DETERMINE THE DATE _Oct, 1985_

The Arlington "General Store" was once the Arlington Hotel. Its basic construction features are a cement foundation, a pine and oak frame, a shingled roof, and a square plan shape. Alterations to this building include a two story square addition to the right exterior. The Arlington Hotel is a Modified Colonial Revival style building. It has a double gallery porch and partial obelisk posts (which are replacements). Side windows have shaped lintels and lugsills, the front windows are two over two. The front entrance has an overhead transom. This two story building has a hip roof and a center ridge chimney.

The Carney/Arlington house is of a Princess Anne style built around 1900. Basic construction details include a rock foundation, an oak frame, and a shingled roof. Basically an "L" plan shape, a right section porch was added later forming a "T" shape. Architectural features are gabled rooflines, paired sash windows on the first floor, a shed roof porch with spindles and Queen Anne turned porch posts. The porch is supported by stone piers. There is a brick ridge chimney. The interior has been completely restored in a modern decor.
STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Architecture. The Carney House is a typical example of Princess Anne architecture that was prevalent around the turn of the century in this region. The foundation stone of this house was brought from Arkansas by the original builders.

The Arlington store was at one time a railroad depot (and store) for the railroad. Basic construction features of this huge two story building include a cement foundation, a full basement and brick frame and walls. The present architectural style of this store is vernacular but it was originally: a Renaissance Revival structure. Architectural alterations include altering segmental relieving arched windows to modern ones and a new gable has replaced the original roof; the brick cornice has been removed. The second story side windows have transom lights; the first story windows have segmental relief arches and lugsill surrounds.

   DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

   The Smith house is an example of a Colonial Revival Style structure. It has a truncated hip roof with projecting eaves and two side slope chimneys. The son has added a cement wraparound porch with square columns and Queen Anne brackets. The wall and roof treatment are of modern materials. The interior has been remodeled. The upstairs used to have eight bedrooms but has since been remodeled to four.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Beulah Post Office was built circa 1869 by Wheeler. The front part used to be a cream room with a well below the room. The back room had the post office. The second floor used to be an upholstery shop. The post office is now in the very front of the building. The basic plan shape of this house is square but the original building has many additions. It is a story and a half and the second floor paired windows are four over four. It has a lean to hip porch and the front bay contains several windows and double front doors. The original siding is covered with new siding. It has a sheet metal roof over the original part of the structure - the original flue is at the rear of the building.

   DESCRIPTION

   This structure was built in 1865 by Wheeler. Delores and Henry Wilgus have lived here for 12 years and bought it from Fred and Margaritte Burkhard. The Wilgus's are very preservation conscious and have maintained this structure in its essential style and period. Alterations include: the addition of two rooms to the west and new windows and siding. The old wooden porch was replaced by a cement floor but the shape and porch posts are original. This property still has the original cistern but now uses well water. This is a very well kept property surrounded by shrubs and trees. The eastern front looks over a pleasant meadow and the western back looks over a shallow valley with trees.

   Description: The Wilgus house is a Bungalow style house with a two sided wraparound porch on the south and the east sides; the porch has obelisk posts. There are brackets supporting the steep pitched gable. There are side dormer windows extending from the east front roof.

DESERIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Ross house is a one story "T" shaped building built around 1910. It is a Colonial Revival style building. Basic construction features are a cement foundation, a tin roof, and exterior double groove siding. It does not have a basement. The gabled front porch is a recent addition; the rear section was built on as a kitchen and bath some time after the construction of the original house. The Ross house has gabled rooflines, two over two windows, and a straddle ridge chimney. A particularly interesting feature of this house is the pediment gable on the roofline leading to the rear.

The Perkins School served as an area teaching institution from its construction until the early 1960's. It consisted of three rooms. One room housed all students in Grades 1 through 4. A second room contained Grades 5 through 8. The third room was used for special projects. After a statewide move to consolidate schools began in the 1950's and 1960's, the school/dwelling is located on a level area in the middle of the old schoolyard grounds. There are currently no outbuildings associated with the site.
students in the area were transferred to the Newburg school system.
The Duke Fire Station originally was used as a store/post office and was owned by J.A. Barr. The Lanes' purchased this building and the son then used it as a machine shop. The son passed away in the 1960's - the building was sold to Ernie McElfresh of Licking, Missouri, in 1982, who subsequently sold it to the Duke Fire Department.

The style of this building is Commercial Vernacular of a basic square plan shape. It has a partially enclosed, extending gabled porch supported by two iron posts. The centered door has paired windows with two over two panes and has eight transom lights of six pane windows. The outside is covered with weatherboard and metal siding.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This house has bright blue painted clapboards with white trim. A wraparound porch with Queen Anne turned posts faces north and west. The original structure was probably (although the owner does not know) added on to which accounts for the irregularity of plan shape and irregularity of the roof line. A high gable faces north and south; a medium gable faces east. The roof is of rusting tin; a roof dormer with a multi planed transom projects on the western side. Anderson has lived here nine years and has replaced the windows, doors, and boards on the porch. The Anderson house is of a modified Queen Anne architectural style.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Webb Feed Store is a vernacular commercial structure. The false front of this building is an abbreviated "boomtown" type. Although the structure itself is a basic square plan the roof line is very irregular. It has a full length frontal porch. It is covered with weatherboard and the four doors and five sash windows are set in plain moulding. The tin roof shed porch with projecting rafters is supported by four squared posts. The building has frame board.

   DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
   The Cedar Hill Church is a log cabin with a construction of hewed logs filled with mortar. It has a tin roof and a rock rubble foundation. The inside appears to have wooden floors, wooden benches, and the original 13 pews. A bell perches upon the medium pitched gable roof. The windows are two over two pane simple sash with molding surrounds painted a white trim. The Cedar Hill Church is located in a cemetery lot and, as its name indicates, is surrounded by many cedar trees.

DESCRIPT THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Ramsey house is of a rectangular floor plan and was built from a log cabin. It is approximately 120 years old - a man named Rudy built it. The original log structure had two rooms of log and a wide hall made of log. The house now has five rooms, which the previous owner, Matt Bine, added. Alterations by Morgan include: replaced stone arched fireplace into a brick fireplace; rebuilt porch and added field rock around front. The Ramsey house is covered with weatherboard and a the roof is covered with tin. The porch ceiling is of board and batten.

The Rees House is a 1 1/2 story Ozark Greek Revival style house. It has yellow clapboard siding and white trim. The porch has a semi-hipped shingled roof supported by four Queen Anne turned posts and a cement floor. The Rees' alterations include: adding a utility room; breezeway; furnace room; bedroom; replacing weatherboard with clapboard. They also redid the ceilings and walls and in doing so found post cards dated 1910. The porch is probably not original but added on some years before the Rees's bought it. The house now has eight rooms downstairs and one room upstairs. The original stairway was open but the Rees's made another because the original was too narrow. The Rees's purchased it from Dessie Davidson.

This building is an unusual design for this area. It has a plain parapet with a brick trim design on the entablature. (i.e. the front facing the street). The side roof line is stepped down. An additional on the rear of the side building may have been added later and is essentially discordant with the original section. The door and front windows are set in plain moulding. The shed roof is supported by three square posts. The outside corners of the building (quoins) project forward, recessing the face of the building.

The Hewitt family bought this house in 1981 from the Scott Melton estate. This house had been in the Melton family for many generations and was built by a Melton in 1885. Originally this house was a full two stories in height but it was cut down to its present size in 1954. The front porch was added in 1954 and a new roof was added in 1975. The wall construction is very solid because it is made of three walls. The kitchen and living room have oak floors under tile and carpeting. This is a Bungalow style low-pitched broad gable structure. The base of the porch posts and railings are of flagstone and have partial post piers; the side door has a hood over it and the eaves have braces for support. The window shutters have been added.

DESCRIPT THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is a Vernacular Modified log house. This two story structure has a steeply pitched gabled roof with exposed rafters framing the front porch. The front section has a double roof dormer with gable and overhang. There is an exterior chimney to the south side made of natural stone.

Alterations: The present owners remodeled the north side back porch into a kitchen 12 years ago. This original structure was a two room log building and built on through the years. The front porch was, at one time, an open porch but the Walls' enclosed it with windows and doors. There were five bedrooms upstairs but one was renovated into a bath. Unfortunately, the house is to be torn down because the wooden foundation is infested with termites.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is a small 1 1/2 story, partial log house with a cross gabled roof. There are wood shingles where the gable and wall lines form a single pediment. The roof is of tin. The wall treatment is of asphalt, the windows and doors have plain molding. The Marsh house has six rooms and a bath. The only alteration made by the Marsh family has been to turn part of a west side porch into a bath.

The Boswell store is a Vernacular Commercial style building with very erratic and irregular rooflines which include a partial hipped roof; a shed roof; a medium gable roof and a partial false front. The front porch is supported by partial pediment posts. The front part of this building is used as a store and the rear section is used as a private residence. It is a nine room structure with two bedrooms upstairs separated by a short hall - the stairs are enclosed. The interior of the home is very modern - the store itself probably retains its original wood floors. The plan shape is irregular.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Houston House in Newburg is a three-story Victorian structure in the Princess Anne Style of architecture with a high, gabled roof and a rectangular floor plan. The building has a simple, restrained exterior covered with clapboard siding. The overall design has little ornamentation but exhibits a rustic elegance that is unique and original. The interior includes 20 rooms, 4 baths, 2 public restrooms, and a public dining room. An open stairway extends from the central hallway on the lower level to the second floor, and a back stairway that is enclosed. There are 8 ground floor entrances; stone piers under the entire structure and an outer foundation of concrete. The property includes a stable in the rear and a two-story annex to the hotel with a front porch and balcony.

SPECIFIC DATES 1883

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Architecture: The Houston House is an outstanding example of the Princess Anne style of architecture during the Victorian period with a high-pitch roofline, central entrance, and simple exterior ornamentation. The hotel is an unusual structure for the Meramec Region with its impressive size, simplicity in design and traditional elements.

Transportation: Following the Civil War, the end of the railway was extended westward from Rolla, Missouri. Newburg, founded in 1883, was almost, if not totally, a result of railroad interests. Its central focus consisted of a railroad repair shop, a roundhouse, extensive yards, and "hill engines" which could boost trains traveling both on the east and west sides of town. The Houston House Hotel and Dining Room served the needs of the railway workers and passengers while playing an important role in the revitalization of the post Civil War economy and the expansion of the railroad.

Newburg, which was founded in 1883, was the result of railroad interests, since its central focus consisted of a railroad repair shop, a roundhouse, extensive yards, and "hill engines" which could boost trains traveling both on the east and the west sides of town.

Synonymous with Newburg and the Frisco Railroad since 1883 is the Houston House which served the needs of railway workers and travelers as a hotel, boarding house, and dining room.

The hotel bears the name of the family who operated it and provided three generations of service until the death of Miss Helen Houston in 1982. The historic building was then closed and its future seemed in doubt, until it was acquired by J. D. Turley.

Mr. Turley has carefully restored this historic landmark; and today, the Houston House is once again open to the public with a fireside atmosphere and traditional dining.

Sources of Information
Hello From Newburg, by Mary Alice Beemer (a Bicentennial book describing Newburg and its history).

Sharon Bergloff, local property owner.
has a curious statement about the next phase of the building's existence:
"With the start of the building at Fort Wood (about 1942), they (the businessmen who owned it) thought it would be a nice gesture to give it to the City as a fund-raising enterprise for the town. The Mayor and Council promptly sold it to Everett Affolter who uses it for lumber storage."
That was written in 1976. The current owners of the building are B.B. and J.J. Turley. It has been partially restored to its original use, as stage plays put on by local talent are performed in the building.

The hotel was originally equipped with a balcony which ran across the entire front as a porch and covered walkway on the second floor. Similar second floor covered walks were built along the sides of the structure. The entablature with its prefabricated metal cornice survives at the top of the wall. An enclosed second floor gallery over the front porch adds to the charm of this early home and stage coach stop. Playground equipment at the site may seem to indicate a school; however, it dates from the 1930s and 1940s when the shrine operated the site as a resort for members.
refreshment or even to spend the night, rather than to push on through the hilly country to the west where the poor road and inhospitable terrain would exhaust men and animals alike.

During the Civil War, the site served for a time as a Union cavalry headquarters and outpost. After the war, when the construction of the Pacific Railroad continued, the building was used by the railroad. Later, in the early 1870's, William James, owner-operator of the Meramec Iron Works, decided to establish a smelter or iron furnace near the location, and utilized the building as headquarters for his furnace at that time. James sold the property to A.H. Knotwell, who also smelted iron at the nearby furnace until 1885.

The Shrine later owned the property, operating the building as a resort in the 1930's and 1940's in connection with the Grotto Hotel, or the Alhambra Grott, located across the road nearer to Little Piney Creek.

When Fort Leonard Wood was in the building stages, the structure was used as the headquarters of the shipping and receiving department associated with the post.

The present owner is Richard Myers, a local physician. His son-in-law and family live at the site.
History and Significance

The Ozark Iron Works was built by William James in 1873. Mr. James is more famous as the owner of Maramec Iron Works near St. James. By the early 1870's, Maramec Iron Works had almost exhausted its nearby supply of iron ore. It was also behind the times in terms of the technology used to process the metal. In 1873, William James (Continued on next page)

43. bought 8,000 acres of land in western Phelps County and built the Ozarks Iron Works. He invested almost $300,000 in the building of this new smelter, and this at the height of the Panic of 1873. His reasoning was to locate new bodies of iron ore and get closer to the Pacific Railway, which later became the Frisco, and is presently the main line in the area of the Frisco division of the Burlington Railroad. This would solve a pressing transportation problem for the shipment of his iron. By 1878, however, James was bankrupt. He sold the Ozark Iron Works to A. H. Knotwell, who continued to smelt iron ore there. The smelter or chimney remaining is referred to by most area residents as the Knotwell smelter, or the Grotto. The last smelting took place at the site in 1885. It was abandoned in 1890.

Following its abandonment, the area became a sort of picnic grounds. In the 1930's and 1940's, it was part of the property used by the Masonic Shrine as a resort. The present owner of the site is Dr. Richard C. Myers.

Built before the turn of the century, this structure served as a resort hotel in its day, with access as a railroad stop and from a local road which used to serve as a stage coach road. It was three stories tall with rooms for vacationers. The basement extended under the whole structure. (Continued onto next page....)

As far as can be determined there were no permanent outbuildings at this site. The terrain is fairly level, being the valley of Little Piney Creek. Bluffs to the west of Newburg, Circa 1880, are made notable by the presence of an iron ore furnace ruin of the 1870s.

Sources of Information
Rod Brown, Caretaker and son-in-law of owner.
Part of the basement served as a stable, where horses and buggies could be housed.

The entrance doorway was built of hewn limestone blocks, while similar blocks served as lintels for the door and windows. Red brick walls remaining indicate wall depth of over one foot thickness. Interior walls were plastered and probably papered. The present owner's son-in-law indicated that the hotel was completely furnished at the time it was destroyed by fire in 1969. All furnishings, as well as the structure itself were destroyed in the fire. The site remains interesting in that it is located in a rural area near a dwelling that once served as a stagecoach stop, and the ruins of the Ozark Iron Works, described separately.

The Mill Creek Church is a one story building that was built in 1887. Its basic construction details include a stone foundation, clapboard wall covering, and a tin roof. The side windows have been boarded over to prevent vandalism.

Its outstanding architectural features are centered double doors, a four pane light transom, and a hood shelter over the steps. It has a medium pitch gable roofline and a rear ridge chimney. The plan shape is rectangular. Its simplistic lines make it a charming and graceful building. The Mill Creek Church is of a Utilitarian architectural style.

Further Description of Important Features
Built circa 1900, this dwelling has been extensively altered. Originally, it comprised a one room log cabin with a loft above so large as to be termed a second floor. An early addition added a frame, second downstairs room and another over it to double the size of the original house. Later, another addition added a lean-to-type rear area which became a kitchen and bedroom. The present structure consists of two rooms on the second floor and four (with a bathroom).

History and Significance
This structure was designed as a one room cabin with a loft, presumably for sleeping. It was a basic single pin log house, a type largely used in this area and with fewer and fewer examples remaining as time passes. The changes described in 42 above have transformed the basic structure into a modern house and completely hidden the old log walls. Its additions

The Gabel house is a two story structure built in 1917. Basic construction details include a cement foundation, a shingled roof, and clapboard siding. Major alterations to the Gabel's house have been the addition of a room on the Eastern side of the house; the addition of sliding glass doors and modern windows on the first floor, and turning a bedroom (onto the first floor) into a dining room.

Outstanding architectural features of this house are its wraparound porches on the West and South sides (with porch spindles), and the ornamental Queen Anne posts. The main section has a medium gable and the eastern addition has a shed roof. The architectural style is Queen Anne.

The Mathis house is a Greek Revival Style structure built around the 1880's. Basic construction elements are a concrete foundation, an oak frame with aluminum siding, and a shingle roof. This two story house has a shed roof back addition (the original section was two up two down), a medium gable roofline with a straddle ridge chimney, and a semi hipped porch roof with modern porch posts and cement floor. The paired windows on the first floor are six over six lights with single sash windows on the second level. The front door is off centered. The porch ceiling has board and batten.

   DESCRIPTION THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Milhfeld house, although close to 100 years old, has been greatly altered through the years. It was originally a log house. Not only have several additions to the original structure been made, but the original building was two stories in height. This second story was cut down over forty years ago by Herbert Gaddy. The porch was added in 1946 and a utility room/bath was added to the Northern side several years after. The Milhfeld house has a rock foundation, a log frame, modern siding and modern roof materials added. The hewed logs are still visible in the rock cellar under the kitchen. It has a medium roof gable and shed porch rooflines with a straddle ridge chimney. This house is located on a ridge overlooking Interstate 44. It is a Vernacular style of architecture.

The Yowell house is of a square plan shape. Several sections have been added to the original. There is a rear section with a shed roofline, the front and side rooflines are gabled with box returns. The foundation is of cement, the roof is covered with rolled asphalt and has an off center ridge chimney. Side windows are two over two simple sash. There is a modern picture window in the front section. The porch has a shed roof and three Queen Anne turned porch posts with a porch ceiling of board and batten. This is a Vernacular style of house. Although once occupied, this house is now used only for storage.

The Kentuck Schoolhouse was built c. 1905 by the members of the Kentuck community in order to meet the educational needs of this once populated rural area. In 1945 the schoolhouse was moved from the heart of Kentuck Hollow to its present location. Its architectural style is Colonial Revival.

Its basic construction details include a hand mixed cement foundation (at its current site), a tin roof, an oak frame and exterior weatherboard siding over three quarters of the building. The front facade has been partially covered with unsightly asphalt shingles. Architectural features are a steep gabled roofline with wide eaves and boxed returns, a centered wooden door with a hood mold, and sash windows with three vertical over single panes. There is a rear ridge chimney made of brick. It has a rectangular plan shape with a shed roof addition to the rear.

The Ornsbey house was originally only two rooms but many alterations have since been made. Although not of any distinct architectural style the original plan shape was rectangular. Alterations to this structure include: building a wood floor on a dirt floor in 1950; a bath and utility added in 1960, and two additional rooms added. It now has six rooms. This is an oak frame house and some sections have wooden square nails. The left exterior section has clapboard and the right exterior has weatherboard. The roof is of asphalt shingle over cedar shake shingles.

This is a traditional styled country church. The building has simple lines reflecting the practical nature of the intended use. The clapboard lap siding is broken by only one opening at the front and three on the original structure on each side. The small gabled entranceway appears to have been added at a later date than the original building, but not long after. The addition was built on in the 1950's or 1960's.

History and Significance:

New Home Church was as its name implies, a new church home for the Baptist parishioners who organized themselves and built the church. It has been used continuously as a house of worship since its inception.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is a two story rectangular plan structure built in 1832. It is a Greek Revival style building with a stone foundation and an exterior stone chimney on both the east and west sides. An addition with a shed roofline appears to have been added to the rear. The Isaac Bradford home has a shingled roof and clapboard siding. Two rooms were added to the front in 1900, and the two story front porch is partly original. The interior consists of nine rooms and three original fireplaces with wooden mantels intact. The carved woodwork remains as well as the ceiling border decorations. The residence has the original flooring in four rooms and ten of the original windows.

SPECIFIC DATES 1832

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Historical - This structure was built by Isaac Neely Bradford in 1832, an early settler in the region. Soon after the turn of the century, the property was acquired by the Freeman Family who was very successful in farming and contributed to the agricultural development of the area. The Freeman Family owned this acreage for more than fifty years until it was sold to U. S. Senator John Danforth around 1967. Mr. Danforth has built a new home on the grounds while the Bradford House is used for the residence of the caretaker for the estate.

Old Lincoln School for Negroes
(History)
by
Earl Strebeck (1984)

The Rolla School Board met on August 2, 1882 and opened bids for the building of a brick school house for the colored children of the community. Two bids were filed as follows: Robert McCaw, $1,297.50; Thomas Hampton and William Ransom, $1,400.00. Robert McCaw being the lowest bidder, was awarded the contract.¹

Henry Hohenschild, the architect was employed to superintend the building. The School Board agreed to pay him 4 percent of the cost for drawings, specifications and superintendency of the work. The building was to be finished by the first of November² and it was to be constructed on two lots which the Board had previously purchased from John Kennedy on July 29, 1882.³

Running behind contract, the school building was finally completed on November 16, 1882⁴ and was opened for occupancy on December 4, 1882.⁵

In 1889, Goodspeed's "History of Phelps County," page 678, reports the following:

"The colored school is a one-story brick, well equipped and under the direction of Prof. Jeffreys (colored) with an attendance of 70 pupils."

When integration came to Missouri's schools the Negro School was closed, but the building is still standing at the northeast corner of First and Pine Streets. It is now a part of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Although small, one room plus a vestibule, the Victorian Romanesque, former negro school house remains a handsome and very visible part of Rolla's past.

THE E.W. JAMES HOUSE
(History)
by
Philip Hornsey

The James House was first owned by E.W. James who was once a resident and the first elected mayor of the nearby community of St. James.

"Old Ed James", as E.W. was called, was not a regular minister. He just thought he could preach, it was said. He was a cabinet and coffin maker. He also sold tombstones. An advertisement in the St. James Journal, February 17, 1899, says: "I am prepared to furnish coffins and caskets of any style or finish at prices from $8.00 up and guarantee satisfaction in every particular. Call and see me at my shop in St. James", signed E.W. James.

Goodspeeds History of Phelps County states that E. W. James had served as County Treasurer in 1863 shortly after Phelps County's creation. As St. James' first elected mayor, he served successfully from 1893 to 1895 without incident. E.W. James was not related to William James who founded the community of St. James and the nearby Maramec Ironworks.

The property was later acquired by Mr. Hunter (first name unknown) who was a furniture craftsman. In later years the house was acquired by a Postal Carrier named Hubert Fallawell who was noted for his sense of humor and by the fact that he was chased by dogs over his entire route. The present owners are unknown and the property is now for sale.

(History)

by

Philip Hornsey

The Warren House was built in 1850 by Edmund W. Bishop, the founder of the city of Rolla. The house was used for an unknown purpose by the confederate army during the Civil War. The house was later acquired by Mrs. McPanal (first name unknown) who ran an antique shop out of the garage. In later years Mrs. McPanal moved to Washington where she died in the 1970's. Before leaving, she sold the house to F. Eugene Warren.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The John A. Dillon house is a two-story log structure built around 1838 in the "Dog Trot" style of architecture. The "dog trot" or breezeway was located at the entrance downstairs with an outside stairway leading to the upstairs bedrooms. The house, 18 by 45 feet long, is typical of that period of history, constructed of hand hewn logs, many of which measure up to 18 feet in length. An outstanding feature of the house was a large cut stone fireplace at each end of the structure. Later, the breezeway was closed in, and the exterior walls were covered with board and batten. In 1966, the house was moved from its original location at Dillon Mo. (three miles east of Rolla) to its present location at 3rd and Main Streets, across from the Phelps County Courthouse in Rolla, and has been restored.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Architecture: The Dillon House is perhaps the earliest and best preserved example in the Meramec Region of a house constructed of hand hewn logs, although modified from its original "dog trot" design when it was originally constructed in 1838.

Exploration / Settlement: The Dillons came to the area around 1838 and were prominent and influential citizens; and it appears the log house they lived in probably dates back to that time. The first record of ownership of the land the house stood on is a land patent, dated July 1, 1848, signed by President Polk, in the Phelps County Recorder's office.

Politics / Government: This two-story log structure was the scene of the organization of the Phelps County Court on November 25, 1857. Prior to this time, Phelps County was part of Crawford County.

11. FORM PREPARED BY

NAME / TITLE | Robert Lacy - Historic Preservation Coordinator |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------|

ORGANIZATION | Meramec Regional Planning Commission |

ADDRESS | 101 West Tenth Street, Rolla, Missouri 65401 |

DATE | August 10, 1984 |
The John A. Dillon two-story log house, originally located three miles east of Rolla in the Dillon community, was the scene of the organization of the Phelps County Court November 25, 1857. Previous to this time, Phelps County was a part of Crawford County. Members of the first court were William C. York, Hiram Lane, and John Matlock.

According to available records, the Dillons came to the area around 1838, and were prominent and influential citizens. The log house they lived in probably dates back to that time. The first record of ownership of the land the house stood on is a land patent, dated July 1, 1848, signed by President Polk, in the Phelps County Recorder's office.

The house, 18 by 45 feet long, is typical of that period of history, constructed of hand hewn logs, many of which measure up to 18 feet in length. Wooden pegs held the original door facings and window trim in place. Pegs were also used to tie the rafters together at the ridge of the roof. These are still in evidence in the upstairs area of the house, along with the Roman numberals sawed into the rafters to enable early workers to get them up in the proper order. The entrance area downstairs was originally an open "dog trot", similar to the breezeway of today, with an outside stairway leading to the upstairs bedrooms. Later, this area of the house was closed in and the exterior walls covered with board and batten. The house is pictured on page 71 of the Phelps County Centennial Book as it appeared around the turn of the century. Still later, the house was covered with composition siding and the two fireplaces removed. Wainscoting, plaster, and wallpaper were added, giving the interior of the house a modern appearance.

It was in this condition, and occupied in 1966, when the owners built a new home, and began tearing the old house down. When they uncovered the well preserved logs, they contacted the Historical Society and offered the structure for preservation. The house was moved to Rolla in two sections, placed on a concrete foundation, and a new roof added, and the old chinking between the logs, etc. began.

Friends and members of the Society donated time, labor, and money to finance the project, and interested citizens of the county donated items of historic value from their families to be displayed in the log house. Dedication ceremonies were held in the museum November 25, 1968, furnishings were arranged and the museum was opened to the public in the spring of 1969.
Visitors to the museum will find many examples of pioneer tools and furniture, much of it handmade. The large room downstairs has been arranged in a "County Store" type setting, and houses numerous items used by early Phelps Countians. The counter of the store belonged to J.M. Dent, who operated Dent's Store on Pine Street in Rolla for many years. The tope holder, spool cabinet, shoe button machine, buggy whip rack, cracker barrel, and several other items were used in this store. The iron clock hung outside Pirtle Jewelers in Rolla. Soda pop bottles from the Strobach Bottling Company, a cigar box from the Burmeister Cigar Factor, and a large walnut wardrobe from the Frozier Wagon Factory family serve to remind one of Rolla's industries.

The "Country Kitchen" downstairs houses crockery, spinning wheel, kitchen furniture, handwoven egg basket, several types of butter churns, a collection of irons, kettles, and other household utensils.

The upstairs of the house is furnished with a parlor, bedroom, and children's area.

Two fireplaces, about the same vintage as the log house, have been donated to the museum by Spring Creek Farms.

The museum is operated by volunteer members of the Historical Society, a non-profit organization, affiliated with the State Historical Society of Missouri. Donations are accepted.

(History)

by
Philip Hornsey

Historical facts on the Horter House are sketchy at best; we can be sure of only a few things. It was built in or about 1903 by Moses Mansbridge after which it was acquired by one Mr. Wilkins (first name unknown) who was a permanent resident in the area. It was sold in 1958 and again in 1968 before being bought by the Horters.

The Tyler House was one of two houses owned by Mrs. Bell (first name unknown) on this block. Mrs. Bell is remembered for proposing to a gentleman, telling him he would never need to work again if he would marry her. This gentleman turned her down, but a second man did not. After her death the house was sold to Harold Tyler who is responsible for all current modifications.

DESCRIPT THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Benton School was constructed in 1909 as a brick Utilitarian structure employing a few details of the Classical Revival period. The central entrance is slightly extended from the front exterior and topped by a decorative pediment with a step pattern that trims the side roofline of the extension. It is a two-story building with a full basement and has been sold to private owners and, consequently, divided into apartments.

BUILDER / ARCHITECT Unknown

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Architecture: The Benton School in Rolla is perhaps one of the best examples of a typical public school building in the Meramec Region constructed around the turn of the century. The Utilitarian style of architecture with its rectangular floor plan, low-gabled roof, and brick exterior placed the emphasis on the use of the structure and the durability of the material, rather than on style. The most outstanding feature of this building is the decorative pediment that is slightly extended from the front facade which is in contrast to the otherwise plain exterior.

Education: The Benton School was constructed in 1909 in Rolla, Missouri and served the community in that capacity for almost seventy years. In 1978, the building was sold to private owners and was remodelled into an apartment complex. It remains as one of the oldest public school buildings still standing in the Meramec Region.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Old Catholic Church was constructed in the Greek Revival style of architecture with an adaptation of the classic Greek temple front employing details of the Doric order. The columns support a full entablature and a medium pitch pediment gable. A central entrance is framed by a shouldered architrave trim with a rectangular transom over large double doors. The roofline is broken by a large octagon belltower which is crowned by a pinnacle-shaped spire.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Architecture: The Old Catholic Church in Rolla is perhaps one of the earliest and best preserved examples in the Meramec Region of the Greek Revival style of architecture. The primary features of this classical style, as reflected in this structure, include the colossal front temple design with doric columns that support a full entablature and a medium-pitch pediment gable. The roofline is accented with a belltower highlighted by a pinnacle-shaped spire.

Religion: The Old Catholic Church was the first church to be built in Rolla, in 1862. It was known as St. Patrick's and became the mother church of all South Central and Southwestern Missouri. At the beginning of the Civil War, the priest, Father Gallagher, was arrested and imprisoned for refusing to take the loyalty oath to the Union.

The Catholic Church was the first church to be built in Rolla. The cornerstone was laid on June 21, 1862 and was dedicated later that year. The cost of the building was $2,500.

The church was known as St. Patrick's and became the mother church of all South Central and Southwestern Missouri. The priest, Father Gallagher, was arrested and imprisoned for refusing to take the loyalty oath to the Union at the beginning of the Civil War. His release was later ordered by General Rosecrans.

The church had a membership of about 40 members and a school was also located on the property.

The style of architecture is Greek Revival with its rectangular shape, low gabled roof, and doric columns.

42 Further Description of Important Features

Built of bricks manufactured in Rolla, the construction of this building was begun in 1863 and completed in 1864. The use of Romanesque Revival style is apparent in the original structure and the additions of 1890 and in some elements of the second addition of 1915. The basic style of the 1956 and 1957 addition remains faithful to Romanesque Revival architecture; however, the finer features of the style have been modified and modernized. (Continued on next page)

43 History and Significance

The first pastors of the Methodist Church in the Rolla area were circuit riders who preached to a number of churches on a regular route, or circuit. The last of these served the area in 1861. By 1862, the first chartering pastor had come to the area. This minister was Francis Boggs. Reverend Boggs preached to a flock which at that time consisted of a large element of Union troops stationed in the area, as well as local citizens. The Rolla (North) Methodist Church Corporation was (Continued on next page)

Elements of Romanesque Revival style which are obvious in the construction of this building include the rounded semi-circular arches above the windows and doorways, the corbel tables along the tops of the walls on the sides and ends which give a supported base to the ornamental brickwork forming small semi-circular arches along the tops of the walls and the tower. The low tower itself with its gable roof is another element of this style.

The arches of the 1890 addition remain faithful to the original style of the church; however, they are more highly ornamented, with several layers of brickwork forming archivoltos. The central arch on the north side of the church has several round-topped windows within the main arch. The wall buttresses and corbel tables also preserve and enliven the Romanesque style of the original structure.

The addition of 1915 shows elements of Romanesque Revival style in its basic shape, as well as the small semi-circular arches atop the walls, with their corbel tables, and the wall buttresses which lend an air of mass and support, and match the original walls. However, the windows have squared corners without arches or lintels, showing a trend away from the more decorative aspects of the Romanesque style. Despite this independence of certain stylistic elements, the basic form has retained the integrity of the original structure.

Stylistic considerations of the addition of 1956-57 indicate a decision to preserve the basic style of the original structure, but to modernize the subtle elements that form the parts. The addition of the bell tower above the main entrance to the church shows the success of this decision. Although it is very modernistic in its construction, it is definitely based on the Romanesque style, as witnessed by its massiveness and its pyramidal shape. The manave also shows a modernistic styling, while retaining enough of the elements of Romanesque architecture to qualify as a legitimate extension of the original structure.

organized by Mr. Boggs after his arrival in the area. By 1863, the church began its building program. The original structure of the church building was completed in 1864. No early photo of the original structure is known to exist; however, the building must have included a steeple on the tower, for the steeple was destroyed by fire in 1878. The tower was rebuilt in 1882, and a new bell installed. The bell is now located on the church ground near the old church's main entrance.

Reverend Boggs served for many years, then was called elsewhere. He returned to fill a second term as Rolla's Methodist pastor in 1900, and is buried at the Rolla cemetery with his family.

During the Civil War, after the construction of the church, the building was used as a refuge from bushwackers and as a shelter for families in the area who has been burned out of their homes by military action. The current pastor of the church, Rev. Willard Spencer, emphasizes this as a continuing function of the church: That it be used by as many groups as possible, in order to get maximum utilization for the area. Several local groups still use the church as a meeting place. The meals program of the church feeds about 100 different people each month. Day care is another function carried on in the church. These programs all serve to aid the community as well as fulfill the tenets of religion whose existence is the church's primary role.

42. Further Description of Important Features

In 1928 the Frisco Company decided to remodel the old fashioned brick depot at Rolla, Missouri to a more up-to-date and modern style. The style chosen was called Spanish Mission. A passion was sweeping the country for silent movies and all things related to Hollywood; including its indigenous Spanish architecture. A style often referred to by such names as Mediterranean (Cal.), Venetian (Florida), Andalusian and Pueblo (New Mexico). It was most generally referred to as Spanish Colonial with substyles dominant at different periods:

Mission - Mid 1880's to c1910;
Mediterranean - c1910 - 1930;
Andalusian - 1920's;
Pueblo - covered the whole time period.

Spanish Colonial architecture has all or some of the following features:

Tiles - orangey-red or reddish brown, terra-cotta or sometimes metal.

Walls - white - painted concrete or stucco.

Ornament - if any, consists of terra-cotta or molded concrete in patterns either vegetal or abstract, sometimes borrowed from Islamic as well as Spanish patterns.

Exposed Wood - verandah or ceilings

Wrought Iron Grillwork

Openings - at least one is round headed.

Forms of Pediments or Walls - tend to be slightly rounded. The gable ends are scalloped/vaguely parapet-like walls.

Thus, after partial demolition and enlargement, there stood on the dedication day (January 26, 1929) a depot in the height of fashion. A long, (36'X 200') low edifice in gleaming white stucco, rubbed brick dado, and red-tile roof was the general scheme. From the central section, the ticket room thrusts out in a shallow bay that rose above the deep eaves to form a tapering bell tower, ornamented on the south side by two grilled windows and flanked by chimneys disguised as part of the tower. Square headed windows and doors punctuate this section in singles and pairs. The end gables rise above the roof in stepped ends which then slope up to a raised plateau that supports a bell-shaped finial.

Attached to the end walls are small flat-roof wings that, on the south end, have two round-headed openings joined by a buttressed pier which encloses a patio. Both wings and bell tower have metal covered "beams" in imitation of the "vegas" exposed roof beams of authentic Colonial Spanish architecture.
The Rolla Depot
(History)
by
Earl Strebeck

The Southwest Branch of the Pacific Railroad Company reached Rolla, Missouri in December of 1860 and the first freight train arrived on December 22 of the same year.¹

The first passenger train pulled into Rolla on "Christmas Day," December 25, 1860 at 5 p.m.² and regular passenger service between St. Louis and Rolla started on December 31 of 1860.³

Before or at about this time the first depot was built, a small frame structure located southwest of the present depot in the vicinity of the Herrman Lumber Company.⁴

By the 1880s the company was sold and the name was changed to the S.F.R.R., San Francisco Railroad.⁶

On July 4, 1881 a fire broke out on Eighth Street burning eastward to and doing damage to the 1860s depot.⁷ The building was repaired and continued to serve the city for over a year.

In July of 1882, Rolla citizens rejoiced on learning that Rolla was to have a new depot. Railroad Superintendent, Turner, arrived on Saturday, July 22, 1882 and staked off the location of the new depot. The new building would be a 24 x 80 foot, one-story, brick structure located 40 yards east (and a little north) of the old depot.⁸

The second depot was completed on December 21, 1882 when Depot Agent Sam Kauffman and his assistants took possession of the building.⁹
Thirty-seven years would pass plus a change of names from the San Francisco Railroad to the shorter Frisco before another change to the depot was made.

During the summer of 1928 workmen began to raze (in part), enlarge and remodel the 1882 building. When the work was finished the present Spanish Mission style depot emerged. Its overall size is about 36 x 200 feet.

The dedication took place on January 26, 1929. The Rolla Herald, Jan. 31, 1929 page 1, describes the new creation thus:

The Building is of Spanish type built of brick and stucco with tile roof and is very attractive. The waiting room is large and commodious. The depot is fitted up and equipped with all the modern conveniences.

The newspaper also reported that Grant Wyatt was the general contractor with A. Daniel as superintendent of the work. (The architect was not listed).

In 1931 while the railroads were still in their heyday, the Kentucky-Tennessee Light and Power Company (who then served the Rolla area with electrical power) prepared an Industrial Survey of Rolla which includes a good description of the depot and its yards on page 33 and 34 of the survey. The following is a part of that report:

The present building (depot) is occupied by freight, passenger and Railway Express Company offices. The waiting room covers about the same area as the old depot did.
It is heated by steam and is modern in every way. The ticket and freight offices occupy one large, well-lighted room equipped with a platform. It is arranged so that baggage can be quickly and carefully handled. The Railway Express offices and wareroom are also large, well-lighted interiors. The freight house portion of the depot contains the heating plant, a record room and space for storage. The space for freight in this building is sufficiently large so that two to three cars of merchandise can be accommodated therein. A large platform is located on the north and west side of the freight house. Team track room for 15 cars and room at the platform for 5 cars of merchandise is available. A stock yard, 3/4 of a mile east of the depot has 5 pens for public use and is served by a side track having a capacity of 14 cars.

In 1931, the depot served Rolla with 4 east-bound, 3 west-bound and daily local freight trains. Twelve passenger trains passed through Rolla each day with 4 making regular stops. They had names like the Texas Special, the Bluebonnet and the Meteor. Today all this is past glory and the Rolla Depot is a vacant building!

7. THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Chancellor's Residence on the campus of the University of Missouri at Rolla was constructed in 1889 in the Richardsonian Romanesque style of architecture. The design is characterized by a straightforward treatment of stone and brick, broad roof planes and a select distribution of openings. The overall effect depends on mass, volume, and scale rather than enriched or decorative detailing. The uniform brick exterior finish is highlighted with an occasional enrichment of angular or oval forms along with a belt-course trim. The large, central entrance is framed with double brick piers for support and segmental arches trimmed in cut stone. Front, twin towers represent the most outstanding feature of the building and add a solid, massive shape to the dramatic effect of the structure.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Architecture: The Chancellor’s Residence on the Rolla Campus of the University of Missouri is perhaps the earliest and best preserved example in the Meramec Region of the Richardsonian Romanesque style of architecture. The primary features of this medieval style, as reflected in this structure, are round or semi-circular arches highlighted with a trim of cut stone. The facade of the exterior is a combination of both brick and stone and displays a strong feeling of massiveness in the proportions of the building; it has been meticulously restored and well maintained.

Education: The Chancellor’s Residence was the third building constructed on the University of Missouri - Rolla campus. It was built in 1889 and used as a dormitory and mess club until 1900. UMR is now recognized as one of the finest engineering schools in the nation.

(History)

by

Robert Lacy

The Chancellor's Residence was the third building constructed on the University of Missouri-Rolla campus, which was then known as the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy. It was built in 1889 and was used as a dormitory and mess club until 1900.

Local architect, Henry H. Hohenschild designed the structure. Its style is Romanesque and reflects the influence of Richard Hobson Richardson, who was the most popular architect in America in the late 19th century. Romanesque features include arches, rustic stones, heavy appearance, and a monumental roof.

The building has been restored and retains the traditional elements of its original design.

THE ERNESTINE COPELAND HOUSE
(History)

by

Philip Hornsey

The Copeland House was built between 1863 and 1880 by Edmund Ward Bishop, the founder of Rolla. The house stayed in his hands until his death when it was inherited by a kinswoman of unknown relation. There is no further information until 1940 when the house was purchased by Mr Roy Charles. The house was later sold to a lady known as "Widow" Murry and finally passed in to the hands of Ernestine Copeland.

The Gahr house was built around 1885 and has since been greatly altered. The back section of the house (with a sloping saltbox roof) is the original 100 year old part of the house. The Gahrs' (who have lived here since 1926) made some alterations in 1950. These alterations include: enclosing a front porch and converting it into several rooms; adding a fireplace; adding a Colonial Style chimney. Presently there are five rooms downstairs (including a bath and utility) and one upstairs bedroom with a closet. The Gahr house is secluded away from the highway by tall trees and pines and is reached by a long, winding drive. It is a Modified Greek Revival style house with modern additions.

The Spencer log cabin is visually obscured by woods and brush but the basic structure remains. Although in ruins, this structure still retains some interesting features. It has an exterior stone chimney, an interior stone fireplace, hewed log ceiling beams, and a wooden oak floor. An old rear section (at one time used as the kitchen) was added at a later date. The windows were two over two. A later porch addition has a cement foundation.; the cabin has its original stone foundation.

DETERMINE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Although the builder of the Livingston House is unknown, Mr. Livingston's grandfather, John, had it built in 1880. Essentially unaltered, the major changes have been: building a chimney on the southern side in 1947; enlarging a hall into a parlor; placing shingles over weatherboard. There are three rooms up and three rooms down (excluding closets and baths) and an open stairway. The North side has a front porch with a hip roof and wrought iron columns. The roof is covered with seamed metal and has a medium gable roofline. The plan shape is irregular. The Livingston house is a Greek Revival style.

DESCRIPT THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Fink house was built in 1901. Another part was added in 1930 and was half of a house which was moved from the field across the road. The Fink house is of an Ozark Greek Revival style of a modified T shape. It has a medium pitched roofline and off centered windows on the second level. It has a concrete and rock foundation under the older section of the structure. Asbestos siding now covers the original. The front porch with an abbreviated hip roof was a later addition.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is a two story basic rectangular plan shaped building which was built in 1915 by Elbert Sheldon. Its style is Greek Revival with six over six light windows. It has a semi hipped porch roof with turned Queen Anne posts, which are a later addition. The outside is covered in clapboard. It has an off center ridge chimney. The rear extension is a later addition. The steep gable roof is covered with seamed metal. At one time it had twin front doors - but one is now enclosed; the paired front windows are a later addition.

The Colonial Revival building known as the Holloway House was originally built around 1895 as a two and a half-story structure in the Queen Anne style of architecture. The characteristics of this house include an irregular floor plan, a high gabled roof and wide, overhanging eaves with supporting brackets. A low, flat roof once covered an open front porch on the southeastern corner of the building where the front entrance was originally located. In 1939, the residence was extensively remodeled from plans designed by Ray Rucker. At this time the corner porch was enclosed as part of the front parlor, and the main entrance was relocated to the west side of the building. (See continuation sheet: Item No. 7, page 1)

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Community Planning: The Holloway House is located on an 80 acre tract of land that was acquired by the City of Rolla in 1967 and became the largest municipally owned park within the city limits.

Conservation: The grounds of the Holloway House which is now utilized as a city park provides recreational facilities that are a part of a serious effort in preserving the natural environment of the area. This large municipal park enhances the quality of life that is enjoyed by the citizens of Rolla and is located in an area that is easily accessible from both the downtown business district and the outer shopping centers and subdivisions near the eastern perimeter of the community.

Social / Humanitarian: The Holloway House provides the space for the offices and social facilities for the Senior Companion Program of the Phelps County Commission.

building. The new front exterior was covered by a large pediment gable highlighted with a transom window light along with the addition of four colonial columns and two, separate, off-center doors. The house is of timber construction with a clapboard siding and a foundation of cut stone and mortar. Many of the Victorian details of the exterior are still evident such as the fish-scale shingles under the end and rear gables; the three-sided bay at the rear of the dwelling with one-quarter brackets under the eaves and the tall, one-over-one, sash windows. The uniform roofline is broken by double, off-center chimneys and one side chimney on the north elevation of the property. The original, partial basement is of cut stone and has been extended with a concrete addition under the rear wing of the building; the basement extension was designed to be utilized as a garage with a double-wide exterior entrance and an inclining driveway.

The interior includes a front parlor in the south wing of the house which contains a large, marble fireplace with a metal insert and a spacious center room that includes a brick fireplace with wooden surrounds. This large, central room may have been used for formal dining or entertaining. The north end of the building is occupied by a kitchen, an informal dining area and an enclosed stairway to the second floor. The front stairway that once separated the formal dining room from the parlor has been removed, and the space on both levels has been converted to walk-in closets. The rear wing is made up of a large, single room with an enclosed cistern that was used as a creamery. The second level of the building which was originally divided into bedrooms is now used as office space for the Senior Companion Program. The elegant woodwork and crown molding remain intact, and other traditional features of the house have been preserved.
THE HOLLOWAY HOUSE

by

Robert Lacy

The large, two-story structure on the crest of an eastern slope of Rolla known as the Holloway place derives its name from the purchase of 240 acres of land, on April 1, 1902, by George F. and Mary E. Holloway, husband and wife. Holloway proceeded to subdivide the western tract of 40 acres which is now the Holloway Addition to the City of Rolla. Soon after, a sidewalk was constructed along the south side of 12th Street extending from the Railroad almost to what is now Holloway Street, as a part of developing his subdivision. At any rate, it was a great place to rollerskate; and the young rollerskaters named the area "Holloway Hill." It is unknown who built the original house without a great deal of intensive research, and this is made difficult since the abstract of the property is presently in the possession of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, while a local community project is under review. However, there were a number of owners prior to Holloway - one of whom was B. S. Knapp who was quite prosperous and an important citizen. It is believed, according to those interviewed, that the house was built around 1895.

On September 3, 1907, Holloway sold the remaining 200 acres to H. S. Harris who lived there until Jacob Hess bought it.

Jacob Hess was a physician who migrated to Canada from Switzerland and then to Forest City, Michigan; he later moved his family to Rolla and acquired the Holloway House around 1920. The Hess's had several children; one of them was named Samuel who eventually married a Rolla woman by the name of Mollie Holmes, the daughter of John Oliver Holmes. (John Oliver Holmes served as Probate Judge of Phelps County from 1904 to 1912). Dr. and Mrs. Hess also had another son by the name of Howard and one daughter named Mildred who eventually married Frank A. Germann of Rolla. The Germann's had one child who is now well known as Catherine Jenks, Director of University Relations at the University of Missouri - at Rolla. Mrs. Germann died soon after Catherine's birth.

After the death of Dr. Hess, the property was sold to the Bert Williams family who moved there and remodeled the house in 1939 from plans drawn by Ray Rucker. The tract of land then consisted of 190 acres. Mr. and Mrs. Williams had a daughter by the name of Juanita and a son by the name of Rex.

Juanita Williams later married H. D. (Tommy) Thomas, and they lived on the Holloway place with her parents; by this time, Rex Williams had also married and had moved into his own home in Rolla. Mrs. Bert Williams died in 1954, and her husband passed away in 1960, leaving the property to his daughter, Juanita, and his son, Rex, as joint owners. Subsequently, Juanita Williams Thomas inherited the west 80 acres which included all of the buildings, and Rex Williams inherited the eastern 110 acres on which there were no improvements. Juanita and her family continued to live in the family home until she died in 1962 while playing golf at Oak Meadow Country Club; and her son died in 1966 in an automobile accident. Mr. Thomas and a daughter, Drucilla, kept on living in the Holloway House until he sold the 80 acres of land, with all improvements, to the City of Rolla under a grant from the federal government to provide recreational facilities to the citizens of Rolla. The sale agreement called for the tract to be called "Ber-Juan Park," obviously after his father-in-law, Bert, and his wife, Juanita.

Rex Williams continued to own the eastern 110 acres for a number of years, using it for agricultural purposes. He eventually sold the entire tract to Gene Sally and Harland Hauck who subdivided and developed it to create the present Forum Shopping Center and residential area.

Another house north of this one is the former Methodist parsonage described in a separate sheet. It is located across the street from the Methodist Church.

This house was at one time "the old Coke property", the offices for the Coca-Cola company in the Rolla area. It was later purchased by the Methodist Church, and is currently used as a meeting area, and for the Sunday School classes of the church.

No outbuildings are associated with this property.

Further Description of Important Features: A classic 20th Century American style, this building is accented by an attic dormer facing west, an open veranda on the same side, and a glassed in sun room on the first floor, south side. It is in a very good state of preservation.
Methodist Associate Pastor Residence

Old Methodist Parsonage

A classic building type for early 20th century America, this building style was widely used throughout the midwest. This building was built approximately in 1925, on the west side of Main Street in Rolla. About thirty years later, it was moved to the eastern side of Main Street, nearly directly across from its initial building site, in order for an addition to be built to the church building.

Built circa 1925, this dwelling was used for nearly 30 years as the Methodist Pastor's residence. After it was moved, it became a resident for the Associate Pastor and is currently a meeting room as well.

The buildings connected with this structure are the Methodist Church across Main Street and a house south of this one built in the same basic style, used as a meeting area and day care center.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Aaron building is a commercial vernacular style structure built by T.J. Aaron. It has three "stepped down" sections with the third section and basement built upon a creek bed. It is made of natural sandstone rocks. The windows are two over two sash ornamented with lugsills and lintel shaped surrounds. Although it has had many commercial uses it has not been used since 1972. The first story windows have been boarded over to prevent vandalism.

The Aaron house is a one and a half-story double cell log structure built around 1866 in the "Dog Trot" style of architecture. The "dog trot" or breezeway was located at the central entrance with a front porch extending the length of the house and covered by a shed roof. The Aaron cabin is typical of that period of history and was constructed of hand hewn logs, many of which measure up to 16 feet in length. An outstanding feature of the house is a large cut stone fireplace at each end of the structure. In later years, the breezeway was enclosed but the other architectural elements of the house remain unchanged. Today, the property is still owned by the Aaron family, but it has been unoccupied for many years and has fallen into disreair.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Architecture: The Aaron Cabin is one of the earliest examples in the Meramec Region of a house constructed of hand hewn logs, although modified from its original "dog trot" design when it was originally built in 1866.

Exploration / Settlement: Joseph Aaron and his wife came to the area in 1866 and constructed the log house that is still standing today. The Aaron family played an important role in the early settlement of the Rolla area, and their descendants became prominent and influential citizens who were responsible for major contributions to the successful economic development of the region.

Joseph Aaron was a wagon teamster in the Civil War with the Union forces. He drove a supply wagon between Rolla and Springfield, a trip that required eight days to make both runs. The road was a trail that primarily followed the creeks and river valleys through this part of the country. He is quoted as having said that the area southwest of Rolla was like a park — an enormous valley with large, overhanging tree limbs high enough to ride a horse under. It was here that he decided to settle down one day.

So when the war ended in 1865, he went back to Kentucky, married, and returned to Missouri, with his bride, in early 1866. He immediately started homestead proceedings two miles southwest of Rolla and first built a one-room log house with a large cut stone fireplace. He later expanded the building by adding a second room with an additional fireplace and connecting the two rooms with an open breezeway.

The Aarons raised five children who settled throughout the area and were responsible for major contributions to the economic development of the region.

Well past eighty years of age, Joseph Aaron passed away in November of 1918 in the old log house that he had built more than fifty years before. The property is still owned by the Aaron family; and although the building has fallen into disrepair, it still stands as a reminder of days gone by.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Martin house is located behind the Martin Springs store. This is a two story Modified Colonial Revival style house with many alterations. Construction details of this house include an oak frame, a combination of weatherboard and clapboard on the exterior wall, and a shingled roof and a shingled porch roof. Its most interesting architectural feature is its gable pediment wall dormer. Other features include a high gable roofline (with boxed returns) and a shed roof porch with two square posts. Alterations have been the addition of a lean-to one story rear section, and a two story front addition added when this house was converted into apartments. There is a partial stone foundation. This house is currently abandoned.

by

Philip Hornsey

The Bradburst House was constructed in or about 1910 by the Mitchell family of builders. The house fell into the possession of Arthur Fore who owned a used car dealership in the 1940s. After his business folded, Poe's Gas and Appliance was constructed next to this residence. The Fore House was later purchased by Daryl Bradburst who owns it to this day.

The Taylor House was built around 1930 by an architect named Priest. The house was first used as a rental property and then passed to Mr. and Mrs. String (first names unknown) in the 1950s. Mr. String was a carpenter and renovated the house soon after acquiring it. He was well known in his field and had the reputation of being hard working. The house then changed hands several times and then came into the possession of Mr. Steve Taylor who is considering renting it out again.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Burton House is in the Queen Anne style of architecture and has undergone minor exterior modifications in the past. A back room has been added to house a water heater and an electrical exchange system, and the interior ceilings have been lowered three feet. Although the porch is in need of a new foundation and the building needs painting, the overall condition of the house is excellent, both inside and outside.

(History)
bym
Philip Hornsey

The Burton House was constructed in or about 1880 by an unknown architect. The house served for many years as a laundry and public shower. The Burton House passed through many hands before being purchased by Mrs. Irene Burton's mother in 1937. The house was modified to accommodate modern appliances and the porch roof was added. Irene Burton inherited the house after her mother's death and is responsible for the interior restoration.

RESEARCHER'S NOTE:
This surveyor would like to recognize the considerable voluntary aid provided by Mrs. Irene Burton toward the completion of this project. Truly, this illustrates that selfless public service is not an anachronism in today's society.

HAROLD'S USED BOOKSTORE

(History)

by

Philip Hornsey

Harold's Used Bookstore was originally constructed for use as a private garage. It was later modified and served as a grocery store until 1950 when it closed due to the death of the proprietor. The building was in disuse until it was purchased by Harold Tyler and modified to its present appearance and function. Harold Tyler owns the house next to the store which serves as his residence.

DESCRIPT THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Old Rolla Jail was constructed in 1860 as a jail to confine Civil War rebels. It was built as a 22 foot square structure with two dungeons and a hall in the lower level and one cell and a hall in the upper level. The walls are 22" thick and were constructed with dolomite stone blocks that measure up to 18" high, 24" thick, and five feet long. The building is 13 blocks high and was finished in November 26, 1860. Today, it is in excellent condition, and its appearance is completely unchanged.

SPECIFIC DATES 1860

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Architecture: The Utilitarian design and construction of the Old Rolla Jail is significant because it is a past remnant of a period in the Midwest when stone buildings were extremely rare. The style of the architecture was more reflective of a New England design in contrast to the log and frame buildings of the period; and the durable nature of the dolomite stone construction made it a unique structure even in its own time.

Exploration / Settlement: The stone Jail Building is representative of the sudden change and growth that the community of Rolla had to deal with during during the Civil War when the jail was constructed. The railhead existed at Rolla throughout the war, and the town served as the terminal for supplies and troops for all the Union activities in the Southwestern United States.

Military: This building served as the first reliable facility for incarceration at a time when the town quickly filled up with Union troops either coming, going, or guarding the railroad from prospective Confederate threats. Troop estimates range from twenty to sixty thousand men quartered in the immediate area. (See attached history).

11. FORM PREPARED BY

NAME / TITLE Robert Lacy - Historic Preservation Coordinator

ORGANIZATION Meramec Regional Planning Commission

ADDRESS 101 West Tenth Street, Rolla, Missouri 65401

DATE July 16, 1984
The dolomite stone jail was built in 1860 by Col. J. A. Schnable when the County Court appropriated $3,000; and James Wilson was designated the contractor. It is 22 feet square; the walls are 22 inches thick; and the two dungeons in the lower story are 8 X 14 feet. The interior also includes a hall and a stairway leading to one room on the second level.

The building is constructed of dolomite blocks that are hand dressed and measure up to 18” high, 24” thick, and five feet long. The structure is 13 blocks high and was finished in November 26, 1860. The location of the jail is Park Street bounded by Second and Third Streets.

During the Civil War, Confederate rebels were confined in the jail; and evidently, in 1881, a civilian prisoner carved a human figure on the wall in one of the dungeons which is still clearly visible. The building is now owned by the Phelps County Historical Society.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The architectural style of the Bellview church is Modified Queen Anne with additions. Its architectural features include a segmental arch over the entrance, three one over one windows, and a gabled bell tower with protruding eaves. Victorian details have since been removed. Alterations to this church include a shed roof addition to the right of the building and an addition to the rear. Basic construction details are a concrete foundation, a shingled roof, and fiber board shingles covering the original clapboard.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
This Church is over 100 years old and still has its wooden benches, hardwood floor and high ceiling. The foundation is of cement and sandstone, the roof is of tin, and it has six over six windows. The front entrance is of a later period. The long slim lines of the original clapboard are not camouflaged by asbestos siding. Until six years ago the Church served a Presbyterian congregation. It is not used any longer. It is of a Colonial Revival Style.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Rolla Building, the oldest structure on the UMR Campus, was constructed in the Second Empire style of architecture with an irregular floor plan. The three-story brick building maintains a symmetrical exterior design with a projecting central pavilion extending above the rest of the structure. The most distinguishing feature is the mansard roof covered with slate-gray shingles. Classical moldings and details such as quions, cornices, and a belt course dramatize and accent the overall design. The tall, arched windows on the first two levels are evenly spaced while those on the third floor are dormers covered with pedimented gables. The entrances include arched single doors with glass upper panels; and the interior is divided into classrooms.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Education: The Rolla Building is significant as the first structure on the campus of the University of Missouri at Rolla. The educational facility was first established as the University of Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy by the State Legislature on February 24, 1870 as a federal land grant school.

Engineering: It was determined by the State Legislature in the late 1860s that an engineering school should be established in one of the counties of southeastern Missouri. To be eligible to bid for the school, the county had to have active mines. Phelps County already had a successful mining industry at Maramec Spring — the Maramec Iron Works; and consequently the county was awarded the bid in 1870. The establishment of this school in Phelps County gave impetus and importance to the emerging mining industry throughout the region. Today, the institution is known as the University of Missouri at Rolla and is considered to be one of the finest engineering schools in the country. (See attached history).

The Rolla Public School Board constructed the building in 1871 to use for the public school system. The cornerstone was laid on June 24, 1871. The top two floors were leased to the new University of Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy. The school was formally opened on November 23, 1871.

The Rolla Public School system suffered a lack of funds because of the Jay Cooke depression in 1875. They sold the building to the School of Mines, which then established it as the first building of the college campus. It remained the only building on campus for 14 years.

The building was designed by Bloomington, Illinois, architect, J. T. Harris. It is representative of the Second Empire or Mansard style of construction. The steep roof broken by dormer windows is one of the most significant characteristics of this style. Another characteristic is the tall, thin windows.

Today, the building has been restored and is the oldest structure on the campus of the University of Missouri at Rolla, one of the most prominent engineering schools in the country.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Adam's House was built in 1935 by Herman Adams. It is of a Vernacular style blending both Greek and Colonial features. It has six over six windows in the main section of the residence; the seamed metal roof over the rear addition appears to be remnants of the original remodeled structure. The left side (photo facing) and upstairs was built on in 1948. It has a full basement, concrete foundation, and frame wall construction. An off centered straddle ridge chimney sets on the old section.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The West house is a well preserved home and, despite its many alteration, still retains its Greek Revival architectural style. There have been many alterations to this house since it was constructed in 1915. The interior alterations include an original upstairs one room divided into three rooms; the addition of new ceilings and walls; the addition of a bath and utility room, and the downstairs bedroom converted into a dining room. The drawing room was originally a dining room/living room. Exterior alterations include: a new front and side porch in Colonial Revival style; the addition of a family room on the left side back of the house; original roof and sides covered with modern materials and shutters have been added. Inside there is the original open stairway of dark stained pine. The upstairs doors appear to have original molding. There is an exterior side chimney and an off center ridge chimney. The frame is made of hand sawed oak.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Kelley House was originally a log house built in 1860. It has been greatly altered over the years, and its present style is both Greek Revival and Queen Anne. The original floor plan was one room up and one room down. The following additions have since been made: a kitchen and utility room was added to the back; the right section (photo facing) is a living room which was added ten years ago by the previous owner, Glen Watkins; steel siding has been added covering the original weatherboard. The most outstanding features of this house are the gabled wall dormers and the modified hip roof with ornamental brackets. It has a one room cellar - the foundation is of stone.

The William's house is an American Foursquare style built in 1927 by Henry Haas. Its basic construction is of frame oak with a cement foundation; original clapboards are covered with green fiberboard siding. Alterations include the enclosing of both front and back porches. Architectural details include: a hip roof with a side slope chimney; a front dormer window with a simple transom light; and one over one windows on the upper storey. Modern windows and doors have been added to the enclosed porches. The original floor plan was two up two down; it now has four down, four up. There is a cut arch in the dining room. An open stairway (leading to the second story) is in the dining room.

DESCRIPTION THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is a one and a half story Bungalow - Mission style house made from frame oak and pine. It has a medium steep gable roofline with projecting shed dormers on the north and south sides. The roof trim has projecting eaves and exposed rafter. There is a straddle ridge chimney. The exterior is covered in clapboard and has frameboard. Major alterations appear to be the enclosing of north and south wraparound porches into additional rooms in the 50's. It was the first house in the area to have a wood furnace. The house has five rooms and a bath downstairs; three bedrooms, a hall, and a bath on the second store.

DESCRIPT THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This house is of an Ozark Greek Revival Style built in the late 1800's. The original floor plan was two up two down. Later additions include: the former porch was enclosed into a bedroom; a right back side porch converted into a bath and enclosed porch. Open steps lead from the bottom left bedroom into an open room which serves as two bedrooms with an attic. The interior is basically unaltered and retains most of its original characteristics with the exception of a paneled living room. The house is still heated by use of a wood stove and the kitchen has a cook stove. The floors and framework of this building are of oak. The porch with a hip roof is of a later period. Other architectural features include: a stone foundation; six over six windows; an off center chimney, and a sheet metal roof. The exterior is covered with asbestos siding.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Mr. Johann Friedrick Haas, an immigrant from Germany, founded Peace Lutheran Church in 1884. George Haas (his son) was the leading carpenter who built it. Ernest Benad laid the foundation for the church and a slab of stone for the doorsill. The church bell used to be suspended by four posts on the side of the building but the bell was installed in its present tower in 1925. Electric lights were installed in 1965 and the storm windows and aluminum siding was installed in 1979.

The Peace Lutheran Church is of a Colonial Revival style. It has a sheet metal roof, new siding which covers the original clapboard, and six over six windows.

DESCRIPTION THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Sankovitch house was bought eight years ago from Jane Smith Davis. The original floor plan was two up two down with an enclosed stairway. A lean to kitchen section has been added as well as an open front porch. This is an oak frame house (with many square nails) with a rock foundation (for the old part) and a cement foundation for the newer section. The side windows are six over six panes set in plain moulding. It is a well kept house with the exterior covered with clapboard and frameboard. It has an asphalt shingle roof with a center ridge chimney. The porch is decorated with wrought iron rails. The house is located on a hill overlooking a small creek and farmland.

The William's house was built in 1900 and, since then, has had many alterations. Although it has an irregular plan shape the original structure was rectangular with two rooms up, two down. Alterations include: enclosing a porch into a hall and bathroom (which had been original kitchen); building a den; a porch and modernizing the interior with paneling, etc. The foundation is of rock and it has a one room basement. The exterior has clapboard, a shingle roof and a center ridge chimney.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Walker house is a one and one half story structure of an irregular plan shape. Originally, this was a log building which has since been substantially altered. Features of this house include a medium gable roofline, a stone center ridge chimney, and a tin roof. The second story windows are simple sash. The porch has a shed roof, a cement foundation, and squared posts; the twin front doors are centered. The Walker house is a late Greek Revival style of architecture.

