississippi and the site of many important events in the history of Liberty. (cont.)

The house sits on a very large lot, and was once part of a much larger farm estate. The lot is wooded, and has several old pines and cedars. The drive is on the left; no outbuildings remain.
Notes: 42. (cont.) the front. On the left is a one-story Craftsman style porch with massive brick columns, a later addition. A two-story brick addition is on the left, and a one-story clapboard addition attached to that. Some original decorative ironwork still remains above a former rear entry (now the front door). It is possible that the two-story addition was meant to be a three-story attached tower (in the Italian Villa mode), but was never completed before the outbreak of the Civil War.

43. (cont.) Baylis T. Gordon bought the house and 33 acres in 1882. Known as "Pomp" for the parties and entertainment he was host to, Gordon also had a more serious side as a Missouri state senator. The property was used as a stock farm at this time, and he was also well known for his fine cattle and horses. His son, Baylis Gordon, Jr., who inherited the farm in 1915, served as a state representative.

<td>42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES</td>
<td>The house has many features typical of the Gothic Revival style, such as the steeply pitched gable roof with center front wall gable, also steeply pitched. The arched 2/2 windows are tall and narrow, and have elaborate scrolled caps. The front facade is running bond brick, and the sides and rear are common bond. The house sits on a high basement, and the basement windows also have elaborate caps, although slightly over.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE</td>
<td>There was originally a hemp walk on the property in the 1830's, but it is believed the present house was built by Nathaniel Powell during the late 1860's. The Powell's had an apple orchard on the property, and used one room in the basement to store apples. The property was sold in 1881 for $6000.00 to William E. Bell. Mr. Bell was an early pioneer who came from Kentucky to Clay County in 1834. He was the director of the National Commercial Bank. The Bells were wealthy landowners who wintered in California. On one of Mr. Bell's frequent train trips, he won at a poker game with the Vice President of the United States. The property has been in the family since 1881.</td>

Notes: 42. (cont.) different from those on the first floor. Decorative vergeboards have been removed for restoration. The present front porch is a recent addition, although it is a reproduction from another Gothic Revival house in Fayette, MO (Huntington Hall, ca. 1851-1852). The original front porch was replaced with a Craftsman porch, probably around the 1920's. Historic photos indicate that the original front porch was quite elaborate, and extended the full length of the house and wrapped around the right side. The current porch has slender square supports, flattened arches, and a flat roof. A second story door in the front gable was originally a Gothic arched window. The basement originally housed the kitchen, and features two walkout doors in the rear. The interior is currently undergoing renovation. The front entry features leaded glass sidelights and elliptical fanlights.

Although quite modest in its execution, the house is nonetheless representative of the many simple, vernacular houses built. Its scale and setting lend character to the edge of the historic district.

The current lot is very small, and the house is set close to the street. It is on the edge of a potential historic district, and is important in anchoring the visual character. It is across the street from a parking lot.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   The visible structure has a side gable roof with a centered cross gable. The boxed cornice has gable end returns. The flat roofed entry portico has simple, tapering square wood columns, with square balcony rails above. There is a door on both levels. The first floor door has an elaborate entry, with multi-paned rectangular side and transom lights. The current windows are 6/6. There is a rear addition.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   The Wymore-Wornall House is an early modified log structure. The log portion was built after 1835 by James and Nancy Hughes. James M. Hughes was an early settler and businessman of Clay County. He was a merchant with his brother, Graham Hughes, and Peter Burnett. James Hughes also had a mail contract, which may have been delivered to this residence, then on the outskirts of town, thus contributing to the rumor that the structure used to be a stagecoach stop. William H. Wymore purchased the property in 1850. Wymore had a livery stable and owned large tracts of Clay County land. However, his family is best known for the tragedy that occurred during the daylight (cont.)

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   The large wooded lot is on a dead-end street. There is a rear, historic brick outbuilding. The house is set at an angle to the road, and is obscured from view by vegetation.

