DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The St. John's United Church of Christ at Bem began with the erection of a log Church in 1869; a frame building was built to replace the log one in 1887. The current photo of the Bem Church shows that it has been altered since its initial construction; a rear and front addition have been added to the original frame. The main section of this Church has a rock foundation, masonite board siding, and a square front bell tower with pinnacles at the base of the spire. St. John's Church is an example of Victorian Gothic architecture.

The Elkhead Lodge was originally built around 1913 as an impressive two-story structure in the Shingle style of architecture. The characteristics of the lodge include a rectangular floor plan and is typified by a uniform covering of unpainted wood shingles with a broad, sweeping roof that continues to the first floor level which provides cover for an extensive three-sided porch. The open eaves of the steeply-pitched front gable over the main entrance (on the south elevation of the property) is supported by four massive cypress pillars, and the centered, double doors enter to a spacious central hall that extends the length of the lodge. The exterior is highlighted by multi-light, paired sash windows, and the interior includes the original fireplaces and plastered walls creating an effect of rustic elegance.

SPECIFIC DATES 1913

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Architecture: The Shingle style of architecture, as exemplified in the design of the Elkhead Lodge, is extremely rare in the Meramec Region, especially on such a grand scale. Also, the oriental influence as suggested by the four cypress pillars that accent the main entrance at the south elevation of the structure represent an architectural feature that has no counterpart anywhere in the area. The building was originally constructed in 1913 by a group of doctors and dentists, living in the Chicago area, for use as a hunting lodge and Ozark retreat. Not only is the lodge a site of outstanding architectural and historical significance in preserving the cultural heritage of the region, it is also worthy of recognition on the National Register as a site under a special thematic category of early retreats and resorts of the Ozarks. The property is now the private residence of John and Joan Dietzmann.

   DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE:

   This house was built around 1865. It is noted for being one of the first homes in the area with a fireplace in every room and an article was printed about it in the St. Louis Globe paper at the time. The Green house has had several room additions but the original structure is of a two story square plan shape; two rooms and a porch were added in 1952. This house has a rock foundation, a frame structure, and a tin roof with ridge chimneys. There are double doors on the first and second floors but the original porch has been enclosed. The Baxter house is an example of Modified Greek Revival architecture.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is a two story building built around the early 1920s. For many years it was used as a glove factory but in 1935 it was changed to the International Shoe Co.; it employed many of the residents in and around Bland. Undoubtedly, this Co. was the primary source of employment and contributed to the growth of Bland. It is still used as a factory although no longer used as a shoe factory. This building is constructed of locally made brick; windows are slightly arched and have plain lug sills. This building is an example of a Vernacular style of architecture.
STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Economics - This factory has provided employment for many people in and around the Bland area. It began as a glove factory and then became a shoe factory in 1935. During the war it was changed into a glove factory and afterwards became a shoe factory again. It is now a factory for making pool tables and accessories. This factory was started and then flourished after the railroad went through Bland in 1909.

DESCRIPT THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This building has a color scheme of black and white making its interesting diamond motif stand out in relief against the background trim of the building. It has a dramatically steep pitched gable roofline with gingerbread shingles applied to the 'tympanum' of the pediment. There is a lower story bay window. The roof is of tin and it has a rock foundation. This house is an example of Victorian Gothic architecture.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Bland Christian Church has cross gable rooflines, a cement foundation, and a seamed metal roof. Its most outstanding architectural feature is the square tower with supporting brackets along the eaves. The Church was built in 1904. Originally, the Church had gothic arch windows with tracery, weatherboard siding and an arched entryway with stained glass. The building was remodeled in 1941 and the original beauty of the Church's architecture was destroyed by the use of totally inappropriate material and incompatible building additions. Perhaps this is one of the reasons that the Church is now for sale. This Church is an example of modified Victorian Gothic architecture.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Givens house sets upon a hill overlooking the Old Bland Creek where, at one time, a mill was established. The Givens house has a limestone foundation that was cut from the creek bed. It is a two story structure of an irregular plan shape. The elevated front porch has a semi hip roofline and turned porch posts. Clapboard and window shutters have been applied to the outer walls. This house is an example of modified Greek Revival architecture.
STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Architectural - The Givens house has a cut stone limestone foundation from the old Bland Creek. Although not known for certain, the Givens house may originally have been built by someone associated with the original mill located at the Old Bland Creek at the foot of the hill.

   The original house on this property was a log cabin but it was replaced with this two story red brick building; the brick for this building was kilned at the Gottlieb Hilerbaumer place. The Brehe house has been kept in good condition since its construction in 1882. This building has a gable roofline with three evenly spaced straddle ridge chimneys. The front of the building has a front porch with Tuscan (plain capitals and plinths) columns and a semi hip roof. A modillion design runs along the entablature of the front facade. Windows are six over six panes with segmental arch surrounds. A white frame with salt box roofline has been added in the rear. The Brehe house is an example of modified Greek Revival architecture.

This building is constructed of brick with a modillion design running along the entablature of the front facade. Side rooflines are of medium gable pitch with a modern shingle roof covering; end roof pediments are covered with clapboard material. Windows are straight across of simple sash design. The foundation is of limestone rock. A rather inappropriate wood frame saltbox addition has been added to the rear of the house. This building is an example of modified Greek Revival architecture.

The St. James United Church of Christ was built in 1901; it was enlarged in 1942. Twenty acres of property were bought in 1860 from John Frederick and Anna Wolbrink for $10. Church services were held in German until 1940. This impressive Church has lancet pointed arches and vertical side pilasters separating them; a protruding square shaped tower has a pointed spire. The interior of the Church has the original curved wooden Church pews. This building is an example of modified Victorian Gothic architecture. The cemetery in the rear has many old tombstones inscribed in German.

   This house is a two story building of an 'L' plan shape; it was originally built as the St. John's parsonage but is now used as a rental house. This building has a rock foundation, weatherboard shiplap on the outer walls, and a gable roofline. The porch roofline is of an unusual geometric design with spindles along the porch frieze and fan bracket porch posts. This building is an example of Princess Anne architecture.

The original section of this house is of a Victorian Gothic style of architecture and retains many of the features thereof; it has a rock foundation, a bay window with stained glass panes, and a pediment overhang with a sunburst design on the tympanum. Many other additions have been made to this house which has destroyed the style and overall symmetry of the structure.

The Dunton house is a two story brick building; the brick was made at the Korf Brother's kiln in the town of Rosebud. The original property was a land grant to Edward Luster - the co-founder of the town of Owensville. The land grant dates to 1843 and was signed by President John Tyler. The house itself was built around 1917 by Herman Koch who was an undertaker and also a hardware store owner. The house was also used (at one time) as the Nazarene Church. This house has a large wraparound porch with white columns. The Dunton house is an example of Colonial Revival architecture with a Victorian Gothic influence.

   DESCRIPTION

   The Liberty Baptist Church was established around 1829; the church building was probably built around the early 1900s. This building has a concrete block foundation, a wooden frame, and a tin roof. Many additions have been made to this building including an attached side residence, a lean to side addition (to the right, face photo) and a front enclosed entryway with a gable pitch roofline and double front doors. The Liberty Baptist Church is an example of Utilitarian Church architecture.

   This house has an interesting (if rather gaudy) color scheme along the trim of the building; however it does serve to emphasize the unique design of this building. This is a two story building with array of interesting features. The trees infront of the house (face photo) obscures an interesting sunburst design and gable ridge ornament. The side of the house has a bay window with gingerbread applied, a pitch roofline, and inverted finials. This building is an example of Victorian Gothic architecture.

August Wacker was an emigrant from Germany and is known for building several homes in this area and for establishing the Post Office for his wife, Charlotte.
August Wackner was born near Westphalia, Germany in 1828. He is noted for building several houses around the rural Owensville area. Through his efforts the Charlotte Post Office was established and named for Mrs. Wacker. He was one of the founders of the Evangelical Church at Owensville and furnished the original building across from St. Peter's Cemetery. Charlotte Pauge (his wife) was born in Hanover; they were married in 1857.

DETERMINE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Adair house was once one of the two stores in Redbird; it was once operated by Harrison Gibson after he moved from Crawford County to Washington County. It is a one story building with a deep basement built into the side of a hill. It has a false front facade and a flat roofline. It is now used as a private residence. The Adair house (the Harrison Gibson store) is an example of Commercial architecture.

The Dahlberg house was originally the Licklider homestead. The present frame has been built around the Licklider cabin which was made of oak and walnut logs. The front door to the cabin is where the double front windows (face photo) are. There is a cut stone chimney to the left of the building; it was the third one built - the other two had been made of wood chinked with mud. The date inscribed on the chimney is 1877 and the original settlement was probably pre-Civil War. The original breezeway to the house is where the kitchen is now. This breezeway was used primarily (in settlement times) for animals to stay in during the nighttime as protection from rustlers and other predators. Mr. Fred Dahlberg Sr. is both a musician and an artist and his paintings are hung on the walls; a large mural is painted on the kitchen wall - it depicts a family picnic. Room additions were added in the 1920s.

   This house is made of oak frame and the oak beams are still visible inside; it has a huge rock fireplace inside made from cut stone. The floors and walls on the second story have been torn out as a preliminary step to tearing down the whole house; it is too old and deteriorated to attempt to save. This house is an example of modified Greek Revival architecture.

   The Redbird Community building is an unusual structure. It is a one story structure of a rectangular plan shape. Construction features of the building include a rock foundation, a wooden frame structure with lapboard on the outer walls, and a tin roof. The building has a medium pitched gable roofline with return cornices and end brick chimneys on the ridge. The most unusual feature of the building is the pedimented portico with a bell tower which is decorated with gingerbread shingles; this pedimented portico is supported by turned porch posts. There are double front doors. The back of the building has a row of twelve paired windows of four panes.

   The Redbird Mill is a three story structure overlooking Brush Creek. This building is over 100 years old and provided much of the economic activity in the town of Redbird. It has a stone foundation, an oak frame and deteriorated weatherboard siding. A side lean to addition has been added and there is a makeshift hip porch in front. The building has a tin roof and is of a Utilitarian style of architecture.

The Bock house is a red brick two story building of a modified Greek Revival style of architecture. The bricks for this house were kilned at the local brick kiln in Rosebud. This building has a seamed metal roof of medium pitch gable roofline, and single sash windows with concrete lugsills. The front porch appears to have been added at a later date. There are double front entry doors.

The Edward Langenberg house was built in 1905 by his father, Herman Henry Langenberg. The brick for the house was fired at the Rosebud kiln. This house has a cement foundation, a brick frame, and a shingle roof; there is an alternate brick pattern running along the cornice of the building. A kitchen, porch, and a bathroom were added onto this house in the early 1940s. The Langenberg house is an example of modified Greek Revival architecture.

The Linhardt house is a two story of a "T" plan shape. It was once used as a boarding house for the railroad which passed close by. Construction features of the Linhardt house include a cement foundation, a shingle roof, and a brick frame; the brick was locally made at the Korff Brother's kiln in Rosebud. Architectural features of the building include gable rooflines with return eaves and simple sash windows with segmental brick arches and cement lugsills. The porch has been rebuilt in character with the original; an elevated cement front porch with wooden columns, balusters and a second story "widows walk" with an upper story door. The Linhardt house is an example of modified Greek Revival architecture.

   This building was once used as the Rosebud General Store; however, competition from the larger grocery chain stores has forced it out of business - it has been used as a second hand store for around three years. This building is constructed of brick and is two stories of a square plan shape. It has a flat roofline, a false brick commercial facade, and a brick design along the frieze. Windows are of single sash design set in arched surrounds with partial infills. The brick for this building was probably made at the local Korff Brother's kiln. It is an example of a Commercial style of architecture.

The Rosebud Post Office was originally used as the Rosebud Bank. It is an interesting building of an unusual plan shape. Both windows and doors are arched and have segmental arches and lug sills; there is a brick belt design running along the frieze of the building. This building has a flat roofline. The Rosebud Post Office is a highly modified version of Richardsonian Romanesque architecture.

DESCRIPTION

This two story house has a cement foundation, weatherboard siding, and a shingle roof. An elevated front porch has a semi hip roofline, turned porch posts, and spindle balusters. This building has double front doors and single sash windows. There is a rear addition. The Frisco railroad tracks run directly behind this house indicating that it may have been built as part of the railroad that use to run through Rosebud. This house is an example of modified Greek Revival architecture.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Hartmeister house is a very pretty, two story building of Gothic Revival architecture. It has several bay windows and an enclosed, two tier front porch. There is curvilinear gingerbread trim along the edges of the eaves and gingerbread applied to the pitched pediment roofline. The house has a rock foundation, frameboard on the outer walls and a shingle roof. The Hartmeister house has been well kept through the years. It was remodeled in 1978 with siding put on and the gingerbread trim renovated.

The land upon which this church rests was purchased in 1889 for $45.00 from Frederick Strehlman. It replaced an earlier church building that was built in 1862. The services were held in German until the first World War and then the services were held partly in German until 1932. The brick and frame front was added in 1957. The side Lancet style windows have wood frame surrounds. The Church has a tin roof with a gable pitch roofline, cut outs along the eaves, and double front doors. The New Woollam Methodist Church is an example of modified Gothic Revival architecture.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This house was originally a store built by Joseph Woollam in 1868; it was converted into a private residence in the 1950s after the store itself went out of business in 1940. The building retains many of its original exterior features with the exception of the front porch which is a recent addition. Rear sections of the house have been added. The Woollam store has a stone foundation and a brick frame kilned at local farms. This building is an example of modified Greek Revival architecture.

The Vernon Nicks house is a gracious two story house constructed of brick fired at the kiln that once existed on the property. The double wide end brick chimneys are comparable to a Southern Colonial architectural style. The walls are 13" thick; the foundation is of stone. There is a brick pattern running along the frieze front facade. The original porch has been replaced with the current one.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The St. Johannes Kirche is a beautifully constructed brick Church that was hand made from the local clay and kilned on the Ben Suelthaus farm; this Church cost $1,704.00 and was built in 1879 to replace an earlier log Church which burned. The side of the Church has a dentils along the entablature. This building has a rock foundation. Side windows are of round segmental arch design with vertical side pilasters that separate the windows. The front section has a pointed arch entry way with double wooden doors.

In 1897 the present steeple, which is 85 feet tall, was added. The protruding square front bell tower has a pointed spire with brackets along the tower eaves; there are four decorative pinnacles at the base of the spire. In 1947 electric light fixtures were added. The Church is now privately owned. St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church at Woollam is an example of Victorian Gothic architecture.

DESCRIPTION THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The back part of the Idel stone house was built before the Civil War; the front section was added later. This rock house has walls 12" to 18" thick; the limestone was originally cut from the nearby rock quarry. This two story structure has a gable roofline and a tin roof. The front of the building has evenly spaced windows of six over six panes framed in white surrounds with lug sill. There are two double front doors on both levels. The two tiered front porch has a hip roofline, porch posts with brackets and spindles along the porch frieze.

The Idel stone house is a beautiful example of modified Greek Revival architecture.
