42. Further Description of Important Features
The building has a center extension on the northeast, which is surmounted by a shingle pedimented gable. There are triple window dormers extending from the northeast roof, also from the northwest and southeast roofs. There is a shingle extension on the southwest. A carport has been built across the northeast facade which is out of character with the building.

43. History and Significance
This was one of the Consolidated Schools built in Holt County in 1915-1917. Bigelow's city school built before 1882, was located on this site. Frank Walker, son-in-law of John Chunine; was President of the school board when this building was constructed and helped design it. Mr. Walker was very active in Republican politics.

42. Further Description of Important Features

This building has a spire at the east corner and a bell tower at the north corner of the northeast facade. Windows which are semi-circular are stained glass. Gothic doors are at the east and north sides of the northeast facade. There is a pediment between the spire and bell tower. There is an addition on the southeast.

43. History and Significance

In 1859 Henry Roselius, Sr., C.H. Walter, Henry Dankers, and their wives formed St. John's Church, and shortly thereafter built a frame church on the farm of Henry Roselius, Sr. This was the first religious edifice in Lincoln Township. In the 1880's the congregation moved their building to the town of Corning where it stood for many years, to the southwest of this later building.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings

To the southwest of this building is a white frame building which is identified in the 1918 Atlas as the German School.

This small brick house has stone lug sills and voussoir window headers. There are frame additions on the east and north, and there is a carpenter trim porch on the south.

Dr. J.G. Walker, a native of Lancashire, England, was an excellent musician as well as Druggist and Doctor. He was a graduate of Dartmouth College and the Boston Conservatory of Music. He came to Holt County in 1881 and to Forbes in 1899. His home and office were both in this building. This house was owned for many years by George Cotton, who came to Holt County in 1871, farmed just north of Forbes, and was the [see appendix].

This house is in the town of Forbes. There are no intrusions on this property.

This house is built into the side of the hill so that the east end of the house is two story and the west end is one story. There are stone lintels and lug sills and there is a recessed door with side lights and transom at the southwest corner. There is a frame addition at the lower level on the north. There used to be a porch across the entire north facade.

Vine Hovy was the agent for the Kansas City, St. Joseph, and Council Bluffs Railroad beginning in 1879. A native of Ohio, born 1832, he traveled extensively in the West and saw service in the Civil War before settling in Forest City. Nellie Hovy, the third daughter of the family married Thomas E. Teare, son of Thomas Teare who had emigrated from his native Isle of Man to Holt County in 1866 and settled in Liberty Township.

There are no intrusions on this property.

42. Further Description of Important Features

Tree is a male Cottonwood, an estimated 117 feet in height. It is 22 ft. in circumference and 5 feet in diameter, one direction; 8 feet in diameter the other.

43. History and Significance
Family history of the Schaeffer family is that this is the tree which Lewis and Clark used for mooring on their voyage of exploration up the Missouri River. In 1965, Eldon Hefflin, Commission Forester in St. Joseph, measured the tree and was satisfied it was old enough to have been so used. Cuttings of the tree were made in 1977 by Fred Crouse, Commission Dist. Forester, and in 1979 by Ron Lumb, Commission Dist. Forester, because the male cottonwood does not set seed.

42. Further Description of Important Features
   This house has corner pilasters and eave returns. There is a wide fascia board. Windows have stone lintel window headers and wood lug sills. A carpenter porch has been added to the north and east of the building which stands partially out of the ground at the basement level. When built the building had a series of curing cellars which ran down and to the west so that barrels of brew could be loaded onto the river boats with ease.

(see appendix)

43. History and Significance
   The business was established in 1859 by Christ Krauss and Gustave Roecker who were brothers-in-law. Albert Roecker worked at the Brewery when he first came to Holt County. The originators of the business ran it for four or five years. William Zook then owned it and in 1862 the owner was Jacob Schweinfurth.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings
   There is an outbuilding at the rear of the property.

45. Sources of Information
   See appendix.
These cellars, a portion of which remained until fairly recently, have now been closed up.

This building has a boomtown facade on the east. There are large show windows flanking a recessed door. There is a brick stoop on the east and an outside basement entrance on the south.

Dr. Joseph Lafayette Minton had his office and drug store in this building in the latter part of the 19th century and Dr. John Cox was here later. The building still shows that it was a Drug Store since the apothecary shelves are still there.

There are no intrusion on this property.

Historical Information

The first meeting place of the Christian church was held in the residence of Richard Bagby, 2 miles east of Mound City in 1851. The Church in Mound City was organized and a small building was built on the north side of Davis Creek at the south edge of Mound City. It was used for church services from 1874-1876. (see appendix)

Description of Environment and Outbuildings

The first parsonage built in 1878 sets directly east of the church. On the southeast corner of the property is a new parsonage that was built in 1967. There is a large lawn and a number of trees, bushes and flowers on the property.

Sources of Information

Notes

- There is a recess on the northwest corner of the building which is the entrance to the basement. The pastors study is directly inside the door. A steeple (with a cross) rises immediately above the bell tower. In 1930-31, the full basement was built under the church. In 1956 an addition was built on the south side of the building that contains four Sunday School class rooms. In 1963 an addition was added to the west side of the building to (see appendix)

house the New Baptistery.

#43 Appendix

A building was built at the present location in 1877 and completed in 1878. On February 7, 1932, at 8 a.m., the building burned to the ground. The fire was caused by a kerosene burner that exploded in a small class room near the bell tower. The Fire Department had trouble with a door that was difficult to unlock and a truck engine that would not start. It was 30 minutes before they reached the scene. By that time, the attic over the auditorium was dropping on the pews.

The present building was built over the basement of the old church which required only a few months to complete. There was one head carpenter and many volunteer laborers. The final payment on the new building was completed in 1938.

This building has had many additions from the period when it was a school until its present status as a residence. There is a small round window in the upper portion of the south facade which ties it to the early school structure. There are wrought iron pillars and aluminum awnings on the south facade.

43. History and Significance
The original portion of this structure was the first school in Mound City. By 1882, George Bennett, a druggist was living here.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings
There is a high brick retaining wall on the south and west sides of the property.

This vernacular style house has two pediment dormers in the roof line. Each dormer has an eyebrow of roof and weatherboard siding. The smaller of the two dormers has a 3/3 pane of glass in the window which matches the upper sashes in the windows on the main floor of the house. The porch which runs across the front of the house has the dormer overhanging the center portion. The roof is supported on Tuscan columns which have rectangular bases.

43. History and Significance
Ward Proud, a local cement specialist, did much work in the area and built this house for his own home.

   The bell tower is Gothic in design with a steep pitched hip roof. There is a cross on the top of the roof. The Gothic windows are divided with muntins in a Gothic shape and stained glass is used in the larger of these windows. Patterned shingles are used in the gable ends of the building.

   - History and Significance

   In 1879, a 30' x 40' frame structure was built at the corner of 4th and Nebraska for a cost of $1,400. This also included the bell, organ and furniture. In 1890, this building was moved to 7th and Mound Streets and although various additions have been made through the years, this is a part of the sanctuary today. (See appendix)

   - Description of Environment and Outbuildings

   The structure is located within three blocks of the downtown business district and within one block of the city park, City Hall and school. A large gravel parked parking lot is located on the west side.

In 1892, the sanctuary was built. A basement was dug for additional use in 1916. In 1956, a two story addition was built on the west side, making four classrooms and a minister's study. In 1967, the kitchen area in the basement was remodeled and enlarged and two restrooms were installed. In 1971, the chancel area was enlarged and oak paneling was used to remodel the sanctuary. An entryway was added on the northwest corner in 1978.

This vernacular style home was built of bricks which were kilned in Mound City. The outer walls are 1 1/4 inches thick and the four room pattern was typical of many homes built in this area around the turn of the century. There was a kitchen room added to the rear of the house in 1909 and a porch added on the front of the structure at a later date.

Mr. James W. Oyerly was a carpenter and built the house in 1891. The Oyerley family has always owned the house and some members of the family live in it even today.

43. History and Significance

There is a shed on the southeast corner of the property.

There have been several additions added to this structure over the years. In 1918, the front porch was enlarged and two rooms were added at the rear of the house in 1920. In 1950, the porch was enclosed and in 1970, a tower was removed from the house. A second addition was added on the rear in 1972. There is a large window with stained glass used in the upper portion.

This home has been owned by one family for three generations.

A detached three car garage was converted from an original horse barn.

This house is a conglomerate of several periods of influence and also one of the oldest houses in Mound City. The Queen Anne style of the home incorporates most of the eclectic styles of the period. There is a three story octagonal tower at the main entrance. This is capped with a Bell shaped roof that is topped with a finial. The exterior is a shingle pattern. (see appendix)

43. History and Significance
Mr. Glenn was a business man in early Mound City, operating a drug store and lumber yard which was established in 1870 by his father, John H. Glenn. The block between 5th and 6th on Main Street is named the Glenn Block.

#42 Appendix

There are chafered corners at the first floor level. This level of the exterior is covered with clapboard while the second floor exterior is covered with patterned shingles.

The tee extension of the house has an eyebrow roof at the attic level. There are two different shingle patterns used in the gable. The oriel window in this gable has a bracket under it and a portion of the gable has brackets at the second floor level.

On the north side of the house there is carpenter bargeboards at the peak of the gable. There are brackets and dentils used in various spots along the eaves at the first, second and third floor roof lines.

The porch entrance is topped by a pediment with patterned wood shingles in the wall portion. The roof is supported on Tuscan columns set on rectangular bases covered with patterned shingles. There are spindle ballustrades between the columns.

On the inside of the house are plaster walls, oak woodwork, decorated with scroll block designs and lions head. There are two fireplaces of imported Italian marble surrounded by oak woodwork with decorations and carvings, and a large mirror. One fireplace is on the first level, and the other is on the second level.

The staircase has been removed. One room is floored with hardwood floors. This house formally contained 20 rooms. There are three chimneys, two of which are fireplace chimneys.

Before the turn of the Century the Mound City Company Extension Addition bought from George Gillis 80 acres of land for an addition to the town and Chautauque Park was set aside for a public park with certain restrictions. In 1911, the businessmen of Mound City decided they wanted a Chautauqua, so Roy Carter was appointed as Chairman of the Chautauqua committee and in 1912 they introduced to Mound City and vicinity their first Chautauqua. Chautauqua, an outdoor amusement, was always held in a tent. Mound City was put on the Redpath Chautauqua Circuit. Some of the finest talent in the land made the circuits. John Phillip Sousa probably the greatest band leader of all time, William Jennings Bryan the great orator, Opie Read the novelist, George Ade the national known humorist and many other great notables made the Redpath Circuit. It was the highest class entertainment in the land. Besides the big tent, the park was filled to overflow with smaller tents of all sizes, from the two person tent to those large enough for a large family or two. Most of them came prepared to cook and stay the full week of the Chautauqua. From Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and from many miles around they came to stay all week, the program changed daily with new shows and new faces. Due to the automobile, the radio, and the depression about 1930 saw the end of the Chautauquas.

The house has been modernized on the interior with a large kitchen and downstairs bath, a porch glassed in and concrete steps and iron railing on outside entrance. The front porch has been enlarged and repaired. The house has an octagonal shaped tower at the north-west corner which is topped in a finial. The east extension of the house has a large window with stained glass (see appendix).

43. History and Significance
The house was built by the Markt Family and was owned by members of this family until purchased by Mr. Wilson in 1939. Not much is known about the Markt family, but the house was purchased from the estate.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The house is located on level lots, wide lawn, and beautiful pine and oak trees. Only a garage is on the property; constructed by present owner.

Further Description of Important Features

The home was bought from the McCoy-Miller heirs by W.H. Crawford in 1938 and used as a funeral home. No structural changes were made until 1959 when an addition was built on the east side of the home. It is a 20' x 40' chapel. The original porch was removed to do this. The original home is intact, however, and the oak paneling and stairs and leaded glass windows have been (see appendix).

History and Significance

The McCoy family bought this site of eighty acres in 1880 and the area is still known as McCoy addition. McCloys and Millers both lived in this house. Miss Helen McCoy established the city library. W.H. Crawford bought the home in 1938 and lived there until 1950. His son Jim and family lived there until 1973 when Jim Crawford died.

Description of Environment and Outbuildings

The Pettijohn & Crawford Funeral Home is located on three lots with a large front yard and has several trees. There is a four car garage on the property and a blacktop driveway. The property is in the north part of town in the residential area.

42. Further Description of Important Features

There are three chimneys on the house, one offset right front, one offset right center and the third is offset right rear. There is boxed cornice and plain and decorated frieze. There is a high center gable with swept dormer. The swept dormer has a half-round window with stained glass. There are two large fixed windows, one with leaded clear glass across the top. The remaining (see appendix)

43. History and Significance

The land this home was built on was a land patent from the State of Missouri to James H. Heard, September 18, 1849. Through the years it was inherited by his wife at his death, and then passed to various children. On February 11, 1880, one of his heirs sold a large plot of ground to Thomas W. McCoy for $3,650. An interesting fact (see appendix)

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings

The only outbuilding remaining is a garage on the south side. The home is located in a well developed neighborhood on a well traveled paved street sitting well back from the street.

windows are double hung. There is stained glass used at the rear of the house.

There is door and window molding used, it is plain with gingerbread trim in eaves. There are several porches on the house. On the west there is an open porch, A porch circles around from the east to the south side with turned posts and railing with columns.

Oak mantles with marble are on the wood burning fireplaces. The wood work throughout the house is burled wood. The entry on the back entrance has been enlarged to be used as a utility room. An open porch was added on the back.

is that in 1919, an attachment was still on the original abstract that James H. Heard was buried on a part of the ground and a reservation of five by ten feet was held back, being the place of his grave. In 1919, affidavits were attached to the deed, made by John M. Tracy, M.D. and John H. Glenn, stating that they were sure the grave did not contain the body of James H. Heard as his body had been removed many years before, (copies of these affidavits are attached.)

Mr. McCoy a prominent figure in the development of Mound City, divided the ground into lots and sold them. The Pettijohn-Crawford Funeral Home was the McCoy Residence. This became the McCoys addition. On February 14, 1898, William McRoberts and his wife Nellie purchased the north 25' of Lot 6 and all of lot 5 except the north 5' of Block 2. On February 13, 1913, Mr. McRoberts purchased the north 10' of the south 40' of lot 6 in Block 2 from Francis J. Gaskill and wife, Louisa E. for $100. In about 1900, Mr. McRoberts built his home. October 15, 1919, the John C. Strobel family bought the home and lived there until September 20, 1943 when they sold it. The home was sold several more times until the Burnsides purchased the home in 1970.

John M. Tracy, M.D., being duly sworn, on his oath states: I am 80 years of age, and have lived in Mound City, Missouri, and in the immediate vicinity of the NE\(\frac{1}{4}\) NW\(\frac{1}{4}\) of Section 31, Township 62, Range 38, Holt County, Missouri, since prior to the year 1870, and during all of said time have been familiar with the ownership and possession of the said land.

My attention has been called to a reservation of five by ten feet, being the grave of James H. Heard, contained in a deed made by B. F. Heard one of the heirs of James H. Heard, made in the year 1870. I knew the location of the grave referred to. I further know that the body of the said James H. Heard was removed from the grave, many years, ago, and that the use of the said tract for a grave has been abandoned.

History and Significance

The curtain went up the night of October 21, 1938 at the new State Theatre; the finest show house Mound City has ever had. When the opening date was set early in October, the owners, George Harttman and Associates of Kansas City, issued orders that artisans must work day and night if necessary to have it ready on time and as the opening hour drew near, the frontage was stretched to make ample leg room. Along each side of the seating area runs a tier of seats, four to the row. The center section has eleven seats to the row. The aisle carpet is a figured red background that stretches the full length of the theatre and thick padding underneath the carpet (see appendix).

deadens footfalls and shuffling of feet. On either side of the lobby illuminated signs direct the patrons to the two rest rooms, each which has wash stand, drinking fountain, mirror and stool. The sidewalls of the auditorium have been painted to resemble the walls of a moss grown Medieval Castle. A silver beading runs the length of each side-wall to the top of the maroon dado. At intervals the beading rises through a silver medallion supporting indirect lighting fixtures composed of opal glass slabs inside of which are many colored bulbs. The ceiling is bare of lamps. The indirect sidewall fixtures are capable of reproducing every color of the rainbow. Reddish lights are used in cold weather, and green or blue in summer for a cooling effect.

The theatre was originally heated with automatic oil burners but now has natural gas. It is supplemented by a blower system. Cool air is sucked in from the lobby through a huge duct underneath the concrete floor. It is warmed and forced out of two large grills in front of the stage. In summertime, chilled, washed air circulates through the building by an air pressure blower. The ceiling is equipped with blowers and ventilators to permit the free egress of heated air through the roof.

Built of cinder blocks and yellow pressed brick the State Theatre is practically fireproof. Steel trusses support the roof. The floor is concrete.

near the sound technicians finished adjusting the delicate apparatus and checking acoustics, while expert machinists and electricians put the final touches on the intricate mechanisms of the projection room. All was in readiness when the standing room only crowd began pouring in.

For days before the opening, a great many telegrams from Hollywood were received by Mr. Harttman congratulating the owners on the fine building. Among those heard from were Edward G. Robinson, Pat O'Brien and Bette Davis.

The building and equipment cost $24,000 a large sum of money in 1938, but there is no more modern picture theatre in Northwest Missouri than the State Theatre. It stands emblematic of the faith these Kansas City men had in Mound City and the surrounding territory.

This store has a pressed metal front. The windows are plate glass with an aluminum awning.

This structure was built by two brothers, Sam Austin and Jim M. (Stonchy) Austin for men's furnishings. It was later used for hardware, barbershop, beer joint and finally as a seed, nursery and gift shop.

There is an alley and parking lot at the rear and on the side. There is an extension on the basement of the west facade.

42. Further Description of Important Features

This structure has 12/12 pane windows on the south side of the building on the lower level. The upper level has 12 small panes in each opening. There are two large ventilators in the roof of the structure. The brick and mortar facades of the building end in a series of steps. In the center there is a round window which has been replaced with several slats for ventilation.

43. History and Significance

This was the original structure where electricity was generated for Mound City and ice was made on the premises for the community.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings

There is an addition on the north of the structure which served for ice storage.

Further Description of Important Features

There are heavy drop hoodmolds over the windows on the second floor. Corbelled brick is used to accentuate the upper story with pilasters and heavy brackets at the cornice. The front on the first floor levels has a new metal cornice, but the cast iron framing remains in place.

History and Significance

The building was purchased in 1916 by Lester Pettijohn and W.H. Crawford and was used continuously as a retail furniture store until 1978. A fire in 1950, at the back of the building caused considerable damage. It was replaced in 1951 by a new building which houses offices. The front of the building was not damaged by the fire.

This Italianate style building has drop hoodmolds over the second floor windows. There are dentils of corbelled brick and heavy brackets at the cornice. The first floor store front has been remodeled.

Frank Harmon bought the land in 1895 and built the building. The building was a drug store until October 1964 when Denzil & Doris Griffith bought the building.

This is in a business area with several similar style buildings within a two block area.

It was originally built in 1952 to house a barber shop facing State Street. Behind the shop, facing the lawn area, are two residential apartments, one a four room apartment at the front and a two room efficiency apartment in the rear. Both are of nearly fireproof construction of cement block, heated by forced air oil furnace.

Further Description of Important Features

This house has dormers on the south facade, and east facade. There is a center gable on the south and a Federal style porch on the center of the south facade. Windows have stone lintels and lug sills. There is a Gothic window in the attic level of the west facade.

43. History and Significance

George Luckhardt emigrated from Germany in 1850 and came to Holt County in 1855. He was a watchmaker and jeweler. He served as county treasurer for two and one-half years during the War. After the term as treasurer he opened a photograph gallery. In 1865 he purchased this house and 80 acres and raised registered Poland China hogs. He also

The east facade has pedimented open dormers cut into the slope of the roof. The porch on the east is roofed by a portion of the house roof. There is a gable roofed ell on the northwest.

43. History and Significance J. B. Payne, who came to the county in 1849, and settled in the No. River bottoms, came to Oregon after the Civil War and established a lumber business. He then went into the General Merchandise business from 1871 to 1877, when he purchased the stave factory. J.B.'s son, James, who was born in Lafayette, Kansas, while his father was in business there, continued the Mercantile business on the corner of Nodaway and Washington Streets. James W. built this house.

This building has a boomtown front on the East. The second floor facade has a triple center window with shaped intablature window headers. On the first floor there is a recessed door and wood pilaster and post trim.

From the 1880's until 1917 this was the Oregon Post Office. In 1917 St. Joseph Transmission Line was built from St. Joseph to Holt County to supply the area with electricity, which was produced by the St. Joseph Light, Heat, Power, and Railway Company. From 1929 to 1978 this was the office of the St. Joseph firm.

There are no intrusions on this property.

Missouri holds claim to one of the most unique natural features of the world—the loess mounds of Mound City. Yet the stark beauty, the surprising grandeur of these mounds is little known even to the citizens of their mother state.

A ride up into these mounds located in the northwestern part of the state, is not something to be tried by the faint of heart. There are numerous dirt roads leading to the tops of the mounds, which rise some 200 to 300 feet into the air. A car with four-wheel drive is the best vehicle to use on such a venture. However, any old car of sorts that can take a few bumps will suffice. The trip up can be pretty wild and exciting! Once you start, you don't stop till you reach the top because in the soft loess soil the car will bog down, and get stuck, and then you have to back down to the bottom. So you get going, and you keep going over the deeply gutted, bumpy, winding, soft dirt road until you reach the top. The yellow color of the loess soil, the unusual foliage, the sheer cliffs and the deep ravines all help to make the ride one that you will not soon forget.

When you reach the top you turn around and get the car pointed downhill. Then you can get out and enjoy the breathtaking view across the mounds and on to the Squaw Creek National Wildlife Refuge. Mother Nature could not be closer or more beautiful than she is here.

The mounds tell their own story—they should, at all cost, be preserved. And they should be developed for all to see and enjoy as one of our state's most beautiful, as well as unusual natural oddities. Loess soil is not unique. It is found in small deposits elsewhere in the United States, particularly in the Palouse region of Washington. It is the parent soil of much of the rich agricultural area of Central America, Argentina and Europe. Loess soil is abundant in the Rhine Valley in Germany, where great quantities of grapes are produced, and it has been called the foundation of the wine industry there. It is also found in northeastern China in the Yangtze River area, and it is loess soil particles suspended in the Yellow Sea and the Yellow River in China that give these waters their characteristic yellow color.

If loess soil is found so abundantly in the world, why then all the fuss to preserve these mounds? It is true that there are deposits elsewhere, but there is actually very little of the pure loess soil to be found. In most places it is mixed with other types of soil, and there are only three places in the world that can boast deposits of the pure loess soil. The mounds of Mound City are believed to be the only true parent loess formation with the free world.
For years, the formation of these mounds was a mystery to geologists and scientists, and various theories were put forth to explain their existence. Even volcanic eruptions were a suggested theory. However, it is now generally believed that the soil is Aeolian in nature, e.g., wind borne, and wind deposited. It has been ascertained that they date back to the Pleistocene or glacial age when quartz and other rocks were ground to a fine powdery dust by the glacier. After the great ice sheets, which covered Europe and North America retreated, the fine particles were swept up by the winds and the airborne dust was carried great distances before it was finally deposited into these mounds along the Missouri River Valley.

Qualities of loess soil make it unique. Loess soil is a very fine-grained dust that has been compacted into thick blankets of coherent tan-colored unstratified loam. The unique property of loess is its ability to stand in nearly vertical cliffs without needing lateral support to keep it from sliding, in spite of its soft dust-like quality. There are no rocks at all in loess soil, however, there are numerous fossil snail shells, and deposits of calcium, called dolls. These dolls range in size from about a half inch to six or seven inches. In some cases they resemble moth cocoons, or with a good stretch of the imagination little dolls.

Though the soil resists wind erosion and crumbling, any trickle of water will cause it to virtually melt like so much sugar, causing deep ravines throughout the area. In many places tall perpendicular walls have stood for years without collapsing or washing away. These perpendicular walls, deep ravines and sharp vertical banks scar the face of the mounds into unforgettable and grotesquely beautiful shapes. Even the vegetation which grows on the mounds is unique in the area. It is a type generally found in desert areas and its growth on the mounds is being studied with keen interest by geological students.

Until the 1930's the citizens of Mound City took the mounds for granted, not realizing their vast importance, both geologically, and as an attraction for tourists. "The hills have always been there, so why get excited over them?" They were too steep to grow anything, and besides the soil requires too much water. Everytime it rained the water cut into the ravines more deeply. However, a few citizens began to realize that the building of a highway or real estate development could wipe out the mounds forever. And so it became a project of the women's clubs of Mound City to find some means of preserving the mounds for posterity. Mr. E.E. Camp, instructor in physical geography in the local high school in 1930, realized their unique physical geography qualities and began a program of securing public interest. For many years continuous attempts were made to spark interest in their development and preservation, but all attempts were rebuked.

A project was incorporated called "Operation Gabby," or people tell people. The project sought to build local pride and interest in the mounds, it worked. The St. Joseph Museum became interested in the mounds and began publishing pictures, arranging displays, and generally publicizing them. Finally in 1950, the Missouri Chapter of the Conservation Department voiced interest in the mounds and gave the local committee a long, technically compiled questionnaire to be filled out. The questionnaire was turned over to members of the various federated women’s clubs in Mound City. A committee to complete the questionnaire was formed from the club rosters, and the work in filling it out commenced. In 1965, a representative from the Conservation Department in Washington, D.C. came to Mound City and the Federal Government through the National Wildlife Reserve showed a willingness to purchase a choice peak specimen which could be used as an access road and overlook.

The brother of a local banker, Mr. Jameson McCormack of St. Louis, an ardent conservationist, heard about the mounds and the attempts to preserve them. He purchased approximately 200 acres of land including some of the most important mounds, for $20,000, stating, "If those ladies want it, hell, I'll buy it for them!" (sic). The future of Mound City's mounds are now secure. But that is not the end of it. Interstate Highway 29 was built, passing between Mound City and the mounds. Two rest areas overlook the mounds and the nearby Squaw Creek National Wildlife Refuge are very special points of interest. A possible self-guided tour with signs hopefully will be established. State and federal help has been acquired and local cooperation and enthusiasm is at an all time high. The land will be leased to the newly formed Mound City Loess Soil Corporation which is to pay three percent interest annually to the Conservation Department. At the end of 25 years, if the corporation still exists, it will acquire title to the property. If not, the title will go to the Conservation Department. The new conservation foundation has insured the preservation of the "parent soils" for posterity, and the mounds, in all their natural beauty and wonder will remain infinitely as one of the world's most beautiful and unusual spectacles.

Lookout View rented for $10 a week. The resort also had lawn tennis and a bath house exclusively for the ladies. In 1918, he listed himself as proprietor of Lake View Farm. The lake front portion of his farm is now a part of Big Lake State Park. Iden died in 1942.

This is a site therefore there are no architecture descriptions. This state park on Big Lake, a natural oxbow lake of some 625 acres, has 110 campsites, both primitive and developed. In addition, a swimming pool and motel with restaurant and meeting room can be found in the park.

While known as Big Lake since 1882, this lake appears on official maps as late as 1918 as the Tarkio Slough. It has been famous for its fishing and water sports for years. The state acquired the park in 1932, one of the first in northwest Missouri, and has been developing it since. A portion of the park includes what was Iden's (see appendix).

This is a lake front area with many trees.

Henry Jones, a native of Ohio, born in 1838, came to Holt County in 1866 and settled on a farm in Section 26, TWP 61 N R 40 W just west of the Catron farm. By 1898, he owned this farm in Section 9. His son, Guy, was one of the more successful cattlemen of this area, calling the farm Broadview Hereford Farm. In 1918, the farm extended north to the Benton township line.

This is a farm site, there are numerous farm building on the property.

At that time he married Mary Ann Kunkel and purchased the Stephenson farm in the spring of 1851. In the 1877 Atlas, Meyer is shown as owning over 400 acres of land. The farm is still owned by his heirs and was named a Centennial Farm. It is probable that the first frame building in Forbes Township, erected as a house by John Russel, is incorporated in this house.

This conservation area comprises the triangular shaped bluff area which fronts on the Nodaway and Missouri Rivers.

43. History and Significance: When this area was settled an original settler is reputed to have remarked "It would take a monkey to climb that mountain!" The area is known locally as Monkey Mountain. The Missouri River came to the foot of this bluff as late as 1918. It was in the eastern part of the Section 23 where Abraham Brown laid out his town of Dallas in 1846. While the town flourished it was the main shipping point for Oregon. (see appendix)

Further Description of Important Features

South facade has 4/4 eyebrow windows. It almost appears that this may be the combination of three houses. There is a lean-to roofed section at the northeast and two dissimilar gable roofed sections which are now connected. All has been covered with asbestos siding.

History and Significance

This property is shown as being owned by Nancy Tisdell in 1877, and a house is shown. The Franscher family, stockraisers and farmers in Forbes Township around the turn of the century owned this house for a long while.

Description of Environment and Outbuildings

This is a farmstead with numerous buildings on the property.

42. Further Description of Important Features: This house appears to be two houses. The southwest extension has the heavy fascia board and \( \frac{1}{4} \) window of an early, possibly antebellum house. The north end of the house has ornate corner pilasters, carpenter trim porches on the northeast and northwest, and the eaves have a pediment effect. There is also a carpenter trim porch on the east side of the south ell, which connects it to the rest of the house.

43. History and Significance: John Crider, a native of Pennsylvania, was born in 1835. He moved to Holt County in 1869 and became one of the county's leading landowners. He had an orchard of over 300 trees at his homeplace. His granddaughter is the present owner, the property has been in the family since 1871.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings: This is a farm site with numerous buildings on the property.

The highlight of this building is the feeding shed which has been built onto the south and east sides of the barn. The barn has a hay floor with loading system on the north. The south facade has a "Pennsylvania Dutch" hex symbol built into the wall.

43. History and Significance This farm belonged in the 1879's, to George Meyer, the early settler in Forbes Township, and later to his son-in-law Wm. Rankin. The feeding shed is indicative of the importance of the livestock industry in this area. Mrs. Morris says that because of it they lose very few weanling calves and that her brother-in-law now brings his calves over to this farm for weaning.

he purchased the bull "Knight of St. George" in Kentucky, and the next year purchased fifteen head in Ohio. In 1872 he purchased "Loudon Duke the Sixth" from William Warfield of Lexington, Kentucky. This bull took over 50 premiums in exhibitions all over the Midwest. His daughter, "Loudon's Minnie" a red heifer took the Gold Medal at the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia. The Kneale family first came to Holt County in 1865, settling in Nodaway Township. James Kneale, the first Kneale in the County, was born on the Isle of Man.

There is a pediment on the roof on the west facade. Exposed rafters can be seen at the eave on the west facade.

43. History and Significance

The district was consolidated in 1917 and a school was built on this location which burned to the ground the second winter. This building was built in 1918 and housed both grade and high school (through the 10th grade). The district was consolidated with Oregon in 1952 for High School and 1967 for Grade School.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings

There are no intrusions on this property.

The shingle pattern on this house roof is diamond shape. There is the typical prairie roof overhang. Wall dormers extend from all four facades of the roof. There is a flat roofed porch with Tuscan columns on concrete block pedestals. There is a screened porch on the east.

43. History and Significance

Alf Kunkel, a member of the Kunkel clan, built this house and is reputed to have gone broke over it. John C. Abplanalp came to Holt County, ca. 1865, from Indiana. The name Abplanalp, meaning "from the mountain" traces back several centuries to a mountain avalanche near Bern, Switzerland, where the only survivor, an infant unknown child was named Abplanalp by those who rescued him. Sam Planalp (this generation has dropped the "bl") is the grandson of John C.

Further Description of Important Features

This house has a bracketed cornice. A two story carpenter trim porch is in the center bay of the south facade. There are bay windows at the east and west. The windows which are paired on the south facade have ornate label window headers. There is an addition on the northwest.

History and Significance

Daniel Kunkle was born in York County, Pennsylvania in 1815 and grew up in Ohio. In 1847 he emigrated to Holt County and the second year here built a grist mill, and by 1849 had it in operation. In 1861 he enlarged his mill to include machinery for carding wool. In 1865 he enlarged the mill once again to include the manufacture of cloth. Kunkle also invented a washing machine in 1864, which was exhibited at the Centennial (see appendix).

Description of Environment and Outbuildings

There are numerous farm buildings on the property.

Further Description of Important Features

This house has bay windows on either side of the door on the south facade with heavy hooded roofs. There is a bracketed cornice and the center porch is carpenter trimmed.

History and Significance

George Patterson was the son of Henry Patterson who located with Miwok Toole in Savannah MO. in 1837, when there were probably no more than twelve white settlers in the entire Platte Purchase. Toole was the first Circuit Clerk of both Andrew and Buchanan Counties. Mr. Patterson moved to Holt County in 1858 where he settled on Section 32, Township 60N, Range 37W, becoming a very prosperous farmer and stock raiser, as was his son George. George Patterson was born in Andrew County while the family lived there.

Further Description of Important Features

This house remnant has stone lintel window headers and wooden slip sills. There is a door in the south front. The limestone blocks are two feet thick.

History and Significance

William Banks was born on the Isle of Man in 1811. As a young man of 15 he shipped out on an ocean vessel as a hand. In the spring of 1832 he shipped as a deckhand on the Steamboat Yellowstone, which was in the service of the American Fur Co. and was the first steamboat to go upriver on the Missouri as far as the Rocky Mountains. (see appendix)

Description of Environment and Outbuildings

There is a laid stone spring house and the remnant of a limestone kiln on the hill in back of the house.

On this trip up the Missouri he cut wood for the boat at the point in Holt County which he returned to settle nine years later. This area, a part of Section 15, Township 59N, Range 38W, was called Jeffrey's Point after Jeffrey Dorway, a mulatto who spoke English, French, and five Indian languages, and served as an interpreter between the white settlers and the Indians. Banks purchased Dorway's pre-emption for six hundred dollars and he and his partner, John McIntosh, started a merchandise business which proved unsuccessful. In 1844, Banks started a ferry at this location which he had named Iowa Point. This was the only ferry of the Missouri north of Robidoux's Landing, and proved to be very successful. He operated the ferry until 1856, when he sold it, having ferried hundreds of '49ers across the river during the Gold Rush. At some point he purchased the land on which this house stands. At the time of his residence here, there was a free flowing spring in the river bluff behind his home and he supplied water to the Kansas City, St. Joseph, and Council Bluffs Railroad. By 1882 Mr. Banks owned over 1,000 acres of Holt County land.

History and Significance

John H. Hogrefe, a native of Hanover, Germany, was born in 1816, emigrated to the United States in 1842. Before coming to Holt County in 1850 he became a preacher in the German Methodist Church and when he settled this farm he engaged in preaching in Holt County. George Haer, who was one of the early 1840 settlers of Holt County, established a farm on Section 28, Township 62, Range 40, on the bank of the Missouri (see appendix).

Description of Environment and Outbuildings

Immediately west of this house is a slough which, when the water table was higher in this area, was a body of water known first as Shulte, and later as Hogrefe Lake. There is a handsome iron fence around the front and front sides of the yard.

Further Description of Important Features

This house has shallow entablature window headers. There is a bay window on the south with bracketed roof cornice. A carpenter trim porch on the southeast has a similar roof and cornice and carpenter turned posts with lace bracketing. A porch on the southeast has been enclosed.

This house has a bracketed cornice, the brackets have pendants. There are bay windows on the east, north, and south with bracketed cornices. Windows have label window headers and window surrounds. There are porches on the north and south with carpenter posts and bracketing.

43. History and Significance

John H. Roselius was the first white settler in what is now Lincoln Township, settling in Section 1, Township 62, Range 40, in the fall of 1840. Henry Roselius was born in Hanover, Germany, but was only three when the family arrived in Holt County. He attended the first school in Lincoln Township and remained on the family farm until the death of his father in 1863. (See appendix)

Elias Penny then owned it and started development of a resort on what was then called Clear Lake, but which he renamed Penny Lake. In 1886, the farm returned to Minton ownership, this time to Joseph Lafayette "Lafe". Lafe was a M.D. and had a practice in Fortescue. While Dr. Minton owned it there was a bridge over the lake and people picnicked on the grounds and fed tame goldfish. The farm was purchased in 1937 on the Courthouse steps by Sylvester Reed, but the Reed family only farmed the land. Wilma is Sylvester's daughter.

This house has two doors on the south facade. Windows have voussoir window headers and slip sills. There are pairs of quarter round windows in the third floor level of the gable ends. There is a large addition on the east and an attached garage on the west.

43. History and Significance George Tritt came to Holt County in 1868 from his native Pennsylvania. A group of settlers came together with Mr. Tritt, of whom two were his sons-in-law, Mathew McGelvin and Henry Young. The sons-in-law bought farms adjacent to Tritt's, and all three were successful farmers. Henry Young's father, John, who was also a member of the group was a brick mason and was probably the builder of some of the fine brick (see appendix).

Jesse Carroll purchased this land in 1844 from Creed Helms and constructed a Stagecoach Inn on the Council Bluffs-Liberty Road. Carroll was killed in a stagecoach accident and is buried on the land near the Inn. The house was bought in 1900 by Christian Lenz and has remained in the family since.

There is a bank barn to the southeast of the house which was built at the same time as the Inn and housed the fresh horses for the Stagecoach line. Carroll Creek supplied water.

Further Description of Important Features

A group of early farm buildings, some of which are built into the side of the hill. One of these, which is long and low with a shed roof is reputed to be the first home of the family. Another, now covered with tin siding appears to have the lines of a house. All have stone foundations.

History and Significance

John Hornecker was born in Germany in 1826 and came to Holt County in 1854. He lived first in the southern part of the county, then in 1857 purchased a farm in Section 35, Township 61N, Range 37W. His son George started farming at this location prior to 1876, and it was subsequently owned by his son Charles.

43. History and Significance

Sharpe's Grove, an area of heavily timbered land in the northeast section of Union Township was the first area settled in northwest Holt Co. Abraham and W. A. Sharpe came from Bracken County, Kentucky in the fall of 1841 and settled in this area. Other early settlers in Sharpe's Grove were John Wise and Jacob Rugh. The Sharp families are still in the area, but have dropped the "e" from their name.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings

Across the road from the Church is Sharpe Cemetery, organized in 1902. The cemetery is enclosed by an iron fence with nameplate over the gate. In the yard of the Church there are several large trees reminiscent of the fact that this area was once heavily wooded.