Notes: 43. (cont.) robbery of the Clay County Savings Association. Nineteen-year old George Wymore, who was living in this residence at the time, was shot by the bank robbers in 1866. This house is believed to be one of only three log structures remaining in Liberty. All have been covered with various sidings, as was a common practice. This treatment has achieved its own significance over time.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

A typical Prairie 4-square with wide, overhanging hip roof eaves. The hipped roof dormers also have overhanging eaves. The full length, hipped roof front porch does have round, classical columns rather than the typical square porch supports. The clapboards are quite narrow, and the foundation is high, in response to the sloping land. There is an interior fireplace.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

The house is a good example of the Prairie 4-square, a vernacular housing type popular at the first part of this century. It serves as a transition between the larger, more detailed Queen Anne on the left, and the smaller, more modest bungalow on the right. It is believed to have been part of a dairy operation in Liberty - the concrete patio on the side of the house was part of the cooling room for the milk. A ca. 1905-1912 photograph reveals a barn at the rear of the property.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

A large, wooded lot which sits fairly high on a ridge. The house sits quite high off of S. Terrace. Parking is in the rear, reached from the back alley.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This front gabled Craftsman bungalow has wide, overhanging unenclosed eaves with exposed rafters, and triangular knee brackets under the gable. The front porch is inset, and has square wood columns set on brick piers, and simple square porch rails. The windows vary in size and type. The attic is 3/1; the front windows are 1/1, and may be replacement.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE Situated in the Prospect Heights subdivision, an area of modest, working class bungalows, the house remains a very nice example of its type. It adds to the character of the neighborhood by virtue of its integrity of design, materials, and setting.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The house is set quite close to the road on the very large, wooded lot. The left property edge is bounded by a creek. Parking is in the rear, reached by a back alley.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
This side-gable bungalow has an inset porch under the roof on the right. The porch columns are square tapers with simple square railings. There is a low, shed-roofed front dormer with a group of three small casement windows. For the most part, the remaining windows are paired, 1/1 double-hung sash. There is a one story bay on the right.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
A very nice example of a Craftsman bungalow in nearly original condition, the house adds to the character of the historic neighborhood by virtue of its size, detail, material, and design.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
Parking is in the rear, and is reached from the back alley. The house is set close to the road. The lots on this block of S. Terrace are very hilly and wooded.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES A gable front Tudor cottage with lower gable front entry and even lower pedimented portico. A right addition is under an extended portion of the gable, causing the typical varied eave-line heights of the Tudor style. The windows are 6/6. There is a curved wall attached to the left of the house. In response to the small, narrow lot, the house extends to the rear more, thereby placing the typical massive, elaborate chimney (cont).

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE The Prospect Heights subdivision was primarily a working-class neighborhood, and this house is representative of a modest example of the quite popular Tudor style.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The house is set high from the road by a series of three terraces. The walk makes several turns through the front yard, which is landscaped in the English cottage style. Parking is in the rear, reached through a back alley.

Further Description of Important Features
- A highly detailed example of the free classic subtype of the Queen Anne style. The wrap-around front porch features simple classical round columns, with square railings both below and on the balcony above. The truncated hip roof has cross gables to the front and both sides. Under the boxed cornices are paired brackets. A front bay is also bracketed, and features paired windows below and a single, stained glass window (cont.)

History and Significance
- A very elaborate example of the free classic Queen Anne style, the house retains its integrity in design, materials, and setting. It adds to the character of the neighborhood. Prospect Heights was originally platted for smaller homes, but it is possible that this fine, large home was built before the subdivision was laid out.

Description of Environment and Outbuildings
- The house sits high up from the road on a prominent corner lot. Chain link fencing encloses the entire yard. A stone retaining wall is along the front, and a concrete wall along the side. A rear gable garage is reached off of Mill.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
A Prairie 4-square, noted by its boxy floorplan and wide, overhanging hip-roof eaves, with classical round porch columns on the one-story, hip-roof porch. There is a front, hip-roof dormer with 4 narrow windows, and a left shed-roof dormer. The house is set high up from the streets.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
Although somewhat modified by the siding alteration, the house is important nonetheless for its pivotal location at an intersection. Directly in front of a traffic light, it is part of the character of the historic area due to its size, setting, and design.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
The odd-shaped lot is bounded on three sides by streets, and in the rear by an alley. The house is set high up from the streets. There are several mature evergreens. A rear, gable-roof, clapboard garage is reached from the alley.