The Vance house is a basic "L shaped" house with a fill in porch. Its most interesting and unusual feature (especially for this area) is the octagonal shaped bay which faces the front. The bay is covered by the pediment gable. The front porch has two Queen Anne posts and a cement floor. The south side has a gabled shed dormer. The roof is covered with shingles and the exterior wall treatment is of short lengths of clapboard. The right section facing the front has vertical boards. Windows are one over one simple sash.

   DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

   This is a Utilitarian Style building built in 1915. Originally, a log structure church was located at this site - it burned in 1800. The Macedonia store is a square plan shape and is very typical of rural commercial buildings. The features of this house include a gable roofline and shed roof porch covered with tin, diagonal plan stripping on the front door, and flanking windows with one panel tongue and groove shutters covering the windows. The exterior covering is of weatherboard and the porch foundation is of cement. There is a side slope chimney.

The Aaron Rental house was originally a log cabin but many structural alterations have been made over the years; its present style is vernacular. Originally two up two down, alterations include a rear addition porch (screened in) and a shed roof side addition which is used as a kitchen. This is a 1 1/2 story structure with an original gabled roofline with boxed cornice returns and a side slope chimney made of stone. The roof material is shingled and the wall material is of stucco; there is a white brick stripping which creates a partial exterior wainscoting.

The Bryants' have owned this house for five years having bought it from Austin Vogeler of St. James. Originally, this was a three room house but several additions have since been made. A dining room (right section of photo) was added along with modern windows and a shed roof; a back porch was enclosed for additional room. Its basic construction include a cement rubble foundation and an oak frame; it has a hip roof and clapboard covers the exterior. The second story has narrow sloping ceilings with the original oak beams exposed. The porch has a slanting shed roof, a wooden deck, and is supported by three ornamental Queen Anne posts. This is a Queen Anne style house.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This building was constructed c 1907 - newspapers dated from 1923 had been used for insulation purposes. This is a two story building of an irregular plan shape. The interior stairway had originally been located in the back of the house but present owners moved them to side of living room - they remain open. There appears to be wainscoting on the upper walls of the second floor and the second floor still has tongue and groove ceiling. The off centered front door may have replaced a front entrance of twin doors. A back and side porch have been enclosed for additional rooms. Its style is Vernacular.

The Aaron log cabin is a Reconstruction (Adirondacks) style structure built around 1915. It has hewed logs chinked with mortar, an off centered doorway, and a front window that at one time had six over six panes. There is a front pediment gable and a lean-to shed roof porch. The roof is covered with rolled asphalt. The side rooflines are gabled. There is a small, rear addition which has been added on. For several years this cabin has been abandoned and used primarily as a storage shed for feed.

The Martin house is a one and one half story structure built in 1919 by Mrs. Martin's father in law, L. H. Martin; it is of a Modified Greek Revival style. Basic construction features of this house are a cement foundation and a frame of pine and oak with oak studs. The roof is covered with tin; there is no basement and the exterior wall covering is clapboard. Major alterations to this house have been the enclosing of part of the front porch into an additional room. An additional section was added to the back. The entry door is off centered; the front porch as a shed roof with upper end closings and a wooden post for support. The windows are fairly modern sash windows. It has a medium gable roofline. There is an off center ridge brick chimney. Although the interior has modern amenities, it still reflects the rusticity of the era in which it was built.

The Haston House was used as a base for the Southern Army during the Civil War. Elements of this group are said to have taken part in the battle of Lane’s Prairie.
The Botterbusch House is an example of modified Colonial Revival architecture. It has one outbuilding which is now a garage that once served as another dwelling. Overall changes include the addition of a room on the rear of the house and the removal of some of the architectural trappings and a front porch.

The Wallace Smith House is a perfect example of a well-maintained Queen Anne residence. Although the home may have a Stick style influence, the fish scale shingles provide the predominant Victorian features. The only modification to the house was the lowering of four of the five downstairs ceilings. The house has a fruit cellar and contains furniture displayed at the 1905 World's Fair.

The Wallace Smith House was built as a dwelling for Charles Mitchell and his wife Sarah around 1925. It is interesting to note that although he was a bricklayer, the house is not built entirely of brick. It was purchased by Mr. Wallace Smith and his first wife and now serves as the residence and repository for Mrs. Wallace Smith's antique African Cherrywood furniture collection.

All information was provided by Mrs. Wallace Smith at the request of this surveyor.

THE IMOGENE FULLER HOUSE
(History)
by
Philip Hornsey

The wife of David Mitchell (name unknown) had this house built as a source of income after the death of her husband. The home is significant in that it is constructed of material other than brick. The members of the Mitchell family were prominent bricklayers and were responsible for most of the brick homes in the immediate area at that time.

All information was provided by Mrs. Imogene Fuller at the request of this surveyor.

The Cleino House is a rectangular, two-story structure with tall, thin first floor windows and a low-pitch hip roof. Additional characteristics of the roofline include wide, overhanging eaves and a central pediment gable that once accented a balcony and front porch which have since been removed. The interior is a double cell floor plan divided by a center parlor and front vestibule that are separated by double columns. An enclosed stairwell extends from the parlor to the second floor that includes an arrangement of bedrooms and a central hall. Deep set windows and original plaster walls are special features of the interior. The symmetrical appearance of the exterior is enhanced by the cut stone facade creating walls that are more than 12 inches thick and a picturesque quality of rustic elegance.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (IN ONE PARAGRAPH)

Archeology - Historic: The grounds of this 400-acre farm was used for encampments by refugees and union troops throughout the Civil War. John Bradbury of the Western Historic Manuscript Collection, at the University of Missouri - Rolla, has conducted a vast amount of field work and research in this area.

Architecture: The classic design of the Cleino House in contrast to the rustic exterior of the fieldstone creates a unique architectural structure that is without comparison in this region.

Conservation: The Cleino Farm is probably the most important historic and scenic property in the Rolla area. Conservation of this farm for open space, recreation, historic preservation and local identity would be of great service to future generations.

Politics / Government: After the Civil War, Captain Henry Cleino was elected Sheriff of Phelps County and served in other public offices throughout his life in the community of Rolla. (See attached history).

THE CAPTAIN HENRY CLEINO HOUSE

(History)

by

Alex Primm and Robert Lacy

The Captain Henry Cleino House is located one mile southeast of the City Limits of Rolla, Missouri on a green-crested hill among 400 sprawling acres of meadow land. On the horizon, this tall, austere structure presents a classic profile of Italianate design with an exterior of fieldstone blocks that were unearthed and cut on the premises.

Henry Cleino was a Captain in the Union Army during the Civil War and was married to Mary Bauer in 1866. In that same year, construction on the large stone house was started by 32 ex-slaves, one of whom was named Jasper Dotson.

On April 16 in 1867, the Cleinos had their first child, a daughter by the name of Emma. After the war, Captain Cleino was elected Sheriff of Phelps County; and he moved his family into the town of Rolla. He later held other public offices and devoted his life to community service. Henry Cleino passed away on October 31, 1876.

The property is now owned by Charles T. Fox who resides in the State of New Mexico. The tenants are Chris and Ina Ford who serve as caretakers of the house and grounds.

(See Attached Letter)
Mr. Chris Ford
Route 4, Box 11
Rolla, Missouri 65401

Dear Mr. Ford:

When my wife and I visited your home with Emil Mesko on June 18, I promised that I would confer with my older brother, Wesely Jones, who is 86 years old, to determine whether he has any information that would indicate the year in which the Cleino House was built.

Wesley states that as a youth he used to go fishing with an ex-slave whose name was Jasper Dotson. Dotson told Wesley that he and 31 other ex-slaves began the construction of the Cleino House the year that Captain Cleino was married to Mary Bauer, which was in 1866.

In 1867, their first child, Emma, was born on April 16 in a nearby log house because the Cleino House was not yet completed. It appears probable that the house was completed sometime later during 1867.

Between 1867 and 1870, Captain Henry Cleino was elected Sheriff of Phelps County, and he moved his family into the town of Rolla. Captain Cleino then built the sandstone house on the southeast corner of 6th and Olive Streets in Rolla. That house is still standing and it appears to be in good condition, although the sandstone blocks have been painted white.

We certainly appreciate the hospitality shown to Evelyn and me by you and Mrs. Ford. If I am able to obtain any other information relating to the history of the Cleino House, I will forward it to you.

Sincerely,

Tom Jones

The Marlow house was probably a Victorian style home with boxed eaves with returns and a dipped roof originally, but it has been modified so as to make detection nearly impossible. Some modifications were undoubtedly inspired by the octagonal style of the 1860s.

DESCRIPT THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Baker house is a two story Ozark Greek Revival structure. Its basic construction includes a cement foundation, a shingled roof, and clapboard wall covering. The original floor plan was two up two down. An important alteration includes adding a protruding NW section (face photograph: left) which is used as a kitchen. Architectural details include both a gable and a shed roof line, two over two windows, and a center ridge chimney. The front porch has a hip roof with Queen Anne posts - the entry door is off centered. This house is white with green trim and is enclosed by a wire fence. The yard is well kept and is decorated with wagon wheels and flowers. An original cistern and pump are in the SE corner of the yard.