   The Prairie features of this house include the full-length, hipped-roof front porch with tapering square columns set on stone piers and wide-overhanging eaves. The front gable has curved returns. There is a right, shed-roof dormer and a left cross gable.

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   A vernacular expression of the Prairie style on a simple home, the 1 1/2 story house serves as a transition in scale between the modest, one story homes to the right, and the large, high-style Prairie home on the left. It adds to the character of the neighborhood by virtue of its design, materials, mass, and setting.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES
   This Queen Anne house has undergone many alterations, yet it retains some original detailing. The full-length, front hipped-roof porch is from the Craftsman/Prairie period, with its massive, square stone columns and low-pitched roof with wide, overhanging eaves. The irregular roofline is typical Queen Anne - the hip roof has cross hips, gable dormers, and a pyramidal roof bay. That two-story bay is on the left, and reveals (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE
   One of the earlier, fine homes built in this section of Liberty, the house has been altered over the years. It retains its integrity of scale and of design (except for the front porch) and is located in a visually prominent corner lot. It has potential for rehabilitation, and adds character to the historic neighborhood.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
   The large, irregular shaped corner lot has parking in the rear, reached from an alley off of W. Liberty Drive. There is a wood privacy fence along W. Liberty Drive.

Notes: 42. (cont.) there used to be shingle siding underneath the current stucco wall cladding on the second floor. The first floor has clapboard. It was typical of the Queen Anne period to use many devices to avoid a flat surface. The gable front and side dormer also retains its decorative wood shingles. There is decorative iron work on the top of the truncated hip roof, utilizing a fleur-de-lis symbol. The tall, narrow windows have decorative shelf surrounds. There is an interior fireplace.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES

The house departs from the Dutch Colonial Revival in the Craftsman influenced porch, which has massive, square stone columns. The modified gambrel roof has a shed-roof dormer opening the full length of the front facade, which opens up into a second story porch with square columns. There are three gable front dormers and a right bay. Dentils decorate the cornice line. A rear, hip roof addition is two stories. (cont).

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

Built as a two-story duplex in 1924 by J.W. Dunn & Co. for a Mrs. Stuart, the house shows the adventuresomeness that some builders use in modifying a style. The house is a transition in scale and design between the modest cottages on the left, and the larger, high-style home on the right.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS

Chain link encloses the entire yard. A historic garage is in the rear, reached by an alley off of Mill.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This Craftsman bungalow has highly decorative, wide, overhanging eaves. The rafters are exposed and false, decorative beams with cut-out ends are added. The front porch has a lower front gable roof with vertical batten strips as decorations in the gable end. The short, square wood porch columns have wood bases on brick piers. The brick piers have angled wood planters on each side. The brick porch foundation is extended to (cont.)

43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE A very nice, highly detailed example of a Craftsman bungalow, this house adds to the historic character of the neighborhood by virtue of its size, scale, mass, detailing, and setting. It was built at the same time, and is identical to (except for alterations) 129 S. Terrace.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The right drive is shared, leading to parking in the rear. A cedar in front blocks some of the detail of the house.

This vernacular form of the Queen Anne cottage has the common hip roof with cross gables. The hip roof is bellcast, and there are paired brackets under the eaves which are very decorative. There is a rectangular transom over the door, and the window surrounds have entablatures. The front porch is missing one of its tapering square wood columns. There are two fireplaces with a decorative brick band.

Most features original to this modest cottage are still in place, although in some state of disrepair. The house retains its integrity of materials, design, and fits in with the rest of the neighborhood in scale and setting.

44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS A very small lot which is somewhat overgrown.

Although modest in scale due to the restrictive lot size, this cottage still has many features of the Queen Anne style, including irregular roof massing, front bay, side porch (rather than front) with spindles columns and brackets. The windows are 2/2, and there is a central fireplace.

XXIV. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE

The house is very little altered, and is a good representative of a modest Queen Anne cottage. It is similar in scale, mass, detail, and design with the other buildings in the neighborhood. A rear addition was added in 1927 at a cost of $1000.

XXV. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS
